Chinese Charged With Possession Of Opium

Two In Saskatoon Alleged To Have $5,000 Worth

Saskatoon.—War against narcotic peddlers, recently waged successfully in Montreal with the breaking of an important international dope ring, opened in Saskatchewan with the arrest of two Chinese merchants of Saskatoon in alleged possession of $5,000 worth of opium. With the arrests police believed they had secured the leaders of an important dope ring in the prairies. It was believed the largest seizure in the history of the province.

The arrests were made under the direction of Detective Sergeant L. J. Black, of Edmonton, in charge of the narcotics division of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Alberta, Sergeant Black recently returned from Montreal where he participated in the breaking of the $1,000,000 ring led by Baron Richter wealthy New Yorker, who committed suicide after his conviction.

Those charged were D. Lem, alias Dai Kwok Lime and Fred Hing who also is believed to have numerous connections in rural points.

Industry Code

Must Be Made To Control Unfair Trade Practices In Manitoba

Winnipeg — Establishment of a government department of trade and industry and the making of codes of practices and regulation of Manitoba trade and industry by means of codes of fair practice was proposed here by the Manitoba Retail Merchants' Association.

The suggested department would fix minimum wages fix a minimum price for sale of goods and services and regulate working conditions.

The proposals will be submitted to the provincial government and were adopted in principle by the legislation to be presented to the legislature. Discussions are continuing and the present draft will be subject to rigorous revision said P. R. Scott, secretary of the association.

In the present form, the proposed legislation would apply to wholesale and retail dealers of all kinds bakers, printers, restaurant keepers, dry cleaners, barbers and many other industries.

The proposed legislation would give power to the minister of trade and industry to license all persons carrying on trade in Manitoba. Codes would be established to regulate each industry and if approved by 66 per cent of the licensed persons engaged in the trade would be declared in force by the lieutenant-governor.

FEAR THE PEACE OF EUROPE MAY BE DISTURBED

Paris.— Fear the double assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France might wreck the continent's peace as did the killing of Archduke Franz Ferdinand at Serajevo 20 years ago, lessened as time passed without bringing any major developments.

But the 20 deadly bullets fired by Petrus Kalemen at Marseilles left France shaken politically and Europe nervous over what may come next.

In many quarters belief that Kalemen may have altered the course of events in Europe was freely expressed.

The question of the assassin's nationality highly important because of its political implications, preoccupied police over the continent, and everywhere authorities sought clues which might enable them definitely to identify him.

HEAVY BOOKINGS ON STEAMSHIPS

Montreal, Que., Oct. 16.—Passenger bookings via Canadian National lines to Bermuda ,the British West Indies and British Guiana have been very good during the summer and early fall of this year, indicating the continued popularity of these Empire ports of call, the south as an enjoyable holiday as on, stated Victor E. Ehe, passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National.

"In fact," continued Mr Ehe, "we have had near-capacity bookings for several voyages of the two Lady liners that sailings from Montreal to Bermuda and the Bahamas to Jamaica and also on the three Lady liners from Halifax to the Leeward and Windward group of islands and Demerara in South America. In addition to these sailings the boatings our regular ers 'Colborne' and 'Chomedey' which have been specially fitted to carry a limited number of passengers on a few of the West Indies, are going equally well.

"In view of the increased passenger business we have been favored with during the past season and reserva tions now being made for October and November sailings from both Montreal and Halifax prospect indications are that the winter season will be a continuation of these record passenger bookings contained Mr Eh-

WILD GEESE ARE ASKED A QUESTION?

By MARGARET WADE

The whole history of the progress of mankind may be said to be that of the questions asked by its more alert and enquiring minds and such answers to these questions as have ultimately rounded their persistent search and research. Always Nature has been the great teacher.

In our own times, Edison, concentrating on the one line in which interested him most, asked questions concerning electricity and as a result gave us for instance light without combustion. Henry Ford, his mind concerned primarily with questions in mechanics, gave us motorized vehicles. Dr. Charles Saunders Dominion cerealist, had certain questions to ask concerning the growth of grain in varying climatic, and as a result of his investigations and experiments gave us Marquis wheat. Dr. Banting, in pursuing his researches gave insulin to a suffering world.

In much the same way Jack Miner has all his life been asking questions relative to the habits of wild animals, migratory birds and water-fowl. The answers he has secured to his questions have resulted in the preservation of certain types of wild life that had otherwise been threatened with extinction, in designs for the scientifically arranged and supervised bird sanctuary, and in authentic information relative to the migratory habits of wild fowl and various other related data.

It is not claimed, of course, that Jack Miner has been alone in this work. But certainly no one else has concentrated upon it so determinedly, and no one has persevered through the years. And he, therefore stands out as the first in the field of endeavor. As one writer has expressed it:

"Let it be granted that others before Jack Miner's time and during the generation that has grown up since his experiments began, have been first-rate men in the wild animal line. Yet it remains true, in this as in other fields, that one person and one person stands forth in the public eye as embodying the whole movement. Not Daniel Boone alone, but his venture, made the steam engine; not Edison, but Edison and his laboratory made the telephone. Jack Miner, in this sense, has given us the bird sanctuary."

It was in August of the year 1909 that Jack Miner began accumulating authentic information regarding certain wild disturbances that he observed fowl in their spring and autumn migrations. The first step he brought a black mallard duck, clipped round its leg an identification band. Later he had scratched the request: "Write Box 48, Kingsville, Ont." and released it. In the spring of 1910 the duck was reported killed by W. E. Bray of Anderson, S.C. Whatever had been done along that line before, that constitutes the first complete record of how bird tagged and killed on this continent. Naturally his success encouraged the desire to follow along with further experiments of a like nature, and between 1910 and 1913 several hundred wild ducks were tagged by him in the same way. By that time also, others had followed his example and their tags were coming in daily in the hundreds.

During these years Jack Miner had conceived the idea of tagging wild geese in the same way. This, the reader may be sure, was a much more difficult problem, for the Canada Goose is the most suspicious and wary of wild things, so persistently hunted that those who "trails and runs" been developed to a truly amazing degree. For years after they had learned to find rest and safety from their enemies in the sanctuary he had created for them, Jack Miner studied and experimented in an effort to catch one of them. Again and again he remodelled and built traps that he hoped do the trick. He spent thousands of dollars in such equipment designed to delude that "silly goose" that each time would merely rock a knowing eye at the thing, honk derisively, and swing away to some other part of his pasture. After a number of years of this he did, of course, get a trap that was a success. Since 1915 he has tagged and released again more than 12,000 of these, most of them of wild-fowl. From the information returned to him by those who shot them or found one of these tagged birds, he has been able to establish for the Canadian and United States governments as well as the interested public, reliable information as to what these birds do, where they winter, what period out of each year they spend in each country, and what percentage of them are slaughtered by man, in order. To those interested in the preservation of wild life and adaptation of it to game laws to meet its needs, this information has been invaluable.

One of the great ambitions of Jack Miner's life was realized in the establishment of the Migratory Bird Treaty between the United States and Canada, by which all migratory wild-fowl and insectivorous birds are given protection in the North and South alike.

Another great purpose of his is to bring into closer understanding and co-operation the East and the West. In this matter of wild-life conservation.

With this in mind, he has long designed to make the experiment of stopping a number of tagged wild geese from his sanctuary to the West, releasing them there, so that he might ascertain what effect, if any, this change of route would have. There is the question in his mind whether birds are deflected from their natural route would return to it, and so return in time to his sanctuary at Kingsville; or whether they would join with other flocks in the West and remain part of the migrating flights of the time, westerly to the Arctic. Although a dozen of his tagged geese have been killed by hunters, the fact that the experiment is proceeding satisfactorily, in the opinion of Jack Miner, is evidenced by the fact that a number of his tagged birds have been killed in the West.

THE CHRISTIAN AT PRAYER

Golden Text: "Continuing steadfastly in prayer." Romans 12:12.

Lesson: Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 3:14-21.

Devotional Reading: John 17:17-26.

Explanations And Comments

The Christian Prayer, verse 6. Jesus bids his disciples, as the opposite course, seek all possible privacy. When you pray, shut out the world, and shut yourself in with God —enter into your inner chamber, the place where you can be alone with God, and having shut the door, pray to your Father who is in secret. For Nathanael the place for prayer was under the fig-tree; for Peter, it was on the housetop. Jesus made the mountains and the garden his place of prayer.

The Futile Prayer, verses 7, Jesus also cautioned his disciples to avoid vain (or, empty) repetitions as the Gentiles used, who repeated the same words over and over, relying upon the words rather than upon their meaning. Do not pray by rote, like pagans, is Moffatt's translation. Compare the vain repetitions of the priests of Baal, 1 Kings 18:26, and of the Ephesians in their worship of Diana, Acts 19:34, and the rabbinical saying that "Profits prayer prolongeth life."

The Model Prayer, verses 9-13. After this manner therefore pray ye. Note the single, direct petitions of the model prayer, the Lord's Prayer as we call it. Jesus gave them, some so utterly different from the vain repetitions of the pagans. After this manner therefore pray ye. This does not mean that the prayer which follows is the one to be prayed, but, God, nor that it should always form part of one's prayer. The prayer given is a model for all prayer in that it deals with divine and with human interests, with spiritual more than with temporal needs. There are six petitions to the prayer. The first three put God first: Hallowed be thy name; thy kingdom; thy will," before the petitions about "our daily bread," "our sins," temptation.

Our Father, who are in heaven. This prayer is alone only so far as other human beings are concerned. It is in the presence of the Heavenly Father, and must let the realization of that Presence fill his mind and heart.

THE MOON

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Most familiar to us of all the planets is the moon. This satellite of the earth has been closely observed by astronomers because it is nearer to the earth than any of the other planets, rotating at an average distance of 238,818 miles from us. Calculated by trigonometry, its diameter is believed to be about 2,160 miles, and it has a surface of about one-fourteenth of that of the earth.

The moon receives its light from the sun, but what we call moonlight is really reflected sunlight. Its traces of organic life are seen on the moon, and its surface is believed to be bone dry. Its surface material is nor gases on it. Observed through telescopes, it is believed to be covered with a layer of volcanic ash and craters. The highest mountains are believed to rise about 28,000 feet, but how much higher than the earth's origin, but scientists from time to time have endeavored to explain how it came.

Henri Poincare, a French scientist, believed that the earth was at first a pear-shaped mass, and that in its swift motion through space it threw off one end, the dislodged piece consenting to revolve in its own axis and taking up the position of the moon.

George H. Darwin, son of the great biologist, advanced the theory that in the formation of the earth the sun exerted great force on the earth's surface, pulling up huge tidal masses. With a particularly strong force, the theory continues, a mass of earth was pulled completely into space, forming the moon. Both these theories are accepted to some extent, but scientists still seek other explanations.

Steamship Nascopie Returns From Trip To Far North

The ice-scarred steamship Nascopie, command by the Hudson's Bay Company, and carrying the Canadian government's 1934 Arctic expedition, has returned to Halifax.

As a result of heavy snow and ice conditions the Nascopie was not able to get as far north as planned. Captain Thomas H. Smellie said he had encountered snow and ice on the return trip also and was ice-bound for a week in James Bay and a week in Hudson Strait.

There were three women on board, Mrs. Augusta H. Brown, of Gates Mills, Ohio, who with her husband had joined the vessel as tourist at Churchill; Mrs. Carol Beaupre, nurse at the mission post at Pangnirtung, N.W.T., and Miss Millicent Blake, nurse with the Grenfell mission in Labrador.

There were 10 Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers, eight returning from their posts at Port Burwell, Lake Harbor, Pangnirtung and Pond Inlet. The others were Superintendent [illegible] commanding "D" division at Ottawa and Quartermaster-Sergeant W. C. Tyrell who had conducted an inspection of the eastern Arctic detachment

MAGIC "DEPENDABILITY" MADE IN CANADA

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE A. SCHEIT

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerad Storey, when the latter had been systematically losting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, was drinking himself into ruin."

But Storey decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Storey, but as Dave Dustin, the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Dave Nunn, foreman for a Montgomery Ward widow-outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector left over, is employed by Dave Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who have a grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and always suspicious of its ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

(Now Go On With The Story)

This time Spike scoffed openly. It was no secret on any ranch in Secc Valley that Edith Carr, the red-headed, fiery-tempered daughter of the old owner of the Hour-glass, did exactly as she chose. Bo did her father . . . in most things for she dominated even the dour old man whom most men feared. Edith was not red-headed for nothing and Dustin had discovered it once to his sorrow. When he and Spike had first bought up the Hour-glass cattle from them title to the Broken Spur, he had vaguely noted the red-headed unformed schoolgirl who occasionally went to the infrequent Valley dances. Then five years passed; she became the rage and he was suddenly aware that the unformed girl had developed almost overnight into the perfectly formed woman whom men openly coveted.

It was a full two years since Dustin saw her when his eyes were opened. She was coming out of the post office in Seco and he, about to enter, stood as though paralyzed at sight of her. Her grey eyes stared at him unseeingly and her bright head was tipping as she passed and a couple of "dry farmers" giggled. Dustin flushed. He did not know nor did he have cared had he known that that very morning old Joe Carr had commented on his known contact at a Mexican dance and on a household that he maintained in Sopulvida. Dustin raised his hat and stepped up to her.

"Aren't you goin' to say 'Good morning'?" he asked quietly.

"I've just said it . . ." Edith stopped and looked at him as one might look at a mangy dog and that looked burned even Sam Dustin.

"I'd like to walk up the street with you," he suggested.

The loafers at the office-door did not hear his words but they saw him drop into step with her and they nudged each other. Then they saw her stop and draw herself up. There was no mistaking her words. They came with the whir and snap of a whip-lash.

"The street is open to the public, I believe," she said. "When I walk with any one it will not be with a 'squaw man'."

That was all. Dustin, the big man of the Broken Spur, dropped back. His face was white with wrath and his lips were set. The men who saw it all never said a word about it till they got safely home but after that, word spread. They watched him smash his horse from the tie-rack and they preserved the silence of the damned till his horse was swallowed up in a dust-marked Edith Carr as the only person in the Valley worth the time and patience to tame her and Dustin seemed to himself that tamed she should some day be. Some day he would bring her to heel.

He had some enough not to try to force his attentions on her. He knew old Joe Carr too well for that for the old man was one of the old breed that held their women-folk in reverence. The man must be better than ordinary to get his legs under old Joe Carr's table where the pretty Edith held sway. That was also the beginning of trouble for the Hour-glass ranch.

It was a big ranch. For miles its wire flung up into the hills and its broad ranges pastured many cattle. But hard luck dogged old Joe Carr's narrow beds. First beef dropped to the lowest price in years . . . Then a bucking pony slammed him against a bucking-post in the corral and broke his leg in two places. The break healed imperfectly. It was said to be rebroken twice and the pain and the irritation over being a cripple for months on end, with no chance to ged, awoke the old fever that had never really subsided since Edith's mother died when she was a baby and buryng-ground under the great sizmore . . . cotton-woods . . . Dustin, when he was likely to become their Thersites, thanks to the machinations of Dustin and Goddard. He knew the symptoms. It all, he guessed that drink added to the spirit of aggravation already aroused by Dustin and Goddard was making him unpopular where he had once been a favorite, but he could not give way. Finally, poor, silent because he had none to talk to, he took with hate and wrath at his own inability to keep abreast of the times, he saw his ranch slipping into the cattle depression. It did not improve his temper to note the success of the Broken Spur.

St. Paul's Cathedral

Saving Edifice From Encroachments Of Modern Commercialism

Considerable progress has been made during recent weeks with a scheme for surrounding St. Paul's Cathedral with a "sacred zone" within which no deep excavations would be allowed which might endanger the shallow foundations of the building.

Such a scheme was first proposed in 1912, but nothing much came of on behalf of the Cathedral authorities on behalf of the athedral authorities, sent a letter to the Lord Mayor inviting the corporation to help in protecting the cathedral.

The matter was referred to a special committee of the corporation, and they have been helped by a report on the subsoil and foundations of the cathedral, drawn up after over two years' investigation, by Sir Alexander Gibb and Mr. Ralph Freeman. The report was accompanied by a model showing the underground condition of the city from Bouverie Street (a turning off Fleet Street) to the Bank of England.

The special committee have recently been drafting a Bill in which it is hoped parliament will establish the controlled area. Though the details of the bill are not yet available, it is expected that it will be submitted to the House of Commons in November and become law next spring.

The editor of the journal of the Architects' Institute remarks that "the acceptance of this scheme, for which Canon Alexander has striven for many years, is of significance not only because of the specific protection afforded to St. Paul's Cathedral, but because it marks the establishment of the principle that a great work should be protected, if necessary by Act of Parliament, from the encroachment of modern commercialism."

Zeppelin For Exploration

Three Scientific Flights To Be Made Next Year

The exploration of jungle, desert and icy territories, which used to be life or death adventure, has been much simplified by aerial transport and radio. There are still great tracts of the earth's surface where, as the Irishman said, "the hand of man hva never set foot," and these are ripe to be narrowed within the next few years.

When flying north from South America, Colonel Lindbergh reported passing over virgin jungle where there was evidence of ruined cities. Brazil and the republics around it are a particularly attractive field for the modern explorer. Many men have lost their lives walking through these desolate and fearsome places, meeting death through getting lost or perhaps some strange beasts.

Next year a brand new zeppelin will make three scientific flights over the region of the mighty Amazon and its tributaries, which should clear up some mysteries about that impenetrable area. This zeppelin will have a gyroscopic device to enable it to hover over any spot and lower men and supplies in a gondola, so that they can make detailed research under observation from above.

The expedition will explore places which scientists believe to exist but have no accurate data upon, such as the Valley of Cuzco, the lost city of Sincora and several other places, and will try to fail tribes of Indians who are supposed to inhabit the jungles and have never been seen among civilized communities — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

She is Edith Reed, of Minneapolis, whose pet peeve was the monotony of the usual bridge design. She developed the plan while in her sophomore year in engineering school, and it was accepted by the bridge commission of the two cities concerned. In all the little things of life,
Thyself Lord may I see;
In little and in great alike
Reveal Thyself to me
So shall my undivided life
To Thee my God be given;
And all this earthly course below
Be one dear path to heaven.

In order to mould thee into entire conformity with His will He must have thee pliable in His hands, and this pliability is more quickly reached by yielding in the little things than even by the greater. With readiness, humility, and diligence apply yourself to the duties of your condition. They are the means to maria the earthly element of the principle that a great work should be protected, if necessary by Act of Parliament, from the encroachment of modern commercialism."

A few typographical slips made perfectly reading in an item or two on the Standard last week. However, there is some small excuse for an odd slip. For instance, in last week's Standard taking into consideration the news matter alone exclusive of advertising there were 12 columns of news, material each column contain ed an average of 100 lines, each line averaged 6 words, that means there were 12 thousand words set in ordinary reading type. On top of that the Standard comp set some 23 columns of advertising mater Errors though are few and far between (we hope!)

HEAVY ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

The School of Agriculture here opened on Tuesday with an actual enrollment of 125 students for the first day and by Thursday morning the registration had crept up to 137. Another contingent of boys and girls is expected from the Peace River on Thursday night. It would appear that registration will at least touch the 150 mark this term. In the group is the largest class of first year boys ever registered in the history of the school.

The students are gathered from all sections of Northern Alberta — from Chauvin south-east, straight across 700 miles to the Peace River district, and from an area of approximately 200 to 300 miles the other way.

Expectations have been realized with regard to the attendance of boys but there is still room for some ten to twelve girls, and it is suggested that any girls who may be delayed for a few days come in as soon as possible as arrangements have been made whereby they may pick up the work and go right along with their classes. Over fifty parcels of apron and uniform material were sent out and there are at least ten to come in.

It must be gratifying to the Associated Boards of Trade of Northern Alberta and especially to the Board of Trade in Vermilion to realize that their efforts have been helpful in encouraging such a number of students to attend the school this year.

H. E. SPENCER, M. P. ADDRESSED MEETING HERE ON TUESDAY

Henry E. Spencer, M.P. for Battle River, wound up his series of meetings in this vicinity of Battle River riding on Tuesday evening when he addressed a gathering in the Orange hall. It is Mr. Spencer's policy to travel over his complete constituency, acquainting them with the activities at Ottawa. The member gave an enlightening resume of the work, stressing acts which he said, were non-controversial in a particularly outstanding session of Parliament.

Mr. C. East acted as chairman of the meeting.

BATTLE RIVER VOTERS INCREASE SINCE 1930

The registration of electors in the electoral districts of Battle River is now completed, and with only 2 polls to receive returns from, show the following figures:

1934 — 177 Polls out of 190 ..... 20,049 voters
1930 ..... 19,054 voters

Gain with 2 polls to hear from 995

One hundred and seventy-seven enumerators have returned their preliminary lists of electors to the Registrar. These lists are to be revised by the enumerators, the official revision period being Nov. 13, 14, and 15. The final lists will then be completed for use in the next general election.

Preliminary lists of electors will be posted by the enumerators in their respective polling divisions. Electors will then have an opportunity of inspecting these to be certain that their names, correctly spelled, have been entered on the list. Provision is also made for the striking out of names of unqualified persons whose names have inadvertently been placed on the lists by the enumerators.

November 15th is the last day on which any change may be made on the lists.

VERMILION IS HOST AT BIG CRIT PARLEY

Economic Conference Has Important Agenda for Action

Following a series of similar gatherings held in other parts of the province in recent months, the Provincial Liberal party, headed by W. H. Howson, its leader, held a highly successful Economic Conference at Vermilion on Monday last, under the auspices of the Vermilion Liberal Association.

The evening hall was crowded beyond capacity at the afternoon conference, and also at an evening publicity.

Mannville, Innisfree, Verreville, Viking, Wainwright, Bonnyville, Tofield and other communities were all represented at the conference by large delegations.

Chairmanship duties were divided at the two sessions between Charles W. Robinson, president of the Vermilion Liberal Association, and Jas. I. Adam, vice-president. Upon the platform with Mr. Howson were Hon. Chas. Stewart, M.P., L. A. Giroux, Cromwell Hugh Macdonald of Wetaskiwin, A. P. Mitchell of Leduc, Hector St. Germain of St. Albert four Liberal legislative members, and also four Liberal candidates-to-be: Hon. Minister of Industries, P. T. Milne of Edgerton; H. G. Thunell of Viking, and R. M. Lee of Provost. In addition to agenda speakers, a large number entered into discussion from the floor, and the entire conference was a hive of lively discussion upon vital subjects.

A large number of resolutions of importance were passed among them being the following.

One dealing with farm credits, non-crop years, provision of a new set up to provide adequate educational facilities, domestic freight rates etc.

Other resolutions included one by David Leddon urging the provincial government to at once investigate the plight of settlers on Hudson Bay C.P.R. and Soldiers' Settlement lands; one by Hilke, chairman of Vermilion, a uniform election system in Alberta and also one for a reciprocal trade agreement with the United States.

Fourteen Speeches

Fourteen vigorous speakers followed each other in rapid succession at the evening meeting which found every available seat filled.

The Liberal sitting members were each allotted brief speaking time, likewise the candidates from other constituencies. Hon. Charles Stewart, M.P., with Martin L. Forster, federal candidate for Battle River, each made stirring talks from a Dominion viewpoint. Mr. L. A. Giroux, who closed the meeting, gave Vermilion some real oratorical fireworks in a strong, arraignment of the present government.

The leader Mr. Howson, took as his theme the "Forgotten People of Alberta," neglected, ignored by a "insanting government that has been too long in power."

The contract for the erection of the Barrhville school has been let to Messrs. Cuton and Brunber, of Edmonton. Building operations are commencing at once, the excavation having already been completed.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

CORN FLAKE MACAROONS

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
2 cups corn flakes
½ cup nutmeats
1 cup cocoanut
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Beat egg whites until they are stiff enough to hold their shape, but not until they lose their shiny appearance. Fold in sugar carefully. Fold in corn flakes nutmeats and cocoanut. Add vanilla. Drop on a well greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) about 15 to 20 minutes. Remove pans from oven, place on damp towel and remove macaroons immediately with a spatula or sharp knife. If macaroons become hardened to pan, they may be put in the oven for a few minutes to soften. A standard measuring tablespoon which is a round bowl may be used for shaping the macaroons

1 cup cooked rice
¾ cup chicken gravy
2 eggs, beaten

Efforts Met With Success

Boy Paralytic Helped By Two Teachers Learned To Speak

Voluntary instruction by two Omaha speech-education teachers has enabled Billy Coleman, nine-year-old paralytic to speak for the first time.

Stricken with infantile paralysis when he was 11 months old, Billy was unable to get about by himself and his handicap was made greater by his inability to speak.

Although he received the finest treatment at the municipal hospital his vocal cords did not respond to treatment until he was placed in the care of Miss Alice Lilpegren, speech education supervisor of the Omaha public schools, and Miss Ebba Jackson of the speech education department.

When Billy first came to the attention of the teachers he was unable to move his tongue, lower his jaw or close his lips. He was deficient in 37 of the 40 sounds used in normal speech.

Billy's first lesson was to learn to say "ah", according to Miss Lilpegren. He let his head rest on her breast, face and mouth as she enunciated the simple syllable. Since his hearing was normal she also instructed him in the position of the tongue in making the sound.

Through constant determination to learn to speak and a power of concentration, which Miss Lilpegren said was unequalled, Billy now speaks almost normally.

Little Journeys to Science

DYES

(By Gordon H Grant, M.A.)

Recently a French silk manufacturer displayed eighty-six different shades of the color green, showing to what perfection the art of dyeing has been brought. Thought to have originated in India many centuries ago, dyeing was at first confined to the production of just three colors, red, obtained from the madder plant; blue from indigo, and purple, from shellfish. These early dyes were of fine quality and are still in so seen in the mummy cloths in archaic collections. These cloths glow with rich colourings of purple and red.

In the city of Florence, Italy, a method of preparing purple dye from certain lichens was discovered in the thirteenth century, and in 1473 the first dye company was incorporated in London. It was not, however, until the eighteenth century, when scientists interested themselves in the perfection of dyeing processes, that the industry became the important one that it is to-day. Coal-tar products were introduced into the process in 1856 by a young British chemist, William Henry Perkins. Perkins was working with aniline, a substance taken from coal tar, in an effort to find quinine. Instead, he discovered amazing coloring properties in certain aniline compounds. Attempting to dye silk with aniline, he succeeded to a broader field, revealing dye properties in a large number of coal tar products. His work, which resulted in the discovery of mauve and other vermilion dyes, brought him a fortune and a knighthood, while industry was further stimulated because of the abundance of coal tar, which had hitherto been considered useless.

Artificial dyes are superior to those found in nature, because of their much greater variety and adaptability, qualities which are constantly being further developed in chemical laboratories.

Restoring Life

Motion Picture Is Written About California Scientist

Dr. Robert E. Cornish's feat of restoring life to persons who, to all intents had been put to death chemically is to be used as the climax of a motion picture written about the life of the Berkeley, Calif., scientist.

Carl Laemmle, president of a film company using photographic and sound recording made at the time the experiment was performed would be used in the picture, to be called "Life Returns."

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

October 19th 25th

The P.T.F.W.A. will hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm Blake on Nov. 7th. Hostesses are to be Mrs. C. Hobbis and Mrs. Fred Bland. This Local will hold a banana dance and quilt raffle on Nov. 20th at Woodvale school.

Three busy schoolgirls who left our little circle to visit the bay city have arrived home once more and report that they left our fair capital standing and very little damaged We welcome back the Misses Beryl Aint Rose, Ted Brown, Harry Bruce.

Winner, those friendly Bears are going to have some witches goblins and other weird creatures for one night of flanton on New Year. In honor of the well celebrated Alf Hulbert's Eve. The event consists of a Novelty Dance, with many new features in the night's entertainment! Watch those Bear Cubs scrat these stuff!

Our chief thrasher, Thos. Pridland, reported a high sigh of relief when on the first two real frosty mornings, he could turn back to sleep instead of facing the grist or crunching up a stiff pish engine and he regrets no less than he did threshing in over the another year.

Although to do think that only as sensible optimist could expect to change things in a twinkling by the vote still we earnestly believe that the least any worthy citizen can do is to see that their name gets on the voters list. So, citizens around and find out.

When a dear lady makes one of her infrequent visits to town, and then hurriedly scurries away unsure of her shopping adventures while there, and then admits that she can't expect to escape the boys' column, how could we omit to mention what a pleasant time Mrs. Wilson Ford, of Tofland, seemed to be having one day last week. The lady and the town were both better off for the trip.

One of the interesting sights on the market one day this week was a car line down the street with a blinker seemingly quite securely trundling after it. Some Doubting Thomas the supply page with wonder and scorn.

The favorite activity in the neighborhood this week has been snarking grounfood. The frost caught a lot of nats, which had to be converted into the junior food, instead of the regular berries.

Mr and Mrs. Arty and party burned the road in a northerly direction this week end. (Ed!) making a visit to Dalton Lake to visit Mr. and Mrs. Wilhite and family.

We Presume that we repeat the sentiment that is dictated in saying that much in the Neighborhood would be due to help on with vegetables toward the railroad for the month, the greatly varying market we have to necessary for those who have a surplus to help the less fortunate ones in our own locality. Drought generally can the yield to merely a fair supply, and in some cases, less, while raw summer frosts completed a great deal of damage.

"Happy days are here again" — at least temporarily for Vermilion merchants. Almost any day of the past week has resembled the old "Saturday night." Don't we wish it could keep up!

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bohlag (nee Helen Doyle) at the Lindbergh hospital, on October 18th, a son (Donald Clarke).

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Eder (nee Minnie Hess) at the Vermilion hospital, on October 20th, a son.

And there go those Bowtell wed-ding bells again! Best of wishes for every happiness to that jolly pair. Mr. and Mrs Gordon Johnson (formerly Marguerite Phillips).

We noted an interesting piece of jewelry on a child more interesting finger the other night at Woodvale in the epidemic not over yet.

Hello east, hello west, hello north, and all the rest" — so said Wendvale

Students of economics and politics in the Neighborhood are looking forward with great anticipation to the visit of Mr. H. E. Spencer, M.P., who is to speak at Vermilion on Tuesday.

Our dairyman, Mr. Van, had a stroke of bad luck Sunday when his record Jersey just finished over and ended her usefulness. This pure-bred, 'Star,' a Holstein, was one of the founders of Mr. Van's present splendid herd, and has put in years of faithful service in making and adding to records. Although as a news item, it might appear as though it was a case dead," only one who has put in years of work with animals can appreciate and sympathize with the loss of a faithful, serviceable creature who has helped build up the farm and home.

ISLAND HILL

John Brady has returned to his parents' home at Campbell Lake after a six months' visit to his scene of his boyhood days in Erin's Isle.

By the way, it was in John's home town, Lisnaskea, that a song was composed which reaped a lot of cash for the author. It was in the days of the music hall and the circus. The name of the song, which is a real hit, will be remembered by some of our readers, was "The Stone outside Dan Murphy's Door."

Ernie Willey has returned home from Edmonton.

Charlie McLaughlin has gone on a visit to a brother who resides in the States. He told us before his departure he hoped to capture an heiress. We wish you all success, Charlie.

Merit Medal is awarded Bari Harmon for claiming before a large audience last Sunday evening that he was a descendant of Pitt, a famous Irish giot who in his life was a great smoke.

Pius filled his big clay pipe daily with 200 lbs. of tobacco, reached down with his tongue to a distant lime-kiln for a glowing coal, and lit up!

Here is a good example of a mixed metaphor heard at a meeting recently "The youth of Canada is the back bone of the country and this backbone must be trained and brought to the front."

If you happen, dear reader, to run a car we hope you have not overlooked reading the special article entitled "The Toll of the Road," published in last week's Standard. It is the most timely article we have read for a long period.

We saw the funniest sight the other night in a town not a thousand miles from here.

We wandered into a certain large building in quest of an organization that had rooms there and, losing our way we knocked at a door from behind which there came sounds of heavy thuds and heavier breathing.

Apparently the noise was a great that our timed knock was unheard and we cautiously turned the handle and pushed the door slightly open.

What a sight met our eyes! There were fourteen or fifteen men dressed in shorts and boxing sweaters and each of them weighed at least 310 pounds. They were jumping up and down. We closed the door as quietly as we had opened it. The terrible earnestness of those fat, red, perspiring faces will remain with us for ever.

Bright Stories about Wine
"In the sunset land where thou set gone, Hast wine to drink, ANACREON?"—THOM MARQUIS.

● This is the first of a series of articles which will tell you a lot about wine, if you are patient enough to read them. It is a great story and has in the past, either as a stimulant, inspired some noble bards, and if we translate the grape into barley, some notable Scots reviewers. The culture of the vine is almost as ancient an occupation, and not a less honorable one, than the growing of wheat. In some countries it has become as great an industry.

● In Oscario, the Niagara district, famed for its fruits, has won increasing renown for the quality of its grapes and the wine that has been pressed from them. The story of Niagara wine is part of the history of Canada. It may be in time that in other parts of the Dominion there will be developed local wines fit for the needs of the people. For it ought to be explained that wherever the grape can be grown, its noblest purpose can be to some extent fulfilled.

● We do not suggest that one may look forward with any reasonable hope to the time when there will be a Saskatchewan Chateau Lafite or an Alberta Tokay. But there will continue to be produced in Old Ontario a variety of wines that ought to suit the palate of all Canadians, just as our climate suits them or ought to suit them, it being the best that we can expect, and perhaps as good as we deserve. Native-born Canadians know far less about native Canadian wines than do Canadians of foreign birth about the wines in the land of their origin. It will be one of our purposes to enlighten them, and, we do not doubt, surprise them as we proceed

● Perhaps you noticed the other day in... diary chronicled her gigantic namesake from the Cayce dockyards, she christened it with a bottle of Australian wine. We may say that it was through no spirit of niggardliness that we refrained from sending her a bottle of Canadian wine for the purpose. In fact, we stand ready to provide Canadian wine for all such ceremonies in the future.

● The point worth noting is that, in this conspicuous way, royalty called attention to the fact that, in the British Commonwealth of Nations, there is produced wine fit for celebrating the launching of the greatest of ships, and wine fit for this,is obviously fit for lesser occasions. Thus not only the wines of Australia, and particularly the wines of South Australia which is the chief wine-producing state of the Anzpodes, but the wines generally of the Empire were strikingly called to the attention of the world.

● The time has passed when only the wines of France and Portugal and Spain and Italy were more for their recognition. There are Empire wines from South Africa and Australia and Canada which are gradually finding markets in many parts of the world. Those who know them at their best find that they fulfil all requirements of much more expensive wines. It is true the Australian wine differs from the French wine as much as the kangaroo differs from the Gallic cock. But who is to say it is inferior?

PERSONAL JOURNALISM.

The City of Vancouver was recently host to members of the British Columbia and Yukon Press Association. In commenting upon the occasion, the Vancouver Sun said:

"It is a pleasure to make them welcome, for these men are outstanding individuals in a journalistic group that sheds lustre on the whole profession of journalism. The editor of a metropolitan newspaper, immersed in moving world events, sometimes loses touch with the realities and verities of life. But the editor of a country weekly is rooted pleasantly and needfully in the very soil of his community. He not only gets to know events but to know men. His is a personal journalism. His is a fine duty of communal leadership. Thus the weekly newspaper and weekly newspaper editors are one of the most influential and beneficial forces in the life of this continent. This convocation in Vancouver is the more notable in that British Columbia weeklies maintain a standard of journalistic efficiency that is unusually high. We are proud of our provincial papers. We are proud of the men who operate them. And we are glad to have them here."

CAUCUS CALL SENT TO U.F.A. MEMBERS

Sessions Will Open in City Next Friday; Agenda is Secret

EDMONTON, Oct. 29 —U.F.A. members of the legislature have been summoned to the parliament buildings for caucus next Friday, at which time they will discuss a number of important governmental questions, it was learned yesterday.

The call to members went out from Premier Reid but the exact agenda for the meeting is not known. It is believed there is no probability of a fall provincial election being discussed.

At the last U.F.A. session in the parliament buildings the members asked that Major Douglas submit a modified social credit scheme that might be applied to this province.

It is expected that further discussion on the question of social credits introduced in the session last year will take place.

The members also are likely to discuss legislation that may be brought down by the government in the 1935 legislature

Friday, Oct. 26th, saw the Orange hall packed to its capacity when the children of St. Mary's Anglican church produced, before a very encouraging and appreciative audience, the pleasing operetta "May-Day in Wellsday."

Amongst beautiful stage settings the play was cleverly unfolded by the juvenile performers, each doing their different parts efficiently and naturally. Witty dialogues, the magic works of the fairies, and pretty dances, brought great applause. The children are to be highly credited for such a wonderful performance.

Congratulations are extended to Rev. and Mrs. E. V. Wright, who produced the operetta. Mrs. Wright was the pianist. The proceeds amounted to $60.00.

POLICE COURT

BEFORE A. E. KAISER, POLICE MAGISTRATE

Desertion and Non-Support

A charge of desertion and non-support was laid by Edith Carson against her husband Thomas Carson, both of Blackfoot Alta. Carson is a very old man—getting old age pension and his wife has been living apart from him since 1929 on allowance from the municipality. Sad enough in their results are these cases of old age poverty and doubly so when they have to be taken to court. The case was dismissed against Carson when it 77 years old. Mrs. Carson was put into touch with the municipality for relief as she is not yet old enough to receive Old Age pension.

Non-Support Charge Settled Amicably

A charge of desertion and non-support by Charlot Hines against Donald E. Hines was allowed to be settled by the parties themselves.

Leo L. Kobert's charge against E. Pfall was settled before being called in court.

Prairie Fire Case

Under the Act respecting prairie fires, it is unlawful to permit a fire to pass from your own place to that of another. Felix Symons Wopinitz was charged with this offence by Edward H. N. Astley and was fined $20.00 and costs. Richardson for plaintiff.

Sentenced to 2 Months

While searching for illicit liquor at the home of Mrs Mary Klark, near Marwayne, Joseph Tremsky of the Provincial branch of the R.C.M. Police had his efforts rewarded. Before he could get it away Mrs. Klark, with the aid of the kitchen poker, broke the jug and the officer saw the evidence slowly soak into the loose boards of the kitchen floor. In trying to move some of it he had his hands badly cut with broken glass. A charge was laid against Mrs. Klark for obstructing an officer in the execution of his duty; she was found guilty and fined $20 and costs or two months in Fort Saskatchewan goal with hard labor. She refused to pay her fine and was committed to jail.

Neglected Child

Mary Kaminski, a girl of about 14 years, was declared by the court to be a neglected child and was committed to the care of the department of child welfare as a ward of the crown.

Night Watchman at Dewberry Catches Burglar

From up in Dewberry where the auto in the post office was blown open by yeggs a short time ago, came a report that one of the general stores had been broken into and a large quantity of goods taken. Also that the local policeman, Robert Ferguson, who had only a few days ago been sworn in, had captured the thief. Corporal Glenn of Vermilion was called and investigated, locating the stolen articles. When the prisoner was searched he was found to have on his person a watch and chain he would have to believe that he was capable of more dangerous work than just break ing and entering. The prisoner was found guilty and was sentenced to nine months in Fort Saskatchewan with hard labor, when after charges will be laid against him Thos Thomas Harold Clayton, who says his address is the general delivery in Edmonton, will not have the temptation of helping himself to other people's goods in overcoats for some time

A large number of small debt cases and cases under the Masters and Servants Act were disposed of

The People's Responsibility

Mr. Aplopy need be offered for the readers of this column, we feel sure, for such has during the same subject that formed the topic of last week's comment namely the ever increasing toll of deaths and serious injuries attributable to automobile accidents. The most effective way of minimizing so far as possible these tragedies at will be admitted, the arousing of public opinion to the necessity for adequate provision is provided all the preventive laws in the world will be in vain without it.

In connection with the latter the other day a mother of a family, careful, conscientious intelligent and of the very best type of Canadian citizenship, one who takes a keen and active interest in all movements for the betterment of the community and province in which she lives, stated that she, recently she and her husband had had the narrowest of escapes from a serious and probably fatal accident. Let us recite the simple circumstances.

Driving at a considerable rate her husband at the wheel came to a point where the making of a left turn was necessary. He proceeded to make it at the same moment the driver of a motor car approaching at forty miles an hour decided to pass ahead. With a sickening speed and without sounding his horn in warning, the car ahead he shot past thus violating the rules of the road in at least two respects. He side-swiped the car in which the lady and her husband were driving, smashed a headlight to smithereens, tore off the front bumper, and all but wrecked the car. But, added the lady, we too, were to blame because my husband had neglected to sound the horn. Perhaps he had no intention to make the left turn. Fortunately he didn't make it.

A simple tragedy averted—but a dozen ladies attending to pass their sewing circle failure to take appropriate warning and passing the car ahead, failure of the driver to observe the proposed change of direction, and three lives endangered, several children narrowly escaped being orphaned two families barely escaped hating sorrow and much suffering. The laws were sound enough a policeman right on the spot could not have enforced them later in time to prevent a tragedy. Certainly no one was responsible for placing the car ahead in the position it occupied. Either one of them could have avoided this near calamity.

It is probable that at these lines are being written other near-accidents and there are less similar matters are being discussed, and possibly serious injuries and even death are the result. Who is to blame? The people themselves. Nobody else. And such accidents will continue and will multiply as long as people by observing all laws and regulations, and through the exercise of proper caution at all times, put an end to such accidents.

In this article, too, emphasis may well be placed upon the terrible menace of "glaring headlights". They are profoundly in evidence on the roads and found upon practically every road and highway every night. Glaring headlights which blind the driver of any approaching car, making it impossible for him to judge his distance from the approaching car which has blinded him or to see what is ahead of him. And because one car has such lights burning the other driver refuses to dim his lights, and two high powered cars roar at each other sometimes they pass safely, sometimes they do not, and all too frequently even when a head-on crash does not result, one or both cars ends up in the ditch, or meets some other adverse fate.

The owner of the "glaring lights" is apparently quite reckless and indifferent to the fact that by blinding the driver of approaching cars he may be inviting his own death, because the blinded driver may smash into him and who's driver No. 2 refuses to dim his lights because the other fellow did not be to only multiplying his own risks because he is blinding the other fellow. Again who is to blame for the catastrophes which so frequently follow? Not the law, because the actions of these car drivers is unlawful. Nor can any group of policemen be stationed along every highway to enforce the law. The best that is possible is to make examples of people when they can be caught.

It is people themselves who are in blame, and it is well nigh impossible to identify the culprits because the glaring lights renders the taking of car license number extremely difficult. It is public opinion that must first be aroused and educated to put a stop to these conditions. It is not legislators, governments and police forces which alone have responsibility in this matter the greatest responsibility rests with the individual citizen. And until individual citizens in far greater numbers than at present discharge this responsibility, humanity must pay the price, and this terrible blot rest upon our much vaunted civilization.

Japan Starts At Six

Boys Begin Their Military Training At Early Age

Italy has started to train all boys from the age of eight years; but that is two years later than the time set in Japan where boys begin their military education at the age of six, using real rifles and machine guns but with blank cartridges at twelve years of age. Every Japanese boy imbibes the philosophy that it is a great and glorious thing to die for the emperor and for Japan. It will be remembered that Japan has evolved a new kind of submarine, guided by a man in charge who stays with it as a warship or other craft, knowing that impact means not only explosion of the torpedo but death to himself, yet it is said there are more volunteers than available torpedoes.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

Hundreds of readers have written, requesting a personal analysis of their own writing, and the number further invite you to send in for a reading. See the announcement at the foot of the article.)

This week, a gentleman from out West wrote to ask me for my advice. He is a widower, with two young children, and feels that he should marry again, so that he's children will have the proper attention.

He has been corresponding with several ladies and sends me specimens of his own writing, and that of his several ever respectful, in order to find which one is most suitable for him.

His own writing is that of a quiet unassuming man. There is little aggressiveness about it. He is methodical and he is of a rather shy nature, somewhat diffident, inclined to be slow and not feel things, but because he's nature is conservative. He has a good capacity for feeling, but is backward in expressing that emotion.

He is not a man of a good deal of generosity. And he has a very cultured mind. He likes good literature, and art will have an especial fascination for him.

The writing of the lady I shall call No. 1 shows a very similar character. She is at the beck and call of her emotions. She has a quick temper but is forgiving. She is not proud, will very likely do things, and say things, in the heat of the moment, but will be sorry afterwards after the damage is done.

She is generous, and there is a good deal of affection in her nature. And she exudes energy. She must be always on the go.

Exhibition Of Inventors

Rubber Collar Stud One Of New Gadgets Shown

A humane collar button guaranteed not to torture the wearer by digging into his neck, was among hundreds of newly patented devices displayed at the Exhibition of Inventors, which was opened in London recently.

Another gadget, the new stud is attached to the shirt to make dressing easier, and its inventor says it can withstand laundering.

Most of the exhibits were gadgets to make housekeeping simpler. There was a combination brush and pan that lifts dust by pressure on the handle, an automatic window cleaner that does away with the use of a stepladder, and a self-emptying bread box.

One ambitious entrant exhibited double-sided neckties, and another showed an egg-opener that lifts the top of a boiled egg neatly off without cutting the yolk.

But there were more pretentious exhibits, too. One was a four-legged frame on wheels for teaching the baby to walk. Another was a "mural piano" with apparatus that produces a color harmony to the notes and rhythm of the music.

A hopeful inventor from Somerset exhibited a new type of typewriting, which he said was already being used in several hospitals.

The cold weather bonnet from was reflected in an unusually large number of simple locks for doors, sash lifters, adjustable drought excluders and new compositions for making bricks.

Takes Place Of Sails

"Autogyro Aeroplane Wingless" Is Success in Tests

A most interesting experiment which may be attended with important results, has been tried out by Lieut.-Colonel Moore-Brabazon, M.P., and other British airmen. He has constructed a boat with what is called "autogyro aeroplane windmill" to take the place of sails. The principle of the autogyro is applied to the sailing vessel, with this important difference: that the blades are fitted to the mast vertically, looking like a windmill's arms. It is reported that the experiment is one that up to expectations, the boat making almost as good headway against the wind as with it, the blades feeling the force of the wind from whatever quarter it blows. In a twenty-mile-an-hour wind the blades turn at 300 revolutions per minute, at which rate the tips of the blades are travelling at 200 miles per hour. Once the autogyro is rotating, there is nothing else to be done aboard but steer. Results of the experiment are now receiving the support consideration of the Royal Aeronautical Society. — Hamilton Spectator.

From a fruit-looking banana tree left over from the Canadian Exhibition at the Canadian National Exhibition two years ago, Arthur J. Frost has picked 100 bananas, which are said to be superior in flavor to the imported fruit

Mr. Frost planted the tree in his greenhouse in Toronto and early this year it reached such a height the roof had to be removed. Buds appeared, and, turned up like cobs of corn. Further developing they ripened. There are still 100 bananas, varying in degrees of ripeness, on the tree.

ACTION NEEDED TO AID SITUATION IN DROUTH AREAS

Winnipeg. — A plan directed to every corner of the Dominion for aid in rehabilitating the drouth areas in Western Canada has gone forth from Premier John Bracken of Manitoba.

Visualizing the rain-parched and dust-ridden waste was a spectacle replete with crop failure, food shortage and human suffering that should be eliminated from the agricultural panorama of Canada, the Manitoba premier appealed to provincial premiers to institute a vigorous campaign to bring the problem Dominion-wide attention.

Speaking to the Canadian Club here, Mr Bracken first told of the critical situation he had found while investigating the drouth areas and failures in large areas of Saskatchewan, in parts of southeastern Alberta and in southwestern Manitoba and played havoc with the agricultural and, consequently, the social fabrics of those areas.

Relief money from municipal, provincial and federal coffers had been expended, but relief needed, he contended, did not remedy the situation. Drouths would recur in cycles and unless established practices were taken their results would take on more aggravated forms.

Upon the whole Dominion lay the responsibility of attacking the question.

Mr. Bracken pleaded for reclamation of the waste areas, rehabilitation of the farms, a conservation plan over the entire prairies and sound diversified farming policy.

"The problem has now assumed proportions of national scope," Mr. Bracken declared. What is needed is

"The offer by provinces of services of such technical men and departments, without charge, that can be utilized in prosecution of such a major project;

"Appointment by the Dominion or a co-ordinating body to correlate efforts being made in a variety of directions by individuals, bodies both in and out of the public service, and by many departments both of governments and municipalities;

"Provision by the Dominion for the necessary additional finances to ensure successful carrying out of a sane, well-balanced program over the next 10 years.

"Active and sympathetic and generous co-operation of individuals, communities, railways and governments in the joint effort to solve a major problem."

Want Wage Rate Restored

Canadian Railway Running Trades Advance Arguments

Heads of the Canadian railway running trades brotherhoods met in their own unions and 45,000 in other sections of rail labor.

Increase of one hour was understood to be another reason advanced by the men that the time had come for restoration of former wage schedules.

King George Sends Approval

Praises Work In Canada In Spreading Ideals Of League

Ottawa.—Warm approval by the King of the second national study project of the League of Nations Society in Canada was expressed in a telegram received from His Majesty by Hon. Ernest LaPointe, president of the society.

"I have learned with pleasure and approval of the work of the League of Nations Society in Canada in spreading knowledge of the ideals and work of the League of Nations," said His Majesty. "It is vitally necessary for the promotion of peace and co-operation between peoples that public opinion in all countries should thoroughly understand and appreciate the activities of the league in the task of maintaining, through collective international action, peace and good order in the world. The peoples of the British Empire have borne and will continue to bear a heavy share of this responsibility. I trust success to the League of Nations Society in Canada in the execution of their plans for the coming winter."

For Naval Equality

Japanese Present Their Claim To U.S. Representatives

London.—The Japanese presented their claim for naval equality to representatives of the United States as they had done in meetings with the British. No action was taken and the Japanese delegates made it clear, but it seemed obvious that a long and knotty discussion faced the representatives of the world's three leading naval powers.

British and Americans feel that the existing treaties already contain the principle of parity or equality in security. Japan would sweep away the existing treaties and replace them with a entirely new structure.

In a nutshell, Japan is firm in its determination to remove the existing ratio basis, on which naval categories of Britain, the United States and Japan are fixed on a 5-5-3 ratio respectively. If the other powers will not join her in abrogating the Washington treaty, then she will abrogate it unilaterally independently.

Death In China

Damage Is Expected To Reach Amount Exceeding $1,300,000,000

Shanghai, China.—The losses to the Chinese farmers and peasants occasioned by the prolonged drouth and record heat wave of the past spring and summer are expected to exceed $1,200,000,000, according to a report issued by the national famine relief commission, which is based on reports received from the stricken districts.

In the 10 provinces, 363 districts have sent in reports declaring a total of approximately 36,750,000 acres of cultivated lands have been affected by the drouth.

When all surveys are completed it is expected the pessimistic estimate of the national famine relief commission.

A survey conducted by the department of agricultural economics of the national agricultural research bureau of the ministry of industries reveals the damage caused by the drouths in the two provinces of Hopei and Chekiang alone is in excess of $598,800,000. The area affected in these two provinces is only about one-third of the total area of the 10 provinces hit by the drouth.

CODES FOR LABOR TO BE DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Montreal Governmental codes for industry in Canada patterned after the N.R.A. code in the United States insofar as minimum wages and hours of labor are concerned will be fill the agenda on which delegates to conference of representatives of all the provincial governments at Toronto, the Canette says

"Hon. C. J. Arcand, Quebec minister of labor, will attend," the paper continues, "and it may be that he will challenge the worth of governmental codes fixing minimum wages and hours of labor from the province of Quebec against that of juridical extension of collective labor agreements, an exciting bit of news for this province

"In other words, it may be held that no far as the fixing of labor conditions are concerned, it is better if employers and employees be permitted to come to an agreement among themselves and juridically extend such agreements than have agreements imposed by governmental interference."

This procedure the Gazette states, was held by Quebec authorities to be a better solution of present-day labor problems than that of governmental interference.

Win Air Derby

England's Brilliant Airmen Finished First in Handicap As Well As Speed Race

Melbourne, Australia. — An unofficial check indicated England's brilliant airmen, C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black, finished first in the handicap as well as the speed race in the England-Melbourne derby Their official time was 70 hours, 50 minutes, 50 seconds

But the Dutch entry, which came in 19 hours and 18 minutes behind Scott and Black, and two hours and 42 minutes ahead of the American team of Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, stands an excellent chance of getting the handicap first prize of £2,000.

Under the rules for the derby a pilot cannot win prizes in both races, but may choose between them.

Should Parmenter and Moll get the $10,000 handicap prize, the second prize of $7,500 in the speed race would go to Turner and Pangborn. At any rate the Americans are assured of the $2,500 third prize in the speed race

Flight Was A Success

Trip Into Stratosphere Quite Satisfactory Stated Mrs. Pierard

Cleila, Ohio. — The stratosphere flight of the Jean Piccards came to an end in a tree-top. The bag of their balloon was badly torn, but the goods and valuable instruments were undamaged and the Piccards themselves were unhurt

The Piccards, saying they believed the purpose of their flight had been accomplished, brought the huge bag down after a flight that started in Detroit and carried them an estimated 10 miles into the air.

"The flight was a success," said Mrs. Pierard soon after she climbed from the gondola which settled amid trees near an old logging road on the John Fulton farm, four and one-half miles southwest of here

Glen Cope, a farmer, made a valiant attempt to halt the balloon as it drifted over a short distance above the ground, its ropes dragging.

He grabbed a rope and attempted to tie it to a tractor. The floating balloon pulled the rope from his hands and the balloon then scraped the top of a 75-foot elm, the branches tearing the bag but not damaging the gondola. The landing, while rough, merely shook up the Swiss scientist and his wife

Now the question arises, "whether this condition arises from lack of income or from other causes, some private and some not free from upon the family by the government can often bring relief that means the rehabilitation of a family that might otherwise be destroyed."

Taxes On Range Lands

New Base For Levy Urged Before Council

Calgary A plea that taxes on ranch lands be levied according to productive, rather than fictitious value of land was made by Jack Byers on behalf of the Ranchmen's Association, when he appeared before the Alberta tax inquiry board which sat here on Monday and Tuesday.

Mr Byers also urged that arrears of taxes be wiped out in forms of range improvements which would encourage more efficient land utilization, and that there be a flat rate of taxation that would encourage effort to pay with proper provision for collection.

V.S.A. Registration Continues To Climb

The student registration at the School of Agriculture this year is within a few students of being the second largest enrolment in the history of the school. When the dormitory was opened there was a registration of 177, and up to Tuesday, Nov. 6th, 154 students were registered, with —11 is believed—a few more to come in. The students and staff are hoping for a registration of 180.

One outstanding feature about the registrations this year is the very large class of first year boys. Already there are 64 boys in this class and it is taxing the blacksmith and carpenter shop to the limit. These boys have been divided into four divisions for he shop work and extra equipment will have to be secured in order to accommodate them.

The large enrolment is largely due to the interest of a great many citizens in the town of Vermilion. Those in charge at the school are sure that many of them have mentioned the college in letters they have written to friends and have talked to those who might be interested. The Standard has published many articles in connection with the school so that the large registration this year is a direct result of the co-operation received from the town of Vermilion.

Grain Commissioners Meet Agriculturists

The Board of Grain Commissioners of Canada met about 100 farmers here last Friday afternoon in the Orange hall and discussed with them the various problems arising from the marketing of their grains. The meeting was sponsored by the Vermilion Board of Trade.

The personnel of the Board was E. R. Ramsey, Chief Commissioner; J. M. Hamilton and D. A. Mctibbon, Commissioners; also W. H. Blatchford, Assistant Commissioner for Alberta, and John Harper, Secretary.

The chief commissioner outlined the purpose of the Board's visit, namely, to discuss with farmers of this district their problems under the Canada Grain Act." Dr. D. A. Mctibbon outlined the history and working of the Act with particular reference to protection afforded producers. J. M. Hamilton spoke of the measures taken to maintain the high standard of Canadian wheat in export markets while W. H. Blatchford explained the working of the Board in allocating and inspecting cars supplied to shippers.

There was an extremely good open discussion period during which grading, variety and price spreads.

The president of the Board of Trade presided and the gathering expressed its appreciation for the Board's first hand information with respect to problems in the farmer in marketing his product. There was a good attendance and the Grain Board was well furnished with the meeting

DISTRICT COURT

Geo. W. Hess of Minburn was charged before Police Magistrate Dr. Hall with two or three months ago with having liquor in his possession for sale. He was acquitted on the Justice holding that he could not have established to him that beer was liquor. It appears that officers at the R.C.M.P. raided Hess' premises on the outskirts of Minburn on the day of the big sports there and found several carloads of empty beer bottles and a still larger quantity of dead soldiers in a building not far from the house. The ground was wet and there was evidence of wagons and sat tracks to the house and out again. The defence plea was that beer was a beverage and unregistered, not liquor. The ruling of Justice Hicks was of importance in the Department and it appealed the decision. The hearing came before Judge Taylor at Vermilion on Tuesday of this week. Hess plead guilty and was fined $100 and costs or could not afford a solution to defend his. It was shown that in his workers' compensation premium of $1,000 per month, mostly beer came the question of Vermilion. A million dollars appeal was not any visible means of support (although he is said to own a farm near Minburn). In the absence of counsel for the defendant, Judge Taylor decided that he could not decide on the matter and reserved judgment until next Tuesday, when he decided that he could not decide on the matter and reserved judgment until next Tuesday, when he decided that he could not decide on the matter and reserved judgment until next Tuesday, when he

Remarkable New Aid in Avoiding Colds—Samples Free at Local Druggists

New Aid in Preventing Colds Leads to Plan for Better Control of Colds

PLAN EASY TO FOLLOW

Then, if you have that stuffy, drowsy, irritation in the nasal passages where most colds start, use Vicks Va-tro-nol at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Used in time Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many annoying colds and to throw off colds in their early stages.

To Help Shorten a Cold

If a cold has developed, or stifled without warning, apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the skin, VapoRub acts direct like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath direct to the inflamed air-passages. The combined action through the skin and nose relieves phlegm and the irritated membranes cause difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place use Vicks Va-tro-nol every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing, which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children.

Trial Packages Free

Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Vicks Va-tro-nol and VapoRub—also folder telling how these twin aids to fewer and shorter colds are used in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Ask for yours today, as your druggist's supply is limited.

A Greek Highway

The Edmonton Journal says visitors to Jasper Park who have motored along the 24 completed miles of the mountain road that will eventually connect Jasper and Lake Louise, are agreed that it will prove to be one of the continent's great scenic highways. It will be within national parks throughout its entire length and, according to the engineer in charge will not present any steep grades, while the roadbed is mostly being hewed out of solid rock.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 11

THE CHRISTIAN CITIZEN

Golden text: "All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Matthew 26:52.

Lesson: Galatians 5:13-26. Devotional reading: Micah 6:1-8.

Explanation And Comment

Like at Rome With One Another, verses 13-15. The people to whom Paul wrote this letter lived in Galatia, the Roman province which extended north and south across the central plateau of Asia Minor. In southern Galatia were the cities where Paul founded churches on his second missionary journey—Antioch in Pisidia, Iconium, Lystra and Derbe. He visited Galatia again on his third missionary journey, and two or three years later wrote this letter.

In the beginning of the fifth chapter, Paul tells his readers that Christ sets them free from the bondage of the old law, and urges them to hold fast their freedom. Then in our lesson text he tells them not to err in thinking that freedom from the requirements of the law means disobedience to its spirit, which to that of love to others. "To men who have been accustomed to think of law as the only obstacle to the indulging of the flesh, or to those who have not been accustomed to high ethical standards, love may seem to be an easily taken to mean that for the Christian there is no moral law, but in the way of the unrestrained indulgence of his fleshly desires. Of this danger Paul is well aware (Rom. 6:1; Phil. 3:17; 1 Pet. 2:11), and beginning with this verse he addresses himself vigorously to meeting and arresting it.

Love, Paul says, is the fulfilling of the law. Christian liberty does not mean that you are free to please. Liberty and license are not synonymous terms. To use your freedom as a license for indulging your lower propensities, but live in accordance with the law of love. Love, Paul says, is the great all-inclusive element of man's nature which is opposed to goodness and makes for peace, and the one entire mastery of sin." Through loving service for others, Christians will find in the fulfilling of the whole divine law, which is, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

"A Christian man is the most free lord of all, and subject to none; a Christian man is the most dutiful servant of all, and subject to all." (Martin Luther).

Here, remembering that the Galatians were tempted to return to their former bondage to the law, Paul says that the whole law is fulfilled in one word, "thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." (Leviticus 19:18). Jesus had taught the same spiritual life."

"We must resolved to make the most of himself can spare the time for personal contention. Still less can he afford to take sides in controversies including the vitiation of his temper and the loss of self-control."

Little Journeys In Science

GLASS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Historians tell us that the Egyptians discovered how to make glass. The production of glass on a large scale started in Egypt about 1370 B.C. Alkali (sodium carbonate) was heated with crushed quartz, limestone, and copper compounds in crucibles to give a blue glass. Glass made in Egypt was shipped to all parts of the Roman Empire.

Science has shown the modern manufacturer how to produce many new and useful kinds of glass. Ordinary glass, which is composed of soda, lime and cracks readily when suddenly heated or cooled. For example, glass is heated strongly it softens, and it can be made into shapes their shape. The addition of boron compounds and certain metallic oxides to the formula of ordinary glass produces a type of glass known as Jena glass, which can stand high temperatures. Recently scientists have produced pyrex glass by replacing some or all of the lime with aluminum or some other metals.

Pyrex glass is strong and stands changes in temperature so well that cooking dishes can be manufactured from it. Silica, commonly known as sand, can be converted into a transparent glass known as silica glass, which can be heated to redness and plunged into cold water without being fractured.

Optical glass for lenses of all kinds is produced by adding lead oxide to the glass mixture. Optical glass must be free from veins and bubbles or stringy waves. Cheap imitations of genu are made from glass moulded in lead crystal, and the glass of which cut-glass vessels is made is the same lead that it contains less lead.

Recently a plate glass has been produced in England which has special properties and toughness. The glass does not splinter when broken, but forms small comparatively harmless fragments. This toughened glass is about five times as strong as ordinary plate glass.

"Old Matt" Was Carriage Attendant In London Thirty Years

"Old Matt", a familiar character in London, who is estimated to have opened the doors of more than 3,000,000 private cars, taxicabs and hansom cabs, had died in that city, aged 74. His name was Walter Matthews, and for thirty years he was the carriage attendant outside Simpson's in the Strand. In his youth he was a noted boxer, and later went to New York as a butler. Since returning to London he declined several offers to return to the United States.

The bridegroom was in a poetic frenzy as he strolled along the seashore. "Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll," he recited to his bride.

"Oh, Gerald," she exclaimed, "how wonderful you are. It's doing it."

A Clever Artist

English Artist Uses Wood For Canvas And Picture

At Southampton lives one of the most unusual artists in the world—a carpenter who "paints" pictures with pieces of wood. He uses threeply wood for a canvas and in one of his pictures—showing a tree in leaf—nearly 2,000 pieces of wood were used. He obtains light and shade effects by selecting the right grain markings. It is impossible to detect joins when the pictures are finished. They are coated with a clear white polish and framed in ebony. Rare and expensive woods from all over the world go to the making of these unique pictures. Some woods are so brittle that they must be cut with great care before being glued into position. When the Queen admired six of the pictures at an exhibition in London she was informed they had taken four years to complete.

Model Of Wireless-Controlled Airship Is Being Tested

Experiments are being made in Tilbi with the model of a wireless-controlled airship. The length of the model is 30 feet, and it carries no passengers but a "mechanical man" in the shape of a complicated wireless apparatus. It is intended that by means of another wireless on the ground the dirigible shall be made to ascend and then to be steered in any direction. It is hoped, according to Reuter, that it will be possible to make the airship drop propaganda leaflets over any place to which it may be sent.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued

Dustin swung about to face a gray little figure that stiffened at sight of him. Cam Peters had been cashier of the Seco Bank for more than thirty years. Scotch by descent and cautious by nature, only once had he ventured to extend his activities beyond Seco. He was like Kipling's hillbred that all his life tried to number courage to run to the middle of the floor. Peters mustered that courage once . . . and Dustin caught him with a loan of five thousand dollars on his house. That loan saved Peters his bank job but it made him the bond-slave of Sam Dustin.

"Just a moment, Peters. . . ." Dustin drew him aside. . . . "How much money does old man Carr owe the bank? I've got to know."

"The bank?" Peters quavered. "He don't owe the bank at all, Mr. Dustin. He did owe the bank but old man Pegram took it up. It's a note and Mr. Pegram's wonderin', right now what to do with it. He's host a lot of money and needs cash. . . ."

"How much is the note for?"

"Why . . . why, old Carr hasn't paid any interest on it for a year. It's about twelve thousand dollars right now. And he'll never pay it more. Old man Pegram better let go all holds on it just as soon as he can. Old Carr's dead as a mackerel."

Dustin's heart gave a great jump. This was better than he dared hope. He stared hard at the little figure before him.

"I've got a five thousand dollar note of yours, Peters," he said. "It's overdue. I'll take bonus and all, eh?"

"Yes, sir. That's so. . . ." Something hard in his throat skewed to choke the little gray cashier.

"That note of yours is due next week. I want that note of Carr's that Pegram's got. See?"

"I . . . sir. . . . I. I swear I don't see how I can fix it. It's Mr. Pegram's private business. I. . . ."

More than ever did Sam Peters regret that accursed flyer in wheat that was to remove him and his old wife from any chance of poverty. He made one final struggle for escape.

"As matters stand, I don't see how I can help you to own a half interest of the Hour-glass ranch," he said.

"Half of it! You're a plain fool, Peters. I'll own the whole place. Soda Springs and all," he added. "Old man Carr owns the Hour-glass, don't he?"

"He owns half of it," said Peters. "That's all. When old man Peters died he left it to his son Jim, half to Joe Carr, his old partner, an' half to his sister's son, one Gerald Keese. When Carr wanted to borrow on his half of the place, we had to look up the will. That's how I know it saw the will. It says that if either Carr or Keese dies, his half goes to the survivor. . . ."

"For the love of God! . . ." Dustin was breathless. . . . "Say that again."

"Peters said it again and Dustin, more than he had not misunderstood, let go a smoke-screen of profanity. It was not the jovial profanity of good-nature but the virulent overflow of one who fears he has been hurt and who is not sure of the extent of the injury. In one brief kaleidoscopic moment the Sagebrush Napoleon discerned sure. If Gerald Keese, the nephew of old Peter Vinton, owned half the Hour-glass then so did Vinton, even if he succeeded in ousting Joe Carr, was only getting a new partner whom he did not even know.

He stood old Peters and whirled him about in the moonlight to face him. "There isn't anything to be done. Too much depended on what old Kane knew! That miserable old deserter-rat would be in plain words in jail for a half a lifetime and Joe Carr could keep him out of a forever. The whole thing was a sudden storm of ill-considered impulses.

"If you want to keep a roof over your old wife's head," he snarled, "you'll get me every scrap of paper that old Carr has signed. I want to own the half-share of the Hour-glass. Get me?"

Peters gaped helplessly at him.

"I mean what I say, you old fool. Where can I find this man Gerald Keese? The man who owns the other half of the Hour-glass?"

"I don't know, Mr. Dustin. I swear I don't. Nobody knows. Even Mr. Carr don't know. He's been trying to find him through Mr. Burley of the Drovers Bank in Cato but he wrote us that he was handling Mr. Keese's business and that Mr. Keese was travelling somewhere and couldn't be reached just now."

Dustin grunted disbelief but he could do nothing at present. He had plenty of money in the bank and Peters knew it. There were no questions of the validity of the check that Dustin wrote at the hotel desk and passed to the grey-haired little cashier who took it shakingly. He pouched it, refused a cigar and headed for the bank. Seeing like a condemned criminal who has received notice of an unexpected reprieve.

"I'm sorry for old Carr," he muttered; "but I can't help it. I can't see Mame go to the Poorhouse and that's what'll happen if Dustin sues out that note. Dell. What's the use kickin'. But I wish I could put a spoke in Dustin's wheel . . . ."

He saw Peters at the bank who was only too glad to get rid of Carr's note for Dustin's check and he turned that over to Dustin who promptly handed back for the Broken Spur. He found Spike anxiously awaiting him and he was drawn into the office by a nod from his partner.

"What luck, Sam?"

"Bad for you. The world except for one thing I found out that old Carr does not own all the Hour-glass like some half of it. The other half belongs to one Gerald Keese, nephew of old Peter Vinton. If either Carr or Keese dies, the other gets the whole place.

"Well" said Spike who saw no further than the end of his nose.

"You call it well, do you? Damned if I do. I can't get at this man Keese. No one seems to know his address. If I could find him, I'd offer to buy his share of the Hour-glass One thing is sure now, though. We've simply got to find out from old Dad Kane the exact place where he located that ore."

"I hope you can shut his damned mouth" said Spike passionately. "El Raynor, the bar collector, was here for grub and old man Kane began shootin' off his face. He was striking' Clay and Cocoa about what he seen 'em doing up in the hills. I headed him off in time and I don't think Raynor caught on to what he was sayin' . . . What you goin' to do?"

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

LIFE MOVES IN CYCLES

Life moves in cycles and all seeming change
Is but the glitter of the turning wheel.
For there is no new thing and nothing strange
Does the long passage of the years reveal.

There is no change. The Grecian Helen's look
Was clear as yours when she was glad and young.
Though now, between the pages of a book
Her story dims in a neglected tongue.

Life moves in cycles Helen once was fair
As you today, for Paris' eyes to see
As you for mine, and on your cheek you wear
Nothing but beauty's banner than did she

Though I could doubt your love has been before
Life shows like stars, what has been once more!

Little Helps For This Week

"He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?" 1 John 4:20.

Old Friends, old scenes, will lovelier be
As more of heaven in each we see;
Some softening gleam of love and prayer
Shall dawn on every cross and care.
—J. Keble.

It requires far more of the consecrating love of Christ to love our cousins and neighbors of the heavenly family than to feel warm to our suffering brethren in Tuscany or Madeira. To love the whole Church is one thing, to love, that is to delight in the gracous and real the defects, of the person who misunderstood us and opposed our plans yesterday, whose peculiar infirmities are to-day our most sensitive feelings, or whose natural faults are precisely those from which our natural climate is most favorable, is quite another.

A Temple there has been upon earth, a spiritual Temple made up of living souls a Temple with God for its light and Christ for its high priest, with wings of angels for its arches, with minds and teachers for its pillars, and with worshippers for its pavement. Wherever there is Faith and Love this Temple is.—J. H. Newman.

A Queer World

Just after being accosted for a nickle to buy a cup of coffee one reads that the Brazilian coffee crop this year will amount to 29,850,000 bags, of which 11,952,000 bags will be destroyed to keep down the supply. Isn't it a queer world? Or is it the people?

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Contributed by Rev. J. F. Butcher, Chaplain, Medicine Hat Branch, of Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.

The 11th day of November has been set apart by the Government of Canada as "Remembrance Day." On this date sixteen years ago, the Great War ended. A war which lasted over four years and in which 562,764 men and women of the British Empire, including 60,000 Canadians, laid down their lives for honour, justice and freedom, principles for which we all should be "ever ready to live or die valiantly."

"Remembrance Day" is not a holiday; it is a Holy Day, sacred to the memory of our heroic dead. It reminds us that Canada stood with the other great Dominions side by side with the Motherland; that nearly 600,000 Canadians were under arms, that 3139 names enlisted, that both nurses and men proved themselves equal to those who had had years of training for active service that thousands of broken hearts and bodies and blighted lives resulted; and that 60,000 Canadians lie sleeping in the "Gardens of the Dead" in Flanders and other battlefields. Why? The answer is given in the words of Sir Robert Borden, then Prime Minister. "Not for love of battle, not forgetting Vimy, are forever emblazoned on the standards of Canadian regiments and on the hearts and minds of those who survived."

You are familiar with the following words "My duty to my country is to love it, to obey and maintain its laws, respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies." This is exactly what these brave men and women did who gave their lives for the land they loved. In it our Motto, Remember, that this day should be set apart as a memorial to them, and as an opportunity for us to assist them in reverence and gratitude

There are not up in almost every city, town and village in Canada memorials to these heroes. Rarely and rare for these evidences of our country's gratitude all your lives, for no one are engraved the names of those who made the supreme sacrifice that you might live in peace and safety Similarly the Empire will stand at attention. Its speech silenced. Its thought centred upon the brave dead who fought for it. Remember to honor that millions of grateful people in our vast Empire will take part in this sacred act of remembrance. Will you join with us. Be present at the ceremony at the Cenotaph, and in the "Two Minutes Silence." Bring to the spirit voices of the War dead in the great beyond so they cry

To you from falling hands we throw The Torch be yours to hold it high If ye break faith with us who die We shall not sleep though Poppies grow In Flanders Fields "

"BILL GETS EVEN" or "HE WHO LAUGHS LAST . . "

Jones Friday morning Messrs Matt Brimacombe, Jr., his brother Stewart, and Gordon Wilson taking turns at breaking Steve's old bus. But it refused to budge, so the trio had to walk to college

Returning at noon they found the American flag at which was bent so hopelessly flying on Bill Night's flag staff the previous day, had been "home" and were perched on Steve's car hanging on the door handle of the car was been a card upon it was written "Don't Walk, buy a British car." Here set to discover why the thing wouldn't work. Result these three students had been trying to start the blamed thing which had been minus two coils. Didn't Bill laugh? What ho' Bill says when he hits he hits straight from the shoulder, on account of having a little Scotch blood in his veins. Now, I ask you, are the English green?

● Perhaps the extravagant claims that have been put forward from time to time by distillers for the age of their whiskies are founded on the fact that the origin of making wine is lost in the mists of antiquity. One can only guess at the aeons that may have elapsed between the time the grape was grown, and its real purpose on earth discovered. The vine is known to have existed in the tertiary period, and since that time has survived all great natural catastrophes and upheavals

● Those of us who believe in a great plan or purpose into which the puny, temporal affairs of man are Divinely fitted must see a significance in this fact. Whatever else was permitted to perish, the vine was not. The fossil-remains of the vine which have been excavated show a shrub with many large sharp leaves, and grapes in small irregular clusters which must have been vicious and acid to the taste.

● The improvement of the vine came probably by accident. A branch would have been broken off, and it would be noticed that the fruit that followed was better than before. Thus was the art of pruning born

● That the vine, the grape and the purpose of the grape were known long before the beginning of written history is proved from the fact that the first reference we have to them is to be found in Genesis IX, 20, 21. It reads: "A [illegible] be a husbandman, and he planted a vineyard, [illegible] rank of the wine and was drunken." Evidently the discovery of fermentation had been made long before Noah's lapse, which, however, as the context will show, was responsible for our presence on earth to-day

● The Persians have a legend which is as near the truth as we are ever likely to arrive. It tells of the great Jamsheed who had been accustomed to grape juice when freshly expressed. He thought it would be a fine idea to gather quite a stock of it to ride him over the long months when the vine was not bearing. So he collected a quantity of grape juice and stored it in jars. One day, a few weeks later, he took a considerable slug and was almost immediately conscious of strange and painful proceedings in his stomach. The wine, in fact, was in process of fermentation and was foul and nauseous

● Why he didn't empty the jars, we do not know. It was lucky he didn't. He merely labelled them "Poison." Then a few weeks later one of his wives felt despondent and, seeing the convenient poison, took a copious draught. She was surprised She took another and discovered that her troubles seemed to have miraculously disappeared. She hurried to the king with the glad tidings, and so was discovered, the old chronicles tell us, the great law of fermentation.

UNION DISTRICT

Well, we managed to pause the spoons away for another year. There was an extra special raid or spooks at Union school, but the children faced the foe bravely. However, the raid did not take a notion and suddenly jump off in silence without help Who's guilty?

The party progressed splendidly until the order was given for everyone to tell a joke or give a stump speech Then we were stumped. We hummed and hawed and sacrificed our jaw-cry to avoid the stage. By the way, Mr. Cartwright, next time you sing a solo make that bee hum a little longer, and a hint to you, Mr. Greaves, exercise your voice a little and you will be a noted singer within the next decade

It wasn't noticeable that anyone was backward when the lunch was passed around The cooks are to be complimented on the brand of cakes served and also the delicious candy.

By the way, there will be a basket social and dance held at Union school

Annual Meeting Shows Agricultural Society In Good Shape

Prizes Were Increased By $2000.00

The annual meeting of the Vermilion Agricultural society was held in the Memorial Hall on thursday 3rd inst with President W. H. Steele in the chair and a fair number of members being present. Reports of the work of the year were given by the officers and were adopted by the members as being very satisfactory, in view of existing conditions

Financial Statement

The financial statement showed that the district was in relatively the same position as a year ago. In spite of the fact that $2 000 more were paid out in prizes than in 1933. This was found necessary in order that the Society may get the Dominion Government grant of $1 500. Improvements to buildings and grounds accounted for expenditure of approximately $500.00 while the entertainment and attractions called for the outlay of about $1200.00

A special was given of the manner in which the midway was operated by the society as a purely local business all labor and prizes being secured within the town and district rather than seek for distant points, as to the time when mobile midways operate at the fair. the midway showed a substantial improvement over 1933, and arrangements are already under way to greatly improve the facilities for entertainment for the 1935 Fair

First President of Fair

A visitor to the meeting on Saturday last was Mr P. O Pilkie, first president of Vermilion Fair. Mr Pilkie expressed a continued interest in the work of the Board and was honored by being made an Honorary President of the Society for 1935. Vermilion's first fair was held in 1904 under the direction of Mr. Pilkie and he will be given a place at honor, when the thirtieth anniversary of the initiation of the Fair takes place in the fall of 1935.

It is essential that every possible member be secured to assist the Society in carrying on and a canvass will shortly be made over the entire district for the purpose of securing membership. It is hoped that the people of the district will respond and lend their support financial and otherwise It is planned to approach the Provincial Government for a small grant for 1935 but the results of such an appeal will not be known for some time and in the meanwhile plans for the thirtieth anniversary Fair are being laid.

Vermilion is the only 3 Class Fair at present in existence in a town in Alberta, only two others have survived the depression those in the cities of Red Deer and Lethbridge, and it is felt that it has been only through the extensive co-operation received from the people that the Vermilion Fair has been able to maintain its stand and see for it by its early efforts

The Boys Camp, held at the School of Agriculture under the auspices of the Agricultural Society, will be continued in 1935 and a demand for similar work for girls is under consideration but it is proposed to give the girls a three or four day short course in canning, etc., at the time when the Fair is in operation; suggestions along this line will be gladly received by the members of the Board.

Election of Officers

Election of officers resulted as follows:— Honorary Presidents, Hon. Robert Weir, Hon. R. G. Reid, Hon. F. S. Grisdale, Mayor of Vermilion, P. G. Pilkie, and Wm. Telford; President Wm. M Steele; 1st Vice President J. W. G. Morrison, K.C.; 2nd Vice President James Mitchell; Directors, A. R. Nicholls, R. Good, W. H. Williams, N. McClellan, W. H. Duncan, J. C. Herchert, W. L. Robinson, E. W. Hart, C. Jeans, Geo. Law, J. E. Carey, A. Campbell, D. A. Andrew, Jas Mooney, J. A. M. Craig, J. C. Taylor, J. E. Cross, John Bryden, J. E. Edgar, Wm Barr, H. A. Searle, and directors requested from Vermilion Turf Club and Vermilion Amateur Athletic Association.

At a meeting of the directors, held immediately after adjournment of the general meeting, S. C Herchert was re-elected Secretary Treasurer and the Managing Committee for 1935 was elected as follows: President Steele, Vice-President Morrison, Vice-President Barr and the Secretary-Treasurer. The managing committee was requested to submit a suggested slate of standing committees for the year.

Some useful work in the part of all interested in the development of agriculture will help carry out the slogan "The FIRST Fair in 1905 — the BEST Fair in 1935."

MANNVILLE FARMERS WINNERS AT EDMONTON FALL SHEEP, SWINE SHOW

The Cornish family, well known farmers of the Mannville district, were prominent among the cash prize winners of the Edmonton Sheep and Swine Show. Prizes won were, 1931 market steer or heifer, 1, Ted Cornish, pen of 3 market lambs, 1934, 6th, Ted Cornish, 5 pens or wether lambs, 2nd, William R. Cornish.

CARICANA SEED SOFT FREE ON APPLICATION

The last few dry, windy years have convinced farmers in Central Alberta of the necessity of growing shelter belts for the protection of their homes and, in some cases, to keep their farms at home There are several varieties of trees and shrubs suitable for this purpose, but the most satisfactory of all is caragana.

Owing to its extreme hardiness, density of growth and ability to withstand long periods of drought, caragana is admirably suited for the purpose of forming windbreaks for crop protection. When left to grow naturally it will attain a height of from fifteen to eighteen feet. As a hedge one foot high will protect a field from the wind for fifty feet, a fifteen foot hedge will protect a screen planted to eight hundred feet strip of crop. A shelter belt is also a necessity for the growing of a good farm garden.

A great many farmers who would like to plant hedges have not done so because of the expense involved in order that all who desire to plant windbreaks may do so without encountering financial difficulties, the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, will supply applicants with instructions for growing and any reasonable amount of seed from two pounds up, on receipt of the request accompanied by stamps to cover postage or express charges. Two pounds of seed require fifteen cents postage, and will cost proportionately more but of drift. Carrying charges on larger amounts of seed may be ascertained at the local post office by the speed of fire. The length in feet of the desired hedge divided by 1500, will give the number of pounds of seed required.

Births registered in Canada during the nine months January-September of this year number 58,574, deaths 31,146 and marriages 24,109 as against 61,307 births, 31,565 deaths and 21,329 marriages during the corresponding period last year. This comparison shows an increase of 12 per cent in marriages. Happy days must be here again! —Edmonton Journal

POLICE COURT

There is very little sympathy, if any, for the man who enters into an agreement to pay to the owner of land a portion of his yield and who tries to evade his obligation and gets into trouble over it. Burns Plants promised a certain return for the use of a farm near Landonville, Bailiff H. Snelgrove was ordered to make a seizure of certain grain when Burns refused to live up to his agreement. Plants was charged with obstructing the officer when he refused to allow the grain to be moved. Owing to a faulty information in the charge, the Court had no option but to dismiss the case against the accused. Morrison for the defendant.

No License on Truck

If you should have a driver's license get one. If you have a car or truck, don't operate it without a license Albert Dupre of Islay had no license on his motor vehicle and the court fined him $5.00 and costs or ten days in the Pen. Fine and costs paid.

A large number of cases were disposed of in the Small Debt court.

Family Disagrees

Just another case of where jarring families think that the court can clear up their troubles. When Polly Redmare and her son Joe could not agree as to who was the owner of some of the family belongings the court was called upon to step in and they apparently left it satisfied in their belief that it was worth the costs of the court which they had to pay. Richardson for plaintiff: Morrison for defendant.

Bruce E. Knapp vs. H. C. O'Rourke; claim and costs paid. Richardson for the plaintiff.

Line Fence Trouble

As long as there is such a thing as a line fence between neighbors' property just so long will there be friction. If both of them do not come to some definite understanding as to the payment for its erection and maintenance. Geo. Donaldson charged James Gilmore with the theft of half of their line fence (which has since become a boundary fence) by his taking it a way. Gilmore was guilty of a mis demeanor under the Act respecting line fences and ordered to put it back in as good condition as he found it. He also had to pay the costs of the court. Mr. Jeans for plaintiff, Adam for defendant.

Peter Diabaz vs. Joe Podolisky for wages, under the Masters and Servants' Act. Claim paid.

REGISTRATION AT V.S.A.

SEVERAL NEW MEMBERS ARE ADDED TO V.S.A. STAFF

Mr. S. H. Gandier, B.S.A., returns to the Vermilion school in charge of the Chemistry and Physics department. Mr. Gandier was an ever likeprincipal here and a great many of his old friends will be glad to welcome him back.

Jack Heath, B.S.A. is handling the carpentry work and giving gas engine instruction. He was very successful in France and Belgium in which he did the dead of the preceding generation because of the 126,000 Canadian to whom the conflict brought disablement of one kind or another The crosses in the cemeteries of Flanders are gradually filling with Poppies—those problems of a nation's youth consecrated in the Wrath-red forge of War

On Poppy Day this Dominion pauses on its Re normal activities to re-tell the sacrifices of its young men to pay tribute to their heroism their blood and the uncomplaining suffering with which they bore their privations and sufferings At the same time Canada strives to implant in the little small measure an obligation to those disabled men employed in the Veterans workshops of the country whose only means of livelihood is the making of these simple emblems.

The wide ramifications of the great Canadian Legion, with its tens of thousands of workers on Poppy Day, take care of the distribution of these Poppies throughout Canada. Thus is thus enabled to their disabled Comrades in these Veterans' Shops a Dominion number of a successful yet pride ful task

All Canadians of every age and degree should wear a symbol on Poppy Day. For that is simply a day of remembrance and of rededication to the work on hand or continuing the struggle of civilization where the workers of a previous generation left off

A Call To Citizenship and Humanity

With the approach of winter in this country located in the northern latitudes where winter weather is rigorous and prolonged, numerous organizations are supported by the donations of warm-hearted and generous men and women are actively interesting themselves in the welfare of other thousands of fellow citizens who are in difficulty and distress, lacking adequate shelter clothing fuel and food. These various organizations each in its own field are making appeal to the whole heart of Canada to come to the aid of all those who are in need of assistance. The press, the pulpit, the public platform and the radio are all enlisted in promoting this humanitarian work and as all these agencies are gladly extending their services

It is the interest the sympathy the generosity, the sacrifice of the individual citizens that is now required. Whatever opinions may have been held by many people in years gone by as to whether or not they were their brother's keeper surely there can now be no two opinions as to the responsibility of each citizen for the welfare of other citizens. Duty to oneself and one's own family remains as it always must remain but the formerly accepted interpretation of that duty has narrowed during recent years while one's duty to others has greatly widened. That selfishness in the cause of much of the suffering and loss of to-day more unselfishness and the larger patriotism is the universal call of duty to-day

Because of continued unemployment everywhere and the plight of many people in Western Canada, especially in south-western Saskatchewan and in portions of Manitoba and Alberta because of another extensive crop failure due to drought, the need for extending assistance to the unfortunate is far greater as to any preceding year, and in some respects even greater

Governments acting on behalf of all the people, are shouldering the main problem. They are mortgaging the future in order that people may survive in the present. It is the only thing to do. It must be done, and is being done. To Governments must be left the responsibility and duty which is theirs. But Premier Bracken is right in his appeal in support of the various charity drives now in progress across Canada Government relief efforts no matter how extensive can never take the place of the human touch provided by private and personal service. The call to help those in distress in a position for contribute to the assistance if the needy is greater than ever in these times

It is gratifying to note that appeals being made are not falling upon deaf ears or sleepy hearts. As indicated in this article on less than 227 railway cars of produce, fruit and vegetables have been voluntarily contributed by people in the slightly other provinces to the drought stricken areas of Saskatchewan and additional cars are being provided every day Various service clubs the Red Cross, the Salvation Army and numerous groups of public spirited men and women in cities towns and villages all over the Dominion are at work and the rural districts unaffected by drought are nobly responding

But, as always, there are many who remain wrapped up in their selfishness, but who at a minimum of personal sacrifice could and should make substantial contribution to the needs of others. Too many people who are still in fairly comfortable circumstances themselves hard-up, and say they cannot make contributions watch they ought to make, simply because their income to-day is not what they were a few years ago In those better times they were not called upon to give in proportion to what they had because the call was not there and the need. Now the day that need does exist, and it is their duty to respond to present approval in an larger measure than formerly out of the incomes and reserves they still possess.

Our whole citizenship has a duty to perform because of our relationships to our fellows now. If that duty is met fully and even gladly met, then and much vaunted civilization is a sham and should and will crumble in ruins Therefore, in every community no matter where it appears and no matter how half of the needy is made, and regardless of the organization that may make the appeal or the particular need which it is designed to meet, there should be a cordial welcome extended to those who are giving of their time and energy in organizing the campaign for appeal, and the most generous response possible consistent with one's own circumstances as these may be now and understood in the light of the actually desperate needs of others.

Shooting The Fog

Secret Chemical Makes Air Clear In Few Seconds

Lightning raids on fog are foreshadowed by a secret chemical in which a trial was given recently. When a typical pea-soup specimen loomed up, engineers, having mounted their "guns", an array of constricted fogful pipes suspended thirty feet horizontally above the ground fired streams of this liquid into its midst. In a few seconds a clear path was blazed in the gloom, and while the chemical attack lasted, every fog particle, as it came within range of 2,000 feet, was brought to earth in the form of water. It is anticipated that aerodromes will be among the first to install this new fog-clearing apparatus. Already large sums of pounds are expended annually on special fog signals and guidance signs.

Motoring On Sunlight

Dutch Inventors Claim Harnessed Rays Supply Sufficient Energy

Motoring on sunlight instead of petrol is the latest scientific dream, based on a discovery by two Dutch inventors. Them men claim to have harnessed the sun's rays and multiplied their power a thousand times in a photo-electric cell, thereby manufacturing sufficient energy to drive a high-powered car or aeroplane engine. Already the sun has been made to work for man in Egypt, where by concentrating its rays on solar boilers enough natural steam is generated to drive low-pressure turbines. This new system will, it is claimed, be more economical

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

By LAWRENCE SIMMERS (Graphoanalyst)

(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: Hundreds of readers have written in, asking the author for a personal character analysis. Have you? The well-known Graphoanalyst who is writing this series of fascinating articles will be glad to tell you what your writing reveals. See the special offer at the end of the article.)

This week, there are several letters that have a general appeal to a good many of my readers, dealing, as they do, with a subject that is somewhat arise for anyone.

Miss C., of Winnipeg, says: I am a stenographer and thoroughly detest the job I am unhappy and feel that I am wasting my time. I have dabbled a bit with painting and drawing, and have been told I make a little artist manner now and again in this way. What do you advise?

There are very definite indications in your writing that you have a rare talent for artistic work. Some of my correspondents ask should they take up art as a career, and I am pleased to advise them against it. But in your case, I can very earnestly suggest that you can take up drawing as a career. This does not imply, of course, that you are to give up your present occupation for it.

You must take up your art work, seriously, but in your spare time. Work hard at it; take a good course, because it will pay you in the long run. And when you feel the inclination to make a career of it, then you can do so with every chance of success.

A widow in the North country writes: I am 28 years of age, and have two children. I have been keeping company with a widower for some time, and he wants me to marry him. He says that he divorced his wife because she was unfaithful, and did not look after him, preferring to go dancing. I am in a real fix, because and am wondering whether I should marry him or not. Will you kindly examine handwriting after my children have told me what they think?

I can sorry that I cannot recommend you to marry this man. His writing is that of a deceitful and rather dishonest person. My correspondent should not be afraid of to remain as she is. She can, at least, see that her children are properly looked after. If she were to marry her friend, I feel sure that she would unhappy times.

Be brave, old pal, and will very likely have other opportunities of meeting someone who would make her a good husband, and see that the children were adequately looked after. In any case, she is better off as she is now, than married to the man she has in mind.

Miss R., living in a Toronto suburb, writes: My boy friend has returned to Germany, having lost his employment here. He says that he would either come back, or get me to go over there. Do you think this will work?

Should I wait for him?

This is a case where Graphoanalysis alone is not sufficient. I have to call in the aid of psychology. Your friend is a very affectionate and impulsive nature. He is restless enough, and undoubtedly tired of what he said when he told you he would marry you one day. But he is a long distance from you, and my dear, you have to contend with rivals. Do not shun the company of other boys.

Let him know before very long whether your boy friend is still interested in you or not, and if not he will stop writing. He may meet someone there who will suit him much better. And the blow will not be so hard to you now as it would be later.

So I advise you not to do as you suggest, and wait for him, but to meet other boys. That is unnatural and will not help you very much. On the other hand, if he is still interested in you, more particularly if your old love has regained

Do you want your character revealed from your handwriting? And to know what your friends are really like? Send specimens of the writing you want analyzed, and enclose 10c coin for each hand with 3c stamped addressed envelope, to: Lawrence Hibbert, care of Bringing Newspaper Union, 175 McDougall Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters will be answered in rotation, but please allow about two weeks for your reply

Criticism Often Unjust

The Ottawa Journal says most of us are quick to criticize the police. And our criticism is often unjust. For the morale of police work, as it is organized to-day, is not that of any criminals escape, but that so many are apprehended. The public owes a debt of the few failures. It forgets the thousands of cases where the police succeed.

A noted French privateer died recently, and among his effects was found a document in the form of a will leaving recipes, formulae, ideas and suggestions for perfumes, locations, events, to keep the laboratory staff busy for years.

Even Rheumatic Pains Eased Fast Now!

BAD HEADACHES, NEURITIS PAINS OFTEN RELIEVED IN MINUTES THIS WAY

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it.

Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross as every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

U.S. Expert Not Optimistic About Weather Of Future

If you asked J. B. Kincer, United States weather bureau official, to guess what the weather will be for the next 25 years, he'd say: "Cobler and wetter."

Kincer, chief of the climatology division, told the Cosmos Club at Washington, there is good reason to suspect the United States perhaps the world is on the threshold of a change of climate.

For the past quarter century, he found, the world has had increasing snowfall and decreasing rainfall. Records of periods have shown short cycles of rising and falling temperature and rain lasting about the same number of years, he said. He believes another turn of the weather time may be imminent.

World's Noisiest Bird

Cockatoo Can Drown Out Dozen Motor Car Horns

The scream of the peacock can be heard a mile away, but the noisiest bird in the world is the cockatoo. A single bird can make a din which would drown a dozen motor car horns and dim the scream of a steam whistle. The bell-bird of Brazil is runner-up to the cockatoo. This little bird is heard for a mile or a mile. It lifts its head in the air and makes a noise that sounds like the bang of a hammer on an anvil.

Commercial canning is one of the oldest of the larger organized industries in Canada. Napoleon is credited as the originator of the large air-tight containers for army rations, but the development of the industry is later. In the 1860's Nicholas Francois Appert found that food put in air-tight containers required to be sterilized; an Englishman invented the tin can, and North America practically made canning the great industry it is to-day.

FEAR OF WAR HAS A STRONG GRIP ON FRANCE

Paris. Allegations of Germany's increasing military might intensified the war scare gripping France.

In great measure the fear of conflict, which overshadowed All-Saints and Armistice days, was due to the grim pilgrimage of the French people to the graves of their war and civil dead, was based on belief the approaching jubilation in the Bear might set off an international explosion.

For the first time since the war, the French apparently were not so confident of the crushing superiority of their army, leading minister of war Henri Petain to seek urgent reinforcements for the nation's weapons of defence.

Violent reaction in the German press to the announcement that French troops are ready to enter the Saar if the League of Nations commission governing that region calls for help was described in high quarters here as the most serious since the Nazis have been thinking of seizing the rich industrial area.

Belgium, now under League of Nations mandate, will vote January 11 whether to remain under league rule, rejoin Germany or unite with France.

Rumors of an impending Nazi putsch in the Saar increased when an announcement that French garrisons along the border were ready to move, and a semi-official German newspaper in Berlin warned that the French "are playing with fire."

Nothing To Conceal

Britain Prepared To Give Every Assistance To Arms Inquiry

London.—The British government, having "nothing whatever to conceal" plans to give every assistance to the United States inquiry thoroughly to air the international arms traffic situations.

A statement by Secretary of State for War MacDonald made in the House of Commons indicated Great Britain, several of whose armament firms were mentioned in the Washington arms inquiry, is desirous of having the entire situation searchingly reviewed.

The prime minister's declaration that the government has "nothing whatever to conceal" followed hard on the heels of assertions by Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, that Vickers-Armstrongs, British munitions firm had a "friend in the admiralty," were untrue.

Probe Munitions Sale

British Government May Investigate Private Manufacture Of Arms

London.—The British government has decided to establish an inquiry into the private manufacture and sale of war materials, it was stated in political quarters. Official confirmation, however, was lacking for the present.

The Daily Mail said the government's decision was partly a result of the senatorial inquiry at Washington and also partly because of a deadlock in the disarmament conference.

It was believed the government also won'd propose other nations join a conference to discuss the manufacture and exportation of arms with a view to securing a convention establishing international control.

Such a conference, it was suggested, might take the place of the disarmament conference.

Announcement that these steps have been determined upon, it was stated, will be the government's answer to labor's demands in the House of Commons that a parliamentary commission governing that region calls for help was described in high quarters here as the most serious since the Nazis have been thinking of seizing the rich industrial area.

PRIME MINISTER ANSWERS LETTER OF HON. STEVENS

Ottawa. — Suggesting that the memory of Hon. H. H. Stevens with respect to events leading up to his resignation as minister of trade and commerce, was "at variance with the recollection of my colleagues and myself," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, in a letter, expressed the opinion no useful purpose would be served by further correspondence.

Mr. Bennett's letter was in reply to that sent him by Mr. Stevens in which the latter stated at some length his criticism of the prime minister and his colleagues, and dealt particularly with the communications sent him accepting his resignation.

The prime minister's letter to Mr. Stevens was sent to the former minister following a brief session of council, and a short time later copies were made available to the newspapers.

In the meantime rumors circulate swiftly of impending cabinet changes but no announcements in this respect are anticipated until the return of Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals.

Mr. Bennett's letter follows:

"Dear Sir;

"I received your letter of yesterday in due course.

"As you resigned as minister of trade and commerce and chairman of the royal commission on radio broadcasting, and as "secretary" of Ontario and one as "president of Canada".

Bright Students

Third Grade Pupils In Toronto Schools Can Answer Questions

Toronto. — Two Toronto senior third grade public school classes attained marked superiority over similar bodies in London, Ont., when several students correctly identified Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario.

Major R. J. Blaney, of Wilkinson Road, and 13 of 33 pupils in the senior third grade of his school knew R. B. Bennett was prime minister of Canada and that 23 of the same group could identify Premier Hepburn. Twelve others had heard of Mr. Bennett but could not describe his office, and two appeared never to have heard of him.

The students did not know who Mr Hepburn is.

Seven knew "Dizzy" Dean was a baseball player, five knew he played for St Louis Cardinals, but the remaining pupils had never heard of him.

In a North Toronto public school 12 third grade pupils correctly identified Mr. Bennett, five described him merely as premier, one as "governor of Ontario," two as prime minister of Ontario, one as "secretary" of Ontario and one as "president of Canada".

WHEAT PRICES TO BE PEGGED FROM NOV. 1ST

Winnipeg — Effective Nov. 1, wheat prices will be "pegged" at 78 cents a bushel for the December option and 80 cents a bushel for the May future, it was announced here by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange

The pegging of the price, on a Fort William basis, was made by the grain exchange at the request of the federal government. John I. Mitchell, general manager of the central selling agency of the Canadian Wheat Pools, stated the new set of prices selling recently emphasized that caused the pegging

Text of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange statement follows

"The government has requested that minimum prices be set for May and December wheat contracts of 80 cents and 78 cents respectively, Fort William basis, these to take effect from November 1, and the grain exchange has acted in accordance with this request."

Duration of the pegged price was not set. Last year, from October 15 to September 14, a peggel price of 70 cents a bushel on the October future was in effect. The present May future for this year terminated Wednesday and only the December and May futures will appear on the exchange.

LABOR MAKES HEAVY GAINS IN BRITISH VOTING

London.—Labor registered sweeping gains in returns available here from municipal elections held all over England The heaviest losses were suffered by the Conservatives

The results were watched with keen interest because the elections are regarded as an unusually important test of public opinion in view of the probability of a general election next year

The results in London district made a strong swing to the Labor side but in many municipalities in that district the turnover will left the municipal reform party ahead The municipal reform candidates are broadly classified as Conservatives

With two results complete throughout England and Wales the results showed Labor had made 273 gains and had lost 109 losses the Conservatives had gained 13 with a net loss of 109 losses the Liberals had gained four and lost 24 and Independents had gained five and lost 74

With results in 11 London boroughs still to come, the result in London district showed Labor had gained 227 seats and lost one, the municipal reform (Conservative) group had gained 210 and gained but one while Independent and others had lost 17

Battersea was one London district where the Laborites captured enough seats to turn a municipal reform majority into a Labor majority

Voting in London was watched particularly because there it was the first municipal voting since the general elections of 1931. In that area 28 boroughs note only one every 3 years. Where there is a full complete but elsewhere only one third of the council members may be elected.

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel needed

When you feel bilious, depressed, sour on the world, that's your liver's fault. It's pouring 2 to 3 pints of bile into your bowels.

If this bile is not flowing freely, food just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sick all over.

Don't stay that way! Get those 2 to 3 pints of bile flowing freely and see how much better you feel. Just ask your druggist for Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They're purely vegetable and mild. But they're sure. Know them by their olive-shape and color. 15c and 30c at all druggists.

Little Journeys in Science

THE SECRET OF THE FIREFLY

(By Gordon H. Cruse, M.A.)

Light is produced by numerous living creatures, such as the firefly, the glow-worm, and certain varieties of squid and fish. The light is accompanied by very little heat and hence is called cold light. The search for heatless illumination is a fascinating one because cold light is more efficient than electric light. If the scientists can discover completely the secret of the firefly, he will be able to produce light much cheaper than warm light. At the present time the consumer of electricity for the production of light pays not only for the light, but also for the heat which is always given off along with the light.

The bodies of animals have a marvelous mechanism for the changing of foods into heat and in certain cases into light and electricity. A steady combustion takes place within the body of an animal during its entire lifetime and it possesses efficient heat-regulation so that it is quite independent of cold. The firefly can flash its light, and electric fish can generate sufficient electricity to ring a door-bell.

There are a great many light-producing organisms. Scientists have found that there are at least 40 orders of animals which contain one or more light-producing forms, and that there are two groups of plants namely fungi and bacteria, which are luminescent. Fireflies, glow-worms, jellyfish, brittle-stars, sea-pens, and squids are all light-producing organisms. It has been observed that even the eggs of some animals are luminous. Light-producing animals are never found in fresh water, but they all live in the sea or on land. Most of the luminescent sea animals are found many feet below the surface.

The glow of lamp wood (known as fox-fire) is due to fungi, a low order of plants to which mold and mildew belong. The phosphorescence of dead meat or fish is caused by bacteria. It has been only in recent times, since scientists have perfected the microscope, that the phosphorescence of the sea, the shining of damp wood, and that of dead fish and meat have been shown to be due to different forms of living organisms.

A German baron owns 20,000 foxes.

"THEY WERE FAILURES WITH DOUBTFUL BAKING POWDER. LESS THAN ¼ WORTH OF MAGIC MAKES A FINE BIG CAKE, AND YOU ARE SURE OF SUCCESSFUL RESULTS."

says MRS. CLARRY HUNT, Chief Dietician for Gillett Products, Toronto

MAGIC comes as little! Just think—it actually takes less than ¼ worth of Magic to make a delicious layer cake. Why take chances with doubtful baking powder? Bake with Magic and be sure!

MAGIC "CONTAINS NO ALUM." This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

Christmas Seals Protect Children From Tuberculosis

MONEY RECEIVED FROM SALES PROVIDES FUNDS FOR PREVENTIVE WORK WHICH HAS BEEN INSTRUMENTAL IN DECREASING DEATH RATE BY 25% IN PAST FOUR YEARS—TAXATION PROVIDES FOR CARE OF SICK ONLY; CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE PROVIDES OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL TO HELP THIS WORTHY CAUSE.

The mother of this healthy, winsome child was a patient in the "Ben" when he was born. But thanks to the preventive work of the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League, he is as free from this disease today as any other normal child.

He is one of nine babies cared for in the Preventorium at Fort Qu'Appelle with the assistance of the I.O.D.E. and funds raised by the sale of Christmas Seals.

The preventive program of 1932, financed from the sale of Christmas Seals, was one of the most extensive yet attempted.

9235 persons were examined at the three Sanatoria.

2080 cases were diagnosed as City Clinics.

1966 persons were examined by Travelling Consultants.

619 Normal School Students were examined.

166 contacts were examined by Family Physicians.

In all, 7,304 persons received necessary care and attention, thanks to the generous contributions of purchasers of these cheerful little good-will messengers.

Since 1928, when Christmas Seals were first sold in Saskatchewan, 28,079 persons have been examined at the expense of the Christmas Seal Preventive Fund.

Of the total number of persons examined, 2,236 active cases of tuberculosis were discovered while the disease was yet in its early stages.

Were it not for the Christmas Seal Campaign this large group of children and young adults would eventually have reached the Sanatoria in the advanced stages of the disease. Other healthy children would have been infected by them, as tuberculosis is spread by contact with those suffering from tuberculosis.

Deaths, sickness, and isolation from tuberculosis have been reduced as a result of this programme, which is supported by funds secured by the sale of Christmas Seals.

The death rate in Saskatchewan has been reduced 28% in the last four years, largely as a result of Preventive work, and this province to-day has the lowest death rate in the world.

Yet in spite of this splendid showing there were three hundred deaths from tuberculosis in Saskatchewan in 1933. During the same year, one-third of all deaths from infectious diseases in this province have been due to tuberculosis. It is still the most fatal of all infectious diseases.

In view of these facts the need for the continuance of the greatest possible measure of preventive work is at once apparent. A most important phase of the league's work is the examination of 13,000 persons showing symptoms of tuberculosis or who have been in contact with Tuberculous patients. Clinics for the examination of those who have been in contact with tuberculous patients or who show symptoms of the disease are maintained at Fort Qu'Appelle, Saskatoon and Prince Albert Sanatoria, Moose Jaw, Swift Current, North Battleford, Yorkton and Estevan.

Taxation provides only for the treatment of those suffering from tuberculosis. No funds are provided for the prevention of this disease, and protection of the well from infection. Prevention is equally as important as the cure of the sick. Preventive work is a most important factor in reducing both by death rate from tuberculosis, and the cost of treatment to the communities.

The Sale of Christmas Seals last year provided $6,300 for the carrying on of last year's Prevention Campaign. As much, or more, is needed for next year's work.

Purchasers of these seals are co-operating in a great and necessary humanitarian cause. Residents of every community in this province will have an opportunity of assisting. All will receive letters containing sheets of Christmas Seals. Their value is one dollar a sheet—one cent a seal. These seals brightened up letters and parcels that these persons thereon shows the sender to be imbued with the true Christmas spirit.

The fight against Tuberculosis can be more keenly and successfully waged with such encouraging results, must be supported by funds secured by Christmas Seals. Your small contribution, therefore, will help one of the thousands of other good citizens who contributed something last year t. This worthy effort, will enable them to further combat the mortality from this preventible disease.

Buy Christmas Seals and thus help to protect your own children.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CHRISTIAN AS CHURCH MEMBER

Golden text: "We are members of his body." Ephesians 5:30.
Lessons: Matthew 5:13-16; Acts 2:41-47.
Devotional reading: Ephesians 2: 14-21.

Explanations And Comments

Responsibilities of Christians, Mt. 5:13-16. In our First Quarter we had three lessons from the Sermon on the Mount, the first one being the twelve verses which precede in Matthew's Gospel our text for to-day. They began, you will recall, with the statement that seeing the multitudes, Jesus went up into the mountain: and when he had sat down, his disciples came unto him: and he opened his mouth and taught them, saying. The Beatitudes followed. Verses 13-16, our text to-day, give Jesus' succeeding words which emphasize the influence and responsibility of disciples.

"Ye are the salt of the earth," Jesus declared. Salt was used in sacrifice by Jews, Greeks, and Romans, and was an emblem of purity and of the influence of a holy life upon others. Salt preserves from corruption: Jesus was reminding his disciples by his statement that it was their duty to keep others from moral corruption. There was an Oriental proverb to the effect that "nothing does more good than sunshine and salt."

"There has scarcely been a town in any Christian land during any time of Christ where a century has passed without exhibiting a character of such elevation that his mere presence has enhanced the good and made the good better, and has been felt at times like the presence of God himself."

"But," continued Jesus, "if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted?" They must beware lest they lose their Christian character and become as useless in his Kingdom as salt that has become good for nothing and is cast out upon the ground and trodden under foot of men. This was no mere figure of speech.

Another figure Jesus gave to stress the service that his disciples should render. "Ye are the light of the world." They were conspicuous witnesses for him, comparable to a city which could not be hid, for it was built upon a hill. It has often been suggested that from the Horns of Hattin, where the Sermon on the Mount has been localized, Jesus may have pointed as he spoke to Safed, a conspicuous hilltop city.

To are the light of the world from whom you receive your light. And as Phillips Brooks reminds us, the soul must stand in the sunlight to bear witness to the sun.

Just Talks To Bear

Veteran Says Mrs. Brain Will Always Listen To Stories

Bears, even a she-bear with a family, will listen to reason, says Matt Allard, veteran of the British Columbia hills. Reason is no ramsay to be afraid of them.

Matt met a she-bear with two cubs. She looked a bit antagonistic, so he said:

"What's the matter, old lady? You'd better get back in the bush where you belong."

She went, said Matt, but a few seconds afterwards, back she came, so I talked to her again, "What do you think you're doing, old lady? Get back in the bush. Nothing's going to happen to the cubs." And that time she went for good."

He claims it's all in the way you talk to them, and if you talk right the trouble ends.

Windfall For Villagers

Struggling Fisherfolk Own Mountain Containing Materials For Cement

The villagers of Matsuge-mura, near Moji, have been poverty-stricken as long as anyone can remember. They live on a desolate stretch of coast. Life has always been one long struggle to make ends meet by fishing. But now they are all rich. A mountain nearby—which was part of the common land belonging to the villagers—was found to contain silica, lime and alumina, the raw materials for cement. And so two cement companies have paid the villagers £36,000 for it. The sum of £32,750—an immense one to these 600 poor fishing folk is being shared out among the villagers. Those who have lived at Matsuge-mura longest will receive most.

THE TENDERFOOT

By ZANE GREY

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen over to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Jim Clare, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was becoming for himself—and so Gerald Keene, half owner of the Four-Circle Ranch, met Jim Clare's niece, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wilderness outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and barkeep proprietor till now, is returning to let Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and accompanies one of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Four-Circle cattle and protests against it.

Spike Goddard tells Sam Dustin, fearing the old prospector will tell others the things he has seen as to the branding of Four-Circle, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine or kill him. He finds

Kane nodded. His conscience was by no means clear. He knew that he had spoken unguardedly and he recommended how interested Rayner had been.

"Of course Spike and I are goin' to stake you," said Dustin. "But we're got to know more than we know now. A big mine'll cost money. We've got to be able to show the goods to capital, see? When can you take me up there to see the place?"

Kane eyed him but Dustin's face was impassive. After all his demand was only reasonable. No one could suspect men to "buy a pig in a poke." He nodded quietly.

"Give me a couple o' days," he said. "Then I'll hike back up there and take you with me. I'll show it to you. Just you and me, hey?"

"That's all. We'll take a pack-pony for grub. I've got some business to 'tend to before I go."

He stopped Spike Goddard midway between the house and the corral and told him his plan.

"You mean you're goin' out into the hills with that old rat by yourself? No one else? Then he don't come back? That's takin' a most God's awful chance," said Spike who knew. But Dustin frowned him down.

"I mean that I'm goin' out into the hills with old Dad Kane to look into a prospect with him. I want Peyotl Gregg to go with us. If any accident should happen to Kane, he will not be my fault, will it? I'll be leavin' with him on Monday. In the meantime, Spike, I've got some of old Joe Carr's paper. He borrowed twelve thousand from old Pegram on a note and the old Shylock was damned eager to sell it to me. We've sure as good as got old Joe Carr's half of the Hour-glass sewed up."

"Yes? Well . . . Gerald Keene owns the other half, don't he?"

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it. You tell Peyotl Gregg to make up a couple o' packs and to be ready to hit the trail first, sign of light Monday mornin'. See?"

Spike glanced at him pityingly.

"Old man Kane's as crazy as a hoot-owl," he said. "All prospectors are crazy. Peyotl Gregg ain't got brains enough to fill a water-bag. An' you're goin' off into the hills with a string o' jackasses an' two crazy fools. I'm glad I stin' goin' in Kane's place."

Dustin looked long at him and waved away the remark.

"In that case you're sure playin' lucky," he said.

CHAPTER V.

The Hour-glass ranch basked in the late-afternoon sunlight and the four men playing cards in the strip of shade behind the bunk-house grunted appreciation of the game and of the hot wind that beat like mosquito traps. Lee and Spears and Rains were playing Mississippi River poker with a pack of twenty cards while Fort, the fat old range cook, assisted with advice from the sidelines. At a sudden turn in the game Lee sneered and stared down the trail.

"My God, fellers," he said in an awed tone; "look at Montgomery Ward, will yuh. . . ."

They looked. For a brief moment they were stricken dumb. Then they turned to Lee with looks of scorn upon them like cat-eyes but there was, too, a sort of dancing, playing light that might be deceptive. He swept off a twenty-dollar fixtures and half-nodded.

"My name's Stone, gentlemen," he said quietly.

"Spell it with an H I reckon," said Rains who passed as the bunk-house wit.

"No, sir. . . ." The man's eyes it a little and he half-grinned. "I've always spelled it with a U UR, you know! You-be-damned Stone . . . Mr. Carr says I'm hired."

"All right, Mr. You-be-damned Stone. Pitch your war-bag in the bunk-house. You got another name?"

"Two of 'em. Just Peche-a-Stone's enough. Outside they call me Dan . . . That means, hard, I hear Makes my name Hard Stone . . .

Venom Of Snakes

Doctors Discover New Treatment For Uncontrollable Bleeding

The venom of snakes may possess mysterious properties helpful in the treatment of haemophilia. It was indicated by the researches of two Brazilian physicians.

A new treatment for the disease, an uncontrollable bleeding from which the sons of former King Alfonso of Spain are sufferers was described in the Lancet, English medical journal, by Drs. R. G. MacFarlane and Burgess Barnett.

The physicians based their study of the hitherto inexplicable malady on the knowledge that the poisons of many snakes cause blood to clot. After numerous tests they found the venom of the viper to be most effective for their purposes. From it they developed a drug believed to be a safe technique in the treatment of the disease.

Started In Curious Way

British House Of Commons Burned Hundred Years Ago

A hundred years ago, on Oct. 16, 1834, the House of Commons was burned down. The great-grand-father of the present Lord Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, performed feats of valor at the fire. He was then M.P. for Nottingham.

He climbed on the roof to direct the hose, in spite of the smoke, heat, sparks, and molten lead flowing around him. He was begged to come down, but did so only two minutes before the whole of the roof collapsed.

The fire started in a curious fashion. Until 1827 it was the practice of the Treasury to issue wooden "tallies" as acknowledgments for loans to the government.

Tallies were made by splitting a strip of wood in two, one part being retained by the treasury and the other being issued to the lender, who returned it when he was repaid his loan.

It was the custom to store discharged tallies in the cellars of the House of Commons, and it was among them that the fire broke out. Paper acknowledgments were substituted for tallies in 1827. News of the World.

Present Greater Threats

Lions Born In Captivity More Trouble To Trainers

Oddly enough the lions born and bred in captivity present greater threats to trainers than do jungle born lions. Why? Because the jungle-bred lion, not having known humans in youth, fears and respects his master when at last they are brought in contact.

On the other hand captive-born lions usually are petted during babyhood. Everyone knows that familiarity breeds contempt, and nowhere is this more true than in our relationship with these magnificent beasts.

Behind the lions' dens that is constantly present stands this one fact the lion, no matter where, when and how born, is a wild animal. He always will be wild. He passes from babyhood at three years to the full-grown lion at age. After it's look out! Pearson's Weekly.

An entire prehistoric Iberian city has been discovered at the base of the mountain of San Miguelon Valencia, the Egyptian Commission there announces. Further discoveries are expected. Among the remains to which great value is attached, are models, carved in stone, of which are paintings of soldiers on foot and on horseback. A complete alphabet has also been found.

No Damages For Negligence

Careless People Cannot Expect Compensation For Injuries

In an action tried in Canada before a Middlesex jury the other day, in which damages for injuries were asked, a verdict was given that will have a very widespread effect on all cases of compensation for injuries suffered while at work. Formed by the Melbourne Agriculturist Society by a father on behalf of his son, 10 years old, who was injured on the racetrack at the fair. In spite of warnings given to keep off the track through a loudspeaker he persisted in getting into the zone of danger, with the result that he was knocked down by a racehorse, receiving injuries to his knee.

The jury deliberated on the case and found that the boy had suffered on account of his own carelessness and, hence, was not entitled to damages.

The significance of the verdict is that it throws the responsibility on people themselves for exercising reasonable caution. If they are careless and negligent they cannot expect to collect damages from others on the ground that the latter are responsible for their safety. It is possible that if this principle were pressed more energetically there would be fewer accidents. Brantford Expositor.

Sopwith Is Real Sport

Admits Mistakes And Says He May Challenge Again

Mr. Sopwith, on his return to England, informed the press that the reason he had not the America's cup with him was that he had made more mistakes than his opponent. This sportsmanlike statement was accompanied by the remark that he was prepared to challenge again "in 20,000 months' time if he lives." His Endeavour proved herself to be the superior of the Rainbow in many respects, a fact which was admitted by numerous American yachtsmen. In any event, his words are of a nature to remove any ill-feeling that may have grown out of the technical protests. — Montreal Gazette.

Home Of Many Watches

Lovely Timepieces Made In Liverpool, England, Years Ago

Liverpool England, was the home of many large watch manufacturers and in the 18th and nineteenth centuries here lovely watches were made and many of them came to Canada. These were all open faced and rather large. Women wore them at neck silk cords and there were round with very gold keys. The were a considerable practice for pictures of the time. The tiny were holes in the watches were often set with semi-precious stones and many of them, although nearly two hundred years old, still keep correct time.

Little Helps For This Week

"We know that all things work together for good to them that love God." Romans 8:28.

If that He likeness is our good, And unbent good is lit: And all is right that seems most wrong If it should be His will

To those who know themselves all things work together for good. The good which God gives seems very good, and only because they know that they deserve them not. The evils which God allows seem also good because they see in them His loving hand put forth to heal them of what study God out from the soul. They love God intensely, in that He is so good to them in each and every way. They love God for what seem evils knowing them to be from His hand real goods. For He by whom all the hairs of our head are numbered directs everything which befalls us in life, in perfect wisdom and love to the well-being of our souls.

Plenty Of Work Ahead

Will Be Over Year Before "Queen Mary" Ready For Service

Although many of the Queen Mary's "black squad" will be thrown idle or diverted to other jobs following upon the vessel's successful launch on September 26 it is estimated that at least 3,000 men will still find employment for more than a year ahead.

There is a great amount of work yet to be undertaken in transforming the giant steel hull into a floating luxury hotel, and there will be few idle moments between now and the spring of 1936, when according to schedule she should enter the North Atlantic service.

A dramatic illustration of the change which has come over prairie transportation in the last fifty or sixty years is afforded by the handiwork of Francis Richard who was born near Selkirk, Manitoba in 1864. Mr Richard was the Canadian Government International Bureau has just completed the building of an old fashioned Red River cart made entirely by hand from beginning to end. It contains not one nail or screw and no metal whatever. In this respect it came true to its type for the old Red River cart which, before the coming of the wagon, and later, the railway, was the vehicle used for transportation throughout the vast area from Red River to the Rocky Mountains, was the product of a strictly self contained economy. Its huge wooden wheels rumbled over endless prairie trails under the guidance of many brown or reddish-frequently sunburned driver's of every nationality.

The change which has occurred with in the memory of settlers still living has been almost incredible. The winding trails of the three prairie provinces have given place to straight graded highways.

There is one sound item, however in the following little excerpt produced from a recent address of R. W. Brock, K.C., LL.D., entitled The Place of Business in Canadian Life, that we make no apologies for printing it in this particular position in his address he says:

"I believe that I am no more than the truth when I assert that as far as concerns what Providence can do for us the fault is not that too little has been given us.

"What we can do for ourselves is another matter. We have made many and grave errors in the administration of our heritage. We have often followed the will-o-the-wisp of immediate money profits rather than the safer road of the slow building up of real wealth. We have instilled into our young people too great faith in abundance to prosperity rather than deep confidence in industry and thrift. We have permitted sectional and class interests to lead us into extravagance in public works. We have piled up a great debt and public debt is a burden on private business however much improvement charges may try to prove that it is not. We have plunged man great and ill planned schemes or expansion of private enterprises. Through it all however, we have kept fairly sober. We have not lost all our instincts of industry and thrift. .

CROPS — FOREST — TAXATION.

Our modern politicians have listed 1,000 miles in the United States and 200 miles in Canada of the richest land on earth into a desert. The new desert is solely the result of deforestation. Forest destruction is the result of a lot of small minor causes all commercial with misgovernment and in addition one big cause—local land taxation.

No country has ever been deforested so thoroughly in such a short space of time as Western Canada and no country has ever collapsed into a desert so swiftly and therefore so disastrously.

No man dare plant a forest on his farm if he is liable to have his farm sold as a tax sale. A western people forest is the quickest growing forest type there is. But even people take 25 years to come to maturity and no man can afford to keep a natural forest on his land if he must pay ruinous local taxes on it for that length of time without return. Therefore every scrap of forest has been extirpated from many farms and patient Lady Earth at last too cruelly outraged, has retaliated by turning the farms to desert at the first serious climatic pulsations returning. Armistice Services And Activities

ARMISTICE BALL WELL ATTENDED

The Armistice Ball held in the Elks hall on Friday evening, Nov. 9th was attended by nearly 100 couples. All enjoyed themselves to the utmost in this popular occasion. The music was by Vermilion's own Orioles. A special feature of the dance was the drawing for prizes donated by a large number of the merchants and business men of the town to whom due thanks are extended. Miss Doris Wright drew the lucky tickets. A strange coincidence was that Fram Stephens donated a petite last year, the winner of which could not be found. This year Fram donated and won his own prize. (We think he ought to donate a suit next year). The Ladies' Auxiliary are to be congratulated for the delightful lunch served. Prize winners were: Mrs Keyes Fram Stephens, Vi. Tasker, J. Burke, Norma Colley, Sid Rosenberg, Alice Norwood, Carman Long Carl Heckbert, Ken Robideau, Dr. Clarke, Evelyn Maxwell, and J. Speakman

REMEMBRANCE DAY SERVICE AT CENOTAPH

Sunday morning, Remembrance Day, was unusually beautiful for November 11th. The largest gathering since the unveiling attended the service at the cenotaph. The ceremonies were conducted by the president of the Legion, H J Reid The Rev Canon McComas was the officiating clergyman and gave us all very seriously to think, by his prayer and the reading of a very appropriate address.

The two minutes silence at the commencement saw the populace stand with bowed heads in memory of those who had fallen in the conflict which ended sixteen years ago.

A guard of honour was provided by "C" Squadron, while the Veterans, the Boy Scouts and the students from the S.S.A attended to smartly marshalled them.

The "Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded by Comrade W. Burton.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The memorial service in the theatre on Sunday evening was very well attended and together with the attendance at the other functions gave definite indication that interest in Remembrance Day and the returned soldier is strengthening.

A splendid address was given by the Rev. H. J. Bevan of Manaville, himself a returned man. This was appreciated by everyone, especially as he spoke of the futility of war and urged everyone to pray and strive for peace.

The program, besides the hearty singing of old favorite hymns, consisted of: Prayer, by Canon McComas; Scripture Reading, Rev. H. A. Boyd. Roll Call, H. J. Reid; "Last Post" W. H. Burton, Reading, Capt. A. Cosson; Address, Rev. H. J. Bevan, Manaville. "God Save the King."

"MIGHTY GOOD TIME" AT
GET-TOGETHER SMOKER

Returned Men from Wide Area Gathered Here in Memorial Hall

On Monday night was held the "get together" and smoker of the old soldiers. The Memorial hall was packed and it is safe to say that this was the most successful smoker for the last five or six years, both socially and financially. Collections exceeded all expectations, and in addition sandwiches and cakes were donated by lady friends; cigarettes by A. E. Kaiser; while a special note should be made of the following: W. P. Pilkie and son Billie visited the smoker after the show, and donated the tobacco in the Columbia theatre, which were immediately auctioned off by Fred Harrington and sold at an average price of 50c each; seven tickets were turned in again for re-sale and four will be given to the highest Peppy sellers two tickets are still waiting for Georgina Law and Elsie Edgerton. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. Barton, Mr. A. Heckbert gave a brief, appealing speech, resulting in seven new members. Thanks are also due to J. Little for playing the piano during the evening. Comrades from as far west as Edmonton and east to Kitscoty made the smoker a memorable one.

Canadian Legion, Post 11, through the Standard, wish to thank one and all for the support accorded their activities at this time.

Recovery From Depression Due to Reserve of Resources and Determination — Counts on "the Crew" to See the Ship Safely Through Political Fog

The above heading was clipped from the September 1, 1934, issue of the Toronto Globe. The Managing Editor visited England and talked with John Bull in the shipyards, in the mills, along country roads, in the fields and beside hedges. And this was one of the reasons given for England's remarkable recovery from the depression "We had a bit of something in the cupboard."

How typical of John Bull is this expression. And how well he has expressed the condition in which thousands of holders of life insurance policies in Canada found themselves during the depression. They "had a bit of something in the cupboard" and that "something" proved to be the one thing that pulled them through. During the years 1931-1933 the Total Life of Canada alone paid over $58,000,000 to living policyholders).

Wise to be who has made provision for his own future and that of his dependents through life insurance. Unwise is he who cannot answer in the affirmative the question, "If misfortune comes will there be a bit of something in my cupboard?" and does nothing about it.

As individuals we cannot afford to disregard this lesson taught by a great nation.

Must There Be War?

(By W. C. HUNTER in "THE LEGIONARY")

Another conflict looms, its thunder rolls afar.
Your God, is there no haven safe from war?
Must our sons' blood be spilt this ruin
To bring a term of doubtful peace again?
We fathers, who but twenty years ago
For others rights engaged on unknown foe,
Must we, as they our fathers, see them sold
As chattels to increase the armourers' gold,
To kill and bleed, in turn manace lie,
And some not even given leave to die,
But to return, blind, maimed, insane or mute,
A lingering trade mark of the war lord brute.
Why do wars come clone on depression's heel?
Must greed, the money changers breed
And gladly take up arms to earn their bread?
Forgotten are those heaps of putrid dead,
A hundred million such could not redress
The wrongs that wars in justice' name express.
If war must be, then let them die their part
Who for gain have given wars their start;
Save the front rank for those who foster war;
Put those they love behind them (not too far).
The propagandist, he should lead the rout
That cause hate-laden battle find his bronze.
Then, not till then, shall bloody warfare cease,
And men devoid of hate find lasting peace.

One Police Court Here Heard 31 Cases Oct.

One police court alone, that of Magistrate A. E. Kaiser, heard 31 cases in October. While it is regrettable that we must have police courts and that people find their way into them, yet better it is to have them brought to Vermilion to air their differences and troubles, than to some other centre. The principals of the cases along with the witnesses would make a goodly contribution to the shoppers in town, and no doubt our local lawyers can well do with any legal fees that come from this source.

No Bidder For Land Offered At Tax Sale

Wild Land Tax Appeals Not Heard At Date Of Meeting - Grizzly Bear Council Have Heavy Agenda

The council of the Municipal District of Grizzly Bear No. 453 held their meeting at Wildmere on Monday, Nov. 5th, Reeve Stone presiding and all the councillors in attendance. Minutes of previous meeting were read and on motion of Mr. Gardiner, approved.

Report was submitted from the Public Works Dept. with request that the Municipality attend to the repairs on the Battle River bridge at 25-17-4-4, the needed planking be forwarded by rail.

Councillor Gardiner had made the necessary arrangements and reported work finished. Statement as to costs to be sent to Dept. In view of failure of Mrs. Edith Carmen's action in court to secure support from her husband (residing in Wellington municipality) and of her present ill health, Council on motion of Mr. Carmichael agreed to allow relief of $5.00 per month.

Offer of two shares of Grain Growers Co. at $25 each from a ratepayer in part payment of taxes was not accepted. In reply to an enquiry from the secretary, the Chairman of Al wetta Municipal Commission stated that so far they had been unable to arrange for a hearing of Wild Land Tax appeals, and in meantime those taxes should be carried forward on the roll as subject to change if appeal was sustained. A memo. from Seed Grain Board, in reply to enquiries, reported that the sum of $46.32 had been written off as uncollectable (Page 70-24-4-4) and would be refunded to the municipality. The Relief Division (Dept. of Agriculture) advised of four settlers from the Alsask and Lloydminster districts as coming to rent land in this district.

Messrs. I. Larson, A. Majury, and D Brown waited on the Council as a deputation from the New Sweden District, Brookville No 6616, and submitted a requisition for $22.76 equal to one year's taxes from Educational Tax on lands which will be included in their district. As these taxes are forwarded monthly, as collected, to the government at Edmonton, suggestion was made that property the Department should meet the requisition and secretary was directed to write the Deputy Minister to that effect.

Tax Sale had been advertised for 1 o'clock p.m. Many of the places noted had been taken off the list, by whole or part payment, leaving some twelve parcels. These were duly offered for sale, with no bidders.

Receipt noted of one payment from ratepayer who had been a patient in Lamont hospital; reminders to be forwarded to parties still owing, and failing payment collection to be enforced.

Arrangements for possible elections next February were made, Deputy Returning Officers being: Div. 1, S V Trawick, Poll at Vermilion school; Div. 2, T. Wilson, Triangle school; Div. 3, P. Jensen, Residence; Div. 4, C. Kiar, Thorneliffe school; Div. 5, W. Brown, Woodvale school; Div. 6 W. A. Beatty, Wildwood school.

Road work sheets for $548.00, and other accounts for $1880.00 were submitted and passed. Council adjourned at 5:15 p.m.

U.G.G. President Issues Statement

R. K. Law, president of United Grain Growers Limited, issued the following statement on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Company while in Edmonton for the annual meeting of United Grain Growers

"Imperial inquiry and recommendation obviously by the board of grain commissioners, is required to learn if bear raids were made recently on the Winnipeg exchange by outside interests, and if retaliation by the exchange against such attempts is needed

Mr. Law said that it is "obvious that such matters are not to be satisfactorily settled by a series of press and radio statements issued to the press or by representations by interested parties made directly to the government."

He declared that the board of grain commissioners' "commands the respect and confidence of the country and, that the body could be given the status of a commission of inquiry

Mr Law said that "the present regulation of grain handling under the provision of the Canada Grain Act and the board of grain commissioners represents the accomplishment of years of experience and study, and is to be regarded as a substantial and satisfactory achievement" Whatever change may from time to time be required in connection with grain handling should be based on the solid foundation already established

Pioneer Railroad Builder Dead

SIR DONALD MANN DIES FROM HEART ATTACK SATURDAY

TORONTO Nov 12—The ranks of Canada's pioneer builders were depleted again this week-end when Sir Donald D. Mann, picturesque pioneer of the railway construction days, died following a heart attack. Sir Donald was stricken shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night and he died within 15 minutes.

Sir Donald despite his 81 years had been in good health and his death came as a shock to friends. To the end he had retained his force of personality that had made him one of the big men of his day in Canada.

He was a leading figure in the world of finance and politics and was a member of the famous partnership Mackenzie and Mann, which he formed in 1886.

HIGH PRICES AT FARM SALE AT MINBURN

Trend Is Towards Betterment of Conditions, Is Belief

MINBURN, Nov. 13 — As an indication that there is a steady improvement in the farming community the sale held at Mrs. Simpson's home five miles south was of large attendance, in another way also. There was a large crowd in attendance and bidding was quite brisk. Feed Barley paid $1.02 per bu., hay house 7 years old Mr Bailey the local butcher paid $90.00 for a team of bays that are over 12 years of age the other horse was for $40 and two jersey cows sold for $115.00 Machinery which had been the property of many a day sold well to old binder brought $25 a drill $20 and an old set of sleighs that had seen many a long, long trail a wedding was sold for $19

Altogether the sale gave a good indication that the farmer had arrived at the corner where prosperity had been hiding Let us hope that she won't dodge on a further away corner when she hears that the grain strike has encompassed all other towns bevides Minburn this week

The new towns to join the strike movement are Royal Park, Warwick, Two Hills Lavoy, Kentwby and in short. It is our guess that all the territory north of the C.N.R. track from Lamont to Innisfree will go solid for the strike

Heartiest hopes to Mrs Jacob Haan at Isley and Miss M. McQuid at Vermilion both of Tolland district, for short and successful convalescences after their recent operations.

The funniest thing we heard this week was a comment on the effect that any Saturday night entertainment in the district might be dull, owing to people having been up late the night before In the Nighthawk territory?" We know the young lady will forgive our chuckles, once she sees those die-hards in action for a month or so.

The lone-some-looking black and tan dog which haunted Dowiell for a few days after the dance would have answered to "Watch," and belonged to the Potter family. Please send him home if he's not left yet. Three kiddies miss him a lot.

We present the Pie Plate to the two obliging barbers who helped keep the baby quiet at one of this week's meetings.

V.S.A. Student Is Awarded Doctor's Degree

The news item, published elsewhere in this issue and taken from the Edmonton Journal, records the wonderful progress of J. W. Hopkins, or "Jack" as we called him at the V.S.A. He has just been awarded his doctor's degree at the London University.

Mr. O. S. Longman, Field Crops Commissioner, has sent the following item which will be of interest to the agricultural men in order

"We are reliably informed that we have in Canada approximately one-half our normal requirements of timothy seed and about one-third our requirements of red clover seed, and a lesser requirement of alsike seed. The situation in connection with small seeds is that there is only a limited supply and there is a prospect that towards spring the prices may be greatly increased.

"I am writing you now to suggest that you quietly and without publicity disseminate information to your farming public to this effect, pointing out our reduced supplies and the advisability of purchasing their requirements at an early date, preferably before the end of December."

School of Agriculture Track Meet Last Saturday

Art informed her that the Blackhawks put the University 13-2 for the use of the rink for three weeks practise

POULTRY PRODUCERS TO VOTE ON MARKETING SCHEME

Every poultry producer with a flock of twenty-five birds or more will be given opportunity to vote for or against the proposed Alberta Poultry Marketing Scheme and the supplementary plan of that scheme in the province will depend entirely upon such vote, a statement issued by the Alberta Poultry Marketing Board emphasizes.

Poultry producers are urged by the Board to fully acquaint themselves with the details of the proposed scheme before making their personal decisions. It is pointed out that the poultry producers controlling the scheme at present being regulated, are mainly from sources whose chief standard is in this department and earned fruitful experimental standing. In May, 1931, he obtained his Master of Science degree at the University of Alberta.

Mr Hopkins who was born in Leeds, England, in 1904, came to the University of Alberta in September, 1924, from Vermilion Agricultural school, where he had taken his preparatory work. All poultry producers are also invited by the Board to register their names and addresses and the number of birds they control, with the Board at the same address in order that those may be checked against the registered lists now being prepared and thus absolutely insure the opportunity of voting for or against the proposal.

Jr. Seed Club Fair Success

Was Held at Vermilion School of Agriculture Last Thursday

On Thursday, Nov. 8th the Junior Seed Club held a very successful fair at the V.S.A. Members of the Club parents and visitors, and the student body (many were in attendance. The judging of the exhibits by Mr. Kilduff of the Department of Agriculture was a real task, the exhibits being so uniform that it was difficult to place the awards. Mr. Hallman, also of the Dept. of Agriculture, conducted the judging competitions and demonstrations in cleaning and preparing grain for exhibit. One very interesting feature of the demonstration was the grading and preparing of an exhibit by Mr Hallman; taking a sample of wheat, weighing 64 lbs. per bushel, it was graded and screened until the same sample showed a test weight of 69 lbs per bushel.

At 3 p.m., lectures were given by Mr. Kilduff and Mr Hallman and a brief address by Mr F. Scott, group leader of the Club. Mr. Scott also represented the Alberta Wheat Pool, who are sponsoring wheat club organizations. Mr. W. J. Elliott, principal of the school, occupied the chair.

Mr. Kilduff, who, by the way, is a former V.S.A. student, gave an interesting address on the value and objects of Junior Seed Clubs. Placing particular emphasis on the quality of seed grain produced rather than the quantity, he proceeded to explain how the Department of Agriculture conducts seed club operations over the province and the benefits club members derive from field days, demonstrations and judging fairs, as well as actual experiments in growing seed grain themselves.

Mr Hallman next addressed the meeting and gave an excellent demonstration on methods of cleaning and preparing grain for exhibition purposes and for seed.

Mr Scott spoke briefly on the interest the Alberta Wheat Pool is taking in Junior Seed Clubs and urged the Club members to make greater efforts next year so that their club will be placed in the Grade A class.

At the completion of the meeting sandwiches and prize money were presented by Mr Scott. A total of $20.00 was distributed among club members.

This concludes Junior Seed Club operations for this year. Early in the next year there will be a re-organization meeting. Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Club should watch for the date of this meeting

THE WHEAT SURPLUS

The world's "carry-over" of wheat more 1926 has been about 1,100 million bushels each year instead of a normal of 625 million. Authorities estimate that by August 1st next the "carry-over" will be reduced to a figure between 725 and 825 million, or still show over 100 million bushels more than normal. A great shortage of coarse grains, however, is apparent throughout the world. Some expect that a substantial part of the world's wheat "carry-over" will be used to replace coarse grains. If this should occur no doubt, wheat prices will tend to rise—otherwise they may not do so due to low feeding values of Europe's bread-using people.

Bright Stories about Wine

THE WINE THAT INSPIRED OMAR

● Another curious thing, to prove again if proof were necessary the hoary antiquity of wine, is that among the earliest references to it, when men first scrawled their ideographs on their mud walls, grapes and wine won reputation. One of the first countries to become celebrated for its wine was Persia, and it is altogether in keeping that the great troubadour of the vine, Omar Khayyam, should have been a Persian tent-maker. When Alexander invaded that country, he called the ruler of the wine "the blood of the earth."

● How soon after a district had won renown for its wines the practice of adulteration began we do not know, but a great period of time had not elapsed before contemporary writers were bewailing the good old days before the art of faking wines had been established. The Greeks were said to have been adepts in this shady business.

● But perhaps it was no different with wines than with other things. Fine writing which have come down to us ante-date the lamentations that the age had fallen upon evil days and the good old customs departed forever. As a matter of fact it was not so, and there is far better wine to-day than ever before.

● Perhaps the first wine that gained more than local fame was the Falernian, which we encounter again and again in the classics. It was produced from grapes grown on a hillside in Campania, famous for the fertility of . . . . . may remark incidentally that nothing is commoner than for noble wines to be produced from vines flourishing in soil that is generally inhospitable for less worthy fruits. But Campania in those days was as renowned for the richness of its yields as is the Niagara district to-day.

● For Falernian itself is described as being "dark, rough and strong" when young, but, after having been aged for fifteen years, soft and mellow. Even in Pliny's day, there were connoisseurs who had the patience to let their wines mature and thought fifteen years spent in waiting not time wasted.

● But those who could not wait and yet desired Falernian found that by mixing with it the milder Chian, the harshness of its immaturity was disguised, and they had a drink with the peculiar Falernian flavor. Pliny, to his duty, declared that there were eighty good wines, of which fifty-four were produced in Italy. To-day, there are not half-a-dozen Italian wines that have any celebrity that extends beyond their own shores.

HOCKEY CHATTER

With outdoor skating in full swing sport talk has definitely swung around to hockey.

No member of the senior team will play Civic hockey this season, but the Civic League will function more energetically than ever. It is expected that a Civic League meeting will be called shortly to organize for the winter

The College have some fine hockey material and also an experienced referee in their midst, which listens fine. The League surely missed the V.S.A. boys last winter.

What would be worse with the hockey boys from the district to the north getting a franchise in the Civic League? They played good hockey games here several times last winter. After New Year's the Wednesday half holiday begins and some of the games could be played in the afternoons.

Our seniors will be all decked out in new and distinctive uniforms this winter outfits that will be worn only for senior games and practises

The Better Way

A news item containing only a few lines appeared recently in one of Western Canada's daily papers. It was not featured in big type nor with display headings as are murders, accidents, strikes or meeting of protest over relief questions. But it nevertheless recorded a record of real importance to the community, to the province and to which might well be accepted and acted upon by other communities all over the country.

In order to provide a measure of relief assistance to people in need of it, the local authorities had found that instead of skimping with a policy of giving direct relief in the form of groceries, coal and clothing, a fund could be raised whereby would provide a measure of work in the form of municipal improvements, and thereby create employment and a wage which would enable the workers to purchase their own necessities and to benefit their families.

One hundred miles of rural telephone lines badly in need of repair were reconstructed the old poles cut off and re-set, cedar rural systems were extended to serve the 20 new applicants for telephone service, and the lines on the seven systems between 50 and 80 residents of the community were each given fifteen days work at the prevailing cash outlay for local materials was $4.25.

Several highly important things were thus accomplished. First and foremost these men, instead of being placed deeper in debt, as they would have been if merely handed out relief, were given remunerative work which enabled them to discharge some of their past indebtedness. Secondly the rural telephone systems which serve their area as a community were re-established for the benefit of the people there and these systems likewise were again put in a position to function in the long distance Government system. Thirdly and last but not least $4.25 went to the people in the district, to whom it badly needed and no additional capital debt was added to the rural telephone companies while the revenue from the service thereby made for efficient and economical operation.

It is all logical to do a job in this way, and in work provided in past debts or two would be created and improved telephone service for the community and for the Government long distance system. It was worthwhile constructive work without the imposition of any additional burden of debt.

Attention is called to this item in the hope that it may be read and noted by readers of this column and in particular to those who spring some part of their energies in their particular community, that they take a look at and think out better and see if there is not some kind of useful community work that could be done which would be of benefit and which could be carried out by the unemployed themselves and their credit and to the benefit of the community as a whole.

There are other rural telephone lines in Western Canada badly in need of repair and re-set, and in all of these there is room for that it all for improvement. There are also many things that require attention and repairs. There are other things large and small, that have been neglected because of lack of funds. Why not make a survey of the community and then organize the people to attend to all such matters giving those in need of assistance an opportunity to work off their arrears of taxes or earn a few dollars instead of relying a help upon the distribution of direct relief.

By the one method municipalities are placed in a stronger position financially because their tax arrearages are reduced, by the other both municipalities and its residents are placed deeper in debt. Furthermore, by the one method the community as a whole is bettered and improved and its services and institutions efficiently maintained, and the morale of its people strengthened by the other neither the municipality nor its residents have anything to show for their added liabilities but the fact that they maintained their existence leaving to the future the ultimate discharge of those liabilities.

What one community has done for its own advancement and the welfare of its people, many other communities can do, if they will. It requires thought study planning and organization and a will to work. Meeting the absolute necessities of people through the medium of direct relief is the doubt, an easier way, for the time being. But sooner or later the burden must be carried, and past off, and the longer the grappling with it is deferred the larger heavier, and more difficult the burden becomes. Why not tackle it now in a forward looking constructive way?

One method, it may be said in conclusion inspires new hope and confidence, with one good example encouraging another, whereas the other method leads to deeper discouragement and a further loss of that self-reliance and determination to provide self-help which is essential to the maintenance and further progress of any people or of all communities.

Ed Dismayes Microphone

An electric eel making its first radio appearance knocked the microphone out of commission with its powerful shock. The radio staff in the room of a broadcast from the St Louis zoo sought to demonstrate the peculiar weapon of the eel that emits electricity. One animal hunter caught his fingers in the apparatus and jerked hands with a record who touched the microphone. The eel turned loose its voltage and the microphone went dead.

Sir Philip Sassoon Says Flying Time Must Be Speeded Up

Flying times on the long-distance Empire air routes must be greatly reduced, declared Sir Philip Sassoon, British undersecretary for air, on his return from a tour as far as Singapore, longest air tour ever undertaken by a government official.

The air ministry, the post office and Imperial Airways had reached the conclusion mails would be speeded up, said Sir Philip. Measures particularly must be taken for delivery of the mail service to be added to all addresses of night flying. Sir Philip, an amateur enthusiast, said he had often landed at night-time and he considered commercial night-flying was a practical proposition.

Hearing Below Normal

Many People Are Slightly Deaf Without Realizing It

According to Dr. G. P. Crowden, well-known aurist, many people are more or less deaf without realizing it. They imagine they can hear as well as other people.

There are 2,500,000 people in Great Britain whose hearing is below normal, and about 40,000 who are totally deaf. Twenty years ago millions of army recruits for "middle-ear disease," were 41 per 1,000. Now the ratio is 84 per 1,000. Dr. Crowden some conditions head the list of causes of discharge within six months of enlistment. It is a fact, however, that every man, woman and child of these two and a half millions is seriously handicapped in everyday life, employment or education by inability to hear perfectly.

HANDWRITING REVEALS SECRETS OF CHARACTER

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Graphe-Analyst)

(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: A great deal of comment has been aroused by these articles on character from Mr. Hibbert-ing. Hundreds of readers write in and ask for a personal analysis of their own writing, and the author will analyze yours. See the announcement at the foot of this article.)

* * *

To the hundreds of readers who have written to express their appreciation for personal character analyses and to comment on the often uncanny accuracy of the deductions, I would like to take this opportunity of thanking them.

And, at the same time, to add a word of advice. The utmost value from a character analysis is only obtained by those who act on the advice suggested in their analysis.

It is one thing to learn of your weak points and to be shown wherein lie your structural characteristics.

But it is quite another thing to act on them! And that is where the real personal value of Graphe-Analysis comes in.

I have a letter this week from a young lady who, for personal reasons, does not wish me to send her my home. I am sorry, but there is no reply in this column. And, because the subject is one that will interest a great many readers, I am very glad to do so.

Miss J., Winnipeg, writes: I am very much in love with a man who is married. My parents know that I go about with this man, and are very much upset. They say all sorts of nasty remarks to me. I am causing a great deal of trouble in my home. I am young people, and this is the first really serious love affair that I have had, but it means everything to me. The man I love says that he is not living with his wife and talks about getting a divorce. But, he says, that is impossible at the present time. I do not want to give him up, but I would like your advice, as I may not be able to do the right thing.

Dear Miss J.—You send me your own writing, and that of the man with whom you are in love, but you do not send me any from his wife. And, after all, she is very important in this triangle.

Firstly, I will deal with the man. His writing shows that he is a very competent, keen minded person, with a great deal of enthusiasm, and a rather dominant will of the kind that does not like resistance to his own opinions.

He is very strongly emotional, and is of what I will call, a "physical" type of man. There is lots of colour in his make-up, and a great deal for the good things of life. But there is very little permanency about him.

Your own writing shows a very ardent and was-natured nature. You do things on the impulse of the moment, and are very responsive to emotional appeals. You crave affection, and would not be happy for long without it.

You are generous and sympathetic, and a very glad to help others in need.

Give him up, and you will not long lament the passing. For this, your first "serious affair." His feeling for you is not love, but merely the fact of the fatuation of a man much older than yourself for a young, and probably pretty, girl.

Do not spoil your life because of a temporary emotional urge.

Do you want your character analysed? The author will tell you what you are really like from the way you write. Send specimens of the writing you want analysed, and enclose 10c coin for each specimen. Send with 3c stamped addressed envelope to: Lawrence Hibbert, c-o Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 1870 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters are treated confidential and will be answered as soon as possible, but please allow about two weeks for your reply.

ARMS MOTION IS DEFEATED IN BRITISH COMMONS

London.—A Labor motion for the abolition of private manufacture and trade in armaments was defeated in the House of Commons. The vote was 279 to 68.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, made it clear the British government will not permit an inquiry after the fashion of the recent United States senate committee's investigation into armaments.

Liberal speakers urged such an inquiry, but Sir John said methods used in the United States "would not commend themselves to British practice." Labor members apparently abandoned demands made several weeks ago for the inquiry.

The debate centred around the Labor resolution demanding abolition of the private manufacture and trade in armaments, and a prevision for state production of such armaments "as considered necessary."

The high point of the debate was reached when Sir John rapped the United States system which allowed the king's name to be linked to the arms traffic "as though in evidence."

He was cheered as he mentioned a telegram produced in the United States hearing "which was read as though it were evidence asserting no less a person than the King of England had sent for the Polish ambassador and impressed upon him the importance of purchasing, whatever he wanted from a British firm.

"Of course that is perfectly and entirely ridiculous," Sir John said. "All of us, to whatever party we belong, know His Majesty to be perfectly incapable of having any connection with this sort of thing."

Sir John said the government believed the remedy "lay in an international treaty negotiated at Geneva, and signed and observed by all states for strict regulation and control, rather than a state monopoly."

Central Bank

Canadian Bankers Will Co-operate With New Plan

Montreal.—A branch establishment of a central bank in Canada was destined to make a sharp break in the evolution of the Canadian banking system, there need be no fear Canadian bankers would not co-operate with the Bank of Canada, Jacob Dodds, Montreal, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, told the annual general meeting of that organization here.

Since the Great War, Mr. Dodds stated, it had become the fashion to establish central banks and Canadians had been led into thinking a central bank would be a chief factor in bringing a return to desired prosperity. "This advocacy of the central bank idea," he declared, "resulted in the Canadian public forgetting the record of Canadian banks in the past four or five years when they withstood the shock of depression with such firmness, as contrasted with the unprecedented upset in banking service and stability experienced in the United States with its federal reserve banking system functioning under central bank principles."

Farmers Battle Police

Fourteen Pickeiers Are In Jail As Result Of Skirmish

Mundare, Alta. — Fourteen men were in jail, one man suffering from a deep gash over an eye, and several others nursing bruises caused by police clubs in the hands of R.C.M.P. officers in a battle to round up grain strike pickeiers here. The men are held without bail.

The battle started when John Lonsash, anti-striker, stopped here with a wagon lot of wheat and got the aid of R.C.M.P. Constable Pearlson. Constable Pearlson drove with him toward an elevator and 20 pickeiers advanced, upset the wagon and caused Pearlson to land on his head.

Reinforcements from the Vegreville detachment of the R.C.M.P. under Inspector Scott raided the pickeiers, and with clubs and drawn pistols waded in when the men refused to submit.

Steve Hawko received a gash over the left eye in the battle and several pickeiers were clubbed over the back. Finally, 14 were herded together and marched to the town cell. Only one R.C.M.P. man was hit by a pickeiter, it was announced.

Nine of the pickeiters were taken to the Fort Saskatchewan provincial jail, and a camera held by one of the pickeiters which recorded phases of the battle was confiscated.

The grain strike is based on protests of certain groups of farmers who have rebelled against what they call low grading and certain dockages. Mundare is a settlement of Central Europeans and is about 90 miles east of Edmonton.

Co-operation Is Promised

Federal Government Willing To Help Tourist Industry States Premier

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett gave the tourist industry of Canada a pledge it would be afforded the full co-operation of the federal government but at the same time he added a note of warning it was up to the industry to protect the good name of Canada by seeing the tourist received the fairest possible treatment, from the standpoint of courtesy, truthful representation and honest price charges.

The prime minister addressed the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Burreaux and other tourist publicity experts representing the transportation companies, municipalities and private organizations and members of the senate and house of commons, at a dinner which concluded the nation-wide tourist conference called by the Canadian Travel Bureau.

A general statement covering the four months period from July to October shows that imports decreased this year by 30,886 quintals, whereas those of maize increased 45,-085 quintals.

Want Grain Grading Probe

Investigation By Board Of Grain Commissioners Asked By Alberta Liberals

Edmonton. — An investigation by the board of grain commissioners into grain grading, holding of an immediate Alberta general election, and powers for the debt adjustment board of this province to reduce principal and interest were some of the demands made in resolutions passed by the central Alberta Liberal economic conference in sessions here.

"Certain manipulation" at the end of terminals was charged by delegates who urged the grain grading inquiry. They also commented upon what they described as a five-cent spread between track and street prices. It was also claimed that grain similar to what had been graded as No. 2 last year had been graded No. 4 this year in one instance.

BRITAIN PLANS TO PROVIDE MORE WORK FOR IDLE

London.—The "permanent" and unavoidable surplus of unemployed in Scotland would not be more than 69,000, and in South Wales 39,000, declares the reports of special commissioners who have concluded an investigation for the government of the more seriously depressed areas.

The reports published in Scotland, Durham and the Tyneside, Cumberland, South Wales and Monmouthshire. They recommend improvement of existing industries of those areas; introduction of new industries; transfer of surplus unemployed to other parts; training of juveniles and schemes of land settlement and afforestation.

The strategic advantages from the defence point of view of the West Cumberland and Cardiff areas are cited in connection with proposals for the establishment of government factories there.

Relief schemes generally are discussed critically, but the reports suggest the government be prepared to hand out subsidies every year by 50,000 quintals, whereas those of maize increased 45,-085 quintals.

Investigation Of Grain Exchange Is Asked By Liberals

Regina.—Charges of tar sand discovered in boring operations in Hudson Bay Junction vicinity have been denied by company officials here.

Companies in joint drilling operations there are the Trail Blazer Company and the Senator Oil and Gas Company, of Ottawa. The tar sand was struck at 590 feet and the drill continued another 20 feet still in the tar sand.

Operations were forced to stop owing to the tar sands backing up in the drill tubing. As a result work has ceased until further casings can be obtained. The drill before it hit the tar sands went through from the surface, 40 feet of limestone under the top soil, 80 feet of gypsum streaked with lime, a small sand strata and then the tar sands.

The geology of the under-surface is reported to be favorable for the discovery of oil, according to Mr. Grout. Samples have been brought to Regina and they show a high quality product, but so far any analysis is unofficial. Just as soon as further castings arrive drilling operations will continue.

Interest Aroused In Elections At Vancouver To Be Held In December

Vancouver — Two of British Columbia's most colorful political personalities, an ageing veteran of civic administration and a more youthful campaigner whose plans for national monetary reform created Dominion-wide interest last spring, will seek the Vancouver mayoralty in the elections of December 12.

G. G. McGeer, K.C., Liberal member of the British Columbia legislature for Vancouver-Burrard, added another item to an ambitious political program when he announced he would oppose Mayor L. D. Taylor's quest for re-election. Mr. McGeer had previously stated he would seek the Liberal nomination in the federal constituency of Vancouver-Burrard for the next elections.

Before "Gerry" McGeer's announcement, Mayor Taylor was the only candidate definitely in the race for the next two-year term of office at the head of the city council

Little Journeys In Science

BACTERIA

(By Gordon H. Grant, M.A.)

When the microscope was invented a new field of science known as bacteriology, was opened up. Bacteria is the name given to a large group of plant organisms of minute size. Some of these have a rod-like appearance, some are spherical, and some look like trailing bits of filament. The rod-like type are called bacilli, and it requires twenty-five thousand of them placed end to end to occupy one inch of space.

Bacteria reproduce by the division of their bodies, one rod or sphere changing with great rapidity into two. The bacilli which bring about the fermentation of hay, double their length and divides every half hour.

Many kinds of bacteria are killed by light while others cannot withstand great extremes of heat and cold. A few varieties however, exist in a dormant state at 222 degrees below zero. A temperature of 27 degrees above zero destroys most bacteria, but some are known to live in hot springs where the temperature is 166 degrees.

Because they are plants, bacteria have no stomachs, and so they cannot digest undigested food. They therefore go into their food. When they have penetrated into the material which they are going to use for food, they give off chemicals which change the material into a form in which it can be absorbed. Thus bacteria bring about the decomposition of dead plants and animals. Slowly poured into the bacteria bring about complete decomposition of the dead matter into many compounds, including such important substances as carbon-dioxide and ammonia. If it were not for this process of destruction all living things on the earth would soon perish, because the chemical elements upon which life depends would be locked up in dead plants and animals. Thus the chemical elements necessary to life are always travelling in a circle. Everything come from the earth, returns to the earth and is used over and over again. If the circle is ever broken all life would stop. Bacteria play an important part in keeping this vital circle unbroken.

Vicks Va-tro-nol, For Preventing Colds, Meets With Wonderful Success

Windsor Ont.—An intensive newspaper advertising campaign introducing Vicks Va-tro-nol, the new aid in preventing colds, has just started in Windsor and Canada. Introduced in Ontario last year, and in the United States only two years before, Va-tro-nol immediately became immensely popular.

Newspapers were selected as the principal medium for the introduction of Va-tro-nol because of the excellent results they have produced for Vicks VapoRub, according to the announcement.

For many years VapoRub has been the world's most extensively used cold remedy.—Its family standby for treating colds in 60 countries. Vicks Nasal Inhaler

Bright Stories about Wine

SOME OTHER EXPERIMENTS "NOBLE IN PURPOSE"

● There were in those far-off days some heroic experimenters. The Greeks were denounced for adulterating wines, but to our modern tastes the unscrupulous Greeks would seem to have been innocent compared with the voluptuous Romans who sought by some startling means to get an additional kick out of their libations. It was not to be deserved, but rather to stimulate the palate, that they used to add to their wines such strong ingredients as asafoetida, tar, pitch, bitumen, aloes, chalk, wormwood, pepper, sprkenard, cypress, myrrh and poppies

● Maybe some of these experiments were made toward the end of the feast and are comparable with modern and regrettable habits of pouring wine into the pockets of the unsuspecting guests. Boiled sea water was also supposed to improve the flavor of wine, and, if it did, our opinion of ancient wine is not enhanced

● The ancients had another trick that is familiar enough. They let their wines freeze in winter and then drew their drinks from beneath the ice Naturally they got a much greater percentage of unfreezable alcohol. •They did not quite get the idea, for they sought to duplicate the winter thrills by packing their wine in snow and ice

● One of the oldest customs connected with wine drinking seems to have been established by the Romans, or, if not invented by them, at least by them raised to the level of a rite. We speak of toast-drinking. It was inevitable, we suppose, in the atmosphere of conviviality which is promoted by the drinking of wine that all the merry companions should wish long life and happiness to each other

● This end might have been reached attained if they had all raised a single glass and drunk to each other. But the Romans had other ideas. They were not in favor of any kind of brevity, where the vital matters of feasting and drinking were concerned So they devised the custom, when drinking a toast, to take one drink for every letter in the name of the person they desired to honor

● One can imagine that, in those days, our old friend Virgil was given his full role, and that, as Publius Virgilius Maro, he was the backbone of many a banquet. In justice to the Romans, we ought to say that they used very small glasses for toasting purposes

(From the Neighborhood of the Standard)

Our travelogue reports Mr. and Mrs. Friedland at last successfully recovering the Onion Lake trip, accompanied by Mr. C. Foster and daughter, Vera, and Mr. Alf Lewis. Upon their return Mr. Lewis started once more for the Coast, his leave of absence drawing to a close (Ah, yes' And Bill and Doug pulled home a day or so behind schedule, having had some car trouble. The farmers, Messrs Isley, Sweeney and Wolters, are also once more within the fold for a short time, the last two intending to return to homesteading duties later, in the West country.

We would like to express our thanks to Mr. Wiebe for the annual remembrance he has chosen to give out. This colorful and sparkling piece of art is almost too well admired for our peace of mind. We're just afraid we'll yield to someone's cunning ppt — but we guess not until we're sure of another. And we would like to remind some of the other business men how well we like calendars, and how much we need a last one good big one'

Such a buzzing took place last Wednesday, and no wonder' Two quilting bees in adjoining districts—one at Mrs. Friedland's in Woodvale to finish the Union U.F.W.A. quilt, and one at Mrs. Marbell's in Canton to tie the United Farm quilt. Get your tickets!

The Tolland U.F.W.A. are holding a dance, bazaar and quilt raffle on November 23rd at Canton school

A little bit of good ice promises to turn those Grizzly Bears into a group of weiner fiends on Saturday after noon, November 24th, when they'll send to hold a meadenbirdy drive that ing party with a weinie roast. So, boys, have a pair of shaves and hunt those Grizzlies!

More yet' Those same Bear Cubs turn bookworms too, and establish a circulating library, the books purchased to be raffled among the members later.

Mr and Mrs. Clive Roberts of the Union district were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs Doyle, Sr., a week ago Sunday We award Mr. Roberts the Pie Plate for those stories of his which are far better than any tonic.

The speedster also missed the road along our place and tried to light rope walk th s steep gen small thanks from the Boss who had a full week anyway, and went neatly distracted trying to protect grain and feed with eight reds of mare rope torn down. Keep on the lookout now for a well aerated car'

The U F A. and U F W A. whist drive party on Saturday evening, Nov. 24th at the home of Mr. Fried land, to continue every two weeks alternating at Cox's and Friedland's

Mr Ernie Green's straw yard and granary, Notes had a close call last week when a stray spark started a merry little blaze in the grain room. It was discovered by Kay and Florent vas Wageningen, who with the help of Mr. Harry Preston, put it out with other words, put out that match or else

The Neighborhood now contains a real bee rancher, Mr. Funnell, who is handling 70-odd squealing porkers this winter.

We try faithfully, but our head only whirls when we endeavor to keep track of those Nighthawks. They swooped down on the home of Mrs. Blake to discuss bridge organization for the winter, but came to no decision. Maybe they fear only ladies will be bridge that night. Next evening they were found earnestly cornering Lady Luck at Friedland's, where the hostess forgot cards for a little while and gave the Hawks a side-strke At ter a few days' interval they hooked us put the baby to sleep and settled down to show us how it is done

Mrs. Blake has again invited those interested to meet at her home on Wednesday (21st) to see what can be done towards a regular bridge group But what a task to tame those night hawks'

Mr Jud Robinson held a house moving bee last Friday, to get his home firmly established on its new foundation for the winter

A meeting of the Council was held in the Municipal office on Saturday, 17th inst. All the councillors were present and Reeve McClellan occupied the chair.

Mr. W. J. Moore waited on the Council relative to a steer impounded by him. He is to receive the difference between the pound fees and the proceeds of the sale.

A suggestion was made that as the N½ 13-52-5 was for sale at a low figure and as this property contains 80 acres fronting on Campbell Lake, it would make a very desirable public park. No action was taken by the Council but possibly at some future time the idea could be considered

ACCIDENTAL DEATH IS VERDICT OF JURY

Following the second sitting of the Coroner's jury investigating the death of the 13-year old Manville boy, Marvin Chalmus, the verdict reached was accidental death. There were traces of strychnine in the stomach and this was traced to the tinfoil wrapper of a chocolate bar which the farm lad had eaten.

The boy had been doing an inner tube in the house and had taken it out to the garage, there he had found a chocolate bar in the car and had eaten it. Soon after he became ill and was rushed to the Vermilion hospital. He died early next morning

TURKEY HILL TID-BITS

Owing to the lack of news and the very busy fall season, we have been unable to send in any Tid Bits to be published, but here we are again folks, as lively as ever. A goodly number of the boys were through a light workout on the river Sunday, and from this distance it appears as if there will be another two candidates for senior team positions

The hamps will be choked off 2 ice in the arena on Friday night Sunday if the present weather holds. Looks as if the Seniors will have an easy time of it.

The Civic League annual meeting for the election of officers will be held any evening now so watch for the date Some of the actual cast will probably want to play Little Jackie, too.

The College Girls are getting through some pre-season training and it would not surprise anyone if they equal their performance of 1928

Stan Waldenberger will line up with the Drumheller Miners this winter. He is there and is staying with that well known ex-Vermilionite — Mr and Mrs C D Brown

Another star happened to be training in at Chicago last Sunday probably heard the hockey game broadcast when the Maple Leafs romped on home boys. The half-holiday by-law, passed by the town council earlier this year, to the effect that all business places shall close on Wednesday afternoons from Jan. 1st to August 31st, is not only popular here but is likely to prove so in centres all over Alberta. Applications for the same enactments are noted in many weekly exchanges and Red Deer, a progressive city, is the latest to be added to growing list of places where movements for the half-holiday for early months is being mooted.

The by-law here was petitioned for by all the leading business men of the town and is a distinctly forward move in our social system. It would not be surprising if the provincial government regulated this weekly half-holiday before many sessions roll by.

School Girl Is Injured by Truck

Peculiar Accident Today

Evelyn Robarts, fourteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robarts, was knocked down and rendered unconscious this morning. Yesterday, when she practically walked into the side of a moving truck. The accident occurred when Evelyn was on her way to high school. The truck, W. S. Parker's, was coming out of the Superior Lumber Yard and was crossing the road.

Evelyn was accompanied by Andrew Murray, and the accident was also witnessed by several other high school girls immediately behind them. The injured girl was walking along the sidewalk reading a letter that she had just received from the post office. Apparently she did not take much notice of the truck and got no clue to it that the rear end struck her as the vehicle turned up the street. The force of the blow was on her head and shoulder in spite of the effort made by her companion to pull her back.

She was taken to the hospital where her injuries appeared and claim ed that she would be able to visit this afternoon. However, she was being retained in the hospital for the day as the blow on her head was a severe one

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The practices for the High school play are going on and it will be put on soon. This presentation is to be different from the previous High school plays that have been enacted in other years.

Several students have been away from school either from sickness or illness.

The students enjoyed hearing Major Acton from Alaska speak Monday after school for a short while. He also had many interesting Indian and Eskimo relics to show the students.

We noticed several new students in Grade IX this week.

Funniest thing heard this week — Robert Churchill says there were 20,000 people married in Canada last year; fifty per cent of them were women.

Herman feels that he is making satisfactory progress towards complete recovery; he is now in the Pavilion and there are some out for all his friends to the main dining room, which is about a block away. He also says that George Currie left for home the previous Saturday with his dad and is now in fine shape; Rev. Mr. Aldridge, an old timer of Vermilion, is a frequent visitor to the San; Herman says that he passes his Standard on to Miss Winnie King of Chauvinoud and that every Saturday finds him down waiting for the mail boy to come with his Standard always hoping that he surely appreciate it. His multitude of friends here hope to see Herman and family back in Vermilion next spring.

Unique History Of The Pastime Club

Donates Large Contribution to Charity

The annual dinner of the Vermilion Pastime Club took place at the Buston Cafe on Monday evening of this week, the members afterwards adjourning to the Brimacombe block for the election of officers and the transaction of general business. This club must be one of the oldest social clubs in Alberta. Last year it celebrated its 21st anniversary, having been instituted in 1912. For years it occupied rooms in the old McKee block, in the fire of 1918 this building was destroyed and the club lost all its furniture and some of its records. During the recruiting period of war the club was the centre of much military activity. A great many of its members enlisted for overseas service. Between twelve and have not come back and several of those who did return have gone to reside in other parts of Canada and in the United States. Under the charter of the club no new members can be taken in. The membership now is reduced to ten, of whom six attended at the sumptuous feast provided by the Buston. Practically all present are enrolled as charter members. The club is understood to be financing its way on the interest from its investments. It does largely in charity and Sunshine invariably gets a substantial contribution every year but most of its valuable work is done through the individual members of the club meets only once a year, holds a dinner, elects its officers and issues the work for the following twelve months to its executive. It is an ultra-exclusive organization, but its membership never exceeds twelve. Twelve years have passed on, and more particularly of those of its members that sleep in France. The annual dinner this year days devoted a great deal of time and talent to the production of concerts, plays, and as the forerunner of the present Vermilion amateur dramatic association. It was particularly active among home lines in the early days of the war until the drain on its membership continued so heavy that it was difficult to procure performers— most by all of whom had joined the colors. The history of the Club is unique.

J. W. G. Morrison, K.C., was elected president for the ensuing year, and A. McWilliams secretary.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Vermilion, Alberta,
November 20th, 1934

THE EDITOR,
The Standard.

Dear Sir,—It appears that during the past week or two some persons or persons have been active in spreading a rumor to the effect that some members of the present Council are desirous of disposing of the public utilities, as operated by the Town of Vermilion

Such a rumor can only have been started by uninformed persons, as there is no foundation in fact for such report. The matter has not, at any time during the year, been discussed in the regular sessions of the Council, or in private by those who are deeply interested in the matter of the disposing of the utilities

One of the local papers, in a recent issue, intimated that offers had been received from some Corporation or Corporations for the Town plant. Is such an offer has been received it has not been made known to the Council, nor has it been in any way considered.

There is a strong desire on the part of the undersigned to bring the Town owned utilities to a substantially paying basis and no desire whatever to see other Town of Vermilion retain such its utilities, which must be considered the property of every single ratepayer, and, as such, entitled to the most careful consideration by those for the time being in control of the operation.

Very truly yours,
E. C. HECKBERT
W. H. SCOTT
MELVIN HILL
E. DAVIES.
GEO. W. WRIGHT.

DEWBERRY BUDGET

MUCH BUILDING ACTIVITY

Well folks, it is some time since we appeared in the columns of the Standard. Since last writing the town seems to have a building boom on Leonard Tinsmans has just completed a nice new dwelling near the United Church. This is a credit to the owner, the town and the contractor, Dave Raisy of Greenlawn.

Vic Denalli has moved his large garage to town and has purchased the house formerly occupied by Mr. Doug Machine, and has moved this building on to a new site near the garage.

Frank Bowman has had an addition to his store which makes the building look very different. Business seems to be brisk and this little town is fortunate in being in the midst of a first-class farming district. Every day now farmers coming to town with loads of grain, and wagons and trucks are busy this fall.

The festive season has commenced and every Friday sees a dance in the hall. The dance in aid of the Christmas concert for the village school was a big success, financially and otherwise. Harewood school dance was the same, and next Friday, the 23rd of November, Dewberry rural school teachers will be in charge of the dance the proceeds to go to the school concert. Come along and have a good time. Good music, polished maple floor and the best of eats.

OLD TIMERS GATHER AT GREENLAWN

On Friday, 16th, many attended the Old Timers' annual feet supper in Greenlawn hall. After the supper, the night was spent in merriment. Sonnyvertisons and music chased dull care away. Mr. Frank Gray of Greenlawn was elected secretary-treasurer in place of Mr. Will Dunfield, who is leaving the district. Nels Tinsmans was re-elected to the office of president of the association. The financial statement showed funds in the bank and that the association was in very good financial standing.

FAREWELL TO MR. AND MRS. DUNFIELD

On Wednesday, 14th, Greenlawn hall was the scene of a merry party when assembled to give a farewell to their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Dunfield, who are leaving for Manitoba in a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Dunfield were each presented with a leather traveling bag, and the best wishes of everyone present for success and good health in their new home We are very sorry to lose such good citizens, but no one fails remarked "What in this case is a loss to Alberta, is a gain to Manitoba." There is no need here to elaborate on the good qualities of these two old timers. Old pioneers of this district. All who know Will and Mrs. Dunfield regret that their departure will be a loss socially and that these two will be missed in many other ways

Last week the School of Agriculture at Olds celebrated their twenty-first anniversary of the opening of the school. A very large feature was made of this and students returned to the school in very large numbers. The arrangements were undertaken by the Alumni Association of the school and were assisted very materially by the Hon. F. S. Grisdale and members of the Department of Agriculture.

The students gathered on Tuesday evening for the banquet which was prepared under the capable direction of Miss Keegan, the Matron. Three hundred and fifty guests and students collected in the dining room. At the conclusion of the banquet a number of speeches were given by former students of the school, Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, Ontario; Hon. F. S. Grisdale, Dr. Wallace and the three original principals, Dean Howes, W. J. Stephens and W. J. Elliott The speeches were mostly recollections of the past in connection with the Olds school

The next morning the Alumni Association had its regular meeting, when various projects were discussed and discussed, and in the afternoon the girls' section of the Alumni held their own meeting in the form of a programme of their own.

At the conclusion of the evening meeting the dance was held with the orchestra in the gym. and one in the dining room. It is estimated that about 700 attended the dance

All through the meetings a splendid spirit and enthusiasm was shown in connection with the school. The whole programme was very much enjoyed by all.

It will be of interest to many of our students to know that plans are being made for a holding of a "reunion of age" party for the Vermilion school which will mark the completion of the 21st year of the school

This gathering will likely take place next fall just after the students have arrived for the school term so that they may catch the enthusiasm of the Vermilion Alumni Association.

The Hon. Duncan Marshall who originated the systems of Agricultural schools in Alberta, may possibly be present and as the three original principals are still in Alberta it is hoped that they will be here as well.

Students of the V.S.A. will remember that on one or two occasions the school here at Vermilion has been closed for a time and it has always been rather difficult for the Alumni to bridge over these gaps. It is hoped therefore that a really enthusiastic "get together" of the old students will bring back the spirit in full force so that its members may continue without interruption.

The students of the V. S. A. are organizing their students' council and on Tuesday evening a mass meeting will be held at which the candidates for the various offices will make their addresses. The whole election will be carried out in regular form. The election will take place on Friday

V. S. A. has always stood for as much student government as possible and the candidates have been very carefully chosen.

H. S. Patrick returned from Calgary last week end after delivering the animals from the school here to the train which has proceeded to Toronto for the Royal Fair which is being held at that point

Kenneth Stansbrough has been under the weather for a few days and we are hoping for a speedy recovery

Students who have been delayed for one reason or other are still arriving and on Tuesday Jean Strilliwave from Marwayne came to for the Household Science course

LOCAL NEWS

Pat Hellyer took some Peter Quinn to Saville Lake, near St. Paul, on a fishing and hunting trip. Pat got himself a beauty of a moose.

A very successful bazaar and dance was held in the Orange hall on Monday of last week. The net proceeds being over $20. It is hoped to do something for No 12 at the drawing of the lots, everything has not yet been disposed of.

Lately enough has returned the very successful Clandonald sharp-pencil student to the grave of Vermilion shop. She says she has many pleasant recollections of her stay in Clandonald and hopes to be returning here shortly.

After considering the trade in the Landonville district recently we have come to the conclusion that of the two stores in Mr. and Mrs. Jones' grocery and Mrs. Cain's grocery here, Mrs. Cain's is the smaller. Consequently as a foreigner in matters everything, and the prices as low as possible, as cash products, to the public supply of the retailed group and for economic help. Whether the present economic system which Peter Meighal speaks of is right or not. What is your definition of a "gentleman." Readers of the column will realize the interest being offered as a gift only to look wise and say something immeasurably clever which would impress itself on Peter's memory. Failing in terms to define he would be able to quote us in his grandchildren. However the best we could do was to disagree with Wellington who gave his status on wealth, breeding, etc., and stated that to our way of thinking it was more a question of the condition in our personality upon another than of wealth and breeding, for instance those goodness who inhabitantly impress upon us by their very presence the fact that they possess qualities which endear them to their friends contact with them makes the world seem a little better place in which to live and that life is immeasurably worth while. Peter struck a happy note when he mentioned the fact that one man in the community who impressed him as being a gentleman was worthy of the title in every respect was Bill Crandell. Everyone present agreed immediately with Peter's selection. A man to be thought among times and bad was everyone's friend with a smile that was good to see. Bill Crandell was a splendid example to the community both in private life and public for Bill served his community for many years as councillor and reeve of the Ribstown M.D. Mr Pan-Bold has sold his farm home in Grosen here and is buying the district. We do not know at this time his intended place, but we do know that the district will be the poorer for his loss. Irrespective of what he may do or where he may settle, we wish him good luck and God speed, and trust that he thinks as well of this district as the people of the district think of him A Gentleman

HOCKEY PROSPECTS

Would it be too much to hope that this town of ours will have a hockey team this season? There is certainly an abundance of material on hand. Frank Mead, Wilbur Currie, Freddie, Grant Badgero, Geo. Stonehouse, and Pinnie Wright are all there and boys and Angus Wilmot a team could be selected to give a real game to almost any aggregation that could be found. Well, here's hoping. The rink is in shape to fund right now, and we believe that this will be done earlier this year than in past seasons. A league could be formed with teams from Dewberry Lavoie, Ethan and possibly Island Hill, and Clandonald could raise at least one team to take part in a schedule of games throughout the season. How about it, Stan?

CLANDONALD U.F.A. ORGANIZED

At a meeting held in Clandonald on Friday, Nov. 16th, 1934, with A. Skinner, member of the Board of Directors U.F.A., Mr Lee Given of Mirror, as director of the United Farmers' Political Association. Mr. Andrew Wood Riverton, Wheat Pool delegate for the district and Mr. Lee, U.F.A. local was organized with George White, President, Fed Williams, secretary treasurer; and a committee with Norman Sutherland, John Fisher and Arthur Rothery as officers.

In reply to a question asked by Arthur Rothery, Mr. Given pointed out that at no time was the U.F.A. a political organization. One may be a member of the U.F.A. and also a member of any political body. The Provincial Political Association is a subsidiary of the U.F.A. which was organized to take care of this very point.

It is the wish of the directors to organize the U.F.W.A. as the assistance of the ladies after various social gatherings which they hope to hold during the winter season, will be in valuable.

A social invitation is extended to all to attend the next meeting, which will take place in Clandonald on Monday next, Nov 26th at 8 p.m. Members of the organization and those not attached to a local may join the Clandonald local by sending their names to the secretary treasurer.

ISLAND HILL

Opening whist drive took place at the school Friday. Miss M. Hall, Miss M. Butler and Miss Y. Debord assisted the ladies' prizes and Messrs. H. P. Evans, G. Richardson and E. Acheson the gents.

Bon Mots of the Drive

Now playing cards were on view.

It may appear clever to some people to place an ace at the bottom of the pack before dealing, but is it sporty?

Who says the two ladies were so minutely examining the bachelor's quarters?

Bob was heard to say he never won a prize at these drives.

Keep up your heart, Bob; soon you will be able to say "I am first at last. I was always behind you before!"

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fraser, Pleasant Valley, will give you a hearty welcome at Morning school this Friday and entertain you to a whist drive and dance.

Members of the Island Hill Football Club hope to see you at the school on Friday 30th, when a wedding dance will be held in honor of their players, Pat Dynes, and his charming wife.

Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Birmingham, Mrs. G. Armstrong and Mrs. C. Mills were guests at a party given by Mrs. L. Playne Thursday.

George Ford has installed at his home an up-to-date radio.

Ned and Ian Acheson Jr. and Ed Parr Williams were recent visitors to the city.

Simon Maxwell, who is on a visit here for a few days, renewed old friendships with many.

A friend invited us to tea a few evenings ago. It was the first time we had been in his house. His wife presented us with a delightful tea and we had a rehearsal chat. Tea over, our host suggested a game of cards to change the position of the plane. It was not a one-man job, so we gallantly volunteered our assistance. Before the evening was finished we had not only changed the position of the piano but also chairs, cabinet, ornaments, etc., etc. It was a splendid change in form of entertainment, but we are still wondering whether our friend invited us as a friend or a furniture mover!

Deep sympathy is tendered Mrs. C. Brady, Campbell Lake, on the death of her sister, which and event took place recently at her home in Ireland.

It is not easy in this age of frames often to be entirely free from the literary poem in last week's Standard. Keep it up, old boy, and let us have more of your home.

But it is no joke about Giant Pine. He was a wonderful man 25 feet in height and built in proportion as well as a wonderful smoker. On the occasion a gentleman from salient little Wales, hearing of Pine's prowess, decided to visit him. All went well until the visitor began to explore the bowl of the 20-ft. pipe when he stepped and fell into it. The irritated the giant, so he reached in and caught the unfortunate man by the slack of the pants and held him up and shook him into the sea hundreds of miles away. As soon as the Welshman reached home a large piece of land came to the surface and formed an island.

And you can easily tell where that island is when we tell you that it's lone no tail. And this is a true tale.

WILDMERE WINKS

We regret to say we did not mention Mr Isley's sale last week. There was a large crowd with bidding fairly brisk. Everything sold at a decent figure.

Messrs A Rendell and G Freeman of Triangle attended the Legion Smoker at Vermilion on Monday, 12th.

The writer spent last Wednesday afternoon visiting Mrs Harold Connelly, near Vermilion.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Doyle and baby son of Benwood visited Thursday at the Wallgreen home.

A few Wildmere folks took in the Whist Drive and dance at Triangle Nov. 17th by the W. A. of St. Mary's Anglican church. A very beautiful quilt donated by the Junior W.A. and known by the name as "Gertrude" went to Mr. E. B Mosberry, and the luckiness went to Mr. C. Burr and Mr. Geo Jarkin. The ladies and the Junior wish to thank all those who so kindly donated so many good things, and are very grateful for all the wonderful support given.

behind on Friday evening. Martin Sotte, Tolland (who played as a lady) won the lady's first; Mrs. L. Wilson the consolation; Tonny Tondu of White Cloud man's first, and Arthur Beckman the consolation. During the supper hour Mrs. Allison, Mr. Babb, Mr. Martin and Mr. Myers entertained the crowd by songs which were greatly enjoyed by all. Messrs. Jensen, Jones and Myers supplied the dance music.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallington journeyed to Islington on Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fraser and family.

Tom Best arrived home Monday morning from Saskatchewan, where he visited his two brothers and reports conditions are as good at home as anywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Gullforie were also Edmonton visitors last Tuesday and Wednesday. They went with the truck loads of lambs.

Neighborhood Scribe, I think you got into the wrong paw when you said Mr. Allison belonged in Wildmere. We believe the credit is due over Tolland way.

Miss Ethel Doyle, Woodvale, spent a few days visiting in the Wildmere district last week.

Noticed Around the District:

Harry Howard hauling oats to town.

Harry Phillips and Otis Sharpe driving loads cattle from Mr. Astley's sale in town.

Trucks from Vermilion hauling oil well curbing, etc.

Remembrance Day -- Its Memories And Lessons

The world has commemorated another anniversary of the signing of the Armistice,- the sixteenth. Remembrance Day, as we have come most appropriately to call November 11, falling on a Sunday as it did this year was observed by hundreds of thousands of people in nations all over the world. From the pulpits of churches of all religious denominations Peace sermons were preached and the horribleness and brutality of war vividly depicted and unanimously condemned. Gathered at the graves of Unknown Warriors, assembled about cenotaphs and other monuments erected to the memory of the gallant dead, or meeting in solemn memorial services, men and women formed an almost unbroken circle around the world as they stood with bowed heads and in impressive silence as the hour of eleven o'clock struck.

It was Remembrance Day! People wore flaming red poppies symbolical of Flanders Fields and of the bright red blood of youth there shed. Reverently they laid wreaths of poppies in many hallowed spots. People heard the pipes and drums play 'The Lament", the bugles sound 'Last Post" and "Reveille" and then saw the fires sweetly flicker.

Pride and sorrow were interwoven and strangely mixed as the memories of those of the older generation were carried back to 1914-1918 and to the first Armistice Day ... to the years of the great war, and responded to the call of duty when that call came sorrow that so many had been called upon to make the supreme sacrifice or go through life maimed and handicapped to the end of their days. And mingling with pride and sorrow there was a righteous anger that such a barbarism as War should be permitted and sanctioned by peoples and nations styling themselves Christian and civilized.

But does Remembrance Day mean nothing more than this? Does it begin and end with the two minutes' silence at 11 o'clock? If it does, and we then lapse into forgetfulness for the remaining 364 days of the year until once again November 11 calls upon us to stand in silence and remember?

Surely those who are of the younger generation have the memories stirred now and then as they age not already begun to fade? Is not that almost the very thing we want and that War means which you felt so recently and strongly? If you reasonable demand for Peace, and that never again shall War stalk the land as it has stalked in this day-to-day as it was when you stood in a silence that could almost be felt just a few days ago? Alas, it must be so. Indeed it is well that in many people the human memories are short, else we could not bear the burdens which memory would bring. But it is vitally important to the future of mankind that we should never forget all the tragedy that Remembrance Day brings to mind. So far as the aweliness and wastefulness of War is concerned every day should be Remembrance Day.

Canada is a peace-loving country. If the decision could be left to the Canadian people there would never be another war waged anywhere on this world's surface. Nor upon its sea nor in air. Canada has always set the nations an example in disarmament, or rather by its refusal to engage in armaments. Our paltry permanent force and numerically small and wholly scattered militia is but a domestic police force maintained to guarantee law and order. Of offensive armaments Canada possesses none.

But as a nation of Peace Canada has a duty to the whole world. At Geneva the voice of Canada is always raised for Peace, in world conference Canada's vote is always cast for Peace But the responsibility in ours to make our voice for Peace strongest and still more emphatic in a world of nations apparently bent upon engaging in a race for war-like armaments unparalleled in all history.

Narrow nationalism with all its selfishness, its suspicions, its jealousies and its animosities is the basic, the underlying cause of war. The truth of this statement is emphasized over and over again by the well known international correspondent, Isaac F. Marcosson, in an article entitled "Dose Storage What Is Behind the Remarkable Rubber Revival" which he has written for the London Daily Telegraph. Mr. Marcosson declares that the nationalistic restrictions which have wrecked the World Economic Conference called to bring about tariff and currency readjustment, and because of that failure the whole world still staggers and suffers. Selfish nationalism has rendered every disarmament conference a failure. And because here and there upon such narrow national selfishness, the nations are heading straight into another war.

Canada is not free of the taint of selfish nationalism, but it has not the grip on the people of this new country that it has upon the older countries of Europe and Asia. Nevertheless, if Canada's voice for World Peace is to be as strong and emphatic as it ought to be, the Canadian people must not only place a curb upon the growth of any spirit of selfish nationalism but we must seek to eradicate it from our individual minds and hearts and from the policies of this Canadian Dominion.

Let us remember and keep fresh the memories and lessons of Remembrance Day, abhor War and all that tends towards War, and think and plan and live for Peace at home and in the world.

Dominion Drama Festival

British Playwright Pays Compliment To Canada

Canada is fortunate in having the Dominion drama festival established on such a firm basis, in the opinion of Noel Coward, "brilliant British playwright, composer and actor, who is paying his first visit to Canada.

The Drama festival, he believes, is a distinct contribution to the theatre in that it makes people "theatre-minded," and stirs up interest among the members of Little theatre groups in their friends and associates in an ever-widening circle

"It is most interesting," said Mr. Coward, in an interview at Ottawa, "I should like to attend a festival. If possible, I shall be here next spring."

Only 36 years old, Mr. Coward is one of the most successful living writers of the day. Since his debut he has had 24 or 25 plays produced. Now he is on the way to Milwaukee to attend a rehearsal of his latest play, "Point Valain," which will open in Boston Christmas night.

Then Try KRUSCHEN at NO EXPENSE

If you suffer from loss of appetite, bad taste, sour stomach or a miserable feeling after meals there's nothing like a Kruschen for you. The little daily dose of Kruschen first stimulates the flow of digestive juices, then tones up the system and ensures a complete, regular and unfailing movement. Take Kruschen regularly for a few days and see how much better you feel, how active and how full of the joy of living. And bringing with pride and success there was a righteous anger that such a barbarism as War should be permitted and sanctioned by peoples and nations styling themselves Christian and civilized.

But does Remembrance Day mean nothing more than this? Does it begin and end with the two minutes' silence at 11 o'clock? If it does, and we then lapse into forgetfulness for the remaining 364 days of the year until once again November 11 calls upon us to stand in silence and remember?

If you reasonable demand for Peace, and that never again shall War stalk the land as it has stalked in this day-to-day as it was when you stood in a silence that could almost be felt just a few days ago? Alas, it must be so. Indeed it is well that in many people the human memories are short, else we could not bear the burdens which memory would bring. But it is vitally important to the future of mankind that we should never forget all the tragedy that Remembrance Day brings to mind. So far as the aweliness and wastefulness of War is concerned every day should be Remembrance Day.

Canada is a peace-loving country. If the decision could be left to the Canadian people there would never be another war waged anywhere on this world's surface. Nor upon its sea nor in air. Canada has always set the nations an example in disarmament, or rather by its refusal to engage in armaments. Our paltry permanent force and numerically small and wholly scattered militia is but a domestic police force maintained to guarantee law and order. Of offensive armaments Canada possesses none.

But as a nation of Peace Canada has a duty to the whole world. At Geneva the voice of Canada is always raised for Peace, in world conference Canada's vote is always cast for Peace But the responsibility in ours to make our voice for Peace strongest and still more emphatic in a world of nations apparently bent upon engaging in a race for war-like armaments unparalleled in all history.

Narrow nationalism with all its selfishness, its suspicions, its jealousies and its animosities is the basic, the underlying cause of war. The truth of this statement is emphasized over and over again by the well known international correspondent, Isaac F. Marcosson, in an article entitled "Dose Storage What Is Behind the Remarkable Rubber Revival" which he has written for the London Daily Telegraph. Mr. Marcosson declares that the nationalistic restrictions which have wrecked the World Economic Conference called to bring about tariff and currency readjustment, and because of that failure the whole world still staggers and suffers. Selfish nationalism has rendered every disarmament conference a failure. And because here and there upon such narrow national selfishness, the nations are heading straight into another war.

Canada is not free of the taint of selfish nationalism, but it has not the grip on the people of this new country that it has upon the older countries of Europe and Asia. Nevertheless, if Canada's voice for World Peace is to be as strong and emphatic as it ought to be, the Canadian people must not only place a curb upon the growth of any spirit of selfish nationalism but we must seek to eradicate it from our individual minds and hearts and from the policies of this Canadian Dominion.

Let us remember and keep fresh the memories and lessons of Remembrance Day, abhor War and all that tends towards War, and think and plan and live for Peace at home and in the world.

Gas and Oil Company Has Been Formed Here

Vermilion Men Show Faith In Their Town — Derrick Being Erected

DRILLING TO START SOON

News of the most gripping interest to the people of Vermilion and district broke today with the release of a story by the Tenwell Gas and Oil Co. Ltd., with head office at Vermilion.

The story concerns the activities and aims of a number of local business men possessing unbounded faith in the future of Vermilion, with respect to gas and oil development. For weeks past the air has been charged with rumors concerning gas and oil activity in this vicinity. All that was definitely known, until now, concerning the project was that the town council had made certain agreements with Mr. C. S. McFarlane last September to the effect that in the event that he would put a drilling rig on the site of a proposed gas well, and produce proof that he was in a position to continue drilling operations within a stated, the Council would submit his proposition to the ratepayers for their approval and use their influence to secure acceptance.

Two weeks ago well drilling machinery commenced to arrive at the proposed site. This had a very stimulating effect and immediately people became enthusiastic and wanted to know what it was all about. It is only now that we are able to state that following lengthy negotiations a Company has been formed to develop the gas and oil possibilities of the Vermilion district. This company has been incorporated as "The Tenwell Gas and Oil Company Limited," the first board of directors being as follows:

Matthew A. Brimacombe Vermilion, President; J. Herbert Jardine, Marwayne, Vice-President; and R. O. Johnson, Islay, Victor Anderson, Mirborn, P. Oliver Seward, Kinsella, Wm. Tuovey, Vermilion, Fred Mardreel, Marwayne, Directors. James B. Adam, barrister, Vermilion, is the secretary-treasurer of the Company, and M. G. Brimacombe, Vermilion, auditor. The registered office of the Company will be at Vermilion.

The Company proposes to offer for public subscription, as soon as the details of the selling campaign have been arranged, (which will probably be within two weeks) a block of 20,000 shares of the capital stock of the company, of a par value of $1.00 each, payable in full at par value on subscription. There are no preference shares, and each share holder of the common stock will entitle the holder to one vote.

Negotiations are now proceeding, on behalf of the Company, with the Town Council of Vermilion for a contract for the supply of gas to the Town by the Company, subject to the approval of the Public Utilities Board. In the meantime the drilling equipment is being moved in and preparations made to commence actual drilling in the course of the next few weeks. The first well will be located on the farm of Mr. R. E. Brennan, about one mile west of Vermilion, to which location the greater part of the necessary equipment and material has already been delivered.

Mr. C. S. McFarlane, an independent oil driller of wide experience and acknowledged ability, has made during the past year and a half, a thorough study of the gas and oil possibilities of this district, and he confirms the opinion of other oil men that there is every indication of success for drilling operations here, especially with regard to gas. Mr. McFarlane has over ten tons of equipment on the ground and states that it is his intention to have 500 feet of hole drilled by December 15th.

R. Berry also an expert in his line, is in town now and is in charge in the constructing of the derrick, which will shortly be seen towering over the countryside just west of the town. Work on the derrick has already started and it is safe to say that the structure

QUICK SERVICE BY LOCAL INSURANCE AGENT

Mr. Andrew McWilliams' motor-car store was burglarized on Friday morning Nov. 16th; the loss was reported to H. Bentley, local agent for Perth Insurance Co., at 4.30 a.m. By 5 o'clock p.m. a cheque in full settlement of breakage and theft loss had been presented to Mr. McWilliams of Vermilion a first aid will be the means for hundreds of sightseers during the next few weeks.

The directors of the Company is made up of local men also are well and very favorably known. Mr. Matthew A. Brimacombe president of the Company was one of the first settlers to come to Vermilion in 1907 built a boat in Edmonton and brought it down the river to Vermilion. Prior to coming to Vermilion in 1907, and for many years after, he was engaged in the lumber business in Pine Point, then in eastern Alberta, now Lloydminster, and operated a sawmill near the present Dunvegh bridge where he operated.

Mr. Brimacombe opened the first store in Vermilion, was postmaster, storekeeper, etc., in Vermilion in 1907, and for many years the Town of Vermilion. During the interesting years he has been an unfailing booster for Vermilion which tends to the betterment of the community. It is stated he should head the organization which has undertaken this project. We think that it will mark the beginning of a period of great expansion and development.

A great deal of credit is due secretary-treasurer Mr. Jas. B. Adam one of our local barristers. He has undoubtedly about spent all time during the thousand and one details were completed, necessary to the successful such a company, speaks volumes for the confidence with which he is commanded by.

Within the past year or so quite a spurt in commercial activity has been drilled at Dunvegh, also miles north west of Vermilion, at Lloydminster, about 75 miles west. The Standard is indebted to executive of the Tenwell Gas & Oil Company, and others in this connection provided herein and trusts that the Standard was given opportunity to broadcast the news. Look out for daily papers!

(A further enlightening article will appear next week.)

"MUMMY" WHEAT

Sir Wallis Budge, former Egyptologist at the British Museum, has been kind enough to supply our Research Department with a small quantity of genuine ancient Dynastic Egyptian wheat. This was taken by Sir Wallis Budge himself from an Egyptian tomb at Gurneh, Egypt, in 1911. The tomb is considered by him to have been sealed up about 1900 B.C. It is almost three thousand years old!

Mr. Wallis Budge has also supplied to him to the Department of Botany, Farm Machinery Seed House, Limited, Warrington and Co., Limited, London, England.

Arrangements have been made by us for a portion of this wheat to be germinated under the most careful conditions by the laboratories of the Dominion Seed Branch, Winnipeg, and in due course the official results of the experiment will be published by us.

The balance of the ancient Dynastic Egyptian wheat obtained by us from Sir Wallis Budge will be mounted in a suitable glass case and will be placed on exhibition at the various seed fairs and at other points in the West. No doubt many western wheat growers will be interested in observing the actual spikelets and kernels of wheat harvested by the Ancient Egyptians of over 3,000 years ago. (Searle Grain Co. Ltd., Nov. 19th, 1934.)

LIVESTOCK MARKETING BOARD PERSONNEL NAMED

EDMONTON, Nov. 27 — Personnel of Alberta's first live stock marketing board under the Natural Products Marketing Act was announced Saturday afternoon by Hon. F. S. Grisdale, Minister of Agriculture.

The board, consisting of 15 members was named by the Minister at the request of representatives of the live stock industry in general meeting at Calgary, November 8, following the endorsing of a live stock marketing plan for the province.

The marketing plan has been submitted to the Federal Marketing Board at Ottawa, and when it is approved by this body, ratified by the Governor in Council, and finally endorsed by votes of Alberta live stock producers, it will be the responsibility of the board now named to determine, within the provisions of the scheme, the procedure to be followed in this province in the marketing of live stock, and to co-ordinate the marketing machinery.

Work of drafting the marketing scheme and submitting it to the live stock industry for approval was undertaken by a provisional live stock committee of 17 members. Several of these members have been renamed to the board by the minister. In making his announcement on Saturday, however, Mr. Grisdale stated that in naming the board it had been found necessary to go outside the personnel of the provisional committee in order that the various areas of the province and the many branches of the industry be as fully as possible represented.

It is understood that in the forwarding of the work until such time as an order in council is signed declaring the marketing scheme effective, the newly named board and the provisional committee will work in conjunction. At the expiration of the first year of operation of the Alberta marketing plan the provincial board will be elected by direct vote of the live stock producers.

The 15 members of the Alberta Live Stock Marketing Board, named by the Minister, are: R. P. Gilchrist, Wild Horse; George Ross, St. Kilda; W. C. McKenzie, Lethbridge; Stephen Lunn, Pincher Creek; George Millar Taber; Patton Thomson, High River Charles McKinnon, Balsemad; Howard P. Wright, Airdrie; H. L. Taggart, Olds; Fred McDonald, Milner; C. E. Abbott, Lacombe; T. R. Murray, Tofield; George R. Bull, Edmonton; H. B. Boutillier, Soda Lake, and Alex. Craig, Wembley.

EXTRA RAIN NEEDED FOR CROP IN 1935

Deficiency of Subsoil Moisture Expected, Says Report

WINNIPEG.—Need of almost ideal weather conditions next year for the west to harvest an average crop, was expressed in a report of the Searle Grain Company, Limited, here last Tuesday.

Precipitation during the period from August to October this year was the smallest since 1921 according to the company's records.

Average rainfall in Alberta was 70 per cent of normal, compared with 92 per cent last year; Saskatchewan 61 against 127 and Manitoba 89 against 111 last year.

NEWSPAPERS TO PAY INCREASE IN USE OF NEWSPRINT

MONTREAL.—Canadian newspapers will have to pay $2.50 a ton increase for the first six months of 1935 and $5.00 more for the last six months of year according to agreements made by the newsprint industry.

TURKEY HILL TID-BITS

It's still snowsie, so we are kept busy cleaning off our local skating rink. Its hockey now for outside sorts, as the boys are getting equipped with skates and sticks, etc. Watch your park next time, Jack.

The card party held at the school on Wednesday, Nov. 21 was greatly appreciated. In spite of the severe weather a nice crowd attended. Court whist is quite a game, isn't it, Barney? After supper we had a merry swing to the accompaniment of music supplied by local musicians—and that floor must have been extra slippery, for if we should ask a certain young lady we're sure she'd agree with us, after hitting it so hard! The prize winners for the card games were as follows: Ladies' 1st, Mrs. Y. Young; consolation, Miss Irene Groscop; Gents' 1st, Mr. Wilfred Logan; Consolation, Mr. A. Gobeen. We were sorry to note the absence of a few of the older residents, but maybe they will bear in mind that the date for another card party has been set for Wednesday, Dec. 5th. Everyone welcome.

Once more we journeyed to Wood vale and once more we enjoyed a good dance on Friday, Nov. 23. We plan returning, too, on Nov. 30th. We noted among us Mrs. Gordon, who is able to enjoy herself again after her recent illness.

Here goes for another good dance at Turkey Hill on Dec. 14th. McCaffery orchestra, so a real time is assured all who attend. Now, folks, don't forget the date!

Tremendous Development Gold Mining

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 27. — The tremendous development of the gold mining industry in Eastern Central Canada during the past few years has been largely serviced by the Canadian National Railways. Freight is unusually large volumes and passengers by the thousands have rolled over "the people's track" to the mining fields of Quebec, Red Lake, Patricia, Sturgeon Lake, Toshois, and more recently, Little Long Lac, Mattik, Beardmore and Steven River.

Over their lines, too, have gone part way freight and people for Porcupine-Kirkland, Matachewan, Manitouba, and Great Bear Lake. Supplies and equipment from points clear across the Dominion are concentrated at these centres to carry on the work at hand gods of mines and prospects.

It is difficult to accurately appraise the full measure of secondary benefits from this thriving basic industry that have reverberated right down the line carrying inspiration and dollar business into all the larger cities and thousands of smaller places.

The remarkable point is the number of mines that have come into being in areas haunted by Canadian National lines, first in the building of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario resulted in the discovery of silver at Cobalt, to be followed by the uncovering of rich gold deposits at Porcupine and Kirkland Lake, no other railway lines, that traverse the favorable rock formation of Pre-Cambrian age, will comprise the backbone for the growth of healthy and wealthy mining camps. The rapid way in which good prospects and producing mines have come about along the Port Arthur branch line of the Canadian National has been an outstanding example in recent years.

DEWBERRY BUDGET

Another business has come to town. W. J. Reeve has opened up a shoe repair shop, and seems to be doing well. So bring along your shoes and have your understanding refitted, also any harness that needs attention.

Extensive alterations have been made in the premises of J. S. MacKay, our enterprising hardware merchant, and a new line of furniture is now in stock. Dewberry may well be proud of her merchants, who give close attention to business, and supply all wants from A to Z.

On Sunday Smith's Lake was the scene of a merry skating party, where many of the young folks gathered to spend the afternoon. Occupants of cars coming over the hill could hear the ring of the steel as the boys and girls enjoyed a game of tag.

On Friday night (23rd) the teachers of Dewberry Rural school, assisted by many of the parents of the pupils, staged a dance in aid of the Christmas concert. It was one of the best nights the dancers have had for some time. At midnight a dainty lunch was served and dancing lasted until three a.m., everyone voting it a splendid entertainment.

We should mention that we now have a snappy little news sheet published in the town — a paper published every two weeks by the pupils of the village school. Although only a small four-page publication it is full of "meat" and contains some interesting items. It appears that there is a real staff—editor, advertising manager and several reporters, as well as the printer who does his "stuff" on a hectograph. Under the able supervision of Principal Malcolm Maclean, the pupils are to be congratulated on their efforts.

It should also be mentioned that the merchants are placing their ads in the paper. So when we all try to do a little, it will prove a success.

BOOST Vermilion Chautauqua and Ad Sunshine. Columbia Theatre, Vermilion, Dec. 3rd and 4th.

The annual Christmas Concert of the United church Sunday School will take place on Friday, Dec. 21st. Admission: Adults 25c, children from other schools, 10c.

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

(From the Neighborhood of the South-East)

Sunday afternoon presented scenes from fairyland as the setting sun threw into dazzling relief against a background of grey winter sky the delicate and myriad handiworks of Jack Frost. And finally, the contrast of this chilly display made all the cosier the warm comforts at home within. Ask you more?

Mr. C. Potter is once more comfortably ensconced at the Neighborhood Inn at time. Edmonton has apparently a grievance with our railroad man.

Reports from the Woodvale district indicate a fair crowd, having chosen bonnes with the Tolland gathering.

Miss Rose Walters was the prize winner of the Tolland I.F.W.A. quilt. A nice addition to the hope chest Rose!

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gourier on the birth of a daughter, November 21st.

All right Clandonald! we had just anticipated the pleasure of our first finally old Imlute to Ma West, the editor stepped up to the plate, bounced a few times, hoisted his pants, hooray! And we are proud to our paper. Just here, may we express our sincere thanks to the Standard for publishing the poem by Kimberley. It expressed our thoughts exactly and we only hope it leads a few of us one more step towards the precious and necessary Peace without which civilization cannot progress to better things.

We can heartily echo Vermilion's interest in the Blackhawks since one of the team, Paul Thompson, struggled through many a geometry and algebra lesson along with Navarre and Hughes, and our voice has often been completely lost cheering Paul's every plaits on rink and rugby field. Thrills! Life held them those days!

Beginner's luck seems to have counted at the I.F.W.A. card party Saturday evening, when the prize winners were Miss Irene Groscop and Master Allen Potter. Consolations went to Mrs. Bert Strelland and the gentleman helping Mr Bowman. The Local was pleased to welcome some of the First country card lovers. Come again.

The next dance to be held by the Glee Club is on New Year's Eve Celebration on Dec. 31st.

Three mistakes we often make: call to mind a famous preacher who was told that he had used poor grammar in his sermon one morning. "Well!" he said, "well all I have to say is, I tried help the grammar it is gets in my way when I'm preaching."

RACE IS IMPROVING DOCTOR DECLARES

Herewith Is A Good Answer to Boasts Beginning "Now In My Day—"

CLEVELAND.—Better diet to help citizens to make the North American people a better race, bringing faster growth, earlier mental maturity and probably longer life, Dr. H. C. Sherman, of Columbia University, said here Tuesday.

Improved scientific knowledge of how and what to eat, developed in the last 40 years, is now showing its benefits in the modern generation he stated in an interview, especially in well-educated, old native families.

It is well known that students entering Harvard and Vassar colleges today are considerably taller and younger than the freshmen of 10 years ago, said Dr. Sherman.

HOCKEY CHATTER

Twenty-four aspirants for positions on the senior hockey team were on hand Monday night the busiest turn out of hockey material we have had for years. Besides all of last year's players we had Kistler, Ken MacLevin and Pyke-all all high class goalies. Ken Robinson a nifty left winger or centre man, Fred Bittancourt who played with Camrose last year, Fog Banks who played a few games last season before leaving for Camrose, Burch and Jim White from Mannville, Bill and Frank Mead from Tolland, and various of some pace—all big boys to make the school team an A1 outfit. It was an impressive turn out.

Our players and parents here will be interested in being informed what Two Hills can do in hockey this season. Two Hills will be represented by a team in the Senior Basket ball league. These changes are about such was under the style Tonic.

By the way Vermilion Tigers' sweaters will be black with white trimmings not blue ones.

WINNIPEG CELEBRATES DIAMOND JUBILEE YEAR

1934 is Jubilee year for Winnipeg Manitoba, now almost 81 years old. On November 8, 1873, the little boom town and residential community which had grown up at the site of the old Hudson's Bay trading post at Fort Garry was granted incorporation as the City of Winnipeg. The City of Winnipeg had already been created capital of the newly-organized province of Manitoba. At that date the population was estimated at about 5000 souls. According to the latest Dominion census Winnipeg had in 1931 a population of 218,785, not including the adjacent city of St Boniface and surrounding suburbs outside the boundaries of the city proper.

Winnipeg owes its location to the fact that the early fur traders selected the point where the Assiniboine River flows into the Red as a strategic place for their trading operations. Later, when the Canadian Pacific Railway was built, it crossed the Red River at Winnipeg, and the city's future as a great trading centre serving the vast country stretching far north, a thousand miles to the Rocky Mountains was assured. It has become one of the greatest railway centres on the continent.

Winnipeg is about 60 miles north of the International Boundary. Although considered a northern city, it really is in a latitude south of the southernmost tip of the British Isles.

Rev. Mr. Lindsay Describes Life on Lonely Island In South Atlantic

Before a large gathering of Masons and friends in the lodge rooms Tuesday evening, the Rev. Mr. Lindsay of Manyville gave a most interesting lecture on his three years' experience on Tristan de Cunha, a lonely island in the South Atlantic, midway between South Africa and South America. The island is a mile square and has a population of 160 people. It was fortified by Great Britain, he said, when Napoleon Bonaparte was a prisoner on the island of St. Helena, but on the death of the exiled Emperor, the island was evacuated. A few soldiers elected to remain behind. Those married black women from St. Helena and it is their descendants who inhabit the island at the present time. There is no money in circulation among these people; they pay no taxes and there is no formal government except what may be provided by the Anglican minister. Ships call there on an average of once a year. The population is supported by a mission board of the Anglican church in England. The people grow potatoes but no vegetables; they have cattle and sheep and obtain large quantities of birds' eggs from two bird-haunted uninhabited islands. The mission provides their clothing and medical supplies. The people are free from various diseases which obtain in other countries, such as measles, diphtheria and so on. There are nine months of winter on the island and three of summer. The wind during the winter months blows so severely that at times people, in order to go from place to place, have to crawl on their hands and knees. He said that there was only one case of illegitimacy in the course of 23 years, and one case of theft in the three years he was on the island, and as a fact the record of the people was creditable in that respect. They are very healthy, although at times subject to privations on account of scarcity of food. Wood is scarce and it takes three days to secure a supply owing to the inaccessibility of the tree areas 'way up on the mountain sides. In the centre of the island there is an extinct volcano over a mile in height.

Tristan de Cunha is an outpost of the British Empire, Mr. Lindsay said, most attractive, yet a place from which the people do not want to move and who are satisfied to live out their lives as their fathers had done before them.

The lecture was one of intense interest and illustrated with some 54 slides depicting life on the island

Stealing Grain Draws Severe Penalties

Morrison Boys Ordered to Pay for Grain or Serve Terms in Gaol

Malcolm and William Morrison, young farmers right miles north of Vermilion pleaded guilty in Police Magistrate Kaiser's court Tuesday morning on a charge of theft of grain to the value of $120.00, the property of the Scottish Immigrant Aid Society, the charge that the accused stored grain into a lease with the Society for the delivery to it of one-fourth the grain raised on the place. The grain was not raised but sold as the accused claimed to meet other pressing obligations. Mr. Morrison, K.C. who represented the Morrisons made a strong plea for leniency, suggesting that if given time they made restitution and he gives suspended sentence. Mr. Mitchell, representing the Aid Society and pressed for the imposition of a sentence but left the matter entirely with the court. His worship the Magistrate said that if given time they made restitution and he gives suspended sentence. Mr. Mitchell, represented

Our U.S.A. Corner

The opening dance at the V.S.A. last Friday night was one of the most largely attended affairs in the history of the school. The large gymnasium was jammed to the doors and the guests were taken to the dining room for lunch in four sections as over the week. A careful calculation puts the numbers at 600. The students and staff appreciate very much the support that the people of Vermilion have given their opening dance and believe that all had a good time.

Next Saturday night is the fifth of the basketball tournament and in order to have a game between the A team. This will likely be at 7 o'clock, the game will be called short 7 o'clock, and after the game some dents will entertain the visitors who are coming in excursion.

Another is go how the progress is being made in the school. I am taking about three weeks to date to supply the typing room. This school will need another two months before spring

One of the busiest spots about the school is the blacksmith and carpenter shop. About half the class of first year boys are engaged in work there at one time. The ringing of the anvils demonstrates almost deafening to private citizens who are privately busy using the plane and hammer.

On Monday evening the students organized their Vermilion Club. This organization is handled somewhat on the same order as a Chautauqua as its declared goal is a social and literary one. Its first meeting was a very successful one. Prof. Dalmont Speechless will be prospered for the program during the winter. It is expected that Prof. Dalmont and [illegible] will be among the speakers next winter. It is hoped to have a debate each month. The committee in charge of the meeting was [illegible] and [illegible] of Vermilion.

Bright Stories about Wine

WATER DOES NOT MIX WELL WITH WINE

● The Greeks, whose reputation for wisdom, sometimes crept cunning, survives to this day, were less sensual than the Romans or Egyptians, and indifferent drinkers. The latter were heavy drinkers and loved to find themselves incapacitated. Its indulgence from daily business. Therefore, they invented their cakes so that it is the expedient of missing water in their wine.

● As a matter of fact, Greek wines had the peculiar and heavy aromatic qualities of resin rather than in the grapevines that were the characteristics of a decidedly high and headachy wine. It guarantees that wine. Price regrets the next day. In recent times the idea of reducing the quality of wine by adding water is regarded with disfavor. It is like putting ice in beer.

● Adulteration is quite a different thing, as we shall explain later when dealing with modern wines. Adulteration, too, is a word that bears different connotations. We shall find that in ancient times, as almost as in modern, the practice was universal and [illegible] where the purpose is to deceive the consumer, but, as a matter of historic fact, it has been generally done in such a [illegible] taste.

● There never was a time within the [illegible] of record, but what [illegible] drinker of wine green his own grapes. We [illegible] know, however, that in some [illegible] it was produced better in some districts than others, and probably due to some grapes than others. Perhaps much because [illegible] as early as [illegible] the practice of [illegible] its [illegible] and [illegible] types [illegible]. Those who made wine like [illegible] that [illegible] and [illegible] dishes, but their taste, at which, after samples had been consulted, orders were given either for stocks in hand or stocks to be later produced.

● The ancient wine marker has been described by some scholars as the precursor of the modern "merchant." The precursor [illegible] as he went from one to another sample, tasted, left from which he would [illegible] his wine supply, found himself crowned with cheeses and spices, nuts temptingly displayed. Naturally he would eat a piece of cheese and half a dozen nuts and then [illegible] natural palate would be blunted, and, when he came to the vital business of sampling the wine, he would be in no proper critical condition.

● Our own opinion is that the modern free lunch, where it exists, is not put forward as a disguise to defective drinks, but as a kind of [illegible]. We remember the time when [illegible] who had fifteen cents for three glasses of beer could [illegible] supply. He will [illegible] good meals [illegible] and [illegible] home. One of these meals today would cost the host [illegible] of a dollar.

ISLAND HILL

A hint: Folks here are enthusiastic hockeyists, as if the secretary-treasurer of Chadonnais V.F.A. local gets in touch with the Island Hill C.P.A. local secretary-treasurer, a good hockey league may materialize.

Noticed During the Week—

Geo. Field sliding dry logs home from his south quarter, Chas. Mix hooking for a man, yes, we saw him; Bill Hall stepping on the gas with a beautiful new car; members of the dramatic society heading for the school Frank Dedford buying some beautiful dry goods in town; coming events cast their shadows before, oh Frank!

What did the cup reading reveal to Jean Crawford?

Miss Jessy Jenkins is now in employment in Vermilion. She tells me she would rather be in Chadonnais direction.

There is something pathetic and yet humorous about the news that Thor Hilter was prevented from obtaining an important ceremony by an attack of toothache. Imagine it! The great Fuhrer, the President-Chancellor of Germany for life, laid low by toothache. Though he has a whole nation in his hands he himself is in the hands of the dentist. Ill be inquiring but funny. Remembering the time we had toothache ourselves, we wish him a speedy recovery.

If you are interested in reducing, read the following: A rare bird which inhabits the cliffs of an island in the Atlantic (to avoid Taff's anger we refrain from mentioning the name of the island) forms its nest of boulder clay on the rocks and lays two eggs; one of them it hatches, and when the young bird arrives it is fed on the other egg. The nest is gradually narrowed over until it is a half shape with a small aperture. If the young bird long is over-nourished when the time comes to leave the nest and is unable to get through the cavity, the parent bird feeds it on normal food. After a short period the bird has a reducing effect, the young bird is enabled to make an exit and take up part in life by the wild sea waves.

Mrs Carberry nee Miss McCoy, for merly principal at the school here, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Searle.

For pushing that new car home during the wirching hour, Bert Searle is awarded the Merit Medal.

I come to think of it, we would not blame the car for being inclined to linger in good company. Oh old boy that car!

WILDMERE WINKS

A few Wildmere folks took in the dance at Battleview last Friday. There would have been more there but where were all the truck men that night we wonder?

Mrs Smith spent Saturday in town renewing old school days.

Mr and Mrs Jas Cameron and son from Vermilion, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Doyle and son Basswood, also Mr. Jabbers and Miss Gibbons, Kyle Medill and Ed Schroeder were Sunday visitors at the Wallington home.

Wildmere Xmas entertainment is ensuing along fine. Monday evening we all journeyed over to Lauwers Grahame bungalow for our practice. Will we ever forget it, Marjorie?

Quite a number were up skating on Smith's lake Sunday afternoon, where they have started off a rink since the new rains.

Hamilton district staged a chair rain for their newly wedded couple Mr and Mrs. Ty Emmerson last Friday evening to extend best wishes for a long and happy married life. We also join in wishing the happy couple every joy on years to come.

Mrs Jimmie Wallington took her razor to town and had it hung last Friday when visited these twins by hand and not select to one. By the way, Jimmie, are you [illegible] talking about, and Mr Webb contemplated how on earth a line pair of pushers.

Noticed Around the District—

Geo Hibbert of Basswood bringing home a new cream separator. That farms have a row that had twin calves last Thursday both being Albert Smith hauling grain. Jimmie Walling two months in the city. Some these days Tom Best working on the municipal bank. Could anyone tell us where Kitt Mould is on practice nights. Mrs J. Wallington spending Tuesday afternoon at Edson.

Wheat No. —?

The guy who did the threshing said 'twould go a Number One.
But this I rather doubted as it slowly down did run.
Then the neighbors round did gather, as you know they love to do.
And they shouted out in chorus. "It's a darned good Number 2."

On the way I met the banker, waiting hopefully for me.
And after meditation he pronounced it Number Three;
So getting quite impatient I departed on the run,
And by smoking past some other guys, the elevator won!

There the buyer looked it over, put a hundred in his cheek.
Spat it out across the driveway and to me did kindly speak:
"It's a Four, of that I'm certain, better ship it right away,
For I wouldn't care to buy it, on the Market's down today."

So I sold him just to ship it to the East or to the West.
To Timbertoe or Ballyboo, where e'er it seemed the best:
Then I put me down in patience to wait that joyful day
When for all my earnest labors I'd receive a little pay.

From there came a tiny missive by the early morning mail,
And I staggered in my anger ere I lay me down to wail—
Sure that grader was a creature who could use a farmer couch.
For in his utter blindness, he did make it Five and Tough!

Wrathful at the Berre injustice, re-inspection I did claim;
And I pawned my Sunday topcoat to provide the cost of same.
Came the answer in a fortnight, raising heck within my camp
For I flinted when I read it: "Re-inspection — Six and Dump."

Headley Says Farmers To Be In Majority

Ridicules Social Credit Idea

LETHBRIDGE, Alta — The Hon. George Hoadley doesn't think much of social credit. At the Macleod U.F.A. convention this week he referred to the subject saying under such a system the primary producers would get it in the neck" as it is the primary producer who will have to pay.

The minister defended the purchase of new cars for the cabinet ministers. He said he could almost bet his next indemnity that there will be more for more in the next legislature than Lib erals, and that W. K. Shields, Macleod "backer" will be one of them.—Edmonton Journal.

Plug tobacco goes farther, because it lasts longer in your pipe. It's fresher, too, because the big plug doesn't dry out and you cut it coarse or flaky, to suit yourself.

The Trend of Population and Power

"Go West, Young Man." Such was the advice tendered by a great American to the youth of the United States back in the last century. It was heard, probably, upon a knowledge of the vast resources and wealth of opportunities of that then largely unsettled area. It may also have emanated from a study of the movements of people throughout the ages of the past, pointing to the historical fact that "westward the course of empire takes its way." An identical fact that, for some reason or other, the movement of this world's population is largely from the east to the west.

In the dim dark ages of the past Europe was settled by the migrations of people from Asia. Christopher Columbus and the other intrepid navigators who followed him opened the way for the great movement of people across the Atlantic from the centre of the old world to the new world of the Americas, and on this continent the trek of people has constituted a steady stream from east to west. We speak of Japan as in the Far East, but even there the same movement of people is "On West, Young Man,"—west into the new Japanese protectorate being carved out of Manchuria on the mainland of Asia.

In Canada we are, as necessity, profoundly interested in this trend of population to the west. It has already had a tremendous effect upon national and economic policies in this Dominion, and it is certain to have an even greater significance in the development of this country in the future. For it is without the significance and value that this movement of population in Canada parallels the similar movement which has occurred and is still continuing to the south of the international boundary line of the 49th parallel.

The extent and rapidity of this western movement of population is revealed in a recent article in the Canadian Geographical Journal under the title "The Centre of Population Moves Westward," based on figures revealed by the census taken every ten years. As recently as forty years ago, 1891, only 7 pc. of the population of Canada was to be found in the four Western Provinces, but that proportion has risen by progressive steps until at the last census (1931), 29.5% of Canada's population dwelled west of the Great Lakes.

At the time of Confederation, the centre of population in Canada was near the city of Montreal, at the time of the last census in 1921 the centre of population had moved westward nearly 450 miles and was found to be located near Sault Ste Marie and approximately 300 miles of this westward travel has taken place since the beginning of the present boundary.

Not only is the centre of Canada's population moving westward, but it is also moving northward. This is accounted for by two major factors, the opening of the vast mineral regions of the pre-Cambrian area, and the fact that the Western Provinces have risen in higher latitudes.

This movement of the centre of population steadily westward is an already standing having a profound effect upon both the political and economic life of Canada. Under our constitution representation in the Parliament of Canada is based upon population; consequently the determining influence in national policies is steadily shifting westward, and the voice and views of the West becoming stronger. Perhaps, practically one-third of Canada's population resides west of the Great Lakes. If the same trend of population westward continues, albeit not quite as marked as since 1901, a dozen more decades will witness political power almost equally divided between the east and west with all that such equality in political power may mean in the national policies of the Dominion.

Coincident with this shift of the centre of population, and as the natural and inevitable result of it, the centre of manufacturing activity likewise moves westward. In 1890 the centre of manufactures was about midway between Kingston and Toronto. Now forty years later it is about midway between Sudbury and Sault Ste Marie, and is, therefore, only about 60 miles behind that of population. The centre of manufactures is nearly 100 miles behind that of population and is moving westward more rapidly.

This no political power moves westward so does economic power as well. Approximately 70 per cent of manufacturing industries while agriculture has increased in far greater ratio. For example in 1921 British Columbia had 46 per cent. of the industrial capital invested in manufactures and 5 per cent more value of product than the three Maritime provinces put together and the Province of Vancouver had more than twice the industrial capital than the Port of Montreal. Furthermore during the past ten years Prince Rupert and Vancouver have made more industrial growth than the city of Montreal.

With the opening up of the northern mineral areas of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta which gives promise of being the most major development in the West as it was in Ontario and Quebec in the past, with the development of the Churchill-Hudson Bay route, another change will take place in the economic relationship as between east and west and further impetus given to the western movement.

Such developments are bound to have a marked effect upon both the political and economic life of this Dominion. It is true that as the centre of population and of manufacturing moves west the reverse trend is noticeable, and it is to be expected therefore that the westward movement of the centre will not be as rapid as in the years of heavy immigration and the settling of the prairie areas. But the northern development of the western half of the Dominion will undoubtedly be maintaining the western movement. The advice and slogan to youth to-day is not merely "Go West, but also "Go North."

Canada's Deathless Blind

No Provision Yet Made in Budget To Pension Them

Canada takes far better care of her criminals than of her destitute blind, Philip E. Layton, president and founder of the Montreal Association for the Blind, declared at the 36th annual meeting.

Australian blind received a pension at the age of 16, he explained. New Zealand had also devised effective legislation to insure the welfare of her blind population. Not only did blind people receive a pension in Great Britain, but the earnings of blind workers were supplemented by the government and this was done despite the heavy taxation burden placed on the shoulders of the British people. Mr. Layton commended Sweden in Northern Ireland and the Free State pensions were granted to the blind.

In Canada there is no system of pension for the blind. The way of the blind was particularly hard even those who hold university degrees or diplomas for the teaching of music or for the necessary qualifications for tuning musical instruments, find it most difficult to obtain positions, he said.

United States Seals Protest

Complains To Persia Regarding Treatment Of Airmen

The United States has formally protested to Persia against the reported discourtesy shown there recently to two United States entrants in the England-Australia air race.

In a note that made no promise of friendliness, detailing the treatment accorded John H. Wright and Parker Gilkey, when they were forced landing, Oct. 23, between Mohammerah and Abadan because of mechanical trouble, the United States said it was "at a loss to understand" the action of the Persian authorities.

Although granted Persian permission to fly across that country and land there if necessary, Wright and Gilkey were ordered by Persian officials to withdraw from the race at Karachi, India.

Russia's Productions From Natural Resources

Moscow's World-Beating Dreams Are Beginning To Come True

Soviet Russia leaps toward the head of the list of nations in production of natural resources. In output of pig iron Russia will reach 10,000,000 tons before the expiration of 1934, enabling it to displace Germany as second to the United States. In production of steel and rolled metal, with a target of more than 10,000,000 tons, Russia displaces Britain and is exceeded only by the United States and Germany. In coal production will be used for breeding purposes on the large poultry farm managed by Mr. Rogers. The poultry industry is one in Eastern Canada primarily to acquaint himself with the methods of poultry raising practised in Canada, but the stock in this country and he was much impressed.

The interest she is a result of contacts made by officers of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at the recent Poultry Congress in London and Ottawa.

Three Degree In Honey

Levulose (fruit sugar), one of the three sugars found in honey, is nonfermenting and is usually the predominating sugar, while other two sugars are dextrose (grape sugar) and sucrose (cane sugar). Dextrose is a rapid granulating sugar, whereas cane is present in honey only in very small quantities.

World Armed Criminal Code

St. John Coroner Recommends New Law For Motorists Who Kill

"I am forced to the conclusion that one of our greatest needs is to modernize our criminal code," Dr. C. L. Emerson, Saint John city and county coroner, said in a letter published at Saint John, N.B. Pointing out the difficulty of obtaining convictions under the existing law in cases of death due to automobile accidents, he suggested a new law less severe than that covering manslaughter, but sufficiently severe to prove a deterrent to those motorists inclined to disregard public safety.

"There are only two charges that may be laid against an individual causing death, namely, murder and manslaughter," wrote Dr. Emerson. "It seems to me that manslaughter is so severe that it is virtually impossible to get a trial jury to convict.

"If the crime were classed not as manslaughter but as some lesser crime, with a correspondingly less severe punishment, yet sufficient to indicate the gravity of the offence, I am of the opinion that more persons criminally responsible for the death of others in automobile accidents would receive just punishment."

The coroner agreed with a suggestion that all cars involved in fatal accidents should be immediately impounded by police pending an examination of the brakes and other equipment.

Simplest And Best Way

England Is Using Surplus Milk To Feed Poor

"The simplest and best way of getting rid of a surplus of milk is to get that surplus drunk. We don't want to put it into butter or stuff for the back of our necks," said Walter Elliot, Minister for Agriculture, when he spoke to a meeting of Unionist teachers in Glasgow. Speaking of his recently launched scheme to give a child milk at school each day, Mr. Elliot said that it would be introduced to Scotland in the near future. "No doubt," he said, "proposals will be worked out before long in Scotland. We have at present in England 1,000,000 children getting milk every day, and we have set ourselves if possible, to raise that figure to 2,000,000 by Easter of next year."—Glasgow Herald.

Canadian Live Poultry For France

Two Hundred White Leghorns Shipped To Poultry Farm in France

Fifty white Leghorn cockerels and 150 pullets purchased from the C.P.R. breeders in Western Ontario by L'Abbe A. Declercq, of Villers-en-Haye, France, have been shipped from Montreal direct to France per the S. S. Lists, on November 18th. The contingent of pullets and cockerels will be used for breeding purposes on the large poultry farm managed by Mr. Rogers. The poultry industry is one in Eastern Canada primarily to acquaint himself with the methods of poultry raising practised in Canada, but the stock in this country and he was much impressed.

Discovery is Interesting

Old Indian Medicine Stone Found Near Kingston, Ontario

Announcement was made by W. Haydock, Kingston, Ont., of a sanctuary near Kingston, Ontario, of an interesting archaeological discovery. The finding on the property of a big medicine stone, a sacred or ceremonial Indian medicine and even a Pipe Stone Quarry, a relic of past North American people complete with grinder.

The stone, red granite, yet obviously shaped, in some strange manner, to a special design. The age of the stone is unknown, but is believed to have been used by Indians in Champlain's time.

New Aid To Sailors

Device Measures Depth Of Shallow Water By Sound

A sound so shrill that it cannot be heard, which measures the depth of water beneath a ship and tells it as a foot rule, is science's newest aid to sailors and navigators, announced by the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Called the "sonal fin... apparatus" to be an important guide to ships navigating in shoal water and in making charts of the bottom in shallow water areas.

Now that modern science has produced cameras which will take pictures through a brick wall, those of us who have trusted brick walls to conceal some of our misdoings are becoming nervous.

BRITAIN TO SET UP INQUIRY INTO ARMS TRAFFIC

London.—The British government intends to set up an inquiry into the subject of traffic in arms, it was learned authoritatively but unofficially.

The exact form the inquiry will take has not yet been determined, but it is not proposed any ministers shall be members of the tribunal.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, indicated to the House of Commons that an inquiry into the whole question would be regarded favourably. He did not, however, say the investigation had been decided upon.

Sir John told the house the government would oppose any "fishing inquiry" calling for the production of private documents, or which would be forced lading, Oct. 23, between Mohammerah and Abadan because of mechanical trouble, the United States said it was "at a loss to understand" the action of the Persian authorities.

Opponents Will Be Heard

Poultry Pool Objectors To Come Before Marketing Board

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion marketing board has announced that the second week of December will be set aside for the hearing of representations of those who are opposed to the poultry scheme sponsored by the three prairie poultry pools.

The board has received many petitions from the usual, opposing the scheme and several organizations have written seeking an opportunity to appear before the board. Every opportunity will be given to those organizations. The actual dates for hearings have not been fixed, but it is believed that one week will enable all those opposed to the schemes to be heard.

Meantime, the board is making little headway with other schemes for the better proposed advanced by the National Dairy Council is being held in abeyance pending the outcome of a conference to be held this week at Toronto. It is believed that this scheme is rapidly losing favor in official quarters and its chances of being adopted by the board are regarded as doubtful.

The livestock scheme proposed by the Saskatchewan Livestock Co-operative is still at the preliminary stage The board has not yet come to grips with it.

Self Rule For India

Federal System Is Advocated By Simon Committee

London.—An all-Indian federation comprised of self-governing units was advocated in the long-awaited report of the joint parliamentary committee on Indian reform.

The report urges this system be established for the present central government. Eleven provinces of British India, two of them new, would be linked in the federation with the native Indian states, which would enter the federation by voluntary act of their rulers.

These recommendations in the main follow the proposals laid down by the government of India earlier this year for reform of Indian government in the direction of granting self-rule "with safeguards," in other words, still reserving control over vital questions of defence, external relations and the like, in the viceroy and through him the British government, while extending internal self-government to the new legislatures.

A chorus of disapproval from India, even the official publication of the report which showed the committee had tightened up the safeguards contemplated in the white paper's proposals by the British national government, for the next step towards self-rule in the Indian empire But this was to be expected. So was the simultaneous declaration from the Labor party that the report had not gone far enough. That India should be given the means to obtain Dominion status by her own progress instead of relying on future acts of parliament

More interesting was the attitude the Conservative party here would take when it deliberates the report at a national convention next month It was not revealed, however, that it was clearly foreshadowed in comments of politicians and newspapers Violent hostility was expressed by two opposite quarters, by "die-hard" Tories and by radical sympathizers who favor self-rule for India. Germany's Planes Swifter

So France Wants Huge Sum To Build Similar Machines

Paris.—Minister of Air Victor Denain told France that Germany's planes are "swifter and more modern and asked the chamber to vote 1,000,000,000 francs ($230,000,000) to make the French air force superior.

"Since Goering (Herman Wilhelm Goering, Adolf Hitler's minister of air) came to power, Germany has a military air force available and operational," Denain told the chamber air committee.

"This sole force is to be feared because it is composed of modern pursuit and bombing planes." he said.

Protesting against "panic foment ers" who, he charged, [illegible] the French air force, Denain declared:

"About the... appeared to be an impression of peril in regard to our air force. We have a powerful army, a military air force available and operational, and a navy which is the second in the world."

Dairy Council Backs Plan

Would Have All Butter Buildings Declare Their Stocks

Toronto. — The National Dairy Council meeting here approved a plan designed to improve the Canadian butter situation by calling on all butter buildings to declare their stocks. Approval of 50 per cent of the holders will be necessary to put the scheme in effect.

The plan will be directed by a board of five members to serve without salary until May, 1935. The board will be authorized to grant right of export of butter through the holders' agencies or to collect small stocks itself. It may make a levy on any excess of imports for distribution among exporters.

Robert Barber, of Yorkton, Sask., told the council the western butter producer may no reason why he should be "pauperized" to help Ontario and Quebec cheesemakers

Dairy Surplus

Plan To Be Sent To Dairy Organizations To Reduce Over Supply

Toronto.—A plan to reduce dairy surplus, submitted by the producers' board of the National Dairy Council, will be sent to the provincial dairy organizations, it was decided at the closing meeting of the council's convention here.

The resolution adopted empowered a board of producers to levy against the dairy men with the object of building up a fund to be used for the promotion of the industry in domestic and export markets. T. E. Love of Edmonton, and F. O. Colquhoun of Maple Creek, Sask., vice-president of the council, proposed the scheme be forwarded to the provincial bodies.

NO INCREASE IN WHEAT DEMAND IS ANTICIPATED

Budapest.—The international wheat commission struck at the annual meeting of wheat exporting countries in a strongly-worded statement on the world grain situation.

The statement painted a gloomy picture for exporting countries for at least two more years, predicting the same "unsatisfactory" state of affairs that has existed since 1929.

"Nothing short of world-wide economic upswing can bring about any appreciable increase in world demand and it is largely dependent upon a reversal of the trend of world production in exporting countries."

The commission also took to task countries which "by improvement because of drought so that during August negotiations were made that the effect of widespread drouth would be to convert the position of over-production to one of relative scarcity and thus to create a substantial rise in wheat prices might be anticipated."

Urges Building Program

Could Be Handled As Government Policy Says Stevens

Ottawa.—With the declaration that during the next few years Canada "could wisely and economically spend over a billion dollars in housing and commercial construction works," Hon. H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce, went on record as favoring a great building program for the Dominion.

Characterizing the government's $40,000,000 building program as "a mere drop in the bucket," Mr. Stevens advocated calling a conference of bankers, loan and mortgage companies, building associations and others

"If they fail to act promptly," he added, "then in my opinion the government of Canada ought to take the matter in hand as a government policy."

The former minister and chairman of the mass buying committee was guest speaker at a banquet of the Ottawa Junior board of trade

Vessels Collide in Fog

Four Lose Lives In Accident On Great Lakes

Alpena, Mich.—Four members of the crew of the steamer W. C. Franz were lost in a collision in heavy fog, 30 miles south of Alpena, on Lake Huron, between the Franz and the Edward E. Loomis

A message from the steamer Rose Brothers, standing by, verified by C. H. Fabir, operator of a radio station at Hogan's Creek, said the Franz sank and that 14 survivors of its crew had been taken aboard the Loomis which was proceeding south under its own power. Additional survivors were in its forward hold

The Franz had a crew of 18. Radio messages said the Loomis was badly damaged forward in the collision

The Franz had delivered a cargo of wheat at Port Colborne, Ont. and was upbound for another load of grain

Grasshopper Problem

North Dakota Conference Says Emergency Still Exists

Fargo, N.D.—The grasshopper problem was characterized as a national rather than a state problem by state entomologists attending the closing session of the second annual hopper conference here.

Experts from several northwest states and Canadian provinces adopted resolutions recommending an annual grasshopper egg survey by the federal government in co-operation with the various states and an adequate appropriation to the bureau of entomology for this purpose.

In other resolutions the group went on record as of the opinion that a grasshopper emergency still exists. All previous speakers and the past danger had been reduced by poison campaigns and the drouth. one resolution said "the grasshopper outlook for 1935 is most serious in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan."

Out Of The Market

United States Did Not Export Any Wheat Last Week

Washington.—For the first time since the west's fertile prairies were tilled with regularity, the United States last week failed to export a single bushel of wheat

"The drought and steadily declining exports," was the explanation given by officials, who said they were not surprised at the department of commerce report

Only a few years ago, 370,000,000 bushels of the grain were sent out of United States in one year, and exports averaged around 150,000,000 annually up to 1929

Since that time Canada and the Argentine have cut down on their share into the market once held by the United States.

JAPAN CONTINUES ITS INSISTENCE ON NAVAL PARITY

London —The outlook for the tripower naval conversations appears gloomier than ever, with a Japanese declaration that in the very likely event of failing to reach an agreement on tonnage limitation of warships she could not agree to limitation of specific types of vessels and their numbers.

This was taken to mean that if a tri-power agreement on total naval tonnage is not reached, Japan will insist on a treaty which Japan is going to denounce, then Japan is prepared to experiment with vessels she believes peculiarly suited to her needs

Because Japanese indeed made themselves very clear removing a couple more misunderstandings which made it seem the best the conference could hope for, so far as tripartite agreement is concerned, is to salvage as much as it can of the London naval agreement And there does not seem to be much that can be saved.

Japan, it appears, will insist on a widely-accepted version of their demand for parity with the British and American navies, made by Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, Japanese delegate to the London conference in December 1, it was announced at the legislative buildings. He succeeds Admiral J. D. McGregor, lieutenant-governor since 1929.

TAKE FIRST STEPS TO PAVE WAY FOR DEBATE ON INDIA

London.—By a vote of 234 to 62 the House of Commons passed Premier Ramsay MacDonald's motion, taking as early all private members' time during the new session of parliament for discussion of the report of the select committee on India and the subsequent government bill embodying its recommendations.

Prime Minister MacDonald said the India bill would contain 300 clauses and would undoubtedly take a long time to get through committee Debate on the report itself will be held before Christmas and second reading of the India bill, beginning committee stage between Christmas and Easter From Easter to the end of July the bulk of the house's time would be occupied with the bill

An all-India federation comprised of self-governing units was advocated in the long-awaited report of the select parliamentary committee on British reforms

The report urges this system be substituted for the present centralized government. Eleven provinces of British India, two of them new, would be linked in the federal system with the native Indian states which would enter the federation by voluntary act of their rulers.

BIG 4 LEAGUE TO START NEXT WEEK

Schedule Submitted Not Accepted By Local Club

Our old rivals, Vegreville, will supply the opposition for the opening home game of the Big Four league here on Friday night next, Dec. 14th at 8 o'clock sharp.

The schedule for the Big Four Hockey league, as submitted to the local senior executive, has not been accepted, according to Pres. Thos. Waite and Secy. C. Johnson. At time of going to press telephone communication was being held with the League secretary, Mr. Miller at Vegreville.

The local's only objection to the fact that two home games were billed in Saturday nights. This must be changed, as the Standard will reproduce a corrected version of the League schedule next week. Several changes will be necessitated, as the program of games to hand will be useless for future reference.

The league will be opened by Lloydminster playing at Innisfree on Dec. 11 and Lloydminster playing at Vegreville on Dec. 12.

Local Rotary Club Has Finishy Line-Up

The exhibition game on Thursday night (tonight) will see the following players in action and possibly the same team will open the league under the Vermilion colors:

Goal: Frank Mead or Barney Pawson; Def.: Defence: Jack Marshall, Jack Bain, Bill Mead; Forwards: Ena Reh, Carson, Fred Brimacombe; C. Barr, Ken Hodson, Jim White; J. Banks, Rennbeck, Hugh Craig, Coach, Pete Weber.

E. Jones of the V.S.A. staff, an experienced referee, will handle the games here.

Farmer Wins Prairie Fire Appeal Case

District Court Refuses to Confirm Conviction

The appeal of L. ... Woodside of the Edmonton district against a conviction by Police Magistrate A. E. Kaiser under the Prairie Fires Ordinance was allowed by His Honor Judge Dubue in the district court on ... Tuesday.

About the middle of October a fire was seen on the premises of Mr. Woodside and before it was checked had destroyed nearly the whole of Mr. Woodside's stack. It appeared that they did everything in their power but because of the rough wind it was practically uncontrollable and spread over quite a stretch of country. Mr. Woodside was represented by counsel in the lower court and was fined $25 and costs. Mr. F. J. Richardson was acting for Mr. Woodside when appealed through Mr. J. I. Jones of Mannville and the appeal was heard Tuesday. There were four witnesses for the Crown who were represented by A. H. Gibson K.C. while some eight or nine testified for the appellant. The contention of the defence was that the Crown had failed to substantiate the fact that the fire started on Woodside's place at all, let alone establishing that he had anything to do with it. Woodside's son Norman was working near there that day but swore he did not set the fire and knew nothing as to where it could have started. He does not remember. The appellant and his family testified as to their efforts to put the fire out finally getting it under control. The Crowns theory was that the movements of the crew taken by the fire and the area burned as where it is believed it was started, there was only one conclusion and that was it originated on Woodside's farm and near where Simons was plowing. The Crown's lawyer said that, since the conflicting evidence before it to confirm the conviction, and he would therefore allow the appeal. Gibson was assisted by Mr. Jones for appellant. The case took nearly all day and Simons was involved with various operations mostly from the Vermilion district

Confidence Is Returning

The year of 1934 is rapidly drawing to a close and people are already turning their thoughts to the coming new year and giving consideration to matters which will command their attention and activities in the next twelve-month period. Already throughout the western provinces municipal councils and school boards have been chosen to which will be entrusted the administration of local community business throughout the new year. And the thoughts of all people are increasingly occupied with what betterment of existing conditions may be looked for in the months that lie ahead.

Unquestionably, people are entertaining a greater degree of confidence that the general economic situation is improving than has been in evidence for some time. The most discouraging feature being the continued political unrest in Europe and the effect which any outbreak there would inevitably have upon the whole world. However, confidence grows that here on this continent the worst of the great depression is over and we are at last and definitely on the upgrade.

Restoration of confidence is one of the essential requirements to carry the world along the road to betterment, because until that confidence is restored everyone is afraid to venture in any direction, all continuing to live from hand to mouth, thinking only of the necessities of the immediate present instead of in terms of a larger and better future. While an undue and unjustified optimism at this time would be just as fatal in the long run as a continuance of an unjustified pessimism, it is perhaps well that attention should be directed to facts, figures and conditions which provide a sound basis for hopefulness and a greater confidence.

In recent years of financial difficulty and economic depression, many people have come to look with suspicion upon bankers and banking but the fact remains that our Canadian banking institutions are about the best informed of all organizations as to the exact state of affairs in the Dominion. They have to be. Furthermore, they are always conservative in their sizing up of the general financial, economic and business situation. Pessimistic as a rule, are not overly enthusiastic or optimistic.

If the above is true, there is real encouragement to be found in the monthly business summaries and news letters recently issued by the banks of Canada. One of the latest to come to hand is that of the Bank of Montreal, Canada's most conservative banking institution, dated November 23. For the benefit of readers who may not have the opportunity of reading these monthly business summaries, a few facts from this most recent publication may well be quoted.

Reviewing the Canadian situation, the Bank of Montreal says: "Trade has continued its upward trend during the past month, and the winter season opens with conditions generally distinctly better than they were a year ago. A review of the first ten months of the present year shows that of some fifty business indices available forty-five show gains, the majority of a pronounced character. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics index of the physical volume of business, which well sums up the whole, has advanced 21 4 per cent."

It is pointed out, too, that industrial activity is more apparent in a wide variety of trades than at this period in 1933, and that a wider distribution of goods is being made. Both import and export trade is increasing, bank clearings, railway car loadings, mineral production, forests and fisheries all reveal substantial betterments, while even in agriculture, and taking the Dominion as a whole, crops have been more abundant than at one time seemed probable and prices are higher.

Railway car loadings are greater than for several years and at the end of August were 34% higher than in the preceding year; employment in October, which usually shows a downward tendency, actually increased, the official index reaching 100 (which was the index in 1926) compared with 90.6 and 96.7 in October 1933 and 1932 respectively. Commercial failures were fewer in 1934 than in any of the preceding three years.

Dominion Government revenues reflect this general improvement, with Customs duties collected in the first ten months of this year 20% greater than in the same ten months of 1933.

Referring to the situation in the United States, the bank summary says: "The past month recorded a partial return to the business activity that had characterized the earlier months of the year."

Steady improvement in Great Britain is recorded. For the ten-month period total trade increased by £82,000,000 over the corresponding period last year, railway traffic increased 4 1% since January 1; the number of persons in employment shows further improvement, British Government securities have reached the highest prices on record for nearly thirty years.

These the situation in Canada, United States and Great Britain, in which countries Canada is most vitally interested, is found to be of an encouraging character, making for a greater degree of confidence in the future, which, let it be repeated, is an essential condition to continued and greater improvement.

Prince Sent Prize Cattle

Fine Specimens Were In Competition At Chicago Show

Expressing regret that he was unable to attend the thirty-fifth International Live Stock Exposition, at the new million-dollar exposition along at the stock yards in Chicago, the Prince of Wales advised Manager B. H. Heide by cable that he was sending five head of Shorthorn cattle and a specimen of Clydesdale draft horse bread to compete. This was the first International show in ten years at which the Prince of Wales has been represented. In 1924 one of his entries, King of the Fairies, carried off the grand championship for bulls. The animal was later sold at a record price to an American breeder.

Corn From South Africa

Enters Canada Duty Free And Raises Poultryman Money

A cargo of 3,000 pounds of corn arrived recently at Vancouver from South Africa. It is claimed that this shipment saves the British Columbia poultrymen $24,000, as it entered Canada duty free. Until the South African corn arrived, Argentina and United States products were imported, on which there was a duty of $3 a ton. A second shipment was expected. Distribution of this corn extends as far east as Moose Jaw.

Giant Flying Boat Tested

Intended For Experimental Flights Across Pacific Next Year

A giant flying boat with a cruising range of 3,000 miles and intended ultimately for experimental flights across the Pacific Ocean is now being tested for air worthiness, it was learned at Bridgeport, Conn.

The ship, a Sikorsky, and similar to the "Brazilian Clipper" now operating on a South American route out of Miami, Fla., for Pan-American Airways, is known as Clipper No Five.

Pan-American plans called for tests for Department of Commerce licensing, after which the ship was to make an over-water flight to Miami, out of sight of land.

There at the Airways' main operating base she will continue training flights for the benefit of the intended operating personnel. Some time shortly after the first of the year, the ship will go to California for the first of the experimental flights across the Pacific by way of Hawaii and the Philippines.

The "Brazilian Clipper" has a capacity of 32 passengers, with additional room for 2,500 pounds of express freight. She carries 1,270 gallons of gasoline, and, with a full load, has gone 1,250 miles during test flights.

Aid Found Successful

Removal Of Thyroid Gland Helps Sufferers From Heart Disease

Surgical relief of "heart disease," suggested by United States medical authorities, has been found successful in England

Drs. O. Brenner and Hugh Doncan of Queens hospital, Birmingham, treated six sufferers of congestive heart failure and angina pectoris by surgical removal of the thyroid gland in the neck, known as the "pace-maker of the body," because it is upon this gland that the speed upon at which the body processes work.

It has been known for years that in certain diseases of the thyroid gland the heart races, the lungs work more rapidly and other body functions are accelerated. American medical authorities suggested that if the "pace-making thyroid" were removed, the body processes would adjust themselves to the pace of the weakest part of the body-namely, the failing heart. This theory was followed by Drs. Brenner and Doncan and the results have so far been successful, they stated.

The six patients treated by the new surgical method now are capable of more exertion than has been possible previously, the doctors report.

Friend—This is gratifying news. I see that not a single paying passenger was killed on an American railroad in 1933.

Railroad Man—We can't afford to lose any.

It is as bad to have too many friends as no friends at all.

Send Had Wonderful Trip

Speed Summer In Northern Seas On Whaling Vessel

Thirteen thousand miles had been covered by Cockburn McCallum, Winnipeg King's scout, when he arrived in Winnipeg after having travelled with the steamship Nascopie on its annual trip through northern waters to the Arctic posts of the Hudson's Bay Company and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

It was an adventurous and wonderful journey wh'ch has come the way of few youths, and the Winnipeg scout, who received it from the Hudson's Bay Company as the award given annually to Canada's outstanding scout, realised that when he arrived at the C.N.R. station and was greeted by his mother, Mrs. A. H. McCallum, his friends and officials of the Manitoba council of the boy scout movement.

He left Winnipeg on June 29, going first by train to Toronto and Ottawa and then to Montreal, from where the Nascopie sailed July 7. In Ottawa he received the flag of the Boy Scout Association, which flew at the top of one of the steamer's masts during the whole journey.

As the steamer sailed northward he saw the barren, rocky coast of Labrador, Cartwright, Burwell, Lake Harbor, of Baffin Land. Wakeham Bay, Wolstenholme, Cape Smith, Port Harrison and Charlton Island were posts on the northern coast where the steamer called as she proceeded to Hudson Bay and James Bay.

His company on the ship was as interesting as the journey itself. There was Ashley Cooper, governor of the company, and his party. Dominion government scientists, R.C.M.P. officers on their way to duty in northern outposts, and men who would work at Hudson's Bay Company trading posts.

Several times the steamer was locked in ice floes and fogs, on one occasion for seven days, and three days at another time.

The most northerly point reached by the ship was Craig Harbor, on Ellesmere Island, where the R.C.M.P. officers are stationed. En route to the island the ship stopped at North Devon Island to establish a new H.B.C. post at Dundas Harbor. Two company men were left at the new post with several Eskimo families and their dogs, taken up from Churchill.

The return was started from Ellesmere Island about the middle of September, after several moons, which would remain until next summer had fallen and ice had begun to form.

The Nascopie arrived at Halifax on the evening of Sept. 30, and Cockburn visited several eastern cities before continuing west.

The long trip is now over, and his second year in pre-medicine at the University of Manitoba has begun. He is a member of the 44th Winnipeg troop, St. Margaret's church.

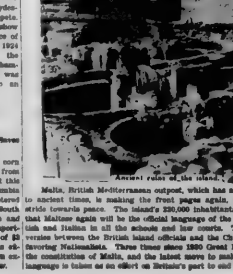
TINY MALTA MOVES FOR PEACE

Scene in Valletta, Malta



Ancient ruins of the island

Malta, British Mediterranean outpost, which has a history tracing back to ancient times, is making the front pages again, this time in a great stride towards peace. The island's 220,000 inhabitants have been informed that Maltese again will be the official language of the island, replacing Britain and Italian in all the schools and law courts. This climaxes controversies between the British island officials and the Church with its Italian-favoring Nationalists. These times since 1920 Great Britain has suspended the constitution of Malta, and the latest move to make Maltese the official language is taken as an effort on Britain's part to end all the internal strife.

YOUR HANDWRITING REVEALS YOUR CHARACTER

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT (Graphe-Analyst)

(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: It is very evident that interest in these articles, and in the subject of Character Reading from Handwriting, is increasing. Many readers are sending in their own handwriting for a personal reading by this well-known handwriting expert. Have you sent yours? See the author's invitation following this article.)

* * *

In the course of a huge mail that comes in to me every week, I am impressed by the number of young people, of both sexes, who are very vitally interested in finding what their friend's character is really like.

Some of them are franker than others, and inform me that they will rely entirely on my verdict. I am gratified by this confidence and always do my best to guide my correspondents aright.

I often hesitate to inform my young person that their handwriting is totally unsuited to them, because, so often, people can rectify weaknesses or negative traits by a little self-tuition. The great point is that a lot of people are unskilled in others, unless they get down to brass tacks and improve themselves.

A young lady wrote to me recently, and sent me a specimen of her boy friend's writing. Incidentally, she told me that he was very fond of gambling, and did not seem able to give it up. A cursory inspection of the writing revealed that his worst fault was his inability to say "no". He was vacillating and prone to procrastinate. He was indecisive, unable to make up his own mind.

It does not take much thought to realize that this young man is guided too much by others, and, in his particular case, he finds it impossible to refuse when asked to join in a friendly game for gambling. He hasn't the backbone to say "No".

There is a chance for him, and for my correspondent's sake I hope that a successful union with him—but it depends on himself. He must exert more backbone. He must learn to decide things; to make up his mind.

If he doesn't, or will not, then my young lady friend may as well write him off as a bad loss, and turn her attentions in another direction.

One of the most failing traits which anyone can be subject, is a chronic indecision and procrastination. Anyone who has this disease—for it is a mental ailment—is an unlucky person to know. Unless they can overcome this failing is overcome, trouble and unhappiness are almost certain to follow.

There are cases where I have no hesitation in warning people to have nothing to do with certain others. Their deceit and dishonesty stand out in their writing like flag-poles. I will deal with this subject further in a later article.

* * *

"Mabel," Saskatoon. The writing of your friend shows that she is thrifty and cautious. You will be quite safe to entrust her with the matter you speak of, because you can be sure that she will look after it. It is her nature to do so. And, being honest and straightforward as she is, you can depend upon her.

* * *

Would you like to know what your handwriting discloses? Have you any friends or sweetheart whose true character you would much like to know? A character reading will amaze you with its insight, and may open the doors of opportunity to you. Send specimen of the writing you want analysed, and state birthdate in each case. Enclose 10c coin for each specimen, and send with it your name, address and initials, to Lawrence Hibbert, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 176 McDermot Avenue, Winnipeg, Man. Letters will be answered as soon as possible, but please allow at least two weeks for your reply. All letter are confidential.

The Hero Of Trafalgar

Nelson Was Fortunate With Youth When He Started Navy

The exhibition of old pictures illustrating Vice-Admiral Viscount Horatio Nelson's career, recently held at the Parker Gallery, is full of interest. When Nelson joined the ship of his uncle, Maurice Suckling, the latter asked his father what the lad had done, that one so weak should be sent to rough it at sea.

That was in 1770. Twenty-seven years later, at Santa Cruz, the "weak youth" swarmed up a rope on board his ship, the Theseus, calling for the surgeon to amputate his shattered right arm. Sixty hours later, after an operation minus any kind of an anaesthetic, Nelson was writing a despatch to Lord St. Vincent with his left hand. He assured the Duke of Clarence "not a scrap of that ardor with which I served our King has been shot away."

Off Cape Trafalgar, on the historic eve of our most glorious naval action, he said, "I'll now amuse the fleet with a signal," and gave his captains the immortal "England expects" epic. A few hours later came the tragic. "They have got me at last, Hardy!"—London Letter.

Wembley Man Wheat King

Gives Province Eighth Victory in Wheat Classes, and Canada 20th

ALBERTA DOES WELL

World's Greatest Grain Grown Near Famed Trelle Farm

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. A new wheat king was crowned this afternoon at the hay and grain stage held with the International Livestock exposition and again the coveted crown to the North American grain kingdom rests on the brow of Canadian John D. Allsop 20 years old, of Wembley, Alberta.

His victory gave to the dominion wheat growers their 20th wheat championship in 21 years. The sun headed Fairfield Pet, of Moose Nelle Farms, Limited, Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, also has married Miss Williamson of last autumn's Dominion Exhibition at Regina. Mr. and Mrs. Allsop will be at home after January 1 at Wembley, Alberta.

Allsop and his entry came from the famed Peace River valley in Alberta, where most of the wheat grown is of championship calibre. The grand championship in the wheat division was won by an exhibit of a peck of Reward variety, grown just across the road from the farm made famous by Herman Trelle.

Since 1926, when C. Edson Smith of Corvallis, Mont. won his second championship, Canada's grain champions have come down from the broad acres of the dominion's wheat country. Last year the championship went to Elrose, Saskatchewan. Prior to that it had been held in Alberta.

John D. Allsop is 20 years of age. He was born in Alberta and his spent all of his life on the farm. He lives with his father who came here to Chicago in 1924 and had used some of wheat John D. Allsop is a fine clean up young fellow.

"My next big effort will be to secure the championship to hold the Edmonton Journal on Monday. He intends making a fine work in farming which he finds a fascinating game. When interviewed he was preparing his exhibit for Canada's prize grain show in Grande Prairie. He said he considered this show next winter and would take little time to discuss his win at this age.

He has been a member of the Grand Prairie Junior Grain club for five years or ever since he reached the Wembley district. His Allsop homestead came from ex-servicemen's grants in Lacombe. Then another neighbor of Herman Trelle and Mr. Allsop gives Trelle credit for his success, inspiration and persistent effort.

Thank you to and Hill for your subscription to our local paper. Glad to see we have your remarks along to Mr. George whose name was usually taken for granted in securing the hockey events in the district.

There are many complaints in the district by people subscribing to outside papers and Canadian journals and receiving same from either the server or newspaper. It is advisable to ask agent, or local correspondent, you will not only get a news item agent to this procedure. However we have in our possession a receipt for a subscription to a well known journal made out on the stationery supplied by that firm, which is signed by a local Rep. 25th, server ample time to get a person on the mailing list.

We are sorry that it was in relation to the consignment that Ye Ed received. The Weird Touch in a footnote in a recent issue and in spite of the fact that we have rather put out at the time we saw the justification of the act it was local Reader for your perusal.

The roads in the district while good for automobile traffic are not so good for sleighing. There is poor sleigh ing and passes coming for unshod animals as the south slopes are in a slippy condition.

Russian Crown Exhibited

Was Sold By Soviet Government To Private Collector

A crown worn at their marriage by the last three Russian czarinas was exhibited at the fine arts exposition at Rockefeller centre in New York. The crown, which is a part of Czarist private collections, is the most important piece of Russian crown jewelry known to have been disposed of by the Soviet government since its accession to power

It is made of scarlet velvet ribbons studded and shaped into a circlet with three cross pieces. On the ribbons are two rows of large diamonds and three of smaller stones, and a cross which tops the crown contains five huge brilliants. There are 320 of the big stones in all and 3,300 of the small, and the total weight of diamonds on the crown is about 260 carats

The crown, was made about 1846 during the reign of Nicholas I, for the marriage of the future Empress Marie Alexandrovna to the Czarevich Alexander later Czar Alexander II. The other czarinas who wore it were Marie Feodorovna, wife of Alexander III, and the ill fated Alexandra Feodorovna, wife of Nicholas II, the last autocrat of Russia.

Chances are Catherine the Great wore the diamonds in their present settings and that they were later simply sewn on to the crown shape The diamonds are extraordinarily clear and brilliant stones of South American or Indian origin

Dauntless Rule Governs This Custom At Royal Weddings

Princess Marina s wedding brought predictions from many people commenta the Glasgow Herald The system, which worked so well for onlookers during the wedding of the Duke and Duchess of York was repeated, and the route followed by the three processions in connection with the ceremony were carefully studied Nearly everyone who possesses a window that might give a royal view made full use of it and the commercially minded realized appropriate charges to visitors It is not generally known that there are unwritten rules against throwing flowers, a custom which prevailed until the middle of last century It was found that crushed petals made the roads unsafe for the horses in the procession and the practice was discouraged for this reason

Bird That Rivals Parrot

Budgerigar Can Speak Long Sentences And Are Not Rude

The parrot's reputation for being the best talking bird is in danger, he has a very serious rival in that little gamut-tinted fellow, the budgerigar! In the newest bird show at the Crystal Palace, London, there were recently budgerigars that could talk the average parrot head off. They recite poems and nursery rhymes They have imagination as well as memories and they are not rude like parrots. It is even claimed for some of them that they speak long sentences in the best English. Billy Martin shown by Mrs. H. A. Martin, of Catford, has a repertoire, which includes

Mary had a little lamb.

Its fleece was white as snow.

Then there is Joey who belongs to H Lucas of Wandsworth. He knows several poems, and he will tell one if is O K Baby, and lots of other things. One of the smallest birds in the show drew the biggest crowd. It was the 11,000 ruby and topaz humming bird that changed color as you looked at it

Two table-top pictures. At left, is a tiny cork-and-paper ship given a "flying" appearance by placing it on a pane of glass and shooting from underneath. Above, a circus scene with familiar dolls and toys.

One of the most interesting of camera stunts is the making of "table-top" pictures. As the term indicates, you assemble your picture material on some convenient table or bench, and shoot it from any desired angle.

"Table-top" pictures are, usually, very much like model stage settings. You may use dolls, toys, statuettes, model airplanes, miniature trains or boats anything at all that appeals to you. The point of the whole thing is to arrange your subjects in an interesting, realistic, or fantastic fashion, and to light this arrangement so that it makes a good picture.

Usually, these pictures are taken at close range. If your camera cannot be focused for close-ups, use a portrait attachment a simple, inexpensive, and highly useful little gadget

There's no limit to the effects you can achieve with camera stunts, much more fascinating than working them out. Here are some pointers that may save you time and trouble.

Remember that the only point of view that matters is the point of view of your camera's lens. Your set-up may appear charming from above or from the side. But don't let it mislead you The camera must be pleased

Working at close range, the depth of focus of your lens is not likely to be great So keep the elements within as short a distance front to back, as possible And the most important feature should be at the point of exact focus

If you want to give an effect of deep distance, as in a miniature landscape setup, place various figures (trees, houses, fences, etc.) in receding planes. The focus will become less exact as the distance from the camera increases. A piece of dark cardboard, cut with an irregular odor, laid across the back of the set, will suggest a range of distant hills And a big piece of light cardboard, set up well back of the rest of the set-up, gives you a good "sky".

Remember that the camera's outlook is wide-shaped instead of up to the lens and widening out as it goes into the distance.

The greatest fun in this work is playing with light Sometimes a single strong flood of light will give you what you want Again, you may want one figure to stand out brilliantly, with everything else subdued. To do this, you will have to block off most of the light with sheet cardboard, screens, or what not, as needed.

You'll get your best effects by working with the lens at its smallest opening Allow plenty of time anywhere from ten seconds to a minute or two, depending on the amount of light

Too, don't forget that most time register blue as white, and red as black or dark gray A white figure against a blue background will tend to be lost; similarly, a red figure will not stand out against a dark background

It's fascinating business, all in all and will repay you well for your patience and ingenuity.

Little Journeys In Science

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Around the earth are eleven and a half trillions of pounds of air, or atmosphere, exerting a pressure of about fourteen tons on each person. Because this pressure is distributed evenly on all parts of the body, it does not cause inconvenience. At sea level, the air exerts a pressure of a little more than fourteen pounds per square inch, but the pressure is less on higher levels because the air above pressure on that below, making the pressure greatest near the earth.

Torricelli, an Italian scientist, and pupil of Galileo, was the first to discover that air had weight. This is done by filling a bottle with air, weighing it, then removing the air by means of an air pump, and weighing again. The bottle will be found to be lighter when weighed the second time.

Air is necessary to both plant and animal life, and it is also vital to the process of burning. By volume air is composed of one-fifth oxygen and four-fifths nitrogen. In addition it contains 8 or 9 parts in 10 000 of carbon dioxide. There is also a variable amount of water vapor, small quantities of sulphuric acid gas and hydrogen, together with many minute particles of organic and inorganic matter. After an electrical storm, nitric acid is also found.

Humans and animals breathe in the oxygen from the air, and give off carbon dioxide. Plants do the opposite breathing in carbon dioxide, and give off oxygen. Man depends on oxygen for life, and so the importance of ventilation and the over-estimated fondness which are not well founded with fresh air become a menace to those who live in them. since the oxygen in the air is used up, giving off carbon dioxide, which in large amounts when breathed in large quantities.

In addition to life and combustion, other phenomena which depend on the air are: The propagation of sound, the disintegration of plant and animal matter, twilight, polar and terrestrial radiation and weather.

True Of Many People

We think so because all other people think so.

Or because or because after all, we do think so

Or because we were told so, and think we must think so;

Or because we once thought so, and only found the opposite out;

Or because, having thought so, we think we will think so.

- Henry Sidgwick.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 9

THE CHRISTIAN AS TEACHER

Golden text: "Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth." Timothy 2:15.

Lesson: Matthew 7:24-29; Acts 18: [illegible]

Devotional Reading: 2 Timothy 3: 14-17.

Explanations And Comments

Hearers and Doers, Mt. 7:24-27. The parable of the Two Foundations ends the Sermon on the Mount, as given by Matthew.

"Many think that their lives are rock-founded because they have a nebulous admiration for the moral teachings of Jesus" (Henry F. Cope).

The Master Teacher, Mt. 28:20. The multitudes were astonished at Jesus' teaching, because he taught them as One having himself authority, with direct knowledge of the truth, and did not quote the authority of tradition, of what had been said before him by some one else, as did the scribes. The scribes were the professional students and teachers of the Law. Theirs was the task of multiplying copies of the Law, and of expounding it.

Learning to Teach Better, Acts 18: 49-28. There came to Ephesus about twenty years after the death of Christ a man named Apollos, an Alexandrian Jew, who had a great command of language, could speak fluently and well, and was thoroughly conversant with the Old Testament scriptures. In the knowledge of which Pla all Jews, he had been brought up. He had received some instruction in the way of the Lord, knew something about Christ and the Christian life, and being of a zealous spirit he began to speak and teach boldly in the synagogue at Ephesus. His knowledge of Jesus had been gained from the disciples of John the Baptist, and was accurate as far as it went, but it did not go far enough, as Priscilla and Aquila perceived when they heard him.

It was with Priscilla and Aquila that Paul had made his home while in Corinth (Acts 18:1-3), and when Paul was forced to leave Corinth, three two went with him (18:18). When they came to Ephesus, Priscilla and Aquila remained there while Paul went on to Syria.

Priscilla and Aquila saw how useful Apollos could be in the work if he were better instructed, and they took him in hand and taught him more accurately the way of God. He had come to Ephesus with opportunity for doing good, and he not only found the opportunity but excitedly received great good himself.

Soon he wished to go over into Achaia to teach, and in this he was encouraged by "the brethren" who wrote to the disciples there to receive him. There Apollos helped them through grace them that had believed, and the marginal rendering of the Bible translates. He was able to confute the Jews at Corinth and show by the Scriptures that Jesus is the Christ. Paul speaks of Apollos as watering where he had planted (1 Cor. 3:6), and some of the people became so attached to Apollos and his teaching that they called themselves his, rather than Paul's, disciples (1 Cor. 3:4).

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

LEMON WAFERS

(Makes 7 to 8 dozen wafers)

1 cup shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
4 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt

Cream fat and sugar. Add eggs, lemon juice, rind, flour and salt. Roll very thin. Cut into fancy shapes. Bake in a quick oven (425 degrees F.) until delicately browned. Decorate with: candied orange peel, cocoanut, chopped nuts, raisins, or sugar, as desired.

The dough may be shaped into a roll, covered with parafin (or wax) paper, kept in the ice box, sliced and baked as needed.

BAKED HAM

1 slice raw ham 1 inch thick
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon mixed mustard
Milk

Mix together the sugar, flour and mustard. Rub well into both sides of the ham. Lay in a shallow baking dish. Add enough milk to cover the ham. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes or until ham is tender and thoroughly cooked. Add more milk during the cooking if needed.

Boy And Girl Farmers

Developing A Practical Interest In Farming Among The Young People

That the rising generation will contribute its share toward the development of Canadian agriculture is indicated by the fact that the Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs of the Dominion have a membership of 26,000. These 26,000 boys and girls are working on a wide variety of projects including the raising of all kinds of livestock and poultry, the production of field crops, and horticulture. The courses for girls include home economics. The fact that each club member must carry on the club project on the home farm is one of the most important factors underlying the success which has been achieved. A club member with his calf, a pair of pigs, chickens, seed grain p'ot, or whatever the project calls for, develops not only experience in that particular class of agriculture but a keen and healthy interest arising from a sense of ownership.

The movement was started 21 years ago for the purpose of developing among the young people in the rural districts of Canada a practical interest in farm work, and to provide a measure of agricultural education to those unable to attend schools or colleges of agriculture. The Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture include club work in their extension programs, and substantial support has been given in the form of trips, special prizes, trophies and scholarships contributed by railway companies, banks, industrial institutions, service clubs, exhibition associations, agricultural bodies of various kinds and interested individuals.

The annual contest of the Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs conducted under the direction of the Canadian Council is one of the features of the Royal Winter Fair held in Toronto. Thirty-one teams of two members each, selected in provincial elimination contests, competed for Dominion championships in six of the major livestock and field crop projects.

Canadian Butter Grades High

Dominion Product Maintains A High Standard According To Report

Canadian butter quality is unques tionably being maintained at a high standard, according to a report on Federal butter and cheese grading issued by the Department of Agriculture. During the period from October 1 to November 3 out of 119,634 boxes of pasteurized butter graded, 85.09 per cent. was classified as first grade, 12.16 per cent as second grade, 2.26 per cent. as third grade, and 0.48 per cent. as no grade

The grading of butter for domestic consumption by authorized dairy produce graders provides for the pleing of the grade of butter on the wrapper and on the carton. This practice tends to do away with unfair selling methods and competition and at the same time enables the housewife to know the quality of butter she is buying. The regulations prohibit the making of false, misleading or exaggerated claims with respect to the quality of the butter or any other dairy product whether such claims are made by advertisement or on the packages. While there are grading regulations apply to all Canada, [illegible] ntory except in pro- [illegible] ay pave enabling legislation.

Creamery butter production in Canada showed a gain of 14.3 per cent. in October when 20,583,372 pounds were produced compared with 17,960,111 pounds in October, 1933. The cumulative production of creamery butter for the ten months ended October totalled 209,759,840 pounds and compared with 193,991,237 pounds in the corresponding period of 1933 shows a gain of 7 per cent

Got What He Wanted

"Don't give me such words or poets when you make them our future," said the railway inspector to the line overseer. "Just put down the words of the track as you find it. Leave out everything that isn't to the point. I want a business letter not a novel."

The overseer replied that he grasped the idea. A few days later the line was badly flooded and the overseer wrote his report to the inspector in the new style. It read:

"Where the railway was the track is."

To the Father of A Son

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

AN ACTUAL LETTER ACCOMPANYING A FATHER'S 1930 CHRISTMAS PRESENT TO HIS SON:

"Dear George

"This policy is my 1930 Christmas present to you. I have had it framed in the hope that you will keep it so until Christmas in 1976 when you will be almost 50 years old. If each year the premiums are paid it will then be worth about $15,000 in cash or it will pay you from that time on, and as long as you live, about $100 per month. As long as I am able to do so it is my purpose to pay the premiums, but when that is no longer possible I want to charge you with the responsibility of saving each year the $121.50 which the policy calls for. If you do so it is a certainty that in later life you will recognize the fact that it is one of the most satisfactory investments you could have made.

"It is too soon to determine what your life work is to be, but whatever it is . . . it will yield you some income and if your savings are put into life insurance I am confident you will have more assurance of financial independence than if you seek investments in which there is the element of speculation. However, whatever you do it can be nothing to be compared to savings other than to keep this policy in force at least you will always have something to turn to in a time of financial stress, and in later life you will have an income sufficient to help you from want.

Dad"

A municipality is one of the very few institutions that calls a public meeting to discuss its financial affairs. Every citizen who pays taxes, light power or steam boat accounts is a shareholder and should take pride in helping to keep its affairs in a sound position. Have you done your bit?

Mr. and Mrs. John B. MacKenzie and Mr. D. Blanchinsky motored to Elk Point on Dec. 1 and from there Chas will go on to Vincent and then from Alta. to visit Mr and Mrs B. J. Blanchinsky. They expect to stay a couple of weeks.

The Telegraph concert, Christmas Tree and dance will be held on Wednesday Dec 19th, commencing at 8.30 p.m. 22-3

Mr. H. P. Long is in receipt of a card from Mrs. Jenkinson (nee Florence Bissett) at Vancouver announcing the birth of a baby daughter a few weeks ago.

DISTRICT COURT SITTINGS

At the district court sittings here on Tuesday with His Honor Judge Lindsay presiding Raymond Thomas Hunt had small debt action against Lorne Mahoney being a claim for balance due for wages. The parties were both from the Kitscoty district. There was no agreement as to what to pay per day should be and Mahoney claimed he did not hire Thomas and that he was simply working there to be heard. The court felt that people hiring out should make definite arrangement with respect to the wages they expected to receive. Each party was ordered to pay his costs. Mahoney for plaintiff, Richardson for defendant.

Charles P. Lipovsky for Eby Kutzak an action for damages arising out of a collision on the Dewe road a year or so ago. The actual plaintiff in this case is an insurance company. Mr Cleary for defendant, R. D. White, Ed monton, for plaintiff.

Eight applicants were approved for naturalization.

An order to extend time within which to register a lien against was granted R. H. Hall Limitree, a consent order for directions in Jas. H. Adam probate and order to pass accounts to J. W. G. Morrison, K.C.

All players wishing to try out for the team report for practise on Sunday afternoon next at 2 o'clock. The executive plan to have a winning team this year—let's get out and boost the up and coming Tigers. With a team comprised of the talent of the north as far as Clandonald the Tigers should be right in the midst of things, and give good value for their money.

HOCKEY DANCE AT OTTAWA

Don't forget the big dance on Friday Dec. 14 in aid of the hockey club. Admission, gents 50c., ladies bring cake. All proceeds from this dance will be devoted to the fund for the purchase of hockey equipment for the team, so let's get out and give it our support.

RINK OPENS

The Ottawa community rink is now open for skating. Due to the efforts of our local men a very presentable sheet of ice has been prepared.

BUILDING BOOM

Things have been happening around the district lately. What with a new barn 28 by 20 recently finished at the Ottawa school and the completion of a barn on the farm of Mr. R. Littlewood, both being done by Contractor Rod Fraser, our district is experiencing a building boom.

MACLEOD'S LIMITED ARE OPTIMISTIC AS TO WEST

That economic conditions in Western Canada today give hint of a general improvement is the encouraging observation to be deduced from the continuance of the policy of Macleod's Limited in opening retail farm supply stores in towns and cities throughout the west.

The Macleod store in Vermilion is one of seventeen stores to be put in operation by the company. These retail stores are located so that each serves a territory outstanding in its progressive farming interests. This fact is evident when consideration is made of Yorkton and Portage in Prairie, the centres favored as location for two of the more recently opened units in the chain of Macleod stores.

When approached on the matter, E. M. Macleod, managing director of the company, stated that these retail stores would not affect the firm's established mail-order policy. In their specialty of farm equipment and supplies Macleod's Limited operate the largest business of its kind in Canada.

The many friends of Helen Gunderson will be glad to hear of her as Mrs. A. M. Hindle of Bode, Alberta. Helen writes as follows. "The 'Miss' was changed to 'Mrs.' a couple of months ago. So I have a new job now, and am putting into practice what I learn at V.S.A. It comes in quite handy, too."

"CHERRY BLOSSOM" TO BE PRESENTED TO STUDENTS

The local cast which put on the delightful play entitled "Miss Cherry Blossom" has very kindly offered to put on same on the School of Agriculture for the entertainment of the V.S.A. and the U. S. students. To do this effectively they plan on moving the scenery to the large gymnasium at the School of Agriculture.

As the members of the cast are offering their services in aid of Sunshine, it has been thought best to charge but for each high school and college student, and 25c for outsiders. This is a wonderful opportunity to see "Cherry Blossom." It is a delightful play and one not to be missed. Vermilion and the town are invited to share this with the high school and college students. The performance is scheduled to start at 8.15 p.m. Fri. 7th.

Mr. Meyfordt of Edmonton arrived at the school on Tuesday with a truck load of 150 bushels of potatoes. He will return in two weeks with another of the same size.

HOCKEY BOYS HAVE WORK OUT

V.S.A. hockey boys had their first work out on the rink on Saturday afternoon. Some very promising material was evident but it will take considerable training to mould it into a real record for one boy to make "going concern." However, practices and enthusiasm will help a good deal this illness. Mr. however, hopes to return again shortly.

DEBATE PROVES AMUSING

Last Saturday evening the Literary Society put on one of their weekly programmes, the main feature of which was a debate by four of the "Two-in-one" boys, which was of exceptionally high character.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved that Staff Members should move from Class Room to Class Room rather than the Students." The debate brought out a great many amusing situations and kept the crowd in continuous roars of laughter. Sonia Thomas acted as chairman.

V.S.A. STUDENT WINS HONORS AT CHICAGO GRAIN SHOW

The big Grain Show at the Chicago International was a triumph for the Alberta Junior Grain Clubs, and the Wembley Club in particular.

In the Hard Red Spring Wheat class three Wembley boys took first, third and sixth places. John Alsopp, the winner, was also crowned "Wheat King" of North America, falling heir to the repeatedly won crown of his next-door neighbor, Herman Trelle. Young Sebastian, another veteran showman, secured third place, while Wm. J. Rigby, partner of Alsopp on the Junior Championship Grain Judging team, came sixth. Rigby is at present a student at the School of Agriculture, and is receiving the congratulations of the staff and his fellow students on his splendid showing.

FLASH — Word has just come through that Wm J Rigby, V.S.A. student stands 10th in the out class championship class. This is an exception al record for one boy to make.

W. J. Reed, for the past four years mayor of the town, who had previously stated he was retiring from office, was the recipient of a costly solitaire stick pin from his fellow councillors at the regular meeting of that body on Monday night.

For the past six years a highly esteemed resident of the Islay district, Alexander Robinson Young passed away on November 26th at the age of 53 years. He was born at Montrose, Scotland and came to the west in 1911, a year later opening in business at Islay where he engaged as a baker and merchant. Mr. Young was possessed of genuine worth, a manly spirit and the purest devotion to his home and friends. He is survived by his widow and little daughter Nettie, an only son and one aunt.

Mrs. Eva J. McKenzie and John W. Summers of Manaville were united in marriage November 29th at the Presbyterian manse.

Frederick Charles Dennis died at Vermilion on Monday last at the age of 45 years, from pneumonia. He leaves a widow and two children. Mr. Dennis was born in Cornwall, England and was formerly engaged with the C.N.R., but of late years was engaged on building operations in the town.

The death took place at noon, this Thursday, of Geo. S. Matthews, barrister, of influenza after ten days illness. Deceased was 32 years of age and leaves a widow to mourn his loss. The family home is in Manitoba. Mr. Matthews was admitted to the bar in 1914 and shortly after came to Vermilion.

FOGS ARE UNIQUE DURING NOVEMBER

Otherwise Month "Normal," Weather Observer Reports

EDMONTON.—Mightly fog during the last week of the month formed the only unusual feature of the weather during November, a moderate amount of moisture, sunshine and normal temperatures readings being recorded, according to statistics released Saturday by officials of the dominion meteorological bureau here.

The average temperature for November was 25.2 degrees compared with the highest since 1918 of 24.2 in November, 1932, and the lowest of 9.3 in November, 1927.

Lowest temperature of the month was four below zero recorded nine days ago compared with a record low of 32 below for November set in 1919, and the highest "low" of 19 above last year.

A normal precipitation of .46 or nearly half an inch of moisture which included 3 3-10 inches of snow was recorded for the month. The highest precipitation was 1.39 in 1919 and the lowest .01 in 1929.

VERMILION WEATHER

Some variation in the maximum temperatures to those recorded by the weather bureau in Edmonton may be noted. We experienced low points of 4 below on two consecutive nights, Nov. 20 and 21, and 10 below on Thursday, Nov. 29th. Our snowfall was also lighter than the 3 3-10 inches recorded in the city.

DAILY TEMPERATURES

One cold night, that of Friday last or rather Saturday morning, when 8 below was registered, was the only feature of the weather for the past week, although a tendency towards slightly lower temperatures is noticed. The logs continue

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

(From the Neighborhood of the South-East)

Aw, now, Turkey Hill! Please remember that a lot of Woodgate's dance lovers are now very busy attending to the youngest generation, and that's why only the Nighthawks deserted everything for Contract. Even the community dances are much to the kind patronage of other districts since many of us have our dancing curtailed for a while. And just a hint, T. Hill — it pays to advertise!

Well, who do you suppose got the U.F.W.A. quilt this year? (This is news that many have been waiting for.) Oddly enough we heard it professed that it would travel east-wards this year, and now everyone did—to rest on the doorstep of Mr. Wilfred Chastick, of Kokaee-Wild Rose district. We hope the pretty blues and tans pleased him as much as most of those who saw it. Reports of the sale indicate an estimated success, the final check-up not having taken place yet, at time of writing.

Totland news reports that Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wolters are the thoroughly charivvarried twice, and should now feel like well-established members of the community.

Mrs. Helen Bohning is spending a short while under treatment at the Islay hospital.

Take your pick for December 7th—Union or Kokaee.

Miss Marjorie Connauton entertained as a week-end guest Miss Beth May, who has been attending Vermilion High with her. Both young ladies helped add to the gaiety of the brightened a few homes with their cheery company during their stay.

That sport, Curling, is active skating and winter party on Sunday, on Ice at Van's place. The ice was fair, if not long experienced.

Yep! We missed that, too, and spent a lot of our day renewing acquaintances of the Islay hospital staff, glad to say we found them all as pleasant as always, even though very busy.

Mr. Mark Stamp, 'Sergeant-at-Arms' of the Nighthawks, has returned to the Neighborhood from Edmonton, and says the Contract craze will go "de-bunk" as one of our old-timers used to put it.

The President of the Glee Club wishes it known that more particulars of the annual meeting of the club will be at the home of Chas. Friedland, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 12th.

Ethel: "Hello, Ethel; get your hair cut?"

Ethel: "No, I washed it and it shrank."

Now dust that off!

ISLAND HILL

If anything were needed to show the popularity of Pat Dynes and his spouse among the members and fans of the local football club, the proceedings held at the home of Mrs. Campbell Lake, Gap Lake, Poplar Heights and Alaniadia districts. The dance was highly enjoyed under the able direction of the Burt orchestra, which, by the way, has been augmented by the addition of two able musicians, viz: Miss Lena Cupelli, flute, and Mr. J. C. Allen, no wife Mr. Gould, who to a host in himself in charge of the drums, taking up an orchestra under the direction of Mr. Chas. Burt that organizers of dances should not overlook. Mr. F. Debrod was M.C.

After supper, which was served by Mrs. H. A. Searle, Mrs. Jenkins and a capable band of assistants, a short program was contributed by Miss Adamson and Mr. Adamson, songs; and Chris Hawkes, dance. At this stage Mr. Bert Searle, chairman, requested Mr. P. McDaniel to make the presentation, which consisted of a beautiful and very set of silver cutlery to Mr. and Mrs. Dynes on behalf of the members and fans of the Island Hill Football Club. In accepting the present, Mr. Dynes said that the presentation of many acts of kindness received from the members and fans of the football club since he joined the organization, and on behalf of Mrs. Dynes and himself he sincerely thank all the members of the club for the really beautiful present just received. The happy evening then stood round in a circle, joined hands and sang "For he's a jolly good fellow" and "Auld Lang Syne."

The following committee were in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Searle, Mr. and Mrs McDaniel, Messrs. C. Hawkes F. Debrod, Jim Williams, G. Stephens and J. C. Allen

We should add that Gamble Nelson of last season's team, journeyed upwards of 40 miles Friday to be present at the function held in honor of his colleague.

Mrs. H. A. Searle entertained at her home Wednesday, 28th ult. in honor of Mrs. Carberry who was formerly the principal of the school here. The following were guests: Mrs. Birmingham ,Mrs. Dignan, Mrs. Evans, Miss Evans, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Lyon, Mrs. Mitz, Mrs. MacIntyre, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Playce, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. A. Searle, Mrs. Sutherland, Mrs. O. Stephens. A sumptuous lunch was served by Mrs. H. A. Searle and Miss E. Searle, and everyone enjoyed the function immensely.

We are in for a hectic time at the school during December. Monday, 10th, special meeting of U.F.A. local for election of officers; Friday, 14th, the usual whist drive; Friday, 21st, annual Christmas concert and entertainment for the children. And to wind up the year in good style an old-time Island Hill novelty dance will be held Monday, 31st December — Hogmanay night. Now get your tartans ready. Particulars of this dance will be advertised in a later issue of The Standard.

We are doing something out of the ordinary this week — we are awarding ourselves the Merit Medal for making a speech at the presentation function Friday, of such impelling force as to compel the chairman, Bert Searle, to seek the shelter of the bachelor's quarters before we were half finished. Had Taff been present he probably would have cracked our brain box with a shillelagh to stop us.

And, dear, reader, to show you the inconsistency or human nature, it was the greatest ovation since Hastings was arraigned in the British house of commons.

PAGEANTRY OF OLD ENGLAND AT ROYAL WEDDING

London.—Office girls used vanity mirrors and aunties peeked through periscopes as all London sought to glimpse the wedding procession of Britain's Prince George and the lovely Marina.

All the pageantry of old England attended the wedding of the smiling princess of Greece and the tall, handsome Duke of Kent.

They were united according to ritual of the Church of England in Westminster Abbey and by rites of the Greek Orthodox Church at a subsequent service in the chapel of Buckingham Palace.

All the grandeur and tradition of the British Empire was typified in the rituals and pageants.

Their romance, which began in the mountains of Yugoslavia—on the estate of the late King Alexander, now assassinated—was consummated with their pledging of their troths in history-steeped Westminster Abbey before the most glittering assembly of Europe's high personages which have gathered here in more than a decade.

The Duke of Kent called his bride simply "Marina."

She said, "I, Marina, take thee George Edward Alexander Edmund, to be my wedded husband."

The word "obey" was used in the service and the archbishop pronounced them man and wife.

The king and queen, King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway and King Christian and Queen Alexandra of Denmark occupied places of prominence among the royal guests nearest the brilliant white-decked altar with its flickering candles, and by golden plate and altar pieces. Not far away sat former King George of Greece.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner, and Mrs. Ferguson were present with a group of other distinguished personages from the Dominion.

The entire cabinet and many former cabinet members occupied other places.

Great crowds outside were able to follow the ceremony through loud speakers with practically every man standing bareheaded.

It also was broadcast throughout the world.

Want Freight Reduction

Ask Lower Rate On Grain To United States Border

Winnipeg. — Representatives of Canadian Railways were asked to consider a reduction in the freight rates from prairie points to the United States border-line. The suggestion was advanced by a committee of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to enable farmers to market feed grains during the winter months.

The committee suggested the railways might establish a rate from western points that would compare favorably with the present Port William rate. Navigation, it was pointed out, would soon close and farmers left dependent on export rates that would not permit of their grain being sold.

At present heavy trucking of wheat and feed grain is in progress. This, it is suggested, would be completely halted with the first fall of heavy snow and export trade lost to Canadian farmers unless the railways place rates into effect making sales possible.

Willing To Help

Montreal Improvement in the pensions' situation for war veterans enabled the Canadian Legion to consider questions with which it could not deal previously, Colonel W. W. Foster, Vancouver, acting president of the Legion, stated here. As result of this improvement, he said, the Legion has now offered the services of its members to the Dominion government to help if possible in relieving the unemployment crisis

Big Business Rules

Manufacturers Exert Influence To Support Government Control, Says Stevens

Toronto.—"The manipulators of big business are the real government of Canada," declared Hon. H. H. Stevens before University of Toronto students at Hart House.

The former minister of trade and commerce was guest speaker at the university debate on the resolution "That in the opinion of this house big business is a curse when directed solely by the profit motive."

"Now don't get me wrong," he continued. "I do not say, nor would I admit, that the leaders of big business personally interfere with the operation of the government, but the very nature of the laws of the country and the character of this big business, as defined in the resolution, exerts an economic influence which supplants government control."

Mr. Stevens was the last speaker for the affirmative and at the conclusion of his address the house voted 307 to 88 in favor of the resolution.

Mr. Stevens said he turned to the financial page of his newspaper and read there the statement of a large and powerful bank. The statement proclaimed that the people of $630,000,000, government and other bonds and debentures, $217,000,000, and commercial loans, $245,000,000.

"Now far be it from me to criticise any bank whose power and strength is denoted by such figures," said Mr. Stevens, "but it is my contention that banks are not meant to be a safety deposit box for government bonds. They are the custodians of the monies of the people to be loaned out for development of industry and business. Loans to business men of Canada are about one-half of what they should be.

"And here is a fact of which I am ashamed, and I am sure you will be too. In the Montreal, Toronto and other districts there are 100,000 workers living under conditions that would be a disgrace to mid-continental areas, leave alone Canada."

The great crime of the age, said Mr. Stevens, was the refusal of big business loan to accept responsibility for those working under them. "I may be accused of being sentimental," he said, "but we can afford some sentimentality, for there is due to come little of it in big business."

Referring to the tremendous executive ability shown by one firm, he said if the firm had paid one-third of the salaries to their executives which would have been quite sufficient to get along on, it would have meant a saving of $1,000,000 a year. "that would have given every one of their 5,000 employees living below a decent standard an additional $200 a year. But those executives were paid for their capacity to go out and buy better than someone else, or to get more out of their workers for less."

Wheat Quota For France

This Means That Argentine And Canada Must Take Less

Budapest.—Representatives of six wheat exporting countries meeting here decided to grant France an export quota for 1934-35, provided reasonable guarantees of their respective governments ap-

The decision came after three hours of discussion, following the adjournment of the full wheat conference.

Draft of the agreement, which United States delegates described as "very complicated," was sent to the governments concerned for ratification for approval. Meanwhile delegates refused to reveal the size of the quota offered France.

This was the first time an export quota had been offered France and it meant that other exporters, particularly Argentina and Canada which between them expected to get two-thirds of the total quota of 600,000,000 bushels, must take less.

It was believed the net figure proposed for France was between 10,000,000 and 20,000,000 bushels.

Japan's Wheat Crop Up

Tokyo. —Japan's 1934 wheat crop shows a substantial increase compared with 1933 according to an estimate of cereal crops issued by the ministry of agriculture and forestry. The wheat yield this year is estimated by the ministry at 9,451,000 koku (47,255,000 bushels), an increase of 27,390,000 bushels over the preceding year's harvest.

Money For Aviators

Johannesburg, Union of South Africa.—Charles W. Scott and T. Campbell Black, London - to - Melbourne air derby winners, will make £15,000 (about $75,000) from advertising fees and film rights, A. O. Edwards, who financed the flight, announced here.

Money Not Available

Government Cannot Authorize Outlay For Radio Station

Ottawa. Owing to lack of funds the government has turned down the recommendation of the radio commission that a high power broadcasting unit be constructed in central Saskatchewan to serve the mobile section of the prairie provinces.

The proposed station would have cost about $250 000 and there is no money available to meet it. For this reason the commission has declined to authorize the outlay this year and will reconsider the position next spring when the new fiscal year begins.

Win In Debate

Canada's New Bank Bills

Ottawa.—Portraits of the royal family and two famous Canadian prime ministers are portrayed on the new paper currency to be issued by the Bank of Canada. Details of the new money were made public through Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes. The denominations to be constructed for are 1's, 2's, 5's, 10's, 20's, 50's, 100's, 500's and 1000's.

Sir John A. Macdonald, Confederation prime minister, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the great Liberal, who was premier from 1896 to 1911, are the two Canadians whose likenesses will be perpetuated in the new money. Sir John A. Macdonald's likeness will be engraved on the $500 bills and that of Sir Wilfrid on the $1 000 notes, the reverse side bearing allegorical engravings representative of agriculture and "protection" respectively

The new bills will be six inches long by 2½ inches wide, fractionally shorter and wider than the United States bills and much smaller than the existing Canadian notes.

The 1's will be green 2's blue 5's orange and 10's purple Colors for the other denominations have not been definitely decided

Livestock Marketing Plan To Be Discussed With Prairie Premiers

Winnipeg. Efforts to formulate a livestock marketing plan for the three prairie provinces was abandoned by the subcommittee of cabinet ministers instructed to negotiate with Alberta and Saskatchewan to-day.

Instead of a tri-provincial conference representing all three provinces, separate conferences with representatives of organizations named a sub-committee of five to meet delegations appointed by Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, Premier James Gardiner of Saskatchewan and Premier R. B. Bennett of Alberta, as early as possible.

Bread Cards Abolished

Moscow Bread cards will be abolished in defunct Russia on January 1 and bread soon will be sold generally in open shops, it was announced at a meeting of the central committee of the Communist party. The committee announced the new step to satisfy increase in real prices but says the situation that wages workers pay for food and stores given to students will be increased to meet the change.

U.S. Team Wins

Decisive Victory Obtained In Jumping Event At Winter Fair

Toronto. — Consistent riding by United States army team gave them a decisive victory in the international officers' team challenge trophy, outstanding event at the Royal Winter Fair horse show. The trophy, presented by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner at London, is open to all nations for teams of three jumpers.

The Irish Free State army team, last year's winner, put up a strenuous defence but 10 faults made by the first rider lost their chance of victory

The United States, which won it in 1932, had only nine faults scored against it, three by each rider

The Chilean outfit with 15 faults were shunted into third place Twenty-one faults sent the French squad into fourth place ahead of the Canadian team which scored 28 faults

URGES GERMANY TO ABANDON ISOLATION POLICY

London.—Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, wound up a council of state" debate on home defences in the House of Commons by announcing the full contents of Stanley Baldwin's speech, urging Germany to abandon her policy of secrecy and isolation, had been delivered to Germany, France, Italy and the United States with a full explanation by the foreign office.

Sir John's announcement climaxed an all-day debate on imperial defence. The house packed to the last inch after a 15-minute lustic During the fight Bergt Campbell and Geo Jamieson, guards were seriously injured suffering from head wounds

Sergt Moran, another reformatory official came to the help of the guards and Ertal was shot when a revolver was brought into play Sergt. Moran was unhurt

The attempted break occurred about 8.30 o'clock at night and at midnight C F. Neeland, deputy provincial secretary, arrived at the institution and started an inquiry The reception room was wrecked during the struggle and on the floor was the body of Ertal with blood trickling over the flooring from a wound in his chest

New Electa To Join The Union Of South Africa

Windhoek, Africa. Legislature of Southwest Africa, former German colony now administered by the Union of South Africa, adopted by a 21-1 vote a motion requesting the territory should be administered as a province of the Union of South Africa

This would be subject of course to the provisions of the league mandate. Legislature by resolution in majority in favor of such a course having been secured in the general elections last month after the government dissolved the growing German Nazi party here there apparently remains no obstacles to joining the union The motion also urged the territory should be represented in both houses of the union parliament.

Edwards director of the Montreal Tramways Company, and Lt.-Col. F. R. Phelan president Financial Review Limited

The local group of stockholders voted against the nominations met at the board of trade at the suggestion of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

CHOICE OF WEST FOR DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL BANK

Saskatoon.—R. A. Wright, prominent farmer and cattle breeder of Drinkwater, Saskatchewan, received the unanimous support of western boards of trade as their nominee as director of the Bank of Canada representing the three prairie provinces. His name was forwarded to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and will be included, it is expected, in the list of officers for which the chamber will solicit the support of the shareholders.

Several other persons were under consideration at the meeting, but were unsupported on the grounds that their chief occupation was not that of primary production as set out in the act and recommended to the western boards by the chamber of commerce. Mr. Wright is actively engaged in farming and livestock raising.

Representatives at the meeting here were: W. McCurdy, president of the Winnipeg Board of Trade and business manager of the Winnipeg Tribune, and E. C. Gilliat, secretary; J. H. Hanna, commissioner of the Calgary Board of Trade; L. A. Thornton, representing Regina Board of Trade, and A. J. Trotter and J. D. Gunn representing Saskatoon. J. W. Glenwright, of Edmonton, was unable to be present, but the Edmonton Board of Trade indicated concurrence in the selection of Mr. Wright.

Mr. Wright's name was placed before the meeting by the representative from Regina. In supporting his selection, it was pointed out that he was vice-president of the Canadian Wheat Pool, director of Federal Grain, Saskatchewan, and a director of the Saskatchewan livestock board. He has had a long experience in prairie farming and now operates a large farm in the southern part of the province. Mr. Wright is president of the Western Canada Livestock Union. Several years ago he took a prominent part in organizing opposition to a suggested compulsory livestock pool.

Action to agree upon a single nominee was begun by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce about 10 days ago and was taken to make certain that the prairie provinces would get representation on the board of directors. Extensive stock holdings in central Canada suggested the possibility that no westerner would be selected by the shareholders

PROP IS NEEDED TO STABILIZE WHEAT PRICES

Calgary.—Government influence in the wheat markets is essential, L. C. Brouillette, president of the Saskatchewan wheat pool, told delegates attending the Alberta wheat pool annual meeting here.

"If the government goes out of the market, many farmers will go out of business," declared Mr. Brouillette. Referring to Prime Minister R. B Bennett's statement that federal stabilization operations had meant $25,000,000 to grain growers, the pool president thought the figure mentioned was very conservative

Cooperation of federal and provincial governments and the primary producer to save as the means to place agriculture on a secure basis Whatever marketing system might be used, he said must take the long view and fit in with world demand

Mr Brouillette dealt with the organization of pools and expressed the belief that there was every confidence in the work of the co-operative associations to-day throughout the prairie provinces

PHONE 49 — PROMPT DELIVERY

SAYS 500 MUTUALS TO HANDLE PHONES

Some 500 mutual or farmers' companies will be in operation when the entire rural lines of the provincial telephone system eventually are disposed of to these companies according to Hon. George Hoadley, minister in charge of this department.

"I expect that before next summer the greater part of the plant will be transferred. The lines that are not taken by mutual companies will be removed as they deteriorate and become a hazard," the minister stated.

Of a total mileage of 19,000 poles lines or 22,320 miles of a two-wire circuit, the amount sold to date under the new plan has been 2,250 miles of pole lines or 3,870 miles of a two-wire circuit.

The minister estimates that by the end of this year total sales under the plan of disposing of the rural system, cheaply to farmers living along these lines would be 5,500 miles of pole lines or 9,500 miles of two-wire circuit.

The average sale price of the rural lines has been $13 per mile of pole line, including one two-wire circuit. Telephone have sold at an average of $2.50 each.

The minister also pointed out that the lines sold were now serving 1,119 telephones with others being added compared with 812 before the deals were made.

Since April 1 1932 some 2,000 miles of dead" line have been removed, said Hon Mr Hoadley.

"...So that Our Visitors will be Sorry to Leave"

"If we are going to invite people to this country, we must be honest with them . . . Courtesy costs nothing and is one of our greatest tourist assets . . . Let us so treat strangers within our gates that it will be easy for them to come, pleasant for them to stay, and difficult for them to leave."

Rt. Hon. R. B. BENNETT, Prime Minister of Canada, to the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaux, November 6, 1934.

Canada's tourist activities represent more than a great industry from which everybody benefits. They provide an opportunity to create what the Prime Minister has described as "that feeling of neighbourliness" which is such a vital factor in building up cordial relations within the family of nations.

For both these reasons, may I urge upon the people of Canada the importance of showing consideration, courtesy and honesty to guests of our country? Let us all do those little acts of kindness which count for so much when one travels in a strange land.

We have a beautiful country. We must keep it so. We want our visitors to travel highways free from disfigurement, walk the streets of cities that are orderly and clean, and find at the end of every day's travel an inviting spot to rest. Canadians should turn their attention now to the important work of preparing for next year's tourist season.

As a nation, we are advertising abroad the attractions of Canada as a holiday land. We must see to it that our guests return home with only the happiest recollections—and the determination to come back again and again.

For should we forget, in planning our own vacations, that there are beauties to discover and friendships to be made in our neighbouring provinces. We live in one of the world's most glorious playgrounds—let us learn to know better the rich variety of its travel attractions.

HER ARMS AND LEGS IMMOVABLE

Ten Years With Rheumatism

To this woman it must have been like commencing to live a new life, when she began to use her arms and legs again, after they had been helpless for ten years.

"I suffered with rheumatism," she writes, "and had been bedridden since 1920. I could not move arms or legs, and had to be fed like a child. Everybody thought I should be an invalid all my life. I forced myself to fight against it, and tried a number of different things. It was Kruschen that eventually saved me, and to-day I consider it is saving my life. My condition has greatly improved, and my limbs are gradually becoming more supple. Already I can eat without assistance, and dress myself—which I had not done for ten years." —M. H.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are the most effectual solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals, then convert them into a harmless solution. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the kidneys, and assist them to expel the dissolved urinic needles through the natural channel.

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. BODNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Broken Spur Ranch, but as Gordon Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wilderness outfit.

Dad Rane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had embezzled him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

Spike Goddard and Sam Dustin, fearing the old prospector may tell others the things he has seen as to the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine and then to kill him.

Gerald Keene, dressed in ridiculous cowboy costume, arrived at the Hour-glass ranch and is hired as a cowboy by Jon Carr. The impersonation of a tenderfoot is successful, and he is accepted as such by the other cowpunchs of the bunkhouse.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house.

(New Go On With The Story.)

At the sound of hoof-beats on the trail, man and girl looked up.

"Hullo," he said. "Here comes ——"

She gave a quick glance at the oncoming horse, a towering black, and turned a pretty shoulder.

"It's no one I want to see," she said coldly. It's the man I was thinking about in connection with that stolen cow. It's Mr. Dustin of the Broken Spur."

The black shouldered through the tangle by the pool and rushed the water, and the rider caught sight of the two above him. The next moment he jerked his horse back on his haunches, kneed him out of the pool and forced him through the brush to Edith's side.

"I'm glad to see you, Edith ——" He grunted at her. . . . "You're out early aren't you? ——" His quasi-real glance took in Stone, sitting awkwardly in his saddle, looking straight ahead of him into space. "A gun-muzzle dropped into line with his hip. Even a "store gun" can hit at seven feet.

If you try that," said Stone grimly I'll sure plug you! And center it over your father's headed posts and wire down here to fence Bob Springs Spring, but I can't allow that out the courts have decided ——"

"Oh! they have decided, the Springs are ours," she said hotly. "I fear I've seem too much. . . ." She nodded at the dun cow and the calf. "It just happens that I can swear to that cow in any court of law."

"You? Well? Courts are pretty expensive amusements for the Hour-glass. It'll only need a little sense to straighten this mess out. It needs a judge and twelve jurors to take the Bob Springs away from your father. A justice of the peace or a priest can give them back. . . . In five minutes, if you say the word. . . ."

For fully a minute she did not understand what he meant. Then her face went white under its tan and her head flung high. Her red lips had paled and her eyes seemed to emit little sparks as she turned to Stone.

"Did you hear that, Mr. Stone?" she called. There was a fighting edge to her voice that thrilled Dare to his inmost fiber. "Mr. Dustin, if I have not misunderstood him, has offered to withdraw his suit to take from us what we own. . . . These Spiders. He will do this if I go before a hussies of the peace or a priest and become one of his women. A legal one, I understand. I feel I need some advice. You are disinterested. What shall I tell him?"

Dustin, appalled, uttered a brt oath. He had thought she would at least take the matter under consideration. He regarded Stone no more than one of the ponies but he felt ashamed. Edith's words, her manner, her whole demeanor cut him like knives.

Stone's face was impassive. No one would ever have guessed that under that exterior his blood was leaping like molten lava. God, how this girl could fight. What a wife she would some day make!

"You see," she said, "he would only offer that to get what he can never get but by purchase. . . . A wife. No sane person would tie their life to him except for gain. He has one establishment in Sepulvida. He. . ."

"Oh, here! . . ." Stone raised a hand. "It's not my business, Miss Edith ——"

"By God! You and she have made it yours," shouted Dustin. The last vestige of self-control gave way and the dam burst "Marry you? Yes, I did offer it. I'm a fool. I don't have to marry you, you red-headed Irish brand. You'll be glad enough some day to have any man give you his name. Don't forget that when you put your fool of a father in the County Poorhouse. . . . You didn't like to have me tie my horse to the Hour-glass tie-rack but you can traipse over the hills with any bit of human tumble-weed that turns up dressed from a catalogue. No wonder people talk about you. . . ."

He got no further. Stone flung out of saddle and in one movement his iron grip closed on Dustin's off-foot. The Household Cavalry in London streets know that grip. Cleverly used, it can dismount any horseman who ever sat in saddle, provided only that he is unprepared.

Dustin was totally unprepared. There is but one guard for that clutch. The rider must let his gripped leg go loose. He must let it swing up and over the horse's back. He must pivot on his other foot. There is no real guard. There is a counter-attack. . . . The rider swings back into saddle and his free foot drives down like a pile-driver on the defenseless head of his attacker. But Dustin did not know this. He struggled and his own weight added to his catastrophe. Stone heaved at his attacker raised it chin-high and the next moment Dustin, with a queer yell that almost strangled him, was rolling in the deepest part of the pool with his horse atop, while Stone, his eyes alight, watched him from the bank.

"Sorry I had to do it," he said. "You just asked for it when you spoke to Miss Edith like that No, you don't!"

Dustin's hand stopped midway to his holster as Stone's nickel-plated "Hands up."

Dustin's hands went high in air and the dripping pony struggled to the bank, where Edith sat holding her head in both hands. It had all happened so quickly that she had not comprehended.

"Come on out o' your sea-foam you ——, you Spanish Venus," said Stone. "You ain't much to look at right now."

As Dustin struggled up the slippery bank, Stone snatched the gun from the wet holster and flung it back into the pool. Then he struck the black on the haunch with his hat and sent him at a gallop into the scrub.

"You can walk home and cool your collecte column chot head," he said. "Come on, Miss Edith Let's head for home"

She drove her spurs in to the rowel-seats and sent her astonished pony at a gallop through the scrub and waited for him at the entrance to the open trail.

"You've made a deadly enemy," she said breathlessly. "You must never forget that man. He is more deadly than a rattlesnake. . . ."

"Uh hur. . . ." He was obviously inattentive and it angered her.

"Mind what I'm sayin'," she snapped. "That man will kill you if he gets a chance."

"He won't have a chance," he said casually. "I was just wonderin' . . ."

Again she drove in her spurs and took the gallop and the two swept in in a glorious rush to the home corrals of the Hour-glass.

Once inside the ranch-house, Edith must have told a rather complete story, for Crewe tackled Stone when they were alone by the water-trough in the corral that evening.

"Son," said Crewe, "you're sure as green as hell, but the Hour-glass owes you a debt for what you did this afternoon. If that damned cur, Dustin. Edith told her father an' me. . . ."

"Did she say anything about that cow and calf that started the mess?"

"Sure she did. How did they start it?"

"That man Dustin had just done brandin' 'em," said the amateur puncher. "When his horse came out of the water I noticed that the cinch ring was all newly blackened by fire. He'd been usin' that to change the brands."

"Huh. That's queer. You . . . a amateur at that. . . . All right. . . . But you take it from me. . . . Look out for Sam Dustin. He'll get you if he kin."

"Sure," said Dare Stone. "That's fair. If he can. Let it go at that."

CHAPTER VI.

Frank Crewe, coming out of his room, stood looking over the wide range behind the ranch-house of the Hour-glass. He was disturbed over what Stone had told him the night before and he had thought much about this new employee. Stone was apparently honest. He was a gluttonous worker and there was something likable about him. But Crewe was suspicious at heart in all matters affecting the Hour-glass. He sighted Lee heading for the kitchen and hailed him.

"Send that new man Stone to me," he said.

The bunk-house took the word and presently Dare shot out of the open door like a pea from its pod. Crewe grinned amiably at him.

"Stone," he said, "I've forgot all that you told me last night. I ain't too derned good to remember much sometimes. I'm goin' to forget it till we can find some proof. Mind you, I don't expect you to find any proof but I just dasment start a civil war on the range unless and until I got my gun loaded. Old man Carr is too old to pick a row with this man Dustin from over Edith You see that? We're tryin' to locate the man Keene, who owns the other half of the Hour-glass. Till we find him, we can't do much but watch and wait. I'm tellin' you this so you'll see right where we stand. If you feel like keepin' on here at the Hour-glass, we want you. We need honest men who'll be loyal to their salt. That's about all, I reckon."

He strode away to his breakfast and Dare wandered back to the bunk-house.

"Loyal I his salt That was the word. He reflected that he had come here to the Hour-glass to find out what was wrong and he was finding out such a consequence. It was Dustin ——" All Right. But he could show no proof. There was no ground yet for an action. He must wait

In the meantime there was Edith

That experience over by Bob Springs had given her a confidence in the new employee that she was sure was not misplaced. She agreed him since that day of his face value and sometimes she flushed at the thought that the smoke in the fact that she used to have always known him She liked him to. To him he was dynamic against all of the ranch life that she knew. Just twenty-five he had been a titled lineage, he had climbed that to his present job. Why? She suspected analysis at his point and went for her pony

The bunk house accepted Stone frankly yet wondered at him Technically he was an applicant of the Hour-glass bunk-house. Where he could rub after a fashion with others never suspected the trouble it was to suppress awkward and think grinned a little at Edith's friendly proffered friendship.

"You'll be wantin a pony and mount," said Crewe. Better take that big Isabella horse in the far corral. If you take time to gentle him he'll make you a good mount"

Stone knew and had coveted that horse, a half-breed, bigger than most and made of steel and whalebone Crewe watched his new hand catch his newer horse and laughed a little at his awkwardness.

It took him days to master that horse, for months of idleness had filled him with an equine devil and he knew no master. When Dare Stone shot out of saddle to land twenty feet away on feet and hands, the bunk-house laughed. . . . All but Red Thorn, who screwed an inquiring eye as the limp figure that rolled away like a shot rabbit as the horse fell.

Jail Chapel Now Theatre

Will Be Used By Manitoba's Civil Service Dramatic Society

Through the doorway, which not so long ago was opened only to lead condemned prisoners to the gallows, soon will trip a group of young Thespians, members of a theatre guild, whose lilting laughter and sprightly quips will banish memories of tragedy that once haunted the scene

The doorway is the entrance to what was one the death cell in Manitoba's famed provincial jail. It is being transformed into a theatre where the Civil Service Dramatic Society will present plays.

Manitoba government civil servants some weeks ago decided to open their own Little Theatre and were granted use of space in the jail by Hon. W. J. Major, K.C., attorney-general. Officers have been elected and the society will shortly begin production

Once known as the "Vaughan St jail", the prison has been remodelled into a provincial government office building. A wide lawn outside the entrance door was once a dreary prison yard enclosed by a formidable fence, here the gallows were elected.

The death cell will be used as a dressing room for the players. The prison chapel, where prisoners once sang hymns under the watchful eyes of their guards, will be the theatre.

Fifty Tons Of Diamonds

Precious Stones Owned In World Worth Fabulous Sum

em women's necks and fingers, in the treasure stores of Indian princes; and in bank vaults and family safes there are to-day more than fifty tons of cut diamonds. This immense quantity of precious stones owned by the public throughout the world weighs approximately 20,000,000 carats, and is valued at nearly $70,000,000,000. The industry employs more than 500,000 men in the mining districts; 25,000 cutters throughout the world, 10,000 dealers in unset stones, and an unknown number 100,000 in jewelers' shops Although the market for big stones is still somewhat limited, since the depression, the sale of small diamonds is increasing. For one thing, they are cheap now, and form a good investment

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

— By Aline Michaelis —

TO GARNER MEMORIES

O, I would gather memories
From every field on Earth
So the last sheaf I set down
Would top out with worth.
To fill my basket and I'd go
Up where Optic peaks appear
And breathe again a day
I should not mind the aged pain
Though long ago buried be
For I should walk the flower again
And hear the meadow cry
And I shall see the Autumn fires
Aflame just as I knew
And watch this world of Mother
Make over God's blue
So shall I die without a wish
To take it to the grave
For I'll have gathered memories
And all I have to save.

Chinese Women Paint Clothes And Do Not Redress Them

Woman's penchant for change is driving Chinese pawnshops in Shanghai out of business. Chinese ladies in that city are in the habit of pawning their clothes after a brief period of wear in order to get money to buy something more up-to-date in style. They never redeem their pawn for their bankruptcy—that is, their inability to sell feminine clothes that have gone out of fashion

Little Helps For This Week

"The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek Him." Ezra 8 22

Thou largest Thy hand on the fearful heart.
And sayest "Be still."
The silence and sunshine are only a part
Of Thy sweet will;
Thy presence is with me and where Thou art
I fear no ill.

Be still in thy own mind from thy own thoughts, and then will thou feel thou canst turn thy mind to the Lord God from whom life comes, whereby thou mayest receive life strength and power to allay all blustering storms and tempests. That is it which works into quietness up to God with His power Therefore be still awhile from thy own thoughts and be stayed in the principle of God in thee, that it may raise thy mind up to God and stay it upon God, and then will find strength from Him and find Him to be a God at hand, a present help in time of trouble and need

Humors Of The Law

Some Queer Things Are Forbidden In Talked Rules

The law may or may not be an ass but it is in many states a humorist. In Idaho it forbids anglers from catching trout on horseback or shooting birds from a seat in a trolley car. In North Dakota no person under 15 years of age is allowed to go within ten feet of a railroad steam engine unless accompanied by a parent or guardian. In Georgia a dentist can be fined for being guilty of cruelty and in Kansas a policeman can run you in if he catches you eating snakes, lizards, scorpions, centipedes or tarantulas" in public But you can fry them to your heart's or your stomach's content in your own kitchen

According To Sight

According to experiments conducted by Prof. Francis B. Sumner, color-changing fish depend on their sight to change their colors When the upper portion of the fish eye was shaded, they assumed a darker shade, while they turned lighter when the lower part of the eye was darkened

TOWN FIRE INSPECTION TO START SHORTLY

Results In Lower Fire Loss

The third annual fire inspection of the buildings in the Town of Vermilion will commence shortly. Fire Chief Melvin Hill requests the full co-operation of all citizens by assisting the inspectors and by carrying out their recommendations at once. This is the third annual inspection and the low fire loss in the town during that time may be attributed directly to this system of fire prevention.

This is a service provided by the town in the interests and for the protection of the taxpayers themselves and it is to each person's own benefit to see that they take the necessary steps recommended by the inspectors for the protection of their premises.

Big 4's Opening Game This Friday Night

Vegreville Rangers Will be the Opposition

The Vegreville Rangers, last year quarter-finalists in the intermediate hockey play-downs, will supply the opposition when the Big Four league is opened locally this Friday evening. The game is billed to start at 8 p.m. sharp. Bert Williams, who knows the game from a to z, will referee the encounter.

The exhibition game last week served to show up the porous spots of the local team and these are going to be ironed out during the weekend inside with them Friday evening.

Vegreville got a jolt last week when Pete Lesnicki the spear-head of the team, hopped on the C.N. and hit for St. Paul, Minn., where he will probably play pro hockey. Cy Jacobs, last year's star right winger and chief goal getter of the brigade, is also an absentee, playing for Red Deer this season. To replace these men three newcomers have been added to the roster and if tales be true, the Rans are are better than ever.

The local line-up will be: Goal, F. Mead, defence, Bill Mead, M. Barr, Mackenzie; forwards, C. Barr, Robbie son, Banks; English Corson, Fred Hunscombe.

Jack Mackenzie has been elected captain of the team and will direct their play from the ice.

A blanket insurance policy has been taken out covering accidents to the team members. This was expensive but a highly judicious act. An accident in one of the boys some three winters ago cost that individual's family well over $250.' Similar happenings are now taken care of by the insurance policy which covers the team.

Two of these societies have recently been organized and are now in operation others are considering the feasibility of following the example There is a very strong feeling however, among some prominent men in the district that now, that the interests of the people in both town and country can best be served by organizing a central co-operative society to be located in the town of Vermilion, where all the facilities for handling such an organization are available To this end a number of meetings have been held in Vermilion, with the result that it was decided last Friday at a general meeting to organize the Vermilion Co-Operative Society. Japan Plans Airline Link

Mandated Islands Are To Be Joined With Mainland

Japan is preparing to open southward thousands of miles of airlines to fasten her Pacific island possessions and mandates more firmly to the homeland.

Two naval aviators who added renomely from Yokohama are now surveying the route between Saipan and Palau, using a seaplane of 1,500 miles cruising-radius. Their arrival was preceded by by establishment of meteorogical observatories and wireless stations at Saipan, Paulos and Truk.

The Japanese hope to link this into island service water with Japan proper in an air-service from Tokio to Saipan by way of the Bonin Islands. An appropriation to outfit this new route was contained in the Government's 1935-36 budget just completed.

The Tokio-Bonin [illegible] will be the first link of a projected airline to join the imperial capital with its farthest flung mandates, one-third of the way across the Pacific, lying directly allwart the projected American air route from California to the Philippines and China.

Should Take Precautions

From Kansas Comes A Warning Absent "Twin Perils" To Farm Children

In a letter just received from Independence, Kansas, Mr. A. E. Potter says that having been raised on a farm he has first hand knowledge of the sad deaths of a good many children caused by the carelessness of their elders. Every parent should take heed to this warning—offered in a friendly spirit by our correspondent from Kansas. Here it is:

"The twin perils of children living on farms and in small villages are open wells and cisterns and loose boards left with nail points sticking out of them.

"Cover all wells and cisterns securely and draw all nails from loose boards. Become a child stepping on them, whether clean or rusted, is in deadly danger from the germs of tetanus. (Dr Herver Hart's treatment from the presidency marks the wholesale death rate) active duty of an outstanding Canadian, under whose leadership the Royal Bank has developed from a relatively small organization to its present status as one of the largest financial institutions of the world. Furthermore, the appointment of Mr. Wilson as President marks the first occasion this office has been attained by a man from within the ranks of the bank.

In assuming the newly created position of Chairman of the Board, Sir Herbert Holt will continue in connection with the Royal Bank which began nearly thirty years ago with his association as director in February, 1905. He was appointed vice-president of the bank two years later, and became its president on November 14, 1908.

Retires From Presidency Of The Royal Bank

Sir Herbert S. Holt is Succeeded By Morris W. Wilson as President And Managing Director

After 26 years in office, Sir Herbert S. Holt has relinquished the presidency of The Royal Bank of Canada and now becomes Chairman of the Board and chairman of the Executive Committee. He is succeeded by Morris W. Wilson as President and Managing Director, and Sydney G. Dobson as Mr. Wilson's General Manager.

These changes were announced at the end of the bank's fiscal year, following the regular meeting of the board. They are changes which overstitute not only an important milestone in the history of the Royal Bank, but also an event of national significance. Sir Herbert Holt's retirement from the presidency marks the withdrawal from active duty of an outstanding Canadian, under whose leadership the Royal Bank has developed from a relatively small organization to its present status as one of the largest financial institutions of the world. Furthermore, the appointment of Mr. Wilson as President marks the first occasion this office has been attained by a man from within the ranks of the bank.

MORRIS W. WILSON
Formerly General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada who succeeds Sir Herbert Holt as President.

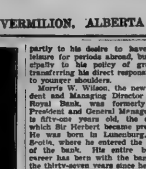
The Royal Bank has been in existence for sixty-five years. It was incorporated by Royal Charter as the Merchants Bank of Halifax, its present name being adopted in 1901, and its head office removed from Halifax to Montreal in 1907. It was during the period of steady growth which gradually made it one of the leading banks of the world that the present scope and influence. In 1908, when Sir Herbert became president, the Royal Bank had 107 branch offices, to-day it has nearly 900 branches serving all parts of Canada and Newfoundland, the West Indies countries, its assets during the same period have increased from less than $50,000,000 to more than $725,000,000, and the number of its shareholders from 800 to a present total of 12,000.

Sir Herbert's policy has been one of steady and constant growth, always consistent with sound banking practices, and this has included an insistence upon development of as active and highly trained personnel He has always emphasized the importance of providing opportunity for new ability, and the Royal Bank has become notable for the development of young men such as C. S. Tompkins, Inspector General of Banks, a position created by the Federal Government in 1924, and Graham F. Towers, the recently appointed Governor of the new Central Bank.

It is understood that Sir Herbert's retirement from the presidency now at the age of seventy-eight, is due partly to his desire to have more leisure for periods abroad, but principally to his policy of gradually transferring his direct responsibilities to younger shoulders.

Morris W. Wilson, the new President and Managing Director of the Royal Bank, was formerly Vice-President and General Manager. He is fifty-one years old, the age at which Sir Herbert became president. He was born in Queensbury, where he first entered the service of the bank. His entire business career has been with the bank, and the thirty-one years since he began have been marked by a series of promotions through which he has acquired experience in every phase of banking activity.

In 1909, when he was twenty-six, Mr. Wilson was moved from the Maritimes to Vancouver, where he became manager of the main office two years later. In 1918 he was transferred to head office in Montreal as Chief Inspector. The following year he became Superintendent of Branches, and in 1922 was appointed Assistant General Manager. In 1923 he was promoted to General Manager of the bank in July 1928, and in 1931 became Vice-President as well. Each of his predecessors as president has been, like Sir Herbert Holt, a figure of prominence in industry or commerce. He is thus the first professional banker to become president of the bank.



SYDNEY G. DOBSON
Who has been appointed General Manager and who now succeeds Mr. M. W. Wilson as General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Sydney G Dobson, who has been senior assistant general manager, and who now succeeds Mr. Wilson as General Manager, has had a similar career. He began with the bank's firm in the Maritimes, at Sydney, Cape Breton, in the fifty-nine branches. He started with the bank as a junior clerk in the year of Confederation, thirty-four years ago, becoming accountant at Winnipeg in 1909. After serving in various other positions, he was appointed manager of Prince Rupert in 1910 at the age of 27. Five years later he became Assistant Manager in Montreal, and in 1916 he was transferred to Vancouver to succeed Mr. Wilson as manager. In 1918 he became Acting Supervisor of Middle West Branches, with headquarters at Winnipeg, and in 1919 was promoted to General Inspector at Head Office. He became Assistant General Manager three years later, and has occupied this position for the last twelve years.

Who has resigned as President General Manager and who now succeeds Mr. M. W. Wilson as General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Little Journeys In Science

LIQUID AIR

(By Gordon H. Grant, M.A.)

All gases, if cooled and compressed sufficiently, may be changed into liquids, or even into solids. Sulphur dioxide (the gas which is produced when sulphur burns in air) is easily converted into a liquid. Also oxygen, including hydrogen and oxygen, are very difficult to liquify. The scientist who first succeeded in this was scientist Kemerlingh Onnes, in 1904, was regarded as a great scientific achievement.

Liquid air was first obtained about fifty years ago and since then it has been used commercially in the method of producing it having been continually improved. It is done in large quantities by an intricate machine in which the air is compressed and cooled. The point at which the air becomes liquid is called the "critical temperature". Liquid air boils at -190 degree centigrade. When each gas has a name, such as, egg, a piece of meat or a flower are placed in the liquid they become brittle as glass. When a tea kettle filled with liquid air is struck a block of ice it boils vigorously, for the ice is hot as compared to the liquid air.

Liquid air is used chiefly in the production of nitrogen, oxygen and argon, and is also used as a cooling agent. When mixed with wood flour it forms a powerful blasting explosive since the charcoal burns in it.

It was first thought that liquid air could be used for refrigeration, for cooling and ventilating [illegible] and for the destruction of [illegible], but because it is expensive to produce and difficult to handle, it has not been used extensively for these purposes.

China has about 2,000,000 square miles of arid country.

Insects destroy almost one-tenth of the world's crops.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON 48

THE CHRISTIAN AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

Golden text: "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink the cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till he come." 1 Corinthians 11:26.

Lesson: 1 Corinthians 11:23-34.

Devotional reading: Matthew 26: 20-30.

Explanations And Comments

Paul's Account of the Institution of the Lord's Supper, verses 23-25. "For I received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you": with these words Paul prefaces in his letter to the Corinthians his account of the instituting of the Supper. By these words he refers to the spiritual meaning of the rite as coming home to him when he ponders the words spoken by Christ to his followers: Paul reports the words to the churches he founded even as these followers of Christ had reported them to him.

"The Lord in the night in which he was betrayed took bread; and when he had given thanks, he brake it." From the Greek word for thanks, eucharisteasa, comes our word Eucharist. The bread was unleavened and had been especially prepared for the Passover feast which Jesus and his disciples had been eating. It was in the form of hard, flat, round cakes which were always broken, never cut. Because Jesus broke off the piece of bread, his sacrificial act sometimes called The Breaking of Bread.

"And said, This is my body, which is for you." This represents my body, is meant. The disciples clearly understood Jesus' symbolic. The connection between Christ and bread is of the closest kind; so close that the substitution of the one for the other is too strong a figure to express it. The food we eat become our body and blood. It becomes our life, our self. And it does not stop existing of that by our taking it, not by our looking at it and admiring its nutritive properties, but by our eating it in whatever process can make Christ entirely ours. Christ is the bread we take all that is in him, this process we are to do.

Taking the cup, Jesus said, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood." The metaphor is a somewhat violent one to us, but to the people to whom it was spoken it could have offered no difficulty whatever. Blood was the life contained in a sycamore for life. Had Christ spoken the words directly to us, he would doubtless have said, "This cup is not my blood, but my life; it is my gift of it." His life is the unfailing cup. How shall we drink his life? By no other impressive way than by a quick drink in other spiritual things—by feeding by study, by deep thought, by imagination." (Douglas Horton).

In these days as often as ye drink it, in remembrance of me."

Building Programs

United States Government To Expend Large Amount On Housing

Hinting possibly at the vast size to which the United States government's housing program will attain, and low cost housing, Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes said the public works administration's proposed $150,000,000 program "will barely scratch the surface." "We know that in the end a much more liberal contribution will be, or at least ought to be made for this desirable social purpose," Ickes said. He expressed a hope for a greatly enlarged program in 1936.

End Of Great Navy

Last Of Big German Battleships Being Broken Up

While the naval discussions in London are seemingly futile in regard to limitation, the end of, what was once the second most powerful navy afloat is being encompassed at the former British naval dockyard known as Rosyth, just beyond the Forth bridge. There the wartime German navy is being dismantled and broken up under the melting qualities of acetylene torches and the hammer blows of hydraulic tools.

When the Germans by pre-arranged signal scuttled their surrendered fleet at Scapa Flow they thought that was the end of their navy. Probably they thought the job of raising so many ships was too big to be attempted. There were 12 battle cruisers, and the entire outfit was valued at about $200,000,000. But the salvage job was done, although it took fourteen years to do it.

And now at Rosyth these former proud German warships are being beaten into plowshares. Several hundred thousand tons of steel, iron, brass and other metals are being cut out of them until there is nothing left resembling a ship. The common grades of steel are being sold to manufacturers who make rails, which are being shipped all over the world. Much of the better grade is being bought by automobile manufacturers. The highest grade of all, that which was armoured turrets, goes to toolmakers, shipbuilders and engine makers. Some of it, in fact, has been resold to Germany, where it may even reappear in the recreated pocket battleships. Brass goes to clockmakers, instrument makers and various other industries. The bronze from the heavy propellers and gun fittings is sold to other propellor makers, bell makers and to the lower art bronzes.

Mandate Against Queues

Chinese Police Given Authority To Enforce Order

The recent order issued by Nanking that the wearing of queues and the custom of binding the fret of girl children must be discontinued immediately has been literally taken to heart by the authorities of Taian, in Shantung province, according to a letter received in Shanghai from missionaries stationed in that region.

All police officers, especially those stationed at the gates of the city have been armed with shears and orders have been issued to the effect that if the mandate against the wearing of queues is not voluntarily obeyed, the policemen are to enforce it. In such cases, the police have not given the offender a chance to dispose of his queue himself, but simply cut off the offending pigtail with practically no ceremony whatsoever.

The order against foot-binding also states that women under the age of 30 whose feet have been bound since Jan. 1 of this year must allow their feet to [illegible]. This part of the order has been practically disregarded in the country districts.

Blue Uniforms Discarded

Soldiers Of France Will Wear Dust-Colored Outfit

The world's armies are getting back to earth.

A recent French order that artillery men discard their colorful skyblue uniforms brought the last major military power into the ranks of those whose soldiers wear drab uniforms, a National Geographic Society bulletin says. The new French uniforms will be dust-colored.

Soldiers of the United States wear olive drab outfits. British, Belgian, Polish and Japanese warriors have khaki uniforms. Germany and Spain supply grey-green. Switzerland, Italy and the Netherlands have grayish green.

Reasons for the trend away from the brilliant colored uniforms of 100 years ago has been to avoid detection of troop movement by snipers and aeroplanes.

Spain and Japan still retain elaborate and vari-colored full dress uniforms but these never see the mud of front line trenches

250 LB. MAN LOSES 20 LBS.

And Looks 10 Years Younger

"About three months ago," writes correspondent, "I weighed 250 lbs. I started taking Kruschen Salts. Now I lost 20 lbs. in a little over two months. I am feeling better than I have in years. My friends tell me I look ten years younger, and my step has an elasticity which is amazing. I shall buy Kruschen Salts wherever I go."—J. McC.

Kruschen contains just the six salts, blended in just the right proportion, that are essential to keep you in continual good health. Kruschen Salts keeps the system free from encumbering waste matter. Unless this wastage is expelled regularly, it will give rise to rheumatism and other body poisons. And Nature is liable to take the defensive measure of storing the poison-breeding material out of the way in the form of fatty tissue.

THE TENDERFOOT

By

GEORGE B. ROBERTS

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Cheyenne Trail", Etc.

ILLUSTRATED

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been economically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinkin' himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Four-Diam Ranch, but as Dunc Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wildwest outfit.

Dad Keene, cement rat and luckless prospector till now is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and where to locate the ore. He sees Broken Spur horses rustling Four-Diam cattle and protests against it.

Spike Goddard and Sam Dustin fearing the old prospector may tell others the things he has seen, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine and then to kill him.

Gerald Keene, dressed in ridiculous cowboy costume, arrived at the Four-Diam ranch and is hired as a cowboy by Joe Carr. The impersonation of a tenderfoot is successful, and he is accepted as such by the other cowpunchers of the bunkhouse.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house.

Dustin unexpectedly came along and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions the Soda Springs dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

(Now Go On With The Story)

"If he larned that from a catalogue then I'm a Dresser," he muttered and he laid in wait for Stone when supper was done.

"What's the game?" he asked curtly. There was a grin, too, that kept the words from stinging.

Now Red Thom had almost been born in a saddle. He had punched cattle from El Gran Chaco to the Barren Ground and he was not to be put off

"I seen you fall," he said grimly. "A green man can't be dude enough to takes practice. A new man falls stiff. You rained every muscle an' limb you had. I don't look for every bone in your body. Come clean, now. I'll not give you away less'n I have to. Where're you from?"

That is a dangerous question to ask at times but Stone did not resent it.

"I got so spread my own rope my own we " he said, and the homely idiom made Red Thom open his eyes. "You don't need a man attendin' to his own business, do you?"

"Huh. I reckon not. But you see a few of us have spent a long time here on the Hour-glass. You claim to be a new man. All right. Let it go at that. Get [illegible]

Stone's eyes bored into Stone's inner consciousness and both men grinned at each other in friendly fashion. In that moment a lasting friendship was born. The bunk-house never noticed that Red Thom watched Stone carefully from that day. They were intent on their own doings.

"He's got that Isabella horse so he'll stand," Curtis Darwent, "The man's got patience and that's all four aces. He says he ain't breakin' him; he's a-trainin' him. Learned it out of a book, he says. Give him two years under a man and he'll make a good hand."

"If Sam Dustin don't kill him first," said some one.

"His work's . . ." There was prophecy in Red Thom's voice. "Where is he now?"

"Crews sent him out to ride the West fence up in the Red Water canyon to-day. Told him to take his pack an' stay there till he got the place fixed. Damn nasty job for one man, if you ask me."

He was right at that. Stone saddled his big horse at dawn and headed west across the foot-hills for the more distant ranges where the land ran out in crazy crumpled peaks and jutting hill-shoulders. He worked his way up; beyond where the mesquite runs out in curly bunch grass, where the red-stemmed madrona gives place to stunted juniper and the red-and-black malpais ledges make horse and man look to their footing.

That fence was a deceptive thing. It wandered for miles along a steep slope; it stepped drunkenly across deep canyons and arroyos: it twisted among stunted rock-oaks and it dipped into limestone valleys where sapons yellowed for want of water. He finally drew rein on top of a rise and studied the land below him.

Red Thom alone at the Hour-glass might not have been surprised at the metamorphosis of the new hand of the Hour-glass. Dunc was the slack-jawed, open-eyed "eye" last March.

For the first time, it was announced officially the March mirror is a success. This means if the second mirror passes out of the scene in 18 months hence in as good shape as now expected, astronomers will have two of those giant mirrors, instead of the one originally planned.

They have the money to build only one telescope. The equipment is complete a second would mean something less than the price of one battleship.

In six years or so hence this mirror, or its "spare," the March eye, will be ready to increase man's vision into space from the present 300,000,000 light years' distance to nearly 1,000,000,000 years. The 200-inch has one flaw, that is, will see but what started on its journey toward the earth 800,000,000 years ago.

WALLS

Stone walls are built without a stone
Or any iron or wood,
Yet stronger they than barriers
Which through long years have stood.

A single word can make a wall,
A look for fear or hate.
Can raise a stubborn barricade
Where hope must hesitate.

Grim walls of rock can be torn down,
Cold stone by stone asunder,
But those the view unbarred are more,
Horizons blue and wide.

But, ah, beware of walls which rise,
Intangible, unseen,
Which you yourself have built again
As though didn't build them!

Second Mirror For Telescope

Twenty Tons Of Molten Glass Poured In Record Time

The second 200-inch mirror for the world's greatest telescope, the astronomical eye that will see 1,000,000 times better than the human eye, has been poured without a single apparent flaw at the Corning glass works.

The time was record-breaking, six hours and 53 minutes, for 20 tons of molten glass, ladled out in 104 huge pots that fairly scorched the faces of spectators and scientists who encircled the great pouring room. The time was nearly twice the speed of beating the first "eye" last March.

For the first time, it was announced officially the March mirror is a success. This means if the second mirror passes out of the scene in 18 months hence in as good shape as now expected, astronomers will have two of those giant mirrors, instead of the one originally planned.

Business Is Profitable

Drugs And Jewels Smuggled Into England By Air

Smuggling of drugs, Paris fashions and jewels into Britain by air has grown to an astonishing extent.

British tariffs on silk, expensive dresses, jewelry and drugs make this illicit traffic a highly profitable business.

Thousands of pounds of these articles can be loaded on a single plane.

The traffic in drugs, always difficult to detect, is known to be growing at an even greater rate.

Opium, cocaine, heroin and other narcotics are being profited in the West End and other cities in quantities far in excess of those shown by the import certificates.

An official at Croydon aerodrome expressed the opinion that this smuggling must be carried out on a very large scale if it is made to pay.

"Most of the large aerodromes are too well watched to make the risk worth while," he said.

"This forces the smuggler to choose some isolated spot off the usual air routes.

"Only the cleverest organization and the close co-operation of paid accomplices with high-powered cars could make such a task practicable."

Clock Will Speak Time

Experiments Being Made In England With New Gadget

A clock that talks! Not the cuckoo variety, but a clock which will "speak" the time.

This promises to be the latest timepiece in the office. The British post office research station are experimenting with an apparatus which will put "pips" into clocks.

By dialing a special number the office clock will "speak" the time.

There will follow "pips" at 10 seconds' intervals, except at 50 seconds past each minutes, when there will be the announcement, for example, "On the third 'pip' it will be exactly 7:46".

The last of three high-pitched signals will indicate then the exact minute

An Unusual Book

The summer exhibit on the second floor of the Boston Athenaeum contains a book bound in the skin of its author's motorious highwayman The book was published in 1837 and is titl d "Narrative of the Life of James Allen, Alias George Walton, Being His Deathbed Confession to the Warden of Massachusetts State Prison."

Little Helps For This Week

"Whoso having not seen ye love, in whom though now ye see him not, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory." 1 Peter 1.8.

"If ye love me keep my commandments." John 14.15.

Fleet be Thy love dear Lord.
That taught me this sweet way,
Only to love Thee for Thyself,
And for that love obey.

To love God is to love His character. God is Purity, and to be pure in thought and deed, look, or word is to love God. God is Love; and to love men until it has expanded into a philanthropy which embraces all, even enemies with compassion, that is to love God. God is Truth, and to be true, to hate every form of falsehood, to live a brave, true, real life, that is to love God. God is Infinite, and to love the boundless, reaching on from grace to grace, adding faith to charity, aiming insatiably to be perfect, even as the Father is perfect, that is to love God.—F. W. Robertson.

May Test Mail Rocket

German Engineer Receives Permission From French Ministry

The French Air Ministry has authorized Gerhard Zucker, German engineer, to test a device for shooting mail by rocket across the English Channel A mailbag is to be attached to the rocket, containing 12,000 letters. It will be shot from Dover over the Channel to Calais, on the French coast, twenty-five miles distant. The rocket contains an explosive liquid ignited electrically. After a fixed number of minutes a small parachute opens, allowing the mailbag to float to earth.

Opium Smuggled In Fish

A unique method of smuggling dope was uncovered in China when a Chinese buying provisions for a wedding feast, was refused purchase of an especially large fish in the market. He reported to police, who found the dealer refused to sell the fish to all except a man with a basket full. On investigation, the fish was found to contain many tins of opium

LOCAL NEWS

A Saturday night dance will be held in the Elks hall this Saturday, Dec. 15th. A better than usual time is looked for . . so , be among those present. Admission is only 25c.

"Jock" Morison, veteran of many a thrilling curling battle here, drops a line from Ponoka where he now owns a hardware business, and wishes to be remembered to all his old friends. He says that he wishes he were a little closer so that he could drop in for the odd game of curling. Jock also says that the Standard is a welcome visitor there and that it surely gets the news of the town and district.

A. M. Grauman, pioneer settler of Raft Lake district, is back in the hospital here for what he terms is a "minor" operation. Mr Grauman spent six months in the local hospital, leaving this spring after undergoing three very serious operations. His condition is mightily improved, he says, and he expects that it won't be long now before he is his old self again.

George Corks was a visitor to Daysland last week end.

Stephen Hrynyk was in town from Vegreville last Saturday.

Percy McKeue was noticed around on Saturday from Landonville. We'll bet that the curling talk prevalent here made Percy long for a swing a rock again.

A new bonanza has just been erected on the farm of W. E. Marlow-the last word of comfort.

Ashley Cooper was in Viking on Sunday last, spending part of the afternoon with Mr and Mrs Wm Iowan of the high school staff.

The death took place at the Viking hospital on Tuesday of this week of Frank Ferguson, for a number of years postmaster at Minburn. Deceased was about 65 years of age. His wife predeceased him several years ago. Since his retirement from the office of postmaster he had been living on his farm south of that town. One daughter living in Simcoe, Ontario, survives him. WILL "BOXING DAY" BE A HOLIDAY?

A question that should be settled this week is, "Will Boxing Day Be A Holiday?" This has been the question here for several years past and was a move originated by some of the leading business men. It was a matter of general acquiescence and would be a fine move this and every year. There are only 12 days before Christmas, so prompt action is necessary.

The Editor extends fraternal greetings and best wishes for its success to the latest newspaper enterprise,—the Manville Mirror, which made its first appearance last week. W. J. Whitehouse is the editor. It is a nicely laid out and neatly set up 8-page five-column sheet. That it has the backing of the Manville business men and residents is shown by the numerous display advertisements, large and small, and also by the copious amount of live, local news.

Mr. Whitehouse located in Manville only after making a careful canvass and survey of the field. He has his own plant and it is a thoroughly business-like proposition which, under the 100% support of Manville and district, a good newspaper is an asset to any town.

Our U.S.A. Corner

Last week we reported that Jamyn Rigby of Wembley, student at the U. of A., had the real distinction of standing 6th in the open classes for Record Wheat, at the great Chicago Show. It is an interesting thing to know that a Boys' Grain Club can do in a community. The following are members of the same club: John B. Allsop, who stood first at Chicago in the open class and thus holds the world championship, and who received above Jamyn Rigby stood 6th. In the open out classes Peter Sebastian of the same club stood 6th, and Jamyn came in 10th. At Toronto in the Junior competition it looks as though Jamyn's club had a walk away. Paul Sebastian stood first in wheat; Peter Sebastian second, and Lloyd Rigby (brother of Jamyn) stood 5th. In the junior out classes Lloyd Rigby again appears in 2nd place. These boys have made themselves and their districts internationally famous. Jamyn says "It is not so much the winning of the prizes, but the fun in doing it, as he has made forming an entirely different game for me."

VERMILION WINES

J. Bathe invited a few friends in on his birthday, Dec. 6th, and a jolly evening was spent at cards and games.

Mr. Gaylord Gibson of Basswood, and Jimmie Wallington took a load of flax to Edmonton last Thursday, and brought back a big load of lumber. Mrs. Wallington went with them as far as Bruderheim where she visited her cousin, Mrs. Chas. Seeley. She also spent Saturday in Edmonton and reports large crowds at nearly every store doing Christmas shopping.

Some Wildmere folk took in the wedding dance of Mr. and Mrs. O Walters held in Clanton school last Friday evening. A very large crowd turned out to wish the young couple every happiness in years to come. A few folk also took in the dance at Battleview the same evening, and all reported a good time there too.

Basswood Social Club held a meeting Saturday evening at the school with a small attendance. Cards were played for a while, then lunch served.

Mr and Mrs Repp and children from near Vermilion visited Sunday at the Gibson home in Basswood.

The committee of Wildmere Community Club intend putting on a dance in the school on Monday Dec. 31st so keep your eyes open for posters.

Noticed Around the District

Smith Bros hauling hay from C Morand's. Ollie Lindner of Woodvale and Mr Collison driving around in our part of the world. Billie Hetherington of Auburndale driving around hunting on horses and cattle. George Wilson spending the evening at the Smith home. Tom Best taking in the wedding dance. Bud Funnell in our part last week. Ede Madill. Mrs. Riley and Doris and others stopping at Basswood Club meeting. Albert Howard sitting on a chair—almost. J Wallington with the axe at the wood again.

The writer noticed Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Long of Vermilion on the streets of Edmonton last Saturday and spoke a few minutes with Mr. Hoderns also of Vermilion.

The summer thing seen was Jas. Wallington and Charlie Newby hunting Mr Gibson amid the thistles on the streets of the city last Saturday. Snails finding him after hours of searching.

Just what years ago today — Dec 11th since the last bad blizzard hit our part of Alberta, when several people throughout the province lost their lives.

DEWBERRY BUDGET

The question has sometimes been asked What constitutes an Old Timer? Various answers have been given, depending on the humor of the one who gives the definition. Many out here can remember when one bonesteader drove his family to church one fine Sunday in haying time, in the harvest, drawn by the old faithful ox team. However, old timers and young alike had a new experience when an aeroplane hovered over the town on Sunday afternoon and glided down on Fred Blair's farm, landing gracefully over the fence. This was the occasion of a friend who flew from Southern Alberta to spend the day with an old pal of former days. It was the first time that Mr. Blair's fence had to be lowered to allow an aeroplane to be parked close to the windbreak near the house, and the first time that many of us saw a plane gliding over the barb wire. Oxen, of course, just walked through the fence in the old days.

Among other visitors to town recently were Al. Beecroft of Islay with his cheery smile, and Alex Allanach of Manville, Reeve of Meiberta M. H. J. Entenzahn, M.L.A., for Alexandra, was also noticed chatting to some of his constituents.

Although the roads are a bit rough farmers continue to haul more grain and the town reaps benefit, many people making their purchases for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Prill of Manville paid a week end visit to their daughter Adeline and Olga, and enjoyed meeting a few friends over the week end.

Vic Iwasaki is now established in his new garage and is kept busy with repairs.

ISLAND HILL

U.F.A. local annual meeting for the election of officers took place Monday, Mr. Wm. McIntyre, president, occupied the chair. All officers were re-elected, viz: Mr. Wm. McIntyre, president; Mr. G. Stephens, vice-president and Mr. H. A. Searle, secy-treas. A pleasing venture of the proceedings was community singsong, Mr. J. C. Allen being an efficient accompanist.

The directors were elected, viz: Messrs. H. P. Evans, McCambridge, Schofield, Hawkes and Fraser.

Next meeting, 14th January 1935.

Geo. Richardson and son Freddy were recent visitors to Edmonton.

There was a very happy reunion of some of the old timers of Pleasant Valley at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fraser on Tuesday, Dec. 4th where they met to celebrate the 17th wedding anniversary of their host and hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser motored from Chipman especially for the event and renewed acquaintances with other guests, including Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gould, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Searle, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Burt, Mr. J. Coward, Mr. Saltern, Miss Saltern, Miss Wolters. A very jolly time was spent and all the party wished Mr. and Mrs. Fraser many happy returns.

The Dramatic Society here is working very hard to assist the children's party, Dec. 21st, by staging something bright as their annual Christmas treat. The ladies of Island Hill deserve all praise for the time spent in preparing a play which will make the lives of the little ones happy for at least one night. In this connection Mr. J. C Allen, school principal, is also very busy and from what we hear he will be in a position to produce a program that will be a credit to himself and his pupils.

Noticed During the Week—

Bill Hall and son Harold testing a new gun to see that the sights had no one with a chance to have a hit on two travelling salesmen should find the snow; Jim Rochford heading for town in a hurry; Pat McCambridge driving north at 40 miles an hour—at least it looked to us as if he was going at that rate; Chas. Mc driving a four in hand team, heading south; Bert Fraser motoring to town in his usual good natured style he invited two way farers to accept a seat.

Father Magrata of Walsworight called at the office on Thursday last. He is an expert all-round printer and never fails to drop in and see the various forms of activity in progress at the Standard printery when passing thru town. Hearing of the eighteen hole ability which the staff has been putting in for the past two months on account of steady job work demand and keep for that usual call on advertising space, he was only too eager to take off his coat and get to work.

The Heart Of Man

The season is at hand when once again the age-old song recorded in Holy Writ "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men" will be sung by millions of voices and the sentiment expressed in the hope that it will be made the theme of countless sermons, addresses, and written articles, of which this is one. And the question will be asked by a perplexed people, asked in their bewilderment and sorrow, why is it that after nearly two thousand years instead of peace on earth and goodwill among and toward men, the world is filled with rumors of and preparation for war, and suspicions and hatreds are rife among people everywhere?

In seeking an answer to this question innumerable replies and reasons will be given. Many will lay the chief responsibility upon politicians, others will blame the inhumanity and selfishness of the makers of armaments; a goodly number will declare it is the existing economic system that is the root of the trouble, in a word the tendency will be, as it has been throughout the years of the past, to apportion the blame to others and to institutions of our own making, but never to accept any share of it as our own responsibility. Yet, in the final analysis, the responsibility lies at our own door and rests with us as individuals.

A nation is but an organization of individuals, and the national viewpoint is but the aggregate of the viewpoint of the people who constitute the nation, the national spirit is the spirit of the people themselves. Politicians do what the people want them to do and statesmen are forced to act, frequently against their own better judgment, because their people insist upon certain action and will accept and support nothing else

Nations today remain in a warlike mood because the individuals who constitute the nations are themselves lacking in goodwill the one toward the other, and lacking goodwill, which is the only source of peace, there can be no peace.

Individuals clamor for security in their homes and occupations; nations as organizations of individuals demand security; but there can be no security either for the nation or the individual unless there be peace at home and abroad. Nevertheless as individuals in our own local communities, and in our relationships to each other, mankind is unmindful of these great truths, and to a great extent maintains attitudes of suspicion and hostility instead of seeking for understanding and goodwill.

The world, and each and every community throughout the world, counts its men and women who, in the current language of the day, are cheaters, seeking to better themselves at the expense of others, trying to pull others down in order that they may rise, desirous of taking that which others have in order that they may possess it. Many creditors are harsh, unsympathetic and unyielding in their attitude towards debtors, a great difficulty often through no fault of their own and insist on their pound of flesh even though it means the ruin and destruction of the debtor; on the other hand, many debtors dishonorably seek to take full advantage of a difficult situation to cheat and defraud those whom they had mined to assist them in the past and who did assist them. And demagogues, both of the Right and the Left, of both high and low degree, take full advantage of such difficulty to fan the flames of discord and arouse and intensify feelings of enmity and prevent reasonable co-operation and the development of goodwill leading to peace and mutually beneficial compromises and agreements

The result is that all parties are invoking the power of the law to enforce their demands. As individuals they demand that force be applied as they would have it applied. The next step, of course, is that as national groups they demand that the same law of force be applied against other national groups. And that means preparation for applying such force, and war as the only alternative

The answer to the question propounded above is that the heart of man is wrong. Mankind has not yet risen high enough, nor educated itself to the point where peace on earth and goodwill among men is really and truly desired. Mankind still prefers to live and rule by force, still prefers to act on the theory, it is not a principle that Might is Right. Once man as an individual changes his viewpoint he will find politicians both ready and anxious to accept and act upon it the armament makers will find themselves without an occupation freed of all the restrictions and obstructions imposed by individual and corporation selfishness and the evils of narrow nationalism, the economic system will operate more easily

The bringing of peace on earth and goodwill toward men is not a matter of law, it cannot be brought about by force it must come because it is the only way it can come, through change in the hearts of men It will be a slow growth, a development to which every true lover of peace and every believer in the power of goodwill is called upon to lend his or her example and influence Failing all others will achieve little peace must be lived and goodwill practised

Gasoline From Lignite

University Of Minnesota Scientists Are Carrying On Experiments

Two University of Minnesota scientists, successful already in developing cellulose, a principal ingredient of rayon, from the sawdust, were associated on the possibility of making gasoline from lignite

The two, Professor Lloyd W. Ellerson and Ralph E. Brewer, hunting new materials and new uses for old ones with the co-operation of the Northwest Research foundation, were heartened by the success of German scientists in making gasoline from brown coal. Lignite, they pointed out, is similar in composition to German's brown coal

Success of experiments in making gasoline from lignite would create an outlet for vast deposits of the low grade coal which underlie portions of North and South Dakota and eastern Montana. Geologists have estimated their total at 1,000,000,000,000 tons.

New Kind Of Concrete

Discovered When Workman Fried Meal On Waste Slate

A workman in a slate quarry in North Wales found himself without a frying pan and he wanted to cook his ham-and-egg dinner.

So he used a piece of waste slate instead. Then he left it on the fire and forgot about it.

As a result, a new kind of economical lightweight concrete has been discovered.

The piece of slate expanded in the heat. When it became light in case it could be used with cement to make a light form of concrete, such as is used in the construction of aeroplanes.

Its moisture expansion is much lower than that of the usual material, and the chief of the department of building research said

"It is easily nailed, and is an excellent key for plaster work."

British Couple Start On Romantic Quest In India

A British couple, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. R. Lorimer, have arrived at Saliut, the capital of Hunza, in Northern India, on one of the most romantic quests in the world. They hope, in the course of a year or so, to reach a district to solve the mystery of the Burushaski language, which is spoken by a primitive race believed to be descended from Alexander the Great. The Burushus, who number about 40,000, are a clan of apparently Persian or Afghan origin. They live on both sides of the Hunza River, which rises in the Valley of Hunza from that of Nagar, in a region of wild and almost inaccessible mountains. For generations they were the terror of the trading caravans between Chinese Turkestan and Kashmir.

Her Lucky Day

A very unlucky bride who was china-hunting in one of the big stores the other day was puzzled to find that one of the bowls of all the sets in the place had been marked down to half its original selling price, and when she inquired why, the salesgirl told her it was because the bowl came from Germany, and the store was closing out all German goods. At this the bride, who is more than a little sympathetic with the boycott, looked over the set pretty carefully, and then ordered it sent to her apartment. Every piece was stamped "Bohemia."—The New Yorker

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT

(Editor's Note: This series of articles is attracting wide interest, and many readers have written in to the author, asking for a personal analysis of their own writing. The author again invites readers to consult him, and you will find details of his offer in the following article.)

Miss S., writes: "I am 18 years of age, and in love with a man of 30. My parents do not like me having anything to do with him, and yet he wants to marry me. What would you advise?"

I believe you would be doing a very unwise think if you marry him, Miss S. His writing tells me that he is very art in his ways, is used to having his own way, and dominates over others. And he is selfish to the core.

You, on the other hand, have a variable nature. Sometimes you are cautious, whilst at other times you are apt to be impulsive. There is a good deal of indecision in your nature. You find it difficult to make up your mind definitely on any point.

You are young and some of your best years lies ahead of you. Do not make a hasty, false step at this stage of your life.

On general principles, I am opposed to a young girl of your age getting married to any man. In fact, I have known many cases where sure marriages have gone on the rocks. Of course, there are cases where happiness prevails, but they are rare.

The odds are against happiness in marriages between April and December, to write figuratively. A man of 30 is, more or less, mature in his views and outlook, while a girl of 18 is, in most cases at least, on the threshold of life And English, after all, is not so bad, your husband would find it so.

* * *

"School-teacher," writes: I am discontented with the life of a country parson's daughter. I want to get out of patience with it, and dread the thought of continuing the work for years to come. I have a proposal of marriage from a young farmer. He is not very well off, and life with him would be something of a struggle. I like him very much, and am wondering if marriage to him would not present an outlet for my present discontent. Should I accept his proposal?"

I sympathize with your position, Miss School-teacher, but am afraid you have only be jumping from the frying pan into the fire. You are of a restless nature, ever on the move, and routine or the humdrum is very irksome to you.

You do not say that you love your young farmer friend. If you did, I might be inclined to say "go ahead"—for he has a likeable sort of nature, and is sincere and earnest and make a success of his work.

But it would not be fair to him to marry him at present, feeling the way you do. Strive for some outside interest, apart from your school work. Develop your talent for the drama. Join the local amateur theatrical club, or if there is none in your district, organize one. I think you will find in that work an outlet for your energies and scope for variety.

You may find in the course of time that you love your friend enough to make sacrifices for him, and then you could marry him. And, at the same time, develop your outside interests to provide that change and variety that your nature demands.

* * *

Your handwriting tells the true story of your character, without any guile. And you can find out what your friend are really like—whether they are sincere or deceitful, honest or unreliable. Send specimens of the writing you wish to have analyzed—as long as possible, please—and enclose 10c coin for each specimen. Send with 3c stamped addressed envelope, to: Lawrence Hibbert, 1440 Broadway Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters will be answered as quickly as possible, but please allow at least two weeks for your reply. All letters are confidential

Gift From Canadian Greeks

Buffalo Of Manitoba Bronze Sent To Royal Couple

A life-like buffalo, of Manitoba bronze mounted on a base of Manitoba marble, was sent to London, the wedding gift of Greek residents of Manitoba to Princess Marina and Prince George.

The buffalo and base is about two feet long and two feet in height. A Greek design is engraved on the base, on which is mounted the Manitoba coat of arms.

On a gold plaque is inscribed "To Princess Marina and Prince George from the 'Hellenes' of Manitoba, Canada."

Fewer, Less Severe Colds With Colds-Control Plan

New Aid in Preventing Colds Makes Possible Better Control of Colds in the Home

CLINICS PROVE PLAN

Mothers can now help their families to greater freedom from colds—fewer colds, shorter colds, milder colds—thanks to the development of the new Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The Plan has been clinically tested by physicians—and its effectiveness is being proved daily in thousands of homes.

The Plan, perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub, is introduced along with the new aid in preventing colds, Vicks Va-tro-nol (for nose and throat). This new Vicks preparation is the ideal companion to VapoRub, the modern method of treating colds.

Briefly, the Plan is this:

To Help Prevent Colds

Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition that you know is apt to be followed by a cold, such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds— crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, the place—sudden changes in temperature—excesses in living. Then—at the slightest irritation of the nasal passages, where most colds start—use Vicks Va-tro-nol at once. Just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. Va-tro-nol stimulates the functions provided by Nature, in the nose, to prevent colds—and to throw off colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to avoid many colds entirely.

To Help Shorten a Cold

If a cold has developed, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. It attacks the cold direct —two ways at once—by stimulation and inhalation. Through the skin, it acts like a poultice or plaster. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Va-tro-nol every few hours as needed to clear clogged nasal passages. This gives you full Plan protection, and without the risks of constant internal dosing, which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.

Trial Offer Guaranteed

Your druggist is offering Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub on the following trial guarantee: Use as directed in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds (details in each package). If you are not delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

Hardly Possible Franklin's Log Books Will Be Found

Any log books Sir John Franklin may have left before he perished Arctic wastes 100 years ago in the hope that they would be found by now, Captain Peter Freuchen, arctic author and explorer, answered when questioned as to the chances of F. Pease passed through Montreal two months ago with a dog and 30 tons of equipment bound for the arctic wastes and a search for documents dealing with Franklin's northern saga he thought he might discover.

Additional Byrd Seen Land All Way To South Pole

A newly discovered section of land in Antarctica has been claimed for the United States by Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

A huge stretch of ice-covered Antarctic waste, which previously had been considered to be over water was said by Byrd to be land. He made this announcement in a message to President Roosevelt following a flight east into Marie Byrd Land.

He brought back with him conclusive evidence that Marie Byrd Land runs in an unbroken line from the Queen Maud Range to the Ross Sea, and that a trans-Arctic strait does not exist. Byrd declared it is all land "somewhere" to be seen, but land, anyway.

YUGO-SLAV ARMY MAKES INVASION INTO HUNGARY

Szeged, Hungary.—A Serbian contingent of the Yugoslav army has crossed the frontier into Hungary, challenged a weaker border force to combat, and precipitated a situation fraught with peril.

The invasion was the result of the order of Yugoslavia expelling 27,000 Hungarians from the country and was one of a series of incidents resulting from the October 9 assassination of King Alexander.

The Serb troop crossed into Hungarian soil three miles from here in the early morning hours. Only the greatest disciplinary actions on the part of the Hungarian officers prevented the outbreak of fighting. The situation was most tense and future trouble was feared.

The Yugoslav soldiers shouted threats and curses across the line at the Hungarians, as thousands of those affected by the expulsion order continued to pass into Hungary.

The town and others near it were choked with the refugees. More thousand more are daily expected. Indignation prevailed against Yugoslavia in the frontier villages, where it was recognized the Yugoslav forces are far too superior to combat.

Earlier there had been reported a general belief that the Yugoslav troops would attack this town and to the indignation was added a note of terror.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia.—Yugoslavia made ready to expel all the 27,000 Hungarians living within her borders but denied indignantly reports from Hungary that those expelled were subjected to hardships. It was estimated 2,000 have been expelled so far.

A foreign office spokesman, meanwhile, scoffed at rumors the two nations had broken off diplomatic relations as a result of the crisis in their relations. Some circles in Yugoslavia charged Hungary with "complicity" in the assassination of her king, Alexander, at Marseilles, Oct. 9.

As hundreds of Hungarians, ordered out of the Slav kingdom, streamed across the border, the government gave as its official explanation of their expulsion the fact the 27,000 had lived 15 years in Yugoslavia without forswearing their allegiance to Hungary.

An aeroplane will take off as soon as a landing permit from Cameron Bay to bring in the captain and engineer, but some of the crew will be left in charge of the craft.

Royal Bank Closing Its Vermilion Branch

An announcement of a distinctly astounding nature was made by the Royal Bank last week end when it notified its patrons that the branch here would close its doors on Dec. 31st Insufficient business to warrant its being kept open was given as the cause for the closing. Arrangements have been made with the Bank of Commerce to take over assets and current accounts of depositors.

The news was received with general regret and with a sense of disbelief but it is well known that since the formation of the Central Bank of Canada a large number of branch banks in smaller towns have been closed. It is understood that eight branches each of the Royal and of the Commerce will close or have been closed by Dec. 31st in Alberta.

The Royal Bank was in business here for 20 years.. Its first manager was H.P. Gates, now manager at Dartmouth, Nova Scotia. H. R. Calvert was second manager and he is now connected with a creamery business in Guelph, Ont. Mr. Calvert was succeeded by H. W. Harper, now of Ituna and then the present Manager T. W. Hoyer took charge two years ago. The staff here consisting of Mr. Hoyer Mr. Leo Fowler, Mr. Ken Robinson and Miss Martha Rita will be absorbed by other branches, in all probability.

The Bank of Commerce staff will be augmented by two clerks

YOUNG BUSINESS MAN JOINS CALGARY FIRM

Fenton H. Sharp, regarded as one of the most promising of the town's younger business men, has joined the Calgary firm of F. W. Clarke & Co., Stationers, in which business he has secured an interest. He left on Saturday night for his new home in Calgary.

For the past nine years Fenton has been connected with Craig Bros. He learned the business from the ground up and for several years past has been chief accountant of the firm. His outside interests were many and varied. He was Master of the Orange Lodge here for several years and always an active member of that organization. He also served on the executive of many athletic bodies of the town, promoting hockey, baseball but most particularly tennis. Regarding the latter sport he was one of the main movers in having the fine shale courts built here in 1931. His ability in bridge circles was also well known. Seldom will any young person be missed as much as Fenton, but best wishes for his future success are extended to him on a wholesale scale

For the past two weeks Mr. Sharp has been a much feted guest at many parties in his honor in town

He was accompanied to Calgary by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Sharp, who will make their home with him in the southern Alberta city

We extend to All our Many Customers and Friends

Salt Mines Of Poland

Men Who Toiled In Shafts Were Deeply Religious

Visitors to Poland return greatly impressed with the salt mines. For more than ten centuries miners toiled in the salt shafts near Cracow, Poland, and being deeply religious, they spent their spare time in carving marvelous figures in salt. A complete cathedral, containing giant chandeliers, beautiful statues of the saints, altars and other Biblical figures and objects, is one example of the workers' skill. On feast days of modern times, Mass is held in the underground cathedral. Among the statues is that of the Virgin In one part of the mine a giant statue and a beautiful ball appear, monuments to the devotion of the miners.

Pelts From Wainwright Are Going To Arctic Dwellers

Eskimos along the bleak coast of Hudson's Bay will shortly blossom out in buffalo coats similar to those the Mounted Police wear Meats from the same Monarchs of the Plains will be fed to workers in Federal relief camps.

The department of the interior will "cash prize" buffalo hides from the winter slaughter at the National Park Wainwright, to Fort Churchill for distribution. This innovation for the Arctic dwellers followed reports of suffering among Canada's wards due to a scarcity of caribou.

The buffalo hides will be cured and dressed by the Eskimos for clothing and bedding

Chinese Quarrel With Gods

Defend Own Which Shoe Pelted To Temple Door

The Chinese people are quarreling with their gods, and one of the chief of them—the Dragon god, whose function it is to provide rain has been beheaded. At Jenchiu in Honan province, the villagers carried from the temple the image of the Dragon god and forced the magistrate against his will to conduct prayers for rain in front of it. The magistrate did not believe that the god should remain there, for seven days and if even then no rain fell he would allow the beheading of the image. No rain fell in the succeeding week and the magistrate allowed three days more of grace. But to no avail. He then ordered out a firing squad and they shot off the head of the gaudily painted deity. When this brought no rain, so the farmers decided to stop all prayers to their gods. And they are now being threatened by a famine.

First "Czar" Of Russia

From The Terrible Was Greatly Feared By People

The British Museum has a rare portrait of Ivan the Terrible He lived in the time of Elizabeth and was the first ruler of Russia to take the title of czar, a corruption of Caesar His deeds were so infamous that for centuries after his death mothers frightened bad children at mention of his name He proposed by letter to Queen Elizabeth for the hand of an English woman, but at the last moment the woman was afraid to go into exile in Russia Even then marched a Russian garrison, who escorted some church on his cruelty But after her death he gave full rein to his unbridled passion He passed his last days surrounded by magicians, who could not, however, exercise the ghost of his son whom Ivan had slain.

Colored Films

Latest Developments In Color Photography Shown In London

Britain is likely to go in for colored films on an extensive scale. It was indicated in London following the showing of latest developments in color photography.

The newest process is known as dufaycolor and the first film of three reels shown included excerpts of the most delicate hues and revealed subtle shading such as has not hitherto been attained on the British screen.

Dufaycolor was said to be the first step from the experimental stage towards the commercial production of all color talking pictures. A factory is to be erected shortly at Wembley, Middlesex, it was reported, for the manufacture of 2,500,000 feet of color film per week.

THE CHRISTIAN HOME
(Christmas Lesson)

Golden text: Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased. Luke 2:14.

Lesson: Luke 2:8-18.

Devotional Reading: Deuteronomy 6:5-14.

Explanations And Notes

The Scripture lesson, Luke 2:8-14, Luke's beautiful story of the Nativity gave that to shepherds keeping watch by night over their flocks by the field as angel appeared, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid. "Ye should not be far astray in taking words, 'And the glory of the Lord shone round about them,' as the key passage of Luke's Gospel. The way he has set forth Jesus, radiant and beautiful, the wondrous Lord in lowly surroundings and in the concern of many of our life, to pass after days of his meekness story, helps to this interpretation. We follow him gladly as he unfolds the story, sensing that he, the writer says, the whole world gathered round the cradle of Bethlehem. The historic past to his idea has reached its consummation when 'the hopes and fears of all the years,' particularly of his own generation, were realized in this coming of a Saviour, Christ the Lord. From the tale of this wondrous event to the end of the last immortal line this evangelist wrote down for us, we find ourselves humming the old triumphant refrain, 'And the glory, the glory of the Lord shall be revealed." (Arthur W. Brown).

"Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all the people," is the angel's message. And what a joy! A good tidings which sings its way into our heart at every Christmas season! It is the joy to you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord.

A Glimpse of a Lowly Home and Sacred Family Life (vs. 15-18)

The vision faded the shepherds resolved to go to Bethlehem and see the Babe. They went in haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the Babe lying in the manger. Then followed a March that holds the Babe, artists, poets and musicians have had their imaginations fired their thoughts ennobled, their genius kindled. Here we, too, may pause in reverence awe and glad rejoicing.

The shepherds told what they had heard to the wonderment of all. Mary kept and pondered their words in her heart.

Problems of the Christian Home. Ephesians 6:1-4. "Children," wrote Paul, "obey your parents in the Lord, in the spirit of Christ: for this is right." And he repeated the fifth commandment. Honor thy father and mother, commenting that it is the first (and only) commandment which carries with it a suggestion of reward in that it adds, "that it may be well will, thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth."

Parents must be worthy of the obedience required of children, hence Paul turned in thought to the fathers and wrote: "And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath." Not to you fathers, do not exasperate your children." (Moffatt's translation) Pay your harshness or conduct do not tempt them to rebel.

Little Journeys In Science

SOILS
(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

All soil comes originally from decomposed rock and a geologist can tell by examining a soil, tell from which rock it is derived. Clay, sand, and loam are the three chief kinds of soil. It is naturally light in color, but darker animal or vegetable matter makes it dark, while the presence of compounds of iron will give it a red or yellow tinge.

Pebbles in the commonest of all rocks, and we are told that it is fortunate for man that this is so, for it is from certain chemical elements which life depends. In common pebbles are found lime, potash, alumina, silica and potash, all of which are important to animal and vegetable life.

Sand used in soil comes from decomposed quartz, which is derived from granite. Contrary to popular belief, sand is not a nuisance in soil, necessary of nature; and in time it breaks down into quartz and finally sugar, which in turn becomes sand and clay. Loam is a mixture of sand and clay.

Rocks are made into soil by the action of the oxygen in the air, and by the chemicals carried by water, which transforms the solid minerals in the rocks into a form in which they can be used by the plants.

The process of soil formation can be seen in the Rocky Mountains, which has been excavated On the lowest level is the hard bed-rock Above, where air and water have penetrated, all the rock is slightly decomposed Then comes the subsoil, in which there are small pieces of rock and particles of sand and clay. On the surface is the top soil in which we find the decomposed animal and vegetable matter

Making Round-World Review

Baden-Powell Will Cross Canada Early Next Summer

Best known to the present generation as founder and chief of the Boy Scouts and founder of the Girl Guides, Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell will arrive at Victoria, B.C., on April 1 next to cross Canada in the course of his round-the-world review of these organizations and inspection of their many activities.

Lady Baden-Powell, who heads the girl's branch as Chief Guide, and two daughters are accompanying the Chief Scout. They are at present on their way east from England, making calls on Scout and Guide units in some of the 71 countries where these organizations are promoting their ideals of good citizenship among youth. International in scope, the twin associations know no race or color. Started in 1908, they spread with amazing speed to every country every land. Their membership is in hundreds of thousands.

Lord Baden-Powell is a distinguished British soldier of the Boer war, 1899-1902. In those days he was known as "B.P." and hailed the "hero of Mafeking." Major B.P., lieutenant-colonel, he commanded the defending force of 1,000 irregular troops when the little British concentrated buildings in the centre of Bechuanaland was besieged and cut off from its water supply for seven weeks months by a much larger and better equipped force. It is recorded B.P.'s force lost 60 men, while maintaining the attacking forces never failed.

The high spirits with which he conducted the defence are historical. He was always able to rally his decimated garrison to the counter-attack and bring inspiration to the defenders' cause. Eventually a relieving force, including guns of "C" Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, broke through the enemy lines and raised the siege.

Baden-Powell received quick promotion and retired from the British army in 1910 as Lieut.-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell. He has seen service in India and Afghanistan as well as South Africa. He is a sculptor of note and author of several books, including "Scouting and boy training. He was married in 1912, when 55 years of age, to Miss Olive Soames, who is also claimed by Girl Guiding, has taken a leading part in the development of the Girl Guides.

Had Unusual Vocation

Amherstia King Patrolled Desolate Beach For Years

Adam Adamson, known as the Amherstia King and believed to have one of the most unusual vocations in the world, died in Auckland, one of the loneliest spot in New Zealand. He was born in the Shetland Islands, he came to New Zealand and settled on the spot of land in Mason's Bay to hunt for the treasure which comes from the wreck of the Polar Bear and eventually is washed ashore. On the desolate beach which Adamson patrolled for more than 20 years the Antarctic currents would sometimes sweep lumps of this odorous tree sure. He waited for them and at times made rich finds. He never became rich but he found enough to make a living and he asked no more

Eyestrain Is Destructive

Overwork "Burns Out" Optical Nerves And Saps Energy

The destructive result of eyestrain is explained on the grounds that six of the 12 nerves which control the head lead to the eyes. Overwork of these delicate nerves not only saps energy available for other nerves but "burns out" the optical nerves and renders ineffective the eyes, one of the principal channels of outside knowledge. Moreover, hikers and motor ists who face the dazzling sunlight without the protection of colored glasses often contract severe eyestrain and place themselves "on the spot" without realizing they are doing s

The High School did not know that they harboured such talent in the way of acting. The play "Closed Lips" was a decided success, and the High School is proud of their showing. The whole cast did very well and altogether the play was enjoyed by all.

Annual Meeting Post 11, Can. L.

Harry Scott New President

The Canadian Legion Post 11 held its annual meeting and election in the Club rooms on Monday evening, Dec. 10th. A fair number of members attended. The ordinary business of the meeting was despatched quickly and efficiently, and the members settled down to hear a talk on the great Re-union of Returned Men which was held in Toronto this summer.

Mr. J. C. Thom, accompanied by Mr. Young, came down specially from Marwayne to give this talk, which proved to be most interesting, coming as it did from the lips of a man who had taken part in that wonderful gathering. The most thrilling part of Mr. Thom's discourse was his description of the three mile march up Yonge Street on the Monday, which was attended by 20,000 returned men and 200,000 citizens. There is a scene to tax the imagination of people born in the sparsely populated west!

Mr. Thom also passed around for inspection a fine collection of photographs of the various events at the Toronto gathering.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the talk and the members gathered round for a social half hour.

The officers elected for the next year were as follows:

Hon. President — H. J. Reid
President — H. Scott
1st Vice-President — Don Taylor
2nd Vice — W. S. Macaulay

The resignation of W. H. Burton, now completing his third year as secretary-treasurer, was read, but not very willingly accepted. Mr. Burton was requested to reconsider his resignation before the January meeting.

"Facts and Mr. Beatty"

(From The Toronto Globe, Friday, December 21, 1934.)

To the Editor of The Globe: In the interests of fairness, may I be permitted to reply to the letter on the railway situation which appeared in your columns recently over the signature of J. A. Douglas. Mr. Douglas has sought widespread circulation for his views, as his letter has already appeared in five Ontario newspapers and in at least one Western newspaper. It is, I think, an unfair letter, because it seeks to create the impression that the Canadian Pacific Railway has cost and is costing the people of this country vast sums of money, which places it in the position as a source of national expense little different from that of the C.N.R. A reply is justified and desirable because, without condescending to particulars, Mr. Douglas makes sweeping charges about transactions with respect to which most people are well informed.

No Ordinary Subsidy

Mr. Douglas's total value of the "subsidies" to the C.P.R. "was certainly not less than $250,000,000," he wrote on two counts. Such assistance as the C.P.R. received from the Government cannot be classed as an ordinary railway subsidy. It was payment made in the form of both cash and land as agreed compensation for work done, and for payment obligations assumed under a contract. After having failed miserably in its attempt to build the line itself, the Government had to find a syndicate to take over the job under terms to be arranged. The road had to be constructed under unusually physical and financial difficulties, and in the face of skepticism on the part of influential people here and in England as to whether it would ever "pay for its sole grandeur." The form of the agreement finally made between the Government and syndicate were reasonable, and in view of the difficulty of the task to be performed, and the obligation to operate in perpetuity, the assistance given the railway was moderate. Indeed by the yardstick of assistance given other railways in the United States, it was extremely so. Mr. Douglas's second statement is his guess as to the amount of assistance given.

Facts in Figures

Let us look at the facts obtainable from Government and other sources The figures are as follows:

Relating to Original Contract
Cash	$25,000,000
Amount received for lands turned back to Govt.	10,189,521
Total	$?2,?89,?54
Under Crow's Nest Pass Agreement:
Cash	$ 2,104,?2?
Other:
Cash paid to Canadian Pacific Railway Company	$ 1,?31,444
Cost to Government of North Shore Line, turned over to Canadian Pacific Railway	1,?50,000
Cash paid to subsidiaries subsequent to acquisition by Canadian Pacific	10,?46,?93
Cash paid to Canadian Pacific Railway	$9?,?12

Freight Rate Concessions

In return for the moneys received under the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement the company built 2?5 miles of certain railroad and made a substantial concession in Western freight rates. The Board of Railway Commissioners placed Dec. 3rd, Insights for Dec. 3rd, 1934, the value of the latter to Canadian shippers and rethe country itself was worth many hundred times the cost in money.

of Land

In addition to the cash paid to the Canadian Pacific Railway, there were grant ed to it by the Dominion Government under certain

Subsidiaries now a part of the C P R. owned 2,?53,?15 acres of land when they came under the control of that company, thus making total land received by the C.P.R. 22,?32,?31 acres.

It is fair to ask what was the value of those lands. What was their value before the C.P.R. made it possible for people to go there and live on them?

When the road was in the building there was a land boom and over three and a half million acres were sold at a price which was selling at the average of $2.31 per acre. the not after developing well that average would have been much more. After that followed the collapse of the land boom. In the next five years only 230,?16 acres were sold Cancellations were frequent, and at the end of 1896 less land had actually been sold or contracted for than at the end of 1885. At that time the company would gladly have turned over its land hold for a very modest average recom pense.

The Public's Share

As noted in the cash received statement the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. sold 4?4 acres at $1.50 per acre, and I think it will be agreed that, considering the cost of selling and securing settlers and poor land received in dry areas which proved unsold would be a fair price at which to set the value of land which had been turned back. I believe the total of land and cash subsidies received, per mile of road built by the Canadian Pacific to the people of Canada 22,152,?31 acres at $1.50 $31,?28,?17 cash received 2,?93,?12

Total $?4,?21,?29

Comparisons are odious but it might be pointed out that the value of the credits aids to the Canadian National Railways, and additional cash and unpaid interest due the Government is a total of $?54,?72,?19

Made the West

The figures enumerate here what the Canadian Pacific has done to justify the grant of national development in return for its land and cash subsidies which are comparatively small, as compared with the sums paid other railways all over the continent. It opened up and made the West. In doing so it has spent up to the end of last year 2 per cent of its gross money on colonization and develop ment. It has done more than that. It is now in receipt of the people of the same rate as other railways, and it has also agreed to reduce freight rates. I think most people will grant that the people of Canada have got their money's worth of all such assistance as has been given. Their investment in railroads and in assistance given to the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. by the Dominion Government and Provincial Governments.

Vermilion, Alta., Dec. 20, 1934.

The Editor and Staff take this opportunity to wish all readers A Merry Christmas. In keeping with the season a special effort was put forth to make this issue reflect the joyous spirit of Christmas.

Through the enterprise of the Standard's Clandonald correspondent and the co-operation of the business men of that thriving rural centre, the Standard contains a full page of Clandonald news and advertising, added to Dewberry and Landonville. A bright prosperous future can surely be predicted for a community whose business men are of the energetic type indicated by this page.

The Editor regrets that a large amount of live, newsy material sent in by the Clandonald correspondent had to be held over owing to lack of space.

Pertinent facts are frequently shaming because generally speaking, we do not think of including ourselves as a factor or unit in the circulation of a result which looks personal appears alarming. Now then take an illustration ugly and personal: accounts unpaid as of October 31st last amounted to $2,068.10, add to this the outgo for November, it reaches $3,000. This making a total of $5,527.71; of this amount so far this month (18th) only $1,017.15 has been paid. From this it appears that it needs the concentrated effort of every one of electricity to pay his or her account before the end of the month to prevent the company from enforcing the right to discontinue service if not paid within the time allowed namely, ten days. Apparently unheard of? It causes the natural reaction.

LOCALS DROP OPENING LEAGUE HOCKEY GAME

Vegreville Cops Odd Goal and Two Points

SIX GOALS SCORED IN SECOND PERIOD

Six goals in the second period, with the locals coming from behind 3-1 in the last minute of play to win and then to lose out by a lone goal in the third, were features that made Vermilion's opening home game the best ever witnessed in the arena. Although losing out, Pete Weber and company gave their supporters plenty to enthuse over. Not only did they come from behind two goals to tie the score, showing that they have plenty of that old fighting spirit, but they matched strides with the touted Vegreville out fit in every department and were just as much value for a win as the actual winners. This Vegreville team is composed of young but highly experienced players that are not all—well, exactly Vegreville products, but they can play hockey. Incidentally, the local boys lost Ken Robinson at the end of the first period, who was put out with a dislocated shoulder, suffered through a body check. Ken had been the spearhead of the local attack and with him on for the whole game, a different story might well have been told.

Vermilion outplayed Lee and Robinson made a good try, followed by nice attempts by Manson Barr, scott hand Mead have been nicely; Banks laid down a pass right across the goal mouth, but his mates were too far back. The locals were pressing and had an edge. Mackenzie got in a shot then the play shifted to Vermilion territory. Mead being called on to stop two shots. Just before the end of the period Robinson was body checked and dislocated his left shoulder when he struck the ice.

Now that Robinson would be out for six weeks had a desultory effect on Pete's charges; they opened slow and the Rangers turned on the pressure Parks slamming home a close shot 15 seconds after the bell. The counter was quickly followed by another when Mosel, fast Ranger left winger rallied during a ball and defence work, slipping an ice hazzer under Frank's pads when he went down to his knees. Bill Mead made a hard rush but his shot was cleared. Mr Kinnon tripped Corson and was behind, Jacobs then made what appeared to be a clean break away, but was ridden into the ice by Manson Barr. The latter drew a penalty but saved a sure goal.

Vegreville pressure eased off and Vermilion began to click. Corson enfiltered a rush down centre, drew the defence to him and passed prettily to Fred Brimacombe, who easily beat Scott; Manson just failed to even matters and then Corson drew a penalty, as did Wener. Things turned blue when midway through the period Jacobs and Ouwuroyshuk made a clean break away, having only one man to beat, and the big defence man took Jacobs's long pass to make the score 3-1. The locals made desperate attempts and Mackenzie scored on a lone rush. Shortly after Jim Banks snapped in White's rebound and the score read 3-3.

The pace was beginning to tell in the third and the game was slower. Manager Moss supplied a little stir magic for referee Bert Williams, due to a misunderstanding, and shortly after play resumed Jacobs planted Mosely rebound behind Mead for the counter that won the game Play ended with Vermilion giving everything they had to score and the visitors contenting themselves with clearing the rubber down the ice

Referee: Bert Williams. Line-ups Vegreville—Scott; McKinnon, Ouwuroyshuk; Parks, Mosel, Jacobs Wener, Petusky, Serabin.

Vermilion — Mead, Mackenzie, M Barr, W. Mead, English, Corson, Brimacombe, C. Barr, Banks, J White K Robinson

High School Dramatists Score Another Success

Modern Drama Is Presented By Youthful Thespians

The high school dramatic society's presentation this year, "Closed Lips," was a decided departure from their usual practice, as they gave a modern drama. And seldom has it been our pleasure to witness a play in which the cast was so well chosen — each member being particularly suited to the character portrayed. The play itself was what might be termed a "whole coat play," there was really not a minor part in it — every Thespian having a role calling for considerable stage appearance and conversation.

The actual presentation of their parts by the participants in "Closed Lips" was well done; voices were good, enunciation clear and precise. The make-up of each was very good; naturalness, ease and poise were taken without a pause.

Ralph Wilson, as Matthew Radcliffe, portrayed the middle-aged man who had suffered mentally under a great burden for fifteen years; his whole appearance, actions and make-up could not have been improved upon in our estimation. His wife, enacted by Queta Robinson, fell into the part of the anxious mother and wife, worrying constantly over her husband's health and children's welfare. The leading lady was Miss Terry, whom we know as an old favorite of high school plays. Miss Eleanor Welsh, while opposite her, as her fiancee, was Fred Brimacombe. The latter's clear voice and demonstrative mein suited this part to perfection. Tom Boyer, as the tragedy-ridden brother John, looked and acted the affection-hungry ex-convict, who has suffered much and who gradually breaks under the influence of little Star. The lightness, humor and comedy were cast into the play by Cecil Cooper as the breezy, vivacious young wife of six months, and the contrasting husband, John Taylor, who was usually "completely dismissed," possibly from trying to keep pace with his wife. The part of Star Blevan, a little waif, could not have been more vividly portrayed; this part was taken by Helen Evans, and her work is worthy of special mention.

The old negro couple, servants in the Radcliffe household, supplied both pathos and comedy; their loyalty was touching and accompanying darky actions comical. "Mammy Jinny" was taken by Claire West and "Jeff" by Frank Manners.

During the first intermission Miss Frances Antonio gave two solo selections and surprised and delighted the audience with her rendition. Her accompanist was her sister Marie.

VERMILION BOYS'S HOCKEY CLUBS TO LLOYDMINSTER

Playing at Lloydminster Wednesday evening, Vermilion dropped the decision 7-6. Fred Brimacombe, Corson and English played bang-up hockey for the locals and accounted for the local goals, all on double and single assists.

Frank Mead, local goalie, was struck in the eye with the puck and was rushed to Edmonton to a specialist.

DERWENT CREAMERY REPORTS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

We Christensen, proprietor of the Derwent creamery reports a successful season, his one regret being that the price of cream to the producer was very low. However he is expecting to see better times for the dairy man in the not too far distant future.

Levasseur Bros., the local agents at the Derwent creamery continue to give excellent service in the farmers of this district who have creams to ship.

ANNUAL MEETING U. F. A.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the U. F. A. was a great success, the executive committee elected being comprised of—
President — George White.
Vice president — J. O. Cusack.
Sec. Treas. — A. Rowntree.
Five directors were also appointed as well as several committees.

We extend best wishes to Milton Farrell and his bride, nee Mine Fry, of the Campbell Lake district.

Mr. Rhondeo has returned after a successful business trip to Winnipeg. We understand that he visited Calgary on his way home, calling on many old friends in the city of the foothills.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Good Sr. were recent visitors in town and are looking well.

Our old friend Archie Campbell is looking forward to the next election when he believes that the liberal party will have sufficient members in the provincial house to form a government.

It grieves us to report that the King fish, life long friend of Andrew H Brown (ale) has lost his job as Mayor and Dictator of the new city. Our little idyll may lead a prospect for Dictator too and it looks as if even he is losing faith, but of that more anon.

HOCKEY CHATTER

The manager of the Derwent hockey team, Mr. Kinne), expects to have a league with teams from Clandonald Derwent, Myrnam, and Elk Point or St. Paul. Our local hockey leaders however are somewhat doubtful of the arrangement for this season.

We feel sure that Clandonald has a team that would be able to make things plenty interesting for the teams competing the Vermilion Civic league.

MANVILLE PEOPLE PLAN "CHEER" FUND

Committee Canvass Citizens For Necessary Funds

MANVILLE, Dec. 15.—A group of interested citizens met and outlined plans for Manville "Sunshine" Mrs. W. P. Colbert, Mrs. A. M. Rutherford, and Mrs. H. L. Bennett were appointed as ladies committee. A. E. Williams and G. K. Brady were selected to canvass the town for funds, while M. Leitch of the town council will approach that body with a view of getting a substantial donation.

Last year's contributions by "Sunshine" were greatly appreciated by the needy and it is the committee to doing everything in its power to bring some Christmas "cheer" to the less fortunate and needy.

The year 1934 is heading for the last round up but before it goes now the local clerk and square up all and sundry accounts due your municipality. Everybody saves by you doing it. Eln

Prize Winners

The prize winners at the whist drive held here Friday were: Ladies:— 1, Mrs. M. A. Scarfe; 2, Mrs. P. Hynes. Mr. Mrs. Machattie; 3, Mrs. Fleming Genis 1, Bert Scarfe; 2, C. Hawkes; 3, John McCambridge; 4, Mr. McKinnon. A pleasing surprise was the presence of the Burn Sisters and the managers of the drive had partners to entrail the games because the mere presence of the fairer sex cheerio makes folks feel like doing nothing else but dance, and dance they did until the wee hours. Good old Jeword was MC. The ladies served a delightful supper

The Island Hill orchestra will dispense the music on Hegmanny night, Monday, 31st December, when an old-time novelty dance will be held in the school here. See ads in this issue for particulars.

The other day we met a friend who is normally a very spirited fellow against the opposite sex, at least one member of it in particular. It seems he was invited to ring the young lady some time ago. She was a brunette. Recently he met her again and did not recognize her. She was a blonde! Now, he assures us he will never resign his bachelorship. Poor boy!

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown, the Misses Dynes and McCambridge busy with their saying cards!

We wish our readers and the Editor and staff of The Standard.—

Thoughts and Things

The business of living, when boiled down and all the froth skimmed off, is just a matter of thinking.

Each of us is continually thinking ideas of our own and swapping them for the ideas of others. If there is a famine of outside ideas we shrivel up ourselves. Children with "nobody to play with" are unhappy and unmanageable.

From thinking with our heads to doing with our hands is but a little step and then our thoughts become things.

The originator of an idea is not much better off than before he originated it till he gets someone else to absorb it and enjoy and benefit by it.

The man or woman surrounded by better thoughts and things but who pays not the slightest attention to them is not much better off than the one with "nobody to play with."

The advertisements in real newspapers are thoughts—telling you about the things that other men and women have created for your use. Read the ads. They are the voices from hundreds of thousands of looms, shops, foundries, studios, laboratories, where millions of minds are turning pleasant thoughts into worth-while things for you and your family.

CHAIN STORES RECORD PROBED BY COMMISSION

Ottawa.—The record of the chain stores on wages and weights was stressed before the parliamentary mass buying commission during the examination of J. G. Adamson, secretary of the Canadian Chain Store Association.

Johnston agreed with several members of the commission that chain stores paid low wages but he would not admit this was attributable to the system of handling a low percentage of profit on a high turnover of merchandise. He said the chains hoped to increase wages as soon as the grip of the depression was loosened although he contended they paid higher averages than independent merchants.

The association secretary claimed the chain system did not force store managers to cheat customers. He gave the results of two or three tests made in Toronto where chain packages were bought in chain and independent stores. In each, the record of the chain was better than the independents.

The association secretary argued the chains had not forced out personal independent merchants out of business, quoting the number of bankruptcies in Canada to support him.

"What has happened to them," asked J. L. Ilsley, Lib., Hants-Kings.

"They went out of business, or out going through bankruptcy courts," retorted Sam Factor, Lib., Toronto West Centre. "The fact there were fewer bankruptcies does not show the independents have not gone out of business."

"They just gave up the ghost," agreed Alex Edwards, Cons., South Waterloo.

Johnston, repeating one of his main arguments, that chains had reduced the cost of living in Canada, said an average family of four could buy groceries and meats for $13 a week from a chain store.

"If it cost $13 a week to buy food and groceries," interjected Sam Factor, "how do the chains expect their employees to eat?" This contention also has beard evidence of hundreds of chain store employees receiving less than $12 a week.

Many employees of the chains in the lower wage scales were unmarried, Johnston replied, being entitled to training. It was the hope of the chains, however, they could increase wages soon.

"But in the most prosperous times Canada has ever known, your wages were absolutely rotten," retorted Bonnercville

Abandon Naval Talks Over

Gay Tri-Power Conference Will Not Be Resumed

London The tri-power naval talks between Great Britain, the United States and Japan, unofficially terminated, will not be resumed, it was learned, notwithstanding the Japanese desire to the contrary.

Proposals for a full naval conference in 1935 are likely to be accomplished through diplomatic channels. The British and United States agreed the present talks can only be renewed if some new development makes it worth while. There is also little chance of this, since Japan has made it clear she will not back down in her stand for actual parity and on the other two, a demand Britain and the United States cannot grant

Quality Should Be Maintained

Advice Given To Hog Producers By Hon. F. R. Grisdale

Edmonton—Hog producers should strive to maintain, statistically speaking, the margin of profit in production to a small, just as in the past two or three years it would seem, said Hon F R Grisdale minister of agriculture in making his first address as guest of the Alberta Provincial Swine Breeders Association to their annual meeting. H D Baker North Edmonton was re-elected president for a second term

Wheat Marketing Difficult

Chicago.—Removal of wheat from the luxury class and relief from influences that constrict its world demand, would provide a far easier solution of present marketing difficulties than can be found in the policy of production and export quotas, W. Sanford Evans, M.L.A., prominent Winnipeg statistician told members of the grain market analysts club here

Traffickers In Armaments

Empire-Wide Investigations Into Operations of Manufacturers and Traffickers

Ottawa. — Empire-wide investigations into the operations of manufacturers and traffickers in armaments should be urged to the limit by Canadian Liberals, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion leader, told the National Liberal Federation.

This investigation should include the sale by Canada and other parts of the British Empire of essential war materials, "with a view to the ultimate control of the supply and sale of munitions of war by the Leaguo of Nations or some other effective international agency."

Coupled with this Mr. King warned that Canada take the lead in declaring definitely "not only that it will give no succor to any nation which wantonly disturbs the world's peace but that it will provide neither arms nor foodstuffs nor credits to such a nation.

"I believe," asserted Mr. King, "that a declaration of policy of the kind by the government of Canada would not only be right in itself, but would win for this country friends among all the peace-loving nations of the world and would serve to open the door to brond general negotiations which would harmonize and protect their mutual interests."

He was not one of those who believed that early war in Europe was inevitable, and he believe responsible rulers in Europe wished for war, but it was now generally recognized that a conflict of violence might precipitate the most serious of issues.

Has Faith In Stevens

Miss Agnes Macphail Says Premier Will Win Back Lost People

Montreal.—Miss Agnes Macphail, Canada's only woman member of parliament, told the United Farmers of Ontario that if Hon. H. H. Stevens, or Hon. W. D. Euler, would take an independent position on some progressive measure "there would be nothing to prevent her, if elected, from working with them."

Miss Macphail, substituting for Mr. Stevens, who was scheduled to speak at the U.F.O. convention, said there was nothing to prevent her from working with them "if they were going in her direction, even if they were going only part way."

She believed Mr. Euler, former Liberal minister of national revenue, was the most courageous member of the opposition, but her address was concerned more with the position of Mr. Stevens.

"The Hon. H. H. Stevens has won the hearts of the people in Canada, and certainly the hearts of the farmers," Miss Macphail said. "He has won their hearts because of his willingness to work for the fair particular manner, to use his own phrase, and because of his willingness to make a personal sacrifice to do those things Such willingness in high places is so rare in Canada it leaves us gasping."

Ottawa.—Arrangements for close co-operation between the national research council and the department of agricultural were approved at a meeting of the council. Associate committees of the council will be recognized as committees of both the department and the council in future and the weed committees of the two bodies are to be amalgamated in a single committee The object is to avoid duplication of effort and speed up research work on agricultural matters

Would Adjourn Law Courts

British Chief Justice Issues Threat In Home Of Lords

London.—An incident unique in English history occurred in the house of lords when Lord Chief Justice Hewart, first magistrate of the United Kingdom, threatened to suspend the courts of law.

Lord Hewart rose to oppose a clause in the bill modifying supreme court procedure which, he declared, was deliberate effrontery to Sir Henry Slesser former solicitor-general.

Lord Hewart announced he would fight the bill line for line and, if necessary, word for word." He stated since he could not be in the house of lords and as chief justice simultaneously he would not hesitate if the bill is not modified to adjourn the law courts of England as long as the bill was under discussion at risk of disrupting holiday plans. Then to do what he considered his duty.

ALBERTA CLAIMS CASE HEARING IS CONCLUDED

Ottawa. — The question of who owns the water rights in the province of Alberta still remained a live issue in public, with the Dominion and the province of Alberta at the conclusion of their public hearings in the natural resources claims case.

The problem arose during the hearings before the Dorant commission and counsel for both sides appointed to their respective governments made the trend of arguments more upward from the bottom of the province.

The province contention is that water rights passed to the province by the agreement of 1930 under which the natural resources claims were transferred to the province. The Dominion contends the provincial government passed back to the Dominion

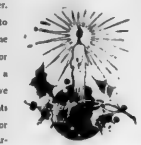
Magic of Christmas Sweeps Entire World

THE magic of Christmas lies over the world today, changing the dreary commonplace events of yesterday into things of wonder and delight and filling the earth with happiness and joy and cheer.



It permeates the whole earth from end to end and mankind in every land and clime responds to it in the fullest measure. For into our hearts at this time there comes a beautiful something that raises us above ourselves and brings us to greater heights than we ever reach at any other time. For with the magic of Christmas time man buries self in trying to promote the happiness and well-being of others and in doing this finds greatest happiness for himself also. For it seems as if the more we give of love, of service and of ourselves the fuller grows the store from which we draw upon and the richer we grow in the things that make for our own happiness. Let us then allow the magic of Christmastime to fall upon us so deeply that it may not only stay with us at this time but through all the days to follow.

—Katherine Edelman.

IN MERRIE ENGLAND

The English Christmas is not unlike ours save that we do not have thirty years' season of "bringing in the yule." In almost every family in England the boys and girls gather about the burning log on Christmas Eve to sing carols and tell Christmas legends. Often the children who live in the country assist at the dragging in of the huge log. An Eastern child would not feel that it was Christmas if there were not a bit of mistletoe hanging in the hall, under which the unwary are kissed soundly. Little and big eat the rich and blazing plum pudding, and all join in the singing of Christmas carols and church going.

It is my Hearty Wish that my many Friends and Patrons may have a JOYFUL CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR

"Miracles and The Christ Child"

Indian Brave, Guided by Great Spirit, Recounts Story of Christmas

By Katherine Edelman

In the far-flung land of the west the early winter had been unusually mild and although it was nearing Christmas, now the weather was bright and clear, almost spring-like in its mild brea

Everywhere that the messages of the Christ Child had reached men and women were busy and happy preparing for the great day, a new and added joy of life surging within their hearts. Into each home there had come a strengthening and rekindling of family ties and a new birth of love and service that reached out even beyond the home.

Up on the reservation, however the Indians were about their tasks as usual, for no hint of the wonder and the glory of the Christmas time had yet come to them. And if they felt a mysterious something in the air at this time, they understood it not at all for the brightness from the Star of Bethlehem had not yet burst upon

Moonlight Brook was very lonely—the sad only little Silver Star, her daughter, with her now—the big chief had sent Strong Oak, her husband, with other braves, on a mission to a distant village. And Moonlight Brook had missed him every hour, for their love was still burning as bright as the big camp fire that blazed near the tepees at dusk

Her love of the great open spaces helped to cheer her during the long hours of his absence. Every day with little Silver Star she wandered afar in those lonely places that she went there always came to her the sense of some unknown presence—the hand of some great power

Early one morning Moonlight Brook rallied little Silver Star to her and told her that they would go for a long walk away up to Roaring Creek. Moonlight Brook was lost in wonder at the beauty of the scene, but a great and sudden change had come over the day. Now basking at the lowering, threatening sky, she decided that she must make all possible haste back to the village. For with the darkness and the gloom that had come over all there had come too, from across the prairie a low menacing wind that carried with it at times small, dry snowflakes.

With Silver Star in her arms Moonlight Brook started in the direction of the village walking with the swift, strong stride of the woman who lives much in the open. The snow now was coming down in large flakes and the wind had grown blizzard-like in its velocity. Hope was fast dying within her as she was trembling from exhaustion. Then everywhere nature had did the thing which she had tried hard to keep from happening—she sank upon the snow—her last thought as she felt consciousness leaving her, to wrap the blanket closer about little Silver Star and to wait a prayer to the Great Spirit to take care of Strong Oak when she was gone

But the prairie has many stories to tell of strange things that have happened there, and on this day there was added to the list another of those coincidences which happen oftener in real life than some would have us believe. For Strong Oak and his party came by the very spot where Moonlight Brook and Silver Star lay a short time after they had sunk exhausted. Some of the men had tried to take the other trail, but something within him, that strange, unknown force which comes to all at times, made him choose the Roaring Creek trail instead and he found his loved ones and with the help of the guides they reached the village in safety.

A few hours later, Moonlight Brook and Strong Oak sat hand in hand, the ecstatic happiness of being reunited enfolding them. Moonlight Brook whispered over and over that it was a miracle that the Great Spirit had wrought that Strong Oak should have found her. And Strong Oak told her that while he had been gone he had heard the story of the Christ Child who had come upon earth on this day, which ever since has been called Christmas. As Moonlight Brook listened to the beautiful story that has been told so much, but which keeps its thrill through the ages, she felt that this day was indeed a day of miracles, for, like her bronzed brave, the story brought her a wonderful peace and stilled the restless longing which had come to her so often in the past.

CAN CHRISTMAS DAYS AS THEY USED TO BE

Sometimes it seems as if the "olden days" were the best. Think of their Christmases! Where is the grace and generosity of those times? The warm welcome the large cordiality, the mellow fun of transient celebrations!

Perhaps we look back through the softening slow of distance, but there is a romance, a defiance, fine flavor of something which indeed seems lost

* * *

How the neighbors rode through the snow on horseback to large gatherings! How the pretty girls were muffled in rugs and furs, shivering over the road in sleighs! How the bells rippled and rang! And how the wide doors flew open to greet these guests!

Light of candles . . . breath of pine wreaths . . . sprigs of holly . . . and the high thrill of holiday thoughts!

Laughing faces . . . graceful dances and the Virginia reel in the evening

It is a heartsome thing to think about. Let us try to invest some of this good country spirit into our Christmas day. We have not the leisure and spaciousness of those times, but hearts can reflect just as truly the invisible yet indurable power of love and loveliness! — Marth B. Thomas.

At Christmas Time

We ring the bells and we raise the strain,
We hang up garlands everywhere
And bid the tapers twinkle fair.
And feast and frolic—and then we go
Back to the same old lives again.

VICKS PLAN — CONTROL OF COLDS

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. BOWERY

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen hoty to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "Your employer has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Jim Carter, your boss, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene refused to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Duro Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Blane, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wilderset outfit.

Inel Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector, fell upon starvation in tell Dustin and Sobie Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranches cattle thieves, lacking gratebaked bins, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Duken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

Sobie Goddard and Sam Dustin, fearing the old prospector may tell others the things he has seen so in the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine and then to kill him.

Gerald Keene, dressed in nightowlish cowboy costume, arrived at the Hour-glass ranch and is hired as a cowboy by Joe Carr. The impersonation of a tenderfoot is successful, and he is accepted as such by the other occupants of the bunkhouse.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along and seeing them, steps and talks to Edith. He mentions the Soda Springs dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that made Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

(Now Go On With The Story)

It happened quickly!

One of the men flung his rope and missed. The calf doubled back, ducked under the horse's head and was promptly jerked to earth as the second rider bull-dogged him. In less than a minute that calf, struggling and bawling, lay inert while both men bent over him.

Stone quietly backed his horse down the slope and stood watching the two men. Suddenly he raised his head and listened. Clear and distinct a sound that he knew well came to his ears, the anxious lowing of a cow for her calf. Next to the night howl of a lobo that is the most desolate sound in Nature and sends a thrill to the heart of him who hears it. The next moment a half-crazed cow broke from the scrub and, head down and tail switching dashed at the two dismounted men.

What followed just missed pure comedy. Those men dodged sideways, one fell in his tracks and the other with his own rope on

Banded Mallard Shot By Vermilion Farmer

R. Treasman of the Hindville district south-east of Vermilion, shot a banded mallard drake on September 16th, this fall. He brought the tag into George Law, who in turn mailed it to the Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington. The reply to the letter states that this bird, carrying Band No. C 61782, was banded by Frank Hopkins at Campbellsport Wis

By means of these metal bands not only on migratory waterfowl but on song birds as well, important interesting relations relative to the migrations and other facts in the life history of North America, facts are being submitted success or failure in this bird banding work is dependent upon the reports of persons in the countries on such banded birds as come to their attention.

The letter thanks Mr. Law and Mr. Treasman for their cooperation in this respect

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

(From the Neighborhood of the South-East)

We take this opportunity to extend to friends and readers greetings of the season. Personally, we feel that many of the true, quiet kindly spirit of Christmas could be sought for, but May everyone have a chance to enjoy it in the way they like—in the wish of your correspondent.

Our Tolland news were somewhat incomplete in our last report, a sheet but being mailed We would like to congratulate (somewhat belatedly) Mr and Mrs Jack Lysons on the recent birth of a son

Mr and Mrs G H Webber left unexpectedly on Monday last for Ontario, where they have been called by the serious illness of Mrs Webber with a heating pad we add to the number of her readers and express their wishes for a safe ... of trip and happy and benefit ... to Lacombe.

Mr Otto Wolters and bride obliged the Tolland district with a wedding dance at Lucerne school on Dec 7th A real rejoicing occasion — after all those obligations

The district district broke out in one of those periodic eruptions known as the Community Hall rash. Wood sale has seemingly just passed the critical stage and may relapse yet This is a subject guaranteed to fill any evening in a rural community Opening flower of below tackling a hall fandom considers a piano which seems long ambitious but more obtainable

The annual meeting of the Grizzly Bear Juniors will be held at the home of Mr. MacFarlane on January 5th then announce a change in time under 16 years line from 1 to 2 p.m. over 21 years 5-6. Further notice will be given of their entertainments

A family from the dry southland have settled in the buildings on Mrs Webber's quarter in the Gaston district until the more suitable location which they are seeking is found

The Hall Pannell showed up like a prodigal son at a recent community meeting and evidenced that the mines had been treating him well although he reports affairs very quiet in that locality

Mr. F. Doyle was the lucky winner of the rich and tastefully decorated fruit cake raffled in aid of the Union school Xmas tree. He has become very popular since

The annual meeting of the F.W.A. elected as president Mrs Wm Blakeney Treas. Mrs Jas Brown In the month's local Mr Jas Brown was elected president Mr Young Rona secretary treasurer

The annual meeting of the Glee Club recently proved a busy one The club was totally reorganized whose is a continuation the discussion and accepting of which took up most of the meeting An extensive financial statement was heard and digested, after which officers for the next year were picked The results showed President Mr Clarence Potter, Secretary Miss Lydia Friedland, Vice President Mr Chas Friedland Executive Mrs Virginia Cameron and Messrs Isaac Rose and Bill Imeson The next meeting will be held Wednesday Jan 2nd at the home of Chas Friedland

The next meeting of the I.F.W.A. will be held at the home of Mrs Chas Friedland on January 9th

Winners at the I.F.W. whist drive on the 8th were Mrs T H Cushman and Mr Clarence Potter Consolations went to Miss Ina Roberts and Mr Cecil Hobbs. Next one is at the home of Chas Friedland on Saturday evening, Dec 22nd

Mysterious rumors hint at meet to forestall events to take place at Woodvale on the 21st. Pupils on a round with a faraway look and the air of one who is distracted air Are we nations to find out what it is all about " We ask you"

Don't forget to rummage in the attic for a spectacular outfit to display on the 21st

Miss M Cornington spent the week end at the home of Miss Beth May, Cummings

Miss Evelyn de Breville has been absent for several week-ends lately spent in the Cummings district and in town. Our viewpoint demurable will certainly be something of a rearranged one

Mrs T H Cornington left for Red ... Wash. on a visit to her mother and sister, who have been seriously ill The I.F.W.A. will miss this active and resourceful member, and the whole Neighborhood extends wish no for a pleasant and beneficial trip and visit

The pleased smile on the face of Mr Chas Friedland these days is due to his satisfaction with the results of his work in renovating his dwelling We must say he is making a warm and workmanlike job and Jack Frost is certainly excluded from the Nightwork gathering in that home

MILD WINTER IS FORECAST FOR THE WEST

Conditions Parallel Those of 1931 Says Noted Flier

A mild winter appears likely for the greater part of western Canada this season, in the belief of C. H. "Punch" Dickins, Canadian Airways superintendent for the Mackenzie district Chinook winds which gave the southwest an unusually mild winter in 1931 have returned this year, the veteran of northern trails declares, pointing to the fact that winter aviation in the north has been seriously handicapped.

Very little snow has fallen in the north this year and formation of ice has been retarded by mild weather From Fort Resolution down the Mackenzie River and in the Liard country, aeroplanes cannot land since ice is unsafe for ski-equipped machines and there is not sufficient open water to permit continued use of pontoons.

These conditions, making the latest winter flying season in the north, contrast sharply with the bitterly cold weather of a year ago and the mild 1931 winter with that of the preceding year.

Airmen remember the 1931 winter as "freakish," since it was during record temperatures of 70 below zero prevailed while at 2,000 feet altitude the mercury column would show 10 above. This led to serious difficulties since motors designed for extreme temperatures would tend to overheat in the air Pilots usually could use the warm air current as a fine haze as they ascended into it from the colder air below. — Edmonton Journal.

There are people who Will and people who Won't. If you should ask the first ten persons you met which they preferred, the Wills would get it 100% Now, if those who will, will do the best they can in regards to taxes and philly accounts before the end of the month your Mayor and Councillors will be deeply thankful. Eh

Another residence being prepared for the coming cold is that of Mr. and Mrs C. Potter A lotta work, a lotta warmth.

The interests and activities of the Union Co-operative Association would make splendid advertising copy, and it is regret that it has not been submitted as such. However, our report is's responsibilities up to date do not extend to the handling of this commercial matter. We are allowed confidence, and may say that much effort has been put towards making it a success, and much good can be gained if this group can bring the matter of a Mutual Telephone Company to some satisfactory basis, as the plan has all several spans in the district at present.

We extend to our growing family of staff and correspondents, fraternal greetings of the Christmas season. We have often wondered what a staff banquet would bring forth, but realize the difficulties of transportation and attendance

Enjoy that turkey, but don't crowd out the plum pudding!

ALBERTA'S WINNINGS AT THE BIG EXHIBITIONS

Once again Alberta exhibitors in both grains and live stock came to the fore in the prize lists of the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, and the later national show at Chicago.

At Chicago, for the seventh time in 13 years, Alberta captured the world title in wheat. This year's victor was John E. Allsop of Strathcona, 20 years old, a native of Calgary, and member of the Grande Prairie junior grain club. He is the first junior farmer to win the title. Last year, Ian Smith, junior farmer from Edam, won the world title in oats. Other champion ships taken at Chicago this year included that in field beans by H. Graham of Iron Springs, near Lethbridge the reserve championship going to C. Griffin of Brooks, while the championship in timothy seed went to A. Monroe of Pincher Creek. Herman Trolle won reserve championship in oats.

Alberta has won the world wheat title eight times in the past eleven years, seven of these being taken in Chicago and the other at Regina Grain Congress last year.

At Chicago, live stock exhibits from Alberta were entered this year for the first time in a number of years, and won important awards. Crawford Frost of Nanton, Hereford breeder, won a first place, and The Prince of Wales Shorthorns also made sensational wins, among which was first in get of sire.

At Toronto Royal Fair, one of Alberta's important successes was the winning of the Canadian Pacific championship in junior cattle judging contests, by the best calf team from Lacombe. Henry Magilton and Edward Chesser in the individual junior grain exhibits the Sebastian brothers of Wembley won first and second place in wheat, and John Kevich of Lethbridge won first place in six-rowed barley. In the adult classes, W. J. Bryan of Bayle won first in sweet clover, and Art Smith of Wembley, first in rye grass.

In the livestock classes at Toronto, in which Alberta exhibitors generally shine, a large number of prizes were taken Outstanding among them was the grand championship won by the Lethbridge Exper mental Farm on a Percheron stallion three first and a reserve championship by the University of Alberta in beef cattle classes, and championship by the Prince of Wales' Ranch in senior shorthorn calf, a reserve championship by Frank Collett in senior yearling Hereford classes, and championship by the Melfizzie Ranch, and a reserve championship by Crawford Frost of Nanton These exhibitors also took many other prize s.

In dairy cattle at Toronto, as in the past two years, another good record was established, bringing the province once more into the limelight as a producer of good foundation dairy stock

Phosphates, Calcium Important Minerals In Livestock Feed

Under the heading, "The Nine Mineral Supplements for Domestic Animals," Dr. S. H. McClelland, Veterinary Surgeon, writing in the Winnipeg Free Press of July 7, discusses the important subject of the mineral requirements of livestock.

Dr. McClelland emphasizes the particular importance of calcium and phosphorus in animal feeding.

"There is a prevalent idea that these minerals are present in all our foods in a sufficient amount and that therefore the study of this matter is not particularly important. The idea, however, is far from the truth.

"CALCIUM is necessary to ramp the blood to coagulate Without lime in the blood a wounded animal would bleed to death. Calcium is necessary in the process of assimilating the food in the body needs, also necessary in the buildup of bone. Calcium is needed in the process of digestion, especially in the digestion of fats

"Calcium deficiency is believed to be a contributory cause of tuberculosis. That calcium increases the profitableness of dairy and beef cattle raising on the progress to a fact which cannot be disputed.

"Breeding sows will have larger, stronger fetuses; mares will have stronger foals and cows will have calves when constipation would make them less susceptible to disease.

Importance of Phosphorus in the Ration

"PHOSPHORUS is the second mineral element found in the animal body and it appears in about one-half the amount of calcium While the bone is composed of phosphorus in the animal body almost quit believing in the very laws of astronomy which recent ly seemed so sure and stable, but which now seem dissolving in a mist of relativity this current professional skepsis becomes as a child himself knows that 2 and 2 are 4 but indeed it be cannot believe in Santa Claus bound ed fatty godfather of the children

On this day every those who have been the most careless feel like saying over reverently that beautiful prayer for wisdom in the rearing of children:

"Almighty God, heavenly Father who hast blessed us with the joy and care of children; give us light and strength so to train them that they may love whatsoever things are true and pure and lovely and of good report."

For on this day of the Child we all remember that the most precious gift we can bestow upon our children is a capacity for feeling just such tender and reverent and helpful emotions as today stir in the breasts of all good men and women — Seattle Post Intelligencer.

CHRISTMAS RIGHTLY IS DAY OF CHILD

Even Unsentimental Recall Memories of Childhood Days

December 25th is the day of the Child.

It is upon this day of days that countless men and women and little ones barely able to speak their language utter the great invocation For unto us a Child is born, unto us a son is given!

Even those who hold creeds in which there is no Christmas feel the splendor of that cry, and those who have no normal creed at all, still know there is one of the 365 portions of the year which is essentially the day of the Child.

It is the day when even the most unsentimental adult, long since ungoaded and hardened by the years, can hear in his heart the footsteps of the little ones. Today they are running at most so eagerly all over the world pattering to see what good gifts may have been received, ardent with a hope that only young hearts can feel.

On this day the austere scientist who has thrust out believing in the

Broadcast To Bring King's Greetings

All Empire to Join Program Marking Christmas This Year

His Majesty to Speak at 6:00 A.M. Vermilion Time

By A. C. Cummings
(From the Edmonton Journal)

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The greatest world wide broadcast that has ever been undertaken in the history of radio will be sent out to the British Empire and received from it in London on Christmas day when His Majesty the King from his country home at Sandringham speaks into the microphone his message of greeting to his people

The broadcast entitled "Empire Exchange," will aim at giving several hundred million listeners all around the globe a vivid pictorial impression of the vast diversity of interest the British commonwealth possesses and at the same time emphasize the ties that bind this worldwide fellowship of peoples in one common allegiance

"They have brought it that with London as a kind of empire exchange the centre of a vast broadcast network, we get in touch with individuals in all parts of the empire and learn what they are doing and thinking," this Christmas," I was told by a high official of the British Broadcasting corporation whom I inquired concerning the details of the program Can adian listeners will hear. "We shall attempt to capture and present in sound form the work and life of our fellow citizens overseas in many lands and, against a home background, build up the atmosphere of Christmas greeting and Christmas sentiment

Accordingly with the bells of the world famous Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem playing a joyous Christmas peal and to the strains of the hymn "Adeste Fidelis," listeners will be taken to Canada, India, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand. "Big Ben" will keep time from the great tower of parliament in London to the wonderful journey, which makes the magic carpet of the Arabian Nights altogether inconsequent

Dominions Contribute

Canada's contribution will be a broadcast indicative of life in a lumber camp, Australia's a talk from a shepherd in the outback of that island-continent. Compensations

All people have experienced the effects of the depression in greater or less degree. All have taken their lumps, some great, some small, but loss of one kind or another has been sustained by all. What about the gains because there have been gains, too, although it may be difficult for many people to appreciate the truth of that statement

Emerson in his "Essay on Compensation" held the comforting view that action and reaction always are equal that for every loss there is a gain, for every hardship a recompense. This may be true if all eternity is taken into the balance but the facts of this life hardly support Emerson's idea. That for many, perhaps most, losses there are compensating, or partially compensating gains is no doubt true, that hardships have their recompense is not to be denied in the majority of cases, that for every action there is bound to be some reaction is admitted but if there were not how could we explain why will call forth an evil one, or every evil action will ultimately result in good Indeed the reverse is all too frequently true

But the past five depression years, with all their accumulated losses, and sufferings and sorrow with all their hard experiences and bitter lessons have also brought good into the world there are gains to be recorded on the credit side of the ledger

A fact pretty well established during the war years was the ability of men and women of the twentieth century to stand hardships and face suffering and death without shrinking, even with a smile Before the war it had almost come to be accepted as a fact that mankind had grown soft with the higher standard of life enjoyed, and with machines doing much of the hard labor of by-gone years The men who disappointed all such ideas

The depression years have given further evidence of this same fact Men and women in countless mills as have degenerating the stamina of the race, they have revealed traits of endurance, of bravery, of heroism, unparalleled in war, and all called forth with all the excitement of war but in the prosaic and humdrum routine of commonplace affairs. Mankind has shown it can "take it", that it has the capacity and the spirit to hang on and carry on, that it can bend but may not be broken.

Twelve well known citizens of the United States have given their views of depression s effects in a symposium in a magazine recently issued Changes have come, and come to stay, but the lasting effect of these will be to restore appreciation for those old-fashioned principles and pioneer values which mankind was in danger of forgetting and losing in the years of abounding prosperity

Henry Ford, for example, thinks the last five years have brought us all nearer to a society based on justice opportunity and security "We spent the first two years wondering what "normalcy" would be like, but we spent the next two years hoping for something that was said to be just around the corner" We have spend the past year believing in Santa Claus But there are signs at last that a new generation is coming to take the hint, and are ready to enter a positive state of mind regarding this experience."

Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick says: "Thousands of young men and women and all dressed up with no education and have nowhere to go They are having driven home on them the fact that our social order needs reformation; that profound changes must come, and that it never can be altogether well with anybody until it is well with everybody."

Frank Vanderlip, the financier, says: "The depression has saved many of our young from frustrated lives. They know it and are happier. They are broader sympathies, they have less arrogance, and they are to-day facing with clear eyes the necessity of giving if they are to have.

Evangeline Booth, Salvation Army leader, says: "The depression has taught us that a city is not to be judged by its big buildings and its spectacular spaces and monuments, but by the human beings who make and constitute the city as a place to live. The impoverishmen of the nation during these lean years has tended to level all classes "

Thousands of young people who had been brought up to believe they could live a life of ease idleness and pleasure, have learned that they, like the great majority must work, men and women who had looked forward to certain careers have been forced into other channels, and many of them have found the new channels more congenial and better fitted to their abilities and ambitions, initiative instead of being destroyed has been stimulated

People have learned that, as Evangeline Booth says of a city, so with their individual lives. It is not the money or other possessions they may have, or may have had, that really constitute life; rather it is something less material but much finer that makes for true happiness, contentment and real living

In the world we are now about to re-create anew, there will be fewer worthlessly rich men and fewer pitiably impoverished people, rather there will be a more equal distribution. There will be more rather than less individual liberty because, regardless of present day tendencies man cherishes and will demand liberty as his most precious possession Blatant and other autocracies may flourish for a time, but they cannot last, because they constitute a denial of all that is best in life This, too, is one of the grateful lessons being learned from the depression.

Speed Of The Wind

New Speed Car Being Constructed in England

A new British car is under construction for an attempt to capture the 24-hour speed record in the United States it was disclosed It is being built by George Eyston, British race driver, who calls his car "Speed of the Wind" He believes he can break the record of an average speed of slightly over 127 miles per hour, and he will attempt it on the dry bed of a lake near Salt Lake City, Utah next spring

Once a friend of mine and I agreed that it would be helpful for each of us to tell the other all our faults.

How did it work?

We haven't spoken for five years.

A Treasured Keepsake

Lebret Family Has Sugar Bowl Used By Louis Riel

Among the treasured keepsakes in possession of J. E. Lavocque, Lebret, Sask., is an old-fashioned glass sugar bowl, that in all probability did duty for Louis Riel and Gabriel Dumont prior to the defeat of the rebels in 1885. The glass sugar bowl was an importation from England by the Hudson's Bay Company for their Canadian stores and was taken in a raid by the Metis and Indians prior to the rebellion at Duck Lake.

The halfbreed and Indian rebels during their period of service in the rebellion, were forced to eat from together, buck privates along with the commanders, in the dugouts in the side of the hills and ravines.

The sugar bowl, in possession of Mr Lavocque, was among those used in the camp of Dumont and Riel, and after the defeat at Batoche, Dumont with some of his followers travelled by ox-cart, and led by day in their trek toward the United States line.

They travelled along the Prince Albert, Duck Lake and Touchwood trail that took them to the Qu'Appelle valley

Late one night Dumont and his followers appeared at the Lavocque home and offered Mrs. Lavocque the sugar bowl among other things for supplies such as butter. The exchange was made and the defeated rebels went on their way, eventually reaching the United States in safety

This table piece has been kept in the Lavocque family ever since. It was cracked once, but has been repaired

Equal Arms For Germany

Necessary Preliminary To World Peace Opinion Of Arthur Henderson

Recognition of Germany's right to arms equality as a necessary preliminary to world peace was urged by Arthur Henderson, British president of the disarmament conference, in receiving the 1934 Nobel peace prize.

"Let all who regret Germany is rearming ask why she is rearming," he said. "General Smuts (former Premier Gen eral Smuts, of South Africa) recently said in a great speech there is only one way (toward disarmament) and that is to recognize Germany's complete equality That is just where the road lies."

Applied To Royalty

Duke Of Gloucester Had To Obey Rule About Smoking

The most distinguished guest Townsmbs, Queensland, has had in many year, the Duke of Gloucester, learned about an Australian regulation forbidding smoking in public buildings.

A fireman on duty at a cinema hall at the city show grounds asked the Duke to douse the cigarette which he was smoking. The prince immediately apologized and ordered the fireman to leave the building But the fire chief stepped in and said his man was only doing his duty. The Duke meanwhile had stepped outside.

Just State Of Mind

What has mathematics to do with how old a man is? A man is as old as his state of mind. Birthdays ought to be against the law. Age should be reckoned by a mental test which investigates the condition of the memory. For youthfulness is measured by the subject's ability to forget how old he is

Going In For Color

U.S. Motor License Plates Will Rival The Rainbow

The United States license plates for 1935 will present a new riot of color.

Thirty-three states and the District of Columbia will change their 1934 color motifs, a check-up revealed, and the 1935 parade will present a kaleidoscopic array that will put the rainbow to shame.

Black and various shades of green and blue will predominate, with a liberal sprinkling of white, cream, copper, orange, yellow, maroon, old gold, pearl gray, purple and aluminum.

Black and yellow, found by the bureau of standards to offer good visibility, will lead the parade, having been adopted by Colorado, Kentucky, South Dakota and Virginia.

Second in popularity will be white on green, white on blue and black on white, each to be used by four states

Getting away from these more standard colors, many states have adopted more artistic color combinations. Among these are deep rose in Arkansas, colonial blue on old gold in Delaware, gold on maroon in Minnesota, and yellow on midnight blue in Michigan.

Appropriately enough, California will have orange on black and Florida black on grapefruit yellow

New Discovery

Radon, The Gas Of Radium, May Be Used For Treatment Of Tumor

Radon, the "gas" of radium, will be used for the second time by Dr. Edmund Kelly if he is successful back to Callander, Ont. to treat the tumor on the right thigh of Kathleen, the smallest of the Dionne quintuplets.

Dr. Kelly, son of Dr. Howard Kelly, only surviving member of the "Big Four" who founded the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, has been enlisted by Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the babies' physician, that the growth has shown signs of activity and may need additional treatment.

Dr. Kelly treated Marie last August for the growth and Dr. Edmund Kelly planned to return next summer, but, he said, "this new development may speed up things a little.

The tumor was described by Dr. Kelly as an angioma—one of the two forms of birthmarks. The growth on Marie's thigh is "raised like a raspberry and tends to spread." It is not malignant, he said, and will not eat into other flesh, but is very easily broken and will bleed.

Dr. Kelly said, that, because of this condition, Marie "is subject to hemorrhage or to infection, so these growths must be destroyed."

Two New Sun Rays

Stop Growth On One Side Of Plant's Stem

The discovery of two new rays from the sun which make plants bend toward the light was announced by the Smithsonian Institute. These light rays, one blue and the other blue-green, have the mysterious power of rendering inactive the growth-stimulating substance of plants, sometimes known as auxin. By stopping growth on one side of a plant's stem, these rays and some others cause the plant to bend

The iridescence so attractive in ancient glass is produced, says the Field Museum, by chemical action.

Bird Is Exhausted

Sir Malcolm Campbell To Make Another Attempt At Speed Record

Eighteen months of elaborate research and hard work had gone into the rebuilding of his veteran car, the Bluebird, for his next assault in February on his own world auto speed mark of 272.108 miles an hour, Sir Malcolm Campbell said in London recently.

Work on the car has been proceeding steadily almost since the day he returned from his last trip to Daytona Beach, Fla., in 1933, Sir Malcolm said. Several months were spent in what he termed "paper" actual construction began.

"We have every reason to believe she will be quite a bit faster," he continued. "After all we'll need to clip only one second off the present time of 18.023 seconds for the mile in order to attain 300 miles an hour.

"It's a tremendous gamble There's no possibility of testing the car's actual speed until it is set down at Daytona, but my engineers and I are more than hopeful. Bluebird will have the same engines, otherwise it will practically be a new car.

"We've devoted ourselves to streamlining, seeking better adhesion. Now it's a question of knocking a single second off the record. We've realized that one bump which would cause the car to leave the sand for a fraction of a second might mean the difference between success and failure."

Sir Malcom expects to make his record run sometime between Feb. 2 and 24, depending on beach and tide conditions.

Fast Schedule For Giant Liner

"Queen Mary", White Star Liner, Will Break All Records For Speed

Ninety-six hours from Southampton to New York will be the scheduled time for the new giant Cunard White Star liner "Queen Mary," according to the shipping correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph. The "Queen Mary" time table will break all records as the giant vessel will speed four miles an hour faster than any ship afloat.

Launch in Cherbourg on Saturday, Jan. 19, New York on Wednesday afternoon 3,100 miles in 96 hours is the schedule which the Cunard White Star Limited are said to be working out for the new liner. To maintain this time table, the "Queen Mary" will have to steam at an average of 32½ knots, which is four miles an hour faster than the average for the fastest Atlantic crossing ever made.

Actually the reserve of power from the propelling machinery will be great enough to drive the ship at 31 to 33 knots. Thanks to her enormous size and huge displacement her hull she should be able to carry on at very great speed in the toughest of weather without slowing down a smaller and less powerful vessel.

The elaborate time table of the ship's movements is already being worked out It is based on a turnround of only twelve hours, which means that she will arrive in port, disembark her passengers, re-store re-fuel, embark new passengers and sail again within the twelve hours Her multiple fuel oil tanks, with a capacity of 6300 tons, can be filled in eight hours

For the first time in the history of North-Atlantic travel, the exact hour of the vessel's arrival will be announced at New York before she has left Southampton

Special show staffs at each of the ports concerned will undergo a course of training to qualify them for the necessary staff work and faultless co-ordination which will make this amazing programme feasible

Older Men For Soldiers

Thinks Only Men Over Forty Should Be Sent To War

A special London cable to the New York Herald-Tribune reports that Dr Herbert Lovinstein, a distinguished scientist and the president of the Institution of Chemical Engineers, believes only men over 40 should be sent to war

He thinks the loss of our finest young men in battle is biologically more serious than would be the loss of an equal number of middle-aged or elderly civilians of either sex," Dr Lovinston declared in an address delivered at Bristol, England.

"In war youth should take control of the home front and their elders should take the dangerous posts. Grey beards would constitute the storm troops"

Christmas Mail to Be Delivered

By F. H. SWEET.

"WELL, you can't go no further;" said Farmer Benson yelled, turning his mittened hands to his mouth so the words wou'd reach the mail carrier, five or six feet on the other side of the fence. At the same time he nodded significantly toward the road farther on, where the snow had drifted entirely across, covering the fence on either side. "I've just been an' still drivin', an' plenty more places on ahead jest like it. I don't see how you got this far. Well, he'll shovel out the gate, an' then you can drive in under my shed. It's the nicest back to town, an' you can't return any more'n you can go ahead. I better see the snow fly so fast. Maybe it'll ease up by tomorrow, an' we can start to plow the road out but I stain't think, you'll get the mail around under two or three days perhaps a week. You'll drive right in."

It was trying for this was the last day in rural free delivery No 2. The people had been assured as an experiment but now was thought to hardly be worth while and was to be dropped from Holden had been one of the original advocates of it, and had obtained the route, leaving his oldest boy to look after the farm. The salary was not large, but in a year or so would enable him to stock the farm as he had wanted to stock it all his life.

At length the snow was cleared from sufficient space for the mare to be opened and swung back. Holden led his horse through the shed, then unharnessed and took him to the stable, where he fed him generously with the hay which Benson threw down from the mow. Then the two men returned to the wagon, and Holden quickly arranged his mail into a compact package.

We'll take it right into the house," said Benson. "It'll be safe there till you're able to go on."

Holden smiled and shook his head. I shall go right on now," he said. "Mail mustn't be delayed, you know. Besides, a lot of this is Christmas mail."

"But, man alive, you can't do it," expostulated Benson, incredulously. "It's half a mile to the next house, and that drift right ahead is up to your armpits, an' you'll to stand to an' too deep to push through. You're crazy."

Mebbe," facetiously, "but it's got to be done."

All this time he had been fastening the package securely upon his shoulders. Now he straightened up, taking the broken half of a rake handle in one hand.

"If you dont mind, I'll take this along," he said. "It will help stead some."

Benson placed his hand upon the other's shoulder

"Look here, Holden," he said earnestly, "don't you try it. The thing's nothing more nor less than suicide, an' you know it."

Holden met his neighbor's half-amused look and smiled. "I don't think it so unnerved. I shall try to creep along the fences where it's hard, and stick closely to the high, windy ground across hte, where the snow will be less deep. I wouldn't wonder if I could make it all right. It's only a half mile to the next house, and no more than that between any two places on only various miles round the whole route. I see there's another thing the main one to-day becoming grave. You forget the baby, who'd settle the day not expect all a Christmas one. The ones away are within to their folks then. What will it mean to them if I don't get reached? Of course I don't know much about what's in the mail but there's the Widow Cross livin' alone, an' how she was waiting up county in a mail days ago a little for her this season. Meb be 'taint the one, but I wouldn't be surprised it was without word or card to keep her warm an a scrap to eat an that this letter will fix her up all right. Then there's Johnson an' his wife who have a sick son off in Ohio. They're out to the box every morning waiting for one. I've a letter for them an it's from China. An' there's Miss Rose whose husband is off to sea, and little Nina. She's about to love is up to the minute, an' hain't to work enough to start housekeepin. I've got letters for both of em. And I know all the rest, either. I do expands for a good many. You know the Waits, poor boy is on acid sick. They can't nobody to send for a doctor. What mightn't it mean if I didn't get there in two or three days? So on. Dogone, I wouldn't dare to stay if I wanted to. I'm only one an they're a good many. Good by."

Usually it required less than 15 minutes to drive between the houses but it was over an hour later when Holden struggled up on the piazza and knocked on the door, feeling more like a crudely made snowman than anything human.

"For the land's sake!" cried the woman who opened the door, "if it isn't Mr. Holden! How'd you ever manage to get through? But come right in. You can't go on any more today. My folks are almost scared to go to the barn. Come," throwing wide the door, "don't stand there in the cold. Take your wraps right off and set right up to the fire and warm."

"I haven't time now, thank you," Holden replied, as soon as he could interpose a word. "I must get on to Waits.' I have some medicine for the sick boy, an' he may need it. Here's your mail. Merry Christmas, speaking ahead!" And once more he went out into the storm, disappearing in its blinding whirl almost instantly.

It was scarcely half a mile to the Waits, but it took him twice the time to reach it. And when he finally stumbled up the steps, he had to pause to catch his breath before he could summon strength to knock.

"M'merry Christmas, an' here's your mail, an' medicine," he gasped, as the door was opened. "No, I can't stop. I'm a good deal behind time, an' must reach the widow's tonight, an' Johnson's, an' Rose's an' others. They all ain't much over a quarter of a mile. The storm's something terrible. Good-by."

When he reached the Widow Cross' place it was she who heard him fumbling about the door, and opened it, thinking it was a cat or dog wanting shelter.

At first he could not speak, but held out her letter

"It it's the right one," he whispered presently. "I'll take it down to 'em an' get your supplies in a few minutes, soon as I rested. It's only a few rods. An'—I hope—you'll have a Merry Christmas."

"You'll stay all night of course," she said anxiously. "You're completely used up an' it won't be safe to try going any farther."

"Only to Johnson's an' Rose's another or two more, just beyond the store," he answered. I have letters for them which I want to deliver to night."

The next day it was still snowing, and the drifts much deeper. Although he started early and struggled through the snow until after dark, he made little more than a mile. It was Christmas day when mail was not supposed to be delivered, but Holden did not even think of that. He had letters to leave, and anxious people were waiting for them. So Christmas went by.

The third day the weather turned colder and the moist snow retained enough to bear one's weight. The snow changed to a bitter, driving sleet.

It was much harder travelling, but the crust enabled one to go more swiftly. This day Holden completed his delivery and returned to the post office with the mail he had collected on the way.

Three days later the roads were open so he could go for his wagon, in the afternoon he went back to his farm.

Rural free delivery No. 3, however was discontinued only a month Then a letter came to the post office and was sent out to John Holden. It read "Owing to more definite information in regard to route No 2 and to the considered the matter. The most well prospect of its betterment and more the continued in the Dec 20 with the especially to the manner of the last probability of being made permanent day's delivery, the department has re John Holden is appointed carrier

SUNSHINE HAMPERS TO MANY NEEDY FAMILIES

Sixty Homes Receive Parcels on Christmas Eve

Through the efforts of Associated Sunshine, Christmas cheer was carried into over sixty homes in the town on Monday afternoon and evening last. Besides this number many more were called for by recipients from the country and a large number of bundles of clothing were also distributed to needy families. Some of the food and all the toys contained in the Sunshine hampers were donated, while the cash donations took care of all the expense of extra foodstuffs. A more detailed report of the activities will appear in next week's Standard, as time for this issue was extremely limited. All donations to date will then be acknowledged.

In the meantime if you have not already made that donation to Sunshine you intended, send it in or leave to Mr. Kaiser, Mr. H. P. Long or to the Standard office. Sunshine activities are continued all winter long and demands on it are constant and many.

Pair Rescued from Antarctic After 22 Months in Cold

1901 EXPEDITION

Two hardy veterans of Antarctic expeditions who had been separated for 22 years joined hands Wednesday morning at the station platform here. Thirty three years ago they emerged from a 22 month stay in a small hut in the Antarctic only survivors of a party of 10 who completed the first British naval exploration expedition into the territory of the South Pole. Lieutenant-Commander T. L. Bernacchi, retired British naval officer, reached Toronto Friday westbound to meet R. F. Bechtell Koalo rancher of this Vermilion district, with whom he stag gered from that hut, both hungry stricken and chilled with the Antarctic cold.

Lieut Commander Bernacchi was the invaluable diving commander of Robert F Scott's trips to the pole. Bechtell Evans was a slip a couple when he went with Lieut Commander Bernacchi on the expedition into the Antarctic headed by Borchgrevink Norwegian explorer.

For 22 months they were frozen in and only Lieut Commander Bernacchi and Evans were alive when the relief ship reached the hut. Their wonderful dreary land which everyone claimed the life of Commander Scott in 1912

Innisfree Defeat Local Puck Artists, 2-Nil

In a mediocre exhibition here on Wednesday evening the local puck stars took the ice rent end of a 2-0 count at the hands of the Innisfree hockey team. The local forward lines were broken up due to the absence of Fred Brimacombe on one and Ken Robinson on the other. Most of the efforts were individual efforts that came to grief at the blue line, the bulk of the play being confined to the centre area. The visitors' first goal was hotly disputed and 25 per cent of the spectators claimed that it never found the net. The last goal was scored from Kolmatycki's rebound in a ball on the part of the local defence. Line-ups:

Vermilion—Powell, M Barr, Mead Mackenzie, English Corson, Dennison, C Barr, Banks

Innisfree Atkins, Kolmatycki, Plaher, Elde, LeGue, Jim White, M Kolmatycki, Sarch, Gibbons, Trace.

B.C. Salmon Pack Higher Than Any Year Since 1929

British Columbia's output of canned salmon in 1934 will be well above the average quantity put up annually in the preceding 5-year period, 1929-1933.

At the middle of November the pack amounted to more than 1,350,000 fifty-pound cases as compared with an average of 1,320,750 cases in the years 1929 to 1933. Production during the remaining part of 1934 will be on a small scale, of course, as compared with production in earlier months but enough fish will be put up to bring the year's total to some-thing like 1,600,000 cases in the full year 1933 the pack totalled 1,305,073 cases.

In making comparison between the 1929-1933 average and the pack figures for the current year it may be noted that the earlier years included one in which British Columbia's salmon output reached record size—2,221,783 cases in 1930. Also that they also included a season of small production, 1931, when the canneries turned out only 660,000 cases. The small size of the '21 pack, by the way, was not due to scarcity of salmon but to a curtailment of operations by the fishermen and canneries when it was seen that market conditions abroad were very unfavourable.

Dr. Patterson agreed, and admitted that if the necessary funds could be provided he would be pleased to have his service enlarged in this way

Little Journeys In Science

FERTILIZERS

(By Gordon H. Ouest, M.A.)

Plants take carbon dioxide and a small quantity of oxygen from the air, but otherwise they depend largely on the rest for nourishment. Mineral matter and organic matter are the chief plant foods contained in the soil, and these latter are being continually drawn upon by the growing plants. It is necessary that they be replaced from time to time.

This process is known as fertilizing the soil, and the three chief substances used are: Phosphates of calcium—these are calcium phosphates, and in addition it contains nitrogen, giving it added value. However, the supply is not sufficient to meet the demand and so the rock phosphate remains the chief source of the product. "Slags" which appear in the production of iron from ore, is also a source of phosphates and are used for the soil.

The nitrogenous matter is obtained from various chemicals containing nitrogen and from decomposed animal matter. Nitrogen is also put into the soil by the production of legume plants (alfalfa, beans and peas) which return nitrogen to the earth

Potassium compounds are found in natural deposits in Europe and in many but are rare on this continent

Most commercial fertilizers are a blend of these three chemicals, in proportions varying according to the needs of the soil, and the nature of the crop. For instance, wheat or cereal crops need a soil rich in phosphates while potatoes require more potassium

Canadian Fur Farms

Wide Variety Of Pelts Now Coming From These Ranches

There are now over 6,000 fur farms in Canada, over 5,000 of them being fox farms. The total value of the animals on the farms is nearly 7,000,000 dollars. In the early days of the industry attention was directed chiefly to the silver fox, but, although this kind is still by far of greatest importance, other kinds of fur-bearing animals are being successfully raised on Canadian farms. As a matter of fact during the last three years more mink skins were cured in Canada than any other kind.

The mink in particular seems to thrive in captivity. Other kinds of animals raised on the farms include raccoon, skunk, marten, fisher, coyote, badger, lynx, fitch, ferret, weasel, muskrat, muskrat and beaver. Nutria is a native of South America, and another native, the chinchilla of Bolivia, is now being raised successfully on the North American continent.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

CHOCOLATE CRISPIES

1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted

½ cup butter or other shortening

½ cup sugar

1 egg, beaten

½ cup sifted flour

½ teaspoon vanilla

½ cup nut meats, finely chopped.

To melted chocolate, add butter, sugar, egg, flour and vanilla, and beat well. Add nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls in two greased pans, 6x8 inches. Sprinkle with nuts. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 to 25 minutes. While warm mark into 2-inch squares. Cool and break into squares. Makes 2 dozen crispies.

CRANBERRY MOLD

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin

1½ cups warm water

½ cup finely cut celery

½ cup drained, canned crushed pineapple

1 cup thick cranberry sauce

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Chill. When it is partly thickened, fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into mold Chill until firm Unmold on lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise. Serves six.

The only trouble with making pictures of Christmas doings is that the scenes don't last. Before we know it, chances for rare shots have come and gone—gone most of them, never to return next year or ever. For babies will grow up and friends will move away

To do the job up brown, you'll probably need to call all of your camera-using talent into play. For there'll be interiors as well as outdoor shots, daytime and night-time scenes, close-ups and long shots.

For example

Holly wreaths at the door and in the windows Shoot them from the outside at night, with lights arranged to bring out the full decorative effect. A time-exposure from the outside, showing in through the window of the lighted room, will give you a fine silhouette of the wreath in the window Ask one of the youngsters to stand very still at the window during a minute or so will give you excellent results. Other obvious time exposures Here, as in practically all shots, a tripod will come in very handy.

And if carol singers come your way, get a shot of them busily marching away A photoflash type lamp, in a hand-battery holder, will make this shot easy

No, you needn't spend the whole time with camera in hand But a few well-chosen snaps will be very much worth the few minutes they require. For better to spend those few minutes than lose the feeling, unless opportunities altogether slight?

TESTS OF A CHRISTIAN

Golden Text: Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is begotten of God: and whosoever loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him. 1 John 5:1.

Lesson: 1 John 5:1-12.

Devotional Reading: John 15:13-17.

Explanations And Comments

The Victory of Faith. verses 1-5. Faith in Jesus as the Christ is the sign of the birth from God; and every one who loves God loves the children of God. Love to God and love to the brethren go together. When we love God and do his commandments—then our love of God is genuine — then our love of our brethren is evidenced also. Such love to God and love to the children of God—is the test of the other. Willingness of God's commandments is the proof of love to God. And his commandments are not difficult.

"This indispensable thing in religion is love. Broken Spear seems to think that the seat of religion is in the imagination. It is in their ability to be wholly sentimental, the poetry of life. Others argue as if good and efficient affections constituted virtue. Others, as if the whole life of man was a round of ecclesiastical ceremonies. But, as Vinet writes: "Obedience alone constitutes moral good. It has not pleased God to be worshiped, but to be being obeyed. Religion is always a law and a prohibition." The Christian life is not a life of sound depths of mystery, but to do as we are told." (W. L. Watkinson)

For whatsoever is begotten of God overcometh the world. The "world" as used by John, stands for all that is opposed to love. He who is born of God has within himself the power to win the victory over all selfishness, sensuality, evil. That, then, is this being born of God? This is the victory that overcometh the world—our faith. And who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Christ?

It is the radical changes that transforms one who has surrendered himself to Jesus Christ comes by the implanting of faith, the faith which is not merely the mind's belief, but the inclining over of the whole man in love and trust."

Must Register Stores

Irish Free State In Trying To Protect Owners

All retailers in the Irish Free State will be compelled to register their premises or business if the recommendations of the Free State Commission on Shops are adopted. The general registration of all stores is recommended to prevent the undue multiplication of retailers, to facilitate control in the interests of interest, and to protect the owners themselves. A feature of Irish retail trade is the "general dealer" shop. These shops are motor vehicles which travel about the country bring to the farmhouses domestic requisites, and at the same time purchase eggs and butter. THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. BOUNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Cisco Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Jim Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wideawake outfit.

Sam Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now, is employed by old Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shown samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and pretends ignorance.

Spike Goddard and Sam Kane, fearing the old rancher may tell all others the things he has seen as to the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to leave them the location of the mine and then to kill him.

Gerald Keene, ordered to ridiculous cowboy costume, arrived at the Hour-glass ranch and is hired as a cowboy by Joe Carr. The impersonation of a tenderfoot is successful, and he is accepted as such by the other occupants of the bunkhouse.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone. Accompanied by Billie Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house.

Dustin unexpectedly came along and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions the Nola Springs dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses. Dustin leaves with remarks that make Dustin furious. He leaves, when promptly thows him into a pool of water.

"You said not a word about it," said Crewe suspiciously.

"I had a reason. I believe a good one If I had come back and told what I had seen there would be a row loose and no good could have come of it. I tell you, you've got to have the evidence pointed out and backed to calf-skin to land that man Dustin where he belongs. I'm slowly gettin' that evidence, I hope. Let me alone."

Crewe eyed him keenly.

"I do just that," he said. "You were talkin' about fiddlin' two of Dustin's men out of Red Water way. Tell me what you saw. . . ."

Stone told him at length and, when he told how he made sport of Dustin's cut the mesquite branches and flog each other, old Crewe, who had a sense of humor when it didn't hurt, till he was helpless. Suddenly he stopped laughing, wiped his eyes and sat up.

"You'd have saved time an' trouble if you'd shot 'em right then," he said. "Of course you realize that it'll come to that? They'll lay for you in such a way that you'll have to do some shootin' in self-defense. . . . Only way it could be done. It's a self-defense Why didn't you make just one log the other? Then it'd have been a moral killin' here."

I didn't think of it," said Stone frankly. "I was so damn eager to see Dustin's men punish each other that I didn't think of it. Think we'd better tell Mr. Carr?"

No," Crewe shook his head, "let it go. I'll tell him some day, maybe. I'm manager. I'll handle it. Carr would only go on the prod. He'd shoot Dustin on sight, and somehow I Dustin it wasn't he Carr. We've got Keith to think of."

Stone realized in a flash that since Keene came to the Hour-glass there had been few moments, sleeping or waking in which he had not been thinking of Keith. For the first time he realized that Frank Crewe He nodded and lit a cigarette thoughtfully.

Let Keith alone," he said. "Let him manage Crewe "The man who talks much has got least excuse for what he says."

He now pocketed his pipe and walked into the house and Stone . . . to the bunk house where he was to be joined with a shower of bad as the law at had been sent to Mexico up on the stable . . . saw him mounted.

You damned saddle-ape all over tip there he said I'd feel it to another peg" He whipped something to Horace that made him look absence at Stone and presently a roar from the bunk-house brought him to the door. It was Crewe shouting for him.

"You, Stone," he shouted. "Mr. Carr wants to see you right away."

Stone stormed up the steps. Crewe met him with a grave face and motioned to a chair while old Carr fretted and fumed across the desk.

"Sit down, Stone . . ." Carr eyed him balefully for a moment. Then: "I look you on my pay roll on trust," he said. "I didn't know a damned thing about you. I didn't ask for references. Look at this . . ."

He flung on the table the little red notebook that Stone had picked up after Cora and Gray had their set-to. Stone took it and examined it. Within the book it had been his saddle-bags two hours before. It ought to be there now. But what did the old man mean? Another man had didn't even belong to him? Carr went on and talked himself into a towering rage.

"Lee shifted your saddle-bags tonight and that book fell out," he said. "Where'd you get it from?"

"It belongs to old man Kane . . ." began Stone.

"I know that. I know, too, that Kane is being financed by Dustin of the Broken Spur. You can't carry water on both shoulders, Stone. If you're playing square with Kane you're with us. What have you got to do with Dustin of the Broken Spur? Lied to me?"

"Wait a minute. I'll show you just how much I'm mixed up with Kane and Dustin." Stone thrust a hand into his pocket, pulled out an envelope and flung it before Carr. The old rancher's man opened it and read and his eyes bulged.

"By God," he said sharply. "This letter is to me from my partners Gerald Keene. . . . Where'd you get this?" he demanded sharply. "If you He of intended to rob my partner, why didn't you give it to me before this?"

"That letter recommending me for a job," said Stone coolly. "I got the job so I didn't need the letter. If I needed the job. I'd have given you the letter."

"We've been tryin' for a long time to find young Keene," said Carr. "We've had men out after him. Where is he? Where's Gerald Keene? Now I want the truth, Stone, or I'll have you thrown off the ranch. Next time we meet you look to your brandin' . . ."

Stone's cold hell broke loose in the Silver Dollar

For two minutes Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes was rocketed about the place by the left and right jabs the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its, as Stone stepped back unhurriedly and . . . men who fled incontinently at the crowd from inside . . . Big Generator Casing Given English Railway Some Trouble

The casing had to wait at Paddington before the journey could be continued to Battersea, as Sunday was the only day it can travel. The casing, mounted on a trolley, covers two sets of railway lines. Lines were closed to many cases for the journey Platforms were cleared, and signal post wires were loosened. At times the train travelled "up" a "down" line, and special signalling arrangements were made at some places

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THE WINTER MART

I have not lingered for the gleam of gold
Or bartered craftily for goods and lands
To trade it. I am real I have not sold
My soul for stores of sin to grasp in hands
And yet I am a money hoarding up
The wealth that I have got in days and nights
The glitter of the sapphire brimming cup
The hoarfrost and the diamond in the night
The purple velvet of the violet
The pearl the silk-tassel waiters on the corn
I have them all in my heart is not
For beauty is a currency of me
And I am rich in all the things I see
And I am rich in all the things I see

Eight Feet Long Skeletons Found In Ontario Burial Ground

Skeletons of eight Indians, each of whom must have measured more than eight feet in height, have been unearthed by workmen digging a trench for a sewer in the village of Ingersoll, Ont. Some of the bones were found at a depth of four feet. Others were discovered at a depth of seven feet. Some of the skeletons were in a sitting position, others lay on their backs. Each had been buried with a number of articles, including pipes, tomahawks, arrowheads and beads. The bones were found in a burial ground which is believed to be that of the Neutral Indians, who were driven out of the district by the Iroquois in the early part of the seventeenth century.

Little Helps For This Week

He interests Himself in all thy anxieties and in all the risings and falling of thy spirit. He compasses thee around and bears thee in His arms. "SANTA CLAUS HAS COME TO TOWN!"

That Christmas was not to behind the usual days and Santa Claus and Frank Flint were fifteen days north of town, headed for home and tired and hungry after a 100-mile drive in their Model A. The windshield was frosted over until the road was barely visible and driving under such matters as much the more unpleasant as pounding along by fours, two hours, got beyond its depth and ended nightly in a drift of snow and cold. At last, on reaching a settlement and spending the night, they resolved to embrace the train but nine, no shovel was to be had. Discovering nearby a mile the way a settler resolved the latter home of Mr Thompson, borrowed two shovels, and started back to their marooned cars. Reaching it, they rubbed their eyes, looked, and stared again to be sure and behold the car had been towed from its night resting place and was standing high and dry on the hard road, ready to hit for home warmth, light and good cheer. Letting forth a pean of praise and thankfulness, and freed from an hour's cold labor, our heroes started for home to tell the tale of the way "Santa Claus has come to."

DEWBERRY BUDGET

Although this is being written before this Christmas Day it will not appear in the columns of the Standard until after that date, so we hope that the Editor, staff and all readers of The Standard have had a merry Christmas, and we sincerely wish all of them a Happy and Prosperous New Year in 1935. Let's hope that "Prosperity" appears again in our midst, and that many who have been unfortunate may look back in the years to come as 1935 being the turning point to better times. Business in this spot, however, seems to have been good, as we notice all the merchants smiling, and the post office store on Christmas Eve did pleased on the shelves and windows a week ago seem to have disappeared from the store rooms and shelves, and the stores during the last two weeks we know where those goods have gone. The mail, however, has required a set back to visitors to town and we are over the Christmas rush and we were sorry to hear of young David Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Drew B. Wood, who had to be operated on for appendicitis last week. However they had train letter reports, same is be doing well. Boys will be boys and some of his chums got together and sent a letter received by him on the last mail was the following Hunwork:

There was a young fellow named David,
Who started to Islay, and made it.
Jane Dee Harden was mad
That he left the Concert has faded".

The concert in question was the Christmas entertainment of Dewberry School which took place last Friday and in which David would have been participated, and his little brother again do talken a notion to get out of kilter. Such is life.

To be sure the little same concert was a huge success. Great credit is due Mr. White and Mr. Grant, the teachers, and the pupils who appear to be well trained and can say "do their stuff".

Speaking of concerts we must not forget to mention the concert held by the late school Under the able leadership of Mr. MacIntosh—"Mac" to the boys—and assisted by Mrs. Mcleod, A. Prill, the pupils of both senior and junior rooms gave a splendid concert in the Orange Lodge Hall last Thursday night The Christmas dance of the small tots was a "wow" and caused roars of laughter. The high school concert was also enjoyed and as it will remain in their little minds for some time to come. Then—what about the dance? Well, it would be hard to describe it in a thirty man. Holly wood has not all the beauties, and Dewberry has not a boughs forever. Well, that.

Lincoln Hill, — sometimes called Hill's Corners, — was visited by J. S. Mackay left for home by aeroplane. This was his first flight and as a thrilling place was returning his way he took the shortest route home to skiing.

We wish to congratulate Mr. Grimsdale on the commission of the new I. P. L. and hope that the members will enjoy it.

Another enterprising young man has appeared in our midst Johnnie to Dawson has prepared a skating rink on Anderson's Lake. This should prove a good rink as the lake is large and sheltered from the winds by willow brush.

A striking improvement in the program presented here on Friday by the children at their annual Christmas entertainment was their singing, and for this improvement Mr J. C. Allen, the principal of the school, deserves and gets the best thanks of the community. The Play Pageant The children throughout a very beautiful program acquitted themselves in the verses and the parents have every right to be proud of such a display. The trimmers, Messrs. L. P. A Word To Youth

Many young people enter the new year with feelings of discouragement, and in a state of bewilderment. The future presents itself to them in the form of a very large question mark. The future always presents itself in this form, but, generally up along, the answer, or at least some of the answers or a partial answer, has in a sense been possible. But in these times the riddle of the future seems exceedingly hard to decipher.

Nonetheless it is well within the realm of truth to say that, in large measure, the final answer is much the same as it has always been, and it is that, apart from changed conditions, it rests with the youth of to-day to work and think even harder than past as the youth in the ages of the past have always been called upon to do.

This is not the only era in the world's history when youth has had to face hard and real but changed conditions. This is and always will be, a world of change, changing from day to day and from hour to hour. New times bring new conditions and new conditions bring new tasks and new problems demanding solutions. This is life. Without such change there would be no life.

So there is, after all, nothing to affright the youth of to-day, rather because of the greater changes which recent years have wrought and the greater complexity of the problems calling for solution, there is also a great challenge to youth and more and greater, rather than fewer and lower, opportunities awaiting youth's grasp.

What does youth need to-day as an essential item of equipment to face the future, surmount the difficulties which lie in the path of the years, and achieve success? Sir Herbert Barker, the celebrated English surgeon, submits an answer. He says:

What we need to-day among the young men is the spirit of initiative, the enterprise that takes chances and starts something new.

It is true that economic conditions are bad, but it is when things are at their worst that men of character and initiative rise above the level.

To those dispirited young men who have been looking for jobs without any set plan I would say: Determine first upon an objective. Know what you want. Then go out after it.

It sounds easy? But I do not speak without knowing what it means to struggle against obstacles. I have fought hard from the days when I remember, through where my next meal was to come from.

The tragedy of such men is that no the months of unemployment drift into years, brains grow dull and character toils.

At the begin ing, it is a problem of unemployment; in the end it is the tragedy of unemployability.

To any such young man, looking at his to-day with jaundiced eyes, empty living at home, or drawing upon kindly relatives for the where-withal of life, I would say this in all sincerity:

If there is no paid job in the office, sit down and initiate something or anything. Do any work rather than no work, and for preference, work as your own master.

There are as many opportunities to-day as ever there were. But they are hard to find. There are rewards for enterprise and resource as dazzling as ever there were but they are harder to win.

Will these soft years of sturdy, sires broth themselves, fight up out of the morass of apathy and lethargic brittle? Or are they, indeed, too soft in heart and head? I don't like to think so. The spirit that pulled me through the War in a weed quick as a thing of the past.

Elements Of Weather

Record Breaking Warmth And Rain Reported From Alaska

A torrential storm early in December brought damage estimated at $100,000 to Cordova, Alaska, as the vagaries of the weather gave southern and interior Alaska most record breaking warm weather, as well as gales and heavy rains

Sweeping in from the Gulf of Alaska a 35-mile gale raged for several hours there and at Seward. In 60 hours a total of 12.28 inches of rain fell.

Meanwhile, inland at Fairbanks, the spring temperature of 38 degrees, the warmest winter days for the months of November, December, January, February and March in the 30 years' history of the weather bureau, was recorded.

The snow was entirely gone at Fairbanks, as well as at numerous other points. The gale lashed heavily at Cordova.

An unprecedented thunder and lightning storm also swept over Cook Inlet.

Knights' Chargers Now Farm Horses

Rider Horses Carried Armoured Knights To Battle In England

To many people in Canada the Shire horse is the home of horses in the olden days when knighthood was in flower, the Shire horse was the noble animal that carried armoured knights to battle when England went to war He was the horse of the tilting tournaments, and he made a magnificent appearance as he galloped thunderously into the lists But nowadays there are only a few hundred purebred Shires in Canada and their number is decreasing A few years ago some splendid specimens were sent from England to Canada, but out of the 7,566 pure-bred horses of various breeds registered with the National Livestock Records during the year ending Oct. 31, 1936 only ten were Shires. To-day most of the purebred Shires are in Alberta.

Few of the letters which changed hands had been published. The last letter was that of a tired warrior, who said "I long to see you and sleep."

The letters were made available by the action of a nobleman, who found manuscripts, and who inherited them. The sale rose rapidly after an initial offer of $2,500

Judge And Prisoner Were Close Friends In Boyhood

Lord Chief Justice Hoilt of England was, as a youngster, a member of a club of rather mischievous fellows. Later in life most of this gang got into difficulties with the law.

One day, when his lordship was sitting, a prisoner was called and proceeded over by Lr. H. M. Tory, chairman of the National Research Council.

Now uses for Canadian potatoes included the making of such products as a substitute for glucose, grape sugar, syrup, starch, potato flour and potato chips and such other products as laundry starch, dextrine, glue, textile sizing and foundry moulding, the preservation and canning of potatoes, the use of potatoes as food for livestock.

Re-Cleaned Grains Far Western Grade

New Grades Require Practically Elimination Of Weed Seeds

By resolution under the Canada Grain Act, standards for re-cleaned grain applicable to any of the feed grades of wheat, oats and barley have been established. Whereas the standard grades allow tolerance up to three per cent. of fine weed seeds the re-cleaned grades require practically entire elimination of such seeds, as well as dust, but do not alter the wild oat tolerance.

Since western grain may not be inspected by inspection officers in the Eastern Division, grade certificates under these re-cleaned standards will apply only to grain re-cleaned at Fort William or Port Arthur prior to shipment to eastern points.

The cost of re-cleaning and the loss in weight through more complete removal of weed seeds and dirt will naturally be reflected in higher prices for the re-cleaned than for the standard grades. The higher cost will be compensated by the elimination of matrical waste as food and dunnage as a source of weed infestation

Rapid Development

Civil Aviation Has Made Giant Strides In Few Years

If the air were an unsafe medium of travel, civil aviation would not have made the giant strides in popularity that it has made within recent years. In 1919, the year in which international civil flying began, the aggregate route mileage for the world was only 3,320, and the mileage flown 1,022,960. By 1933 the route mileage had increased to 190,300, and in that year the number of miles flown reached the enormous total of 30,272,000. How's about that of that trifle was taken by the United States, with its 5,923,960 miles flown and $40,681 passengers carried; but Great Britain, France, and Germany also have their network of air routes, and Canada, South Africa, Italy, India, Belgium, Denmark, Japan, the Netherlands, Poland, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Russia, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Finland, and Rumania are all served with air transport to a greater or less degree.—McMourra Argus.

Silk From Pine Tree

Forests Of South May Be Able To Clothe World

Synthetic silken yarn from Southern pine trees—the first ever made—has been announced. Rather than announcement of the discovery of a process through which the pine forests of the South may be able to clothe the world. Making artificial yarns from the pines has been a goal of chemists for years. The long, beautiful supply in Southern forests is literally large enough to meet all the needs of the world's textile industry. A shining white shrub of yarn was exhibited at a dinner by member of Dr. Charles H. Herty, of Savannah, Georgia, discoverer of the process.

Friend For Position

The Saignerin Association of Chauffeurs has a new president—King Boris.

The position was given him by the chauffeurs for the chauffeurs said, not merely to flatter or to honor the sovereign, but because he is a "practical" driver. Boris has driven more than that, he is an expert locomotive driver and already was head of the National Association of Locomotive Engineers.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

By LAWRENCE WERNER
(Graphoanalyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

Editor's note: Here is another interesting problem, with which the author has had to deal. Have you ever had letters from people seeking welcome some advice and guidance? Here is unknown handwriting expert repeats his invitation to readers following this week's article below).

A young lady of 19 writes me in her own hand: "For a few years although I am still only 19 years of age, I have been going with a man of 33 years. We seem to be admirably suited to each other in sorts of little differences in our sexes, having much in common together. We have agreed to be somewhat sensitive, but I am the first girl to come into his life, and he got to be very fond of me.

"Over two years are he asked me several times to marry him, but I was not ready for marriage, because I do not believe in marriage, and I was ambitious to become a doctor. My parents objected to me on account of the difference in our sexes. I may say here that he is considered a good looking, and such matters would not trouble us. I wanted to wait for a few years before marrying him, but I couldn't bear to lose him.

"Since then he has been a different man, very despondent at times, and unusually jealous of me, but I am both of a jealous temperament, but he has acted very bitterly. His despondency changed, and he accused me of going out with other men, which was not true. Whenever any young man would even pass our house he would accuse me of being responsible. At first I laughed all this away, but it got so bad that I realized that he meant what he was saying.

"Over a year ago he turned to another girl because I was convinced that I was deceiving him, but after a few months that was over. Then I met a boy who lived in the ravine him of the untruth of his accusations. Or was he? I believe it.

"Once again we have this question of a marked difference in the ages of the two concerned. The man is over 33 years older than I am. This is not so bad, however, because their ages agree also. Now, I know that this age difference is the principal thing that has caused all the strife. However, the matter of jealousy is a vital one.

This is one of the most insidious of characteristics. It grows on itself. Jealousy begets more and more self-control entirely, and has shown previous little respect for. The girl he wants to marry, is continually accusing her of the things he has.

The question arises—if he is so unalmostly jealous of her now, when he is not even married to her, what would he be like when they were married?

Jealousy is one of those vices that must be overcome before marriage. The mere ceremony of getting married does not change the deep seated attitude. And a jealous husband is far worse than a jealous lover. Also, for a girl of 19 to take up the man, whereas once married, a jealousy is difficult to overcome. A great deal of unhappiness and tribulation.

It seems to me that the man in question is likely to continue to be jealous, and therefore I would counsel out to give him up, at any rate until she is assured that his jealousy has cured. Better to cut the knot now than have to untie it later.

Jealousy, unfortunately, is one of those vices that is very hard to cure. And it is far too great a risk for my correspondent to take, especially having regard to her own youth in age. She is still young, and it will not be very difficult for her to gain new friendships.

Can the author help you? Do you wish to know what your handwriting reveals? Would you like to you want to discover the real nature of your friends? Send specimens of the writing you want analyzed, and Mr. Werner will do his best to help you. Address your letters to Mr. Werner, 73 Adelaide St. West, Toronto. More than that, he is an expert locomotive driver and already was head of the National Association of Locomotive Engineers.

AFTER OPERATION SHE GREW FAT

And Became Short-Winded

A letter just received from a woman states that she is writing to thanks for the benefit she has received. Her letter runs as—

"About 18 months ago everybody remarked how fat I was getting. I turned the scale at 196 lbs. I was fed up at getting so fat and it made me short-winded. Why they noticed it more was because I was getting fat slowly since I had had an operation for appendicitis. I went back to the hospital, and the doctor said most women get fat after that operation. I had tried everything I knew of to try and get slim, so I thought I would give Kruschen Salts a trial. I started at first to take half the dose prescribed, in my first cup of tea. Nine months ago, I reduced the scale at 196 lbs., and at the time of writing I go 170 lbs. I feel better than I have felt for a long time."—Mrs. H.

The formula of Kruschen reveals six salts which each of the mineral waters of those European Spas which have been used by peoples to reduce weight. Quackery but purely Kruschen rids the system of the poisonous food refuse, of all noxious and harmful matter, which is the cause of constipation, headaches, and many other ills.

Fought Death Nine Days

Three Men And A Woman Finally Rescued In Alaska

Three men and a woman, their aeroplane beaten down from the skies by a blizzard, fought off days hunger for nine days in a tumble-down cabin near Anchorage, Alaska, before they were rescued through white shrouds brought them to safety.

"Hungry, need food and skins."

These words, written on the snow by the green branches of trees they had chopped, brought Pilots Ben Eielson and Earl Borland down from the clouds to save them. Three planes previously had roared overhead and missed them because they flew too high to read the distress signal.

Mrs. Hazel McClung, wife of a Fairbanks mining broker, and Oscar Winchell and two mine operators, David Standberg and Weiss Puntikoff, had taken a short flight on their way to Anchorage. Mrs. McClung intended to go to Juneau.

Then the storm struck. The plane, being blizzard of sleet and snow, which coated the wings until the ship sagged wearily and then came to rest in a uninhabited region 130 miles from Anchorage, in 20 inches of snow. Equipped with wheels, the plane could not land.

Taking a robe and light emergency rations from the plane the four began a path through the snow to an old cabin. Furture favored them, for they found the battered fragments of some blankets and a few dried beans and some rice abandoned by a prospector.

Using out them provisions, and melting snow for water, they existed nine days, each of the party losing 10 to 18 pounds.

Pensions For Thieves

Well Organized Band Discovered In Yugoslavia By Police

Receiving retiring pay, wage and a comfortable house and piece of land to retire on when each had stolen enough, a band of 12 thieves has been discovered by the police of Yugoslavia. According to a dispatch from Belgrade the power had a leader—one [illegible] robbing co-operative societies. All booty, money and goods were taken by the gang before their victims were paid $1.25 per day for their work, two or three times the pay of a skilled worker in the district. They often stole goods worth $500 in one night. All their burglaries were carried out on the same plan A hole was made in the wall of the store, one man went in and handed out the stuff to another who handed it on to a next. A third man kept guard. The leader stayed at home and waited for the loot.

A Queer Problem

Relief Investigator Percy Mitchell of Stratford, Ont., has had some queer problems to solve but never before did they involve a race horse. During his inquiries he uncovered a relief recipient who owns a race horse. The man is grooming the horse for next year's races and in the meantime the relief committee is considering what is to be done with the unemployed racehorse owner.

A Valuable Plaything

Amberyris Found By Boy Worth Million Pounds Sterling

A harvester pound ahead of war like substance picked up by a Rockland boy, Roderick Crandall, and used as a plaything has been recognized as "ambergris" worth $1,000 to $50,000. Ambergris is a fatty substance from sperm whales and is used as the base in manufacture of perfumes Young Crandall found the lump on the beach at Isleboro, Maine. His father, a carpenter, took it specimen to a chemist who said it was pure ambergris. M. L. Decker, an Isleboro fisherman, is awaiting a chemist's report on another lump weighing 90 pounds.

LLOYD GEORGE PLANS NEW DEAL FOR BRITAIN

London.—Former Premier David Lloyd George will shortly announce an avowedly Roosevelitan new deal program calculated to lift him above politics and invest him with the balance of power after the next elections.

Due to be published in full in early January, the Independent Liberal leader's five-point project will urge improvements in slum elimination, relief works swamp reclamation and reforestation, and will repeat the demand for state control of the Bank of England.

Foreseeing that neither Conservatives nor Laborites will gain an absolute majority, Lloyd George counts on his constructive plan to win him the moral support of numerous members of both these parties. He further believes that by placing such plan before their electorates, some candidates, who would run in vain as Liberals, will be returned to Parliament. The Liberal ticket, according to his reckoning, is out of date.

Thus the Lloyd George group would become the most active element in national development. His group, he figures would be in a position to give or withhold the support necessary for either Conservatives or Laborites to control a majority and govern.

Lloyd George proposes Britain adopt a plan of reorganizing for greater efficiency. The program, as designed to affect finance, industry, agriculture, shipping, housing, transportation and labor.

The little Welshman spent five months on his estate at Churt drawing up the plan. He devoted his entire time to aiding "my colleagues" in the preparation of the measure.

Selected and compiled from thousands of feet of war film in the custody of the government, the film is expected to be completed here. The government authorized the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau to undertake the work.

The film, 500 guardsmen were mobilized and rushed into Shelbyville under orders from Gov. Hill McAlister.

Governor by the ruse and apparently intent upon showering their wrath on guardsmen and the county officers, the mob was hopefully sprinkled with 200-odd Bedford county court house with gasoline and set fire to it.

The conflagration was much hindered from in fighting the flames. Dynamite, which had been tossed into the building by the angry throng during the day to gather them up and turn them over to the motion picture bureau when it arrived, put an end to excellent state of preservation.

Originally the films were made as for the duration of the war, and for [illegible] commercial committee, an off-shoot of the Canadian records office established in 1918 by Sir Max Aitken.

Some weeks ago the prime minister and cabinet members had a preview of the forthcoming film and approved the release under the sponsorship of [illegible]

Court House Burned

Tennessee Mob Came Disorders In Attempting To Seize Negro

Shelbyville, Tenn.—A mob of several hundred persons, two of their number already slain and others wounded, rallied about the ruins of the county court house here in an army of national guardsmen hurried here to quell disorders growing out of a futile attempt to seize a negro [illegible]

Fed by alcohol poured on by the mob, flames destroyed the $150,000 brick building which a few hours earlier had been the object of the mob's fury—a negro charged with assaulting a 14-year-old white girl.

The negro was whisked away, disguised in a soldier's uniform, and taken to Nashville.

From over the state, 500 guardsmen were mobilized and rushed into Shelbyville under orders from Gov. Hill McAlister.

The governor's task was to select from many thousands of feet of film shot in Canada, the United Kingdom and France those which would show the [illegible] of Canadian achievement from 1914 to 1918. The war-time films were resurrected some six years ago when public interest was aroused by the danger of these historical records being lost through neglect, preceded the government by the day to gather them up and turn them over to the motion picture bureau when it arrived, put an end to excellent state of preservation.

Prepare For Rouse Opening

Quiet Preparations Now Going On For Pending Session

Ottawa.—A pre-holiday lull has become noticeable in political circles, although frequent arrivals in Ottawa of members of the House of Commons, representatives of both government and opposition, are taken as indicative of the quiet preparations going forward both for the pending session of parliament and the general elections.

Date of the opening of parliament has already been announced for Jan. 17, but if any tentative time has been set for the elections it has been kept secret. It is known, however, that the appeal will be no later than October, and in some circles it is believed it will not come before that month.

Recent speeches of the prime minister have indicated an apparent desire on the part of the government to prepare the people at large, and Quebec people in particular, for radical legislation which will appear during the forthcoming session.

Preparations for the necessary need for interference by governments arise from the recommendations of the Rowell-Sirois commission, now in its still hearing evidence. There will also be the unemployment insurance legislation, which has already been officially announced as in preparation for parliament.

Preparation of estimates has been the chief concentration of work by the various departments, and it is anticipated Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes will be in a position to present them to parliament at an early date in the session.

FOLLY OF WAR TO BE SHOWN IN A NEW FILM

Ottawa.—The folly and futility of war, its sacrifices, heroism and tragic aftermath, are the themes chosen for a motion picture produced under approval of the Canadian government and expected to have its premiere here early next year.

Selected and compiled from thousands of feet of war film in the custody of the government, the film is expected to be completed here. The government authorized the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau to undertake the work.

Depicting to a general demand from Canada's war veterans for showings of the innumerable moving pictures that were assembled during the War in France, and, at the same time, having in mind the salutary message a film of this type has for the public at large.

Under the direction of a special inter-departmental committee appointed by the government, work on the film has been in progress for nearly a year

The committee's task was to select from many thousands of feet of film shot in Canada, the United Kingdom and France those which would show the [illegible] of Canadian achievement from 1914 to 1918. The war-time films were resurrected some six years ago when public interest was aroused by the danger of these historical records being lost through neglect, preceded the government by the day to gather them up and turn them over to the motion picture bureau when it arrived, put an end to excellent state of preservation.

Banks Of Caribou

Thousands Of Those Animals Roaming Northern Areas

Edmonton.—Great herds of caribou are roaming about Old Fort, 30 miles distant from Fort Chipewyan, N.W.T., and are gradually coming closer to Chipewyan than for many years, says a wireless dispatch to the Edmonton Journal.

As a result, there is scarcely a male inhabitant of Chipewyan who has not participated in the big caribou hunt. This meat supply is proving a great help to the trappers of the district who have had to date an exceptionally poor fur catch.

Hunters, as well as planes flying to and from Beaver Lodge lake, report that there are thousands of caribou and that many of the small lakes appear to be literally packed with the caribou herds. Trappers who had 76 pelts by Christmas season last year now have only seven or eight furs to barter for supplies. Open water in rivers and swamps prevents animals coming in from the Arctic barrens where they are plentiful and also handicaps the trappers in making their rounds.

Colder weather will help as the quality of the furs is good.

Communists Arrested

Stalin Determined To Avenge Murder Of Sergei Kiroff

London.—The Daily Express compiled a despatch from its Moscow correspondent saying Gregory Zinoviff and Leo Kamenoff, another former leader of the Communist International, were arrested at the Kremlin gates and placed under "house arrest."

The despatch said Zinoviff was brought to Moscow by plane from the Crimea under orders of Joseph Stalin, who interviewed him for half an hour in the Kremlin.

Stalin was quoted as saying in a statement

"I shall not relinquish the sad mantle of the Sergei Kiroff murdered opposition of the Kremlin. It is not enough to remove these people themselves. We must dig up the roots and root them out the branches of their organization."

The despatch said the official statement blamed the two old Communist leaders for the murder of Sergei Kiroff

A Christmas Truce

Tranquility To Be Preserved In Saar Territory Over The Holiday

Saarbrucken, Saar Plebiscite Territory.—A Christmas truce to preserve tranquility in the Saar Territory over the holiday was declared by the League of Nations plebiscite commission.

Both Nazis and anti-Nazis were told to keep the peace for the period December 23 to December 27, hold no meetings and forget the imminence of the January 13 plebiscite to determine the future sovereignty of the Saar

The truce was declared as 200 British Tommies, advance contingent of the international patrol force occupied their bases

New Wage Agreement

Railway Workers Get Three Per Cent. Of Pay Cut Restored

Montreal.—Canada's 100,000 railway workers and their families will spend a merry Christmas in anticipation of the fact that from the first day of the new year they will have restored to them three per cent. of the 15 per cent. pay cut previously made, and from May 1, 1935, they will have two per cent. more returned to them, bringing the deduction to 10 per cent.

An agreement to this effect was reached some weeks ago between the managements of Canada's railways and the officers of the running trades brotherhoods. An announcement was made by J. McGuire, general chairman of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad employees, whose 12,000 members include many miscellaneous classifications and workers that a similar agreement to that of the running trades has been signed.

It is understood at the same time the executives of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have decided to extend the provisions of these agreements to several clerical and office workers and other unorganized employees.

Irish Citizenship Bill

To Remove Any Suggestion That Irish People Are British Subjects

Dublin.—The Irish free state citizenship bill passed through final stages in the dail recently. It was approved by a vote of 51 to 36.

Explaining the intention of the bill President Eamon de Valera said it aimed at removing from Irish law any suggestion that the Irish were British subjects. The Free State could not alter a British act, he said, but if the British would remove from their statute the suggestion that persons in the Free State were claimed as British subjects the Free State would welcome the step.

This apparently was a conciliatory step taken by De Valera in view of arousing under antagonism in Britain over passage of the bill. Incidentally Secretary J. H. Thomas told the House of Commons that the new agreement had been advised on the highest British authority, the Irish bill could not deprive any person of his rights as a citizen of the British common wealth.

Ontario's Pension Plan

New System Expected To Save Province Large Sum

Toronto Introduction of a new system of dealing with old age pensions in Ontario on Jan. 1 will more the provincial government $36,000 a year, expenditure almost $90,000, Hon. David A Croll, Ontario minister of welfare and municipal affairs, told a delegation which called to protest against the new plan.

Under the new system county judges rather than local boards will decide on applications for pensions.

Principal argument of delegates against the change was that the latter method would not possess the intimate knowledge of the individual cases which was open to the members of the present boards

Grain Exports To U.S.

Sale Of Farm Products During Five Months Totalled Thirteen Million Dollars

Ottawa.—An enormous increase was shown in the export of farm products to the United States in November over those for the five months ended Nov. 30, 1935, $75,000 compared with $949,000 in the corresponding month last year Preliminary figures issued by statistics reported recently. The increase was due chiefly to the sale of 2,682,000 bushels of barley at $1,562,000 and 1,884,000 bushels of wheat at $1,323,000 the report stated.

Export of farm products to the United States during the five months ended November totalled $13,000,000 which was more than double the amount paid last year

SAY HOLDING POLICY WAS BAD FOR EXPORTERS

Winnipeg — John I McFarland, head of the Canadian government wheat agency and general manager of the Canadian wheat pools, charged the wheat board's operations as [illegible] William and Port Arthur with charging excessive premiums and establishing a holding policy against exporters.

Rumors of the situation and charges made during the meeting brought into the open by Mr McFarland in an interview when he declared exporters had bitterly resented the difficulties they experienced since early in November because of the attitude of terminal elevator interests. Unwarranted delays, he declared, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Elks dance on New Year's eve proved to be one grand celebration and over 200 people attending were on hand to usher the year out and in in appropriate style.

The lovely Japanese tea room while those in charge distributed hundreds of favors to their all call their best wishes for 1935 and to partake and to welcome 1935 with a toast from all kinds of bottles and cocktails.

The celebration was one of the best New Year's eve frolics ever held here.

The thermometer actually reached above at 1 p.m. this Thursday, January 3rd, 1935 and the temperature rose to 21 above in a few hours to snap the cold month in the snow.

LLOYDMINSTER WINS FIFTH STRAIGHT GAME

Lloydminster Prolites won their fifth straight game in the league when they defeated Innisfree 4-3 on Vermilion ice last Friday evening. The Prolites were playing with new skating outfits or borrowed ones and used the local Civic League sweaters. Burch put Innisfree one ahead in the first period. Lloydminster went on a wild scoring spree in the second, running in three goals in short order. Spencer scored on Kinney's rebound; Bob Meiver, unassisted, Lawrence from Kinney, Bob Meiver from Kinney. Innisfree made their count two when Brown failed to clear Kolnaschyshi's shot and Atkins shoved the puck into the goal.

Lloyd had Spencer playing left wing and their coach paired up with Kinney on defence.

E. Jones of the V.S.A. staff refereed the game and made a good job of it.

ISLAND HILL

We had a very interesting conversation Saturday in town with a Mr. Boyd, located south of Vermilion, who hails from Co. Down in Northern Ireland. He made us pocket our pride shortly after meeting him. Drawing from his pocket a letter, he handed it to us with the remark "Can you read?"

He saw the light of day not far from an historic town, Loughbrickland, where King William of Orange mounted his white horse, June 1690 after he had inspected his troops before proceeding to the Boyne. It was at Loughbrickland that King William joined his army in Ireland.

Hagmanay, 31st December, is beloved of Scotch folks all the world over and we think it is appropriate to give some proverbs of the land of the thistle.

"A woman's only child and a cat tat's only cow—

The ane's never well and the other never tail."

"A good feast is always gettin' it only a thorn." (Small comfort to the man who steps on a tack in the dark.)

"Never catch a falling knife."

"A stive (ram cheese is never mislaid."

"Don't dread the day you never saw."

Once we listened to an old hag relating a choice bit or gossip. The man of the house "choled" it as long as he could, and then—"A say Lizzie, dinna scald yer tongue wi' other folks' broth." (More polite than "mind your own business.")

When you dear reader read these lines, don't stab and say "There's many a lie told at the point o the pen." Par more are told at the point of the tongue.

The happiest man in town Saturday was George Sullivan when he learned his pains at Lamb's drug store

The Merit Medal is best be awarded to the Clandonald correspondent for proving us out a true prophet some time ago we said in this pillar that a the not distant future he would fill a page in the Standard. You will see dear reader, he did so in the Christmas number of your weekly. Ted we wish you many years to wear the merit medal.

Recent visitors to Edmonton were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Searle and Miss Mary Acheson.

The novelty dance at the school on Monday was a great success. But orchestra deserved the music and I heered was Mr. Messrs. Sullivan and Bill Hawkes & Manson and Miss Manson contributed some.

The time is to be flat time (it seats did not hold the crowd, a real mas party). It is a pity as it was ways a jolly function.

VERMILION LOSES AT VEGREVILLE

According to the Journal-Voice, the Vegreville Bantams defeated the Vermilion Wheat City Bantams by a million three last Friday night. Vegreville is showing the result of much practice and enjoyed an edge on the play. Vermilion was short on players and used Foulin and Pomin, two juvenilles inserted.

Poulin and Curson opened the scoring and put Vermilion in the lead but Vegreville evened the count in the first. Other goals were scored by Ogilvie, Rehak, Romanuk from Jacobs and Jacobs from Romanuk.

The New Ford V-8 For 1935

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the centre of the car away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

The result is Centre-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves from seven to eight miles faster with perfect safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal. A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of over a million owners. There are refinements, but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 90 horsepower and 85 miles an hour.

We invite you to see this New Ford V-8 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—to drive it yourself. You will find it a new experience in motoring.

THE NEW YEAR.

On entering 1935 the outlook is indeed bright for a continued improvement in conditions generally throughout Canada. The year just ended will record a steady trend upwards in its "gainful and artificial branches which reflected itself in a more hopeful vision for the future. Individual confidence is to be a determining factor as to what measure of success the new year will bring to each of us. Let us all work to attain that end.

CHANGE IN EXHIBITION REGULATIONS

The Alberta Fairs Association was recently re-organized at the request of the Provincial Government. Prior to the cessation of the granting of grants some three or four years ago the Government had been paying as high as $17,000.00 for the support of fairs in the province. This amount was declared from the estimates in order to assist in balancing the budget and most of the fairs in Alberta ceased to function.

It has been in the mind of the government at some time to reduce the number of fairs so that overlapping would be completely done away with. To this end an amendment to the Agricultural Societies Act was passed at the last session of the legislature having passage to bear on the Fairs Association to facilitate reducing the number of fairs.

Recently all charters of Agricultural Societies were cancelled and new applications were asked for, the list as received by the government was turned over to the new executive of the Fairs Association and some twenty seven charters have now been granted for the new list has been submitted to the Department of Agriculture for approval and it is hoped that moderate grants may again be available for the year 1935.

Only eight fairs were held in Alberta in 1934 three being of the B class and the remaining five of the C class. Vermilion held the only B fair in a town in Alberta the others being in localities of Red Deer and Lethbridge. The old established fairs at Camrose and Vegreville have been discontinued, for some time but it is now hoped that with some provincial assistance they may be revived and continue to function their very useful work.

It is a matter of congratulation to the Vermilion Agricultural Society that it has been able to carry on during the years of the depression and it has only been through the continued co-operation of the people of the district that this has been achieved.

The 30th anniversary of Vermilion fairs will be reached in 1935 and it is expected that with the impetus given by renewed provincial interest the Vermilion fair will gain ground and that we will known shortly "Bigger and Better than Ever" will apply to a greater extent than ever before.

CHANGE IN EXHIBITION REGULATIONS

The Alberta Fairs Association was recently re-organized at the request of the Provincial Government. Prior to the cessation of the granting of grants some three or four years ago the Government had been paying as high as $17,000.00 for the support of fairs in the province. This amount was declared from the estimates in order to assist in balancing the budget and most of the fairs in Alberta ceased to function.

It has been in the mind of the government at some time to reduce the number of fairs so that overlapping would be completely done away with. To this end an amendment to the Agricultural Societies Act was passed at the last session of the legislature having passage to bear on the Fairs Association to facilitate reducing the number of fairs.

Recently all charters of Agricultural Societies were cancelled and new applications were asked for, the list as received by the government was turned over to the new executive of the Fairs Association and some twenty seven charters have now been granted for the new list has been submitted to the Department of Agriculture for approval and it is hoped that moderate grants may again be available for the year 1935.

Only eight fairs were held in Alberta in 1934 three being of the B class and the remaining five of the C class. Vermilion held the only B fair in a town in Alberta the others being in localities of Red Deer and Lethbridge. The old established fairs at Camrose and Vegreville have been discontinued, for some time but it is now hoped that with some provincial assistance they may be revived and continue to function their very useful work.

WILDMERE WINKS

Write it 1935 now, folks. We are again on the job. First of all, we wish very much to thank the Editor and staff for the kind remembrance and editorial reference last week. It's very nice to think that our little part in the "town" town paper is appreciated, eagerly. And so wish the Standard and everyone else a Happy, Prosperous New Year.

We are maybe a little late, but we must make mention of the Christmas concerts and trees we attended, and also board about. Battleview concert was the first one, it was splendid and a large crowd turned out. Wildmere was next and it also was good, considering the few Johns Davey had in work with, and a well-laden tree greeted Santa, also a large crowd. Basswood came next, with not nearly so large a crowd, but a very good program; all that was needed was a little more order kept; old Santa had a hard job to keep on the platform, as he was always stepping off it, which amused the children. Triangle and Thorneliffe concerts were the same night as Basswood, so all could not be taken in. Good concerts were reported from them, too, and Santa called at both places.

Miss Violet Debond of Howell attended Wildmere and Basswood concerts.

Talk about Santa coming! He came in real style to the Hudson's Bay families in Triangle district, just crossed the doors, dumped down a parcel, said "Merry Xmas!" and was gone. That's a good Santa, we say.

Miss Wilson from Edmonton spent Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Wilson. He returned Christmas night.

Congrats — To Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Winters on the birth of a son, Friday, Dec. 21st at the Vermilion hospital. Both are doing well.

Mrs. Gaylord Gibson and daughter Marion of Basswood spent a few days in Edmonton last week, recruiting bones on Sunday.

Ed Schroeder visited Sunday at the Wallington home.

Mrs. George Scuffert had her New Year's dinner Sunday evening and invited in a few folks. All reported being stuffed with turkey.

Wildmere Community Club dance Monday evening was a decided success. A large crowd, good music and the night not too cold. Outside of having to check up a few noisy ones, everything went like clockwork. Basswood folks waited till the New Year came in before they appeared.

Club meeting this Saturday evening to straighten up the year's work. Don't forget, folks.

Funniest thing heard this week was Leander Graham saying that the water pail was empty, no wood cut, dishes all dirty, and the floor not swept since "dear knows when"; and to cap it all, milking the cow with wool mitts on. Bashing "ain't what it's cracked up to be," eh, Laurence?

FRIGID TEMPERATURES ABATE TRIFLE; SNOW FALL NEW YEAR'S DAY

A slight abatement took place in the heretofore frigid temperatures, and zero was reached on Monday for the first time in nearly two weeks. The heaviest snow fall of the month was recorded on New Year's day.

Canada Makes Progress Says Beatty

C.P.R. President Reviews Past Year and Finds Evidence of Permanent Economic Improvement in Advances so far made—Predicts Canadian Wheat as Best in the World will find Steady Market.

THE course of our recovery from the world-wide depression, like a tropical storm, swept over the world in 1933 and 1934 has been markedly different from that of any of the previous cases of business depression in this country. This time we seem to be superintending a process of slow rebuilding, and, as far as I can see, one of permanent benefit to country. Our economic activities to conditions which have radically and permanently changed. What we are experiencing is a process of building on a sound foundation, with hope for permanent growth.

This to my mind would be as entirely normal result of the causes which led to the great collapse of Canadian business. The boom conditions which followed a temporary depression in the United States, which in turn have been used as the right of way for a great number of freight vehicles. To a great extent the operations of these vehicles and their policy in setting their charges, have not been subjected to the same close supervision which public authorities have long given to railway operations and tariffs. In this case also public opinion is pressing for better handling of the situation. The railways do not question the advisability of building good roads, or of permitting them to be used for commercial transportation, but the portention of any general attempt to control or of this operation will, in my opinion, return in the railways at least some of the business which has been lost by highway transport and place both highway and rail transportation on a sounder basis.

It is also interesting to note a growing public sentiment in the direction of demanding some control (leading to the adoption of our great and really inland waterway system from those who use them — especially in the case of ships of foreign registry.

With every correction of these and many other unfair competitions, and chaos of unfair competition, Canadian prosperity in general will be increased in direct proportion. The very careful studies which have been made by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics indicate a condition which is as alarming as some authorities would make it.

In this great and steadily accumulated calamity we should not, however, be talking out of necessity. Canada should look forward in the years to every direction. To my mind the policies pursued in this country since the very simple if somewhat lost time, we have in force to prevent the choice of public bodies and resultant destruction taxation from any further increase, remuneration of our efforts both in public policy and private business on the increase in both in volume and prosperity of our primary industries.

Especially in the agricultural areas, and as I have repeatedly said, an immediate cessation of the Bonbonnaire and costly duplication of transportation facilities.

It appears to me that we can look back on 1934 with some reassurance, as a year during which much that the world is not forgetting, and that by industry and thrift, business and individuals could still prosper. What interests me more is that I believe we can look forward to 1935 and somewhat years with confidence that under Providence we shall see in them a period when Canada will realize that faith in her future which too many of us seemed to lose and that we shall again come to realize that all that is wanted to set this country on a forward path of progress are some simple virtues as energy, honesty, and ordinary common sense.

Arms And Ammunition Industry

United States Government Opposed To Governmental Ownership

The United States war department opposed governmental ownership of the arms and ammunition industry in a prepared statement submitted to the senate munitions committee, several of whose members have proposed such a course.

Such a policy would fail in war and therefore does not appear logical in peace the department said, asserting nevertheless it does not oppose in any way a programme of building the munitions industry.

Bernard M. Baruch chairman of the old war industries board, told the house foreign affairs committee of the difficulty and importance of obtaining tin in time of war, and recommended that the government buy thousands of tons and store it away "just as it would invest in a battleship."

It was suggested the United States accept tin in payment on war debts, and Baruch agreed

Queer Home-Made Clock

What seems to be the most elaborate home-made clock in the world has just celebrated its 20th birthday. It is the work of C. W. Barltrop of Newtown New Zealand.

He completed it after 30 years' work and set it going in 1914 It has kept accurate time ever since

He made it out of all sorts of odds and ends, bits of old clocks, old tins, bicycle bells, fishing line, an empty can of floor polish filled with lead as a pendulum bob strands of wire and scrape of junk.

It tells the minutes, hours, days of the month state of the moon and the corresponding times of all the chief cities in the world Mr. Barltrop had never made a clock before and has never made one since

Taking Lessons In Seeing

Women Blind For Years Have Miraculous Ideas About Things

After years of blindness two women have left London eye hospitals, seeing through the eyes of other women—thanks to operations by a brilliant Welsh surgeon. They found that they had to "learn to see". They helped each other. Now they have parted.

One, Mrs. Daphne Muir, wife of Dr. Raydon Muir of Cape Town, has gone back to the United States. The other is left in her English home. They were operated on by Dr. Tudor Thomas of Cardiff. Mrs. Muir had not seen for ten years; her fellow-sufferer for 30 years.

When a woman has not seen since she was a child, pre-conceived what mistaken ideas blind person have about the world around them Her first lesson is to strip take the cover of drawings on a blackboard; ships and houses, dogs and cats, flowers and trees are drawn on them. She learns to know what they are.

Next she is asked to fill the detail in with pencil. Circles on to a ship or flowers on stems. Then she learns to distinguish the faces of those who come to see her and to see things in focus as a whole.

A man can walk a mile without moving more than a couple of feet.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ENLARGEMENTS as GIFTS

Enlargements make just about perfect gifts for any occasion. Here are two delightful examples of the kind of enlargements the Snapshot Guild of Dad's desk at the office and the other for the living room out at Grandma's.

Everything considered, snapshooters are a lucky lot. As they have seen, they have the edge on ordinary mortals in the matter of many personal, meaningful Christmas cards. And snapshooters are lucky in that they have the means of creating gifts of exceptional charm and value for others.

These particular "means" are the specific negatives from which beautiful enlargements can be made If you haven't yet experimented with enlargements prove a the time If you have a darkroom of your own, where you develop and print your own pictures one of the simple modern enlargers will make it a really fascinating place But you get practically the same pleasure and at a formerly excellent work out of enlargements made from your films by any regular photo finisher

In making a picture you get not only a bigger more realistic image but the opportunity to select the best part of any negative for magnification. Suppose you have a good negative of the youngsters at play in the sandbox a picture which their grandparents would be delighted to have enlarged as a gift But suppose there's something incongruous—a wash on the line a lawn mower or anything else that doesn't add a thing to the charm of the view to the right or left of the children With an enlargement, that distracting, unnecessary feature can be completely eliminated.

There's nothing complicated or difficult about enlarging. It's exactly like a "magic lantern," or stereopticon. The chief difference is that you use a negative film instead of a lantern slide and project the image on a light-sensitive paper instead of a screen. Experts are lucky in that they have the means of creating gifts of exceptional charm and value for others.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's First Meeting With Jesus. Jn. 1:40-42. One of the two who had followed Jesus to his abode was Andrew, "Simon Peter's brother"—that he is known even from the beginning of the Gospel record, for Peter was the more forceful of the two brothers. It often happens that the brother or sister of one who has an aggressive nature is identified by others by the latter's name, to his or her annoyance Andrew, however, was a quiet, unassuming man, who probably greatly admired his brother's energy and quickness and was willing to take second place as far as that matter was concerned

To Peter, his brother, Andrew went at once with the thrilling message, "We have found the Messiah." Messiah, as you well know, is the Hebrew word, as Christ is the Greek, which means "The Anointed One." Dr. McFarland pertinently observes that if Andrew had understood a little more deeply he would have said, "The Messiah has found us!"

And Andrew brought Peter to Jesus. His success in bringing Peter to Christ is recorded in this Gospel, here, in 6 and in 12:22.

There were many things that Andrew could have done with his great discovery. He could have taken it out to fishing, in disputing, in reading the old Testament, in revisiting the Baptist, in deciding to tell someday sometime, after matters of business had been definitely settled, but, wisely, he did the very first thing that he was to do to find his own brother Simon. —J. Ridgeway.

Jesus looked upon Peter as he came to Him. "Thou art Simon," he said "the son of John; thou shalt be called Cephas." Cephas, Aramaic name and Peter, the Greek name, mean a stone A detached piece of rock Jesus looked upon Peter then was too impulsive to be reliable, but he also knew that Peter had the making of a firm rock on which he would some day build his church, Mt. 16:13-19, for Peter had the gift of supreme leadership.

Serum Declared Success

Announcement By Denver Tuberculosis Experts To Be Made

The announcement of the success of a tuberculosis preventive, apparently as simple to administer as small-pox vaccine, is expected to be made soon by Denver tuberculosis experts.

Governor E. C. Johnson disclosed that "human guinea pig" experiments with Colorado convicts, during which the tuberculosis serum was tested, seemingly are a success.

In medical circles there were reports the serum discovered or the results will be made public soon.

Doctors of the National Jewish hospital at Denver, who developed the serum during experiments which took 15 years, adhered to their policy of silence but they indicated to officials at the Colorado prison, where tests were made, that they have no doubt of the success of the prevention.

Two convicts, who gambled their lives in the tests against a chance at freedom, probably will be granted pardons about the middle of January, Governor Johnson said.

These men, Carl Erickson and Mike Schmidt, were first given "shots" of the serum last April. Then millions of tuberculosis bacilli were injected into their lungs.

Prison officials said both men are in good health and that they have begun signs of contracting the disease.

Denver tuberculosis experts said that the injections of the bacilli were the equivalent "of 10 months of any ordinary person" and that if the two convicts had not contracted tuberculosis by that time the serum could be considered a success.

Governor Johnson said that in his agreement with the convicts who volunteered for the tests, he had provided the men should gain their freedom when the physicians had completed their experiments

Canadian Wheat Pools

Able To Present Statement Showing Substantial Progress

At its recent annual meeting held in Regina the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool was able to present a statement showing substantial progress, notwithstanding poor crops in a considerable area of the province. Total grain handled by the Pool during the year was slightly over 60,000,000 bushels and reduction of capital incurred from $3,300,354 in the previous year to $6,017,621

In 1929 the Wheat Pools of the western provinces paid their members some $22,000,000 more than the grain brought on the open grain. Financing under the conditions arising from this over payment, which were due to the sudden drop in grain prices in the 1929 crop year was made possible by support extended by the provincial governments. The pools are now in process of liquidating these advances, with the exception of approximately $1,200,000 which was written off by the province of Manitoba. The first payment of principal into the fall of 1933, and payments of principal and interest were made by the three pool organizations. Principal and interest have again been paid for 1934 and will be paid by the various pools being Manitoba $253,741 Saskatchewan $1,152,304, Alberta, $462,620, total, $1,819,670

As Good As Money

Circus Manager Had To Take Goldfish

The manager of a circus showing in Sweden was forced to accept goldfish instead of money in return for entrance tickets At one village, when he had put up his tents he learned that there was a shortage of ready money He decided to allow the audience to pay in that way. The box office manager took the fish. The only thing left was a wholesale market.

The number of bogs granted for sod-cutting in the seven weeks of 1934 ended January 17 was 2,765 as compared with 3,018,326 during the corresponding period of 1933

The recent British Trans-Saharan expedition travelled 1,500 miles by dog sledge 700 of it over country never before traversed by man

There are upward of 100 different commercial explosives in common use

Every person in Stockholm, Sweden, spent an average of $16 for movie tickets in the last year

AT 62—IN BED WITH RHEUMATISM

At 65—Working Again

Why worry about rebumatism? This old fellow had it almost as bad as it could be But he just found the right remedy, stuck to it, and now he's working again at 65 years of age

Let him tell you all about it:—"For two years and a half" he writes, "I have suffered from rheumatism For eighteen months I could not turn over in bed, nor help myself in any way My legs and feet were swollen, and I could not sleep or get any rest until I started taking Kruschen Salts After taking one bottle, I went about on two canes. I kept on taking it, as I found the pains were leaving me I have taken five bottles, and now I have started work again. I am 65 years of age, and everybody that knews me says I am a wonder to get on after what I was." J. B.

Do you realise what causes rheumatism? Needless but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which forms as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear those painful crystals from the system

"Aye. I struck a regular Easter greetin'," Scotty damned and blessed was layin' for me! I reckon this time that man Dustin isn't having any false impressions where we stand. Who's this?"

The slatted door to the barroom was nearly torn from its hinges as Hoskins, the telegraph operator, flung into the bar

"I'm lookin' for one Duro Stone," he shouted. "Oh! Here you are! I got an answer to your telegram, Stone. That wire you sent to Gerald Keene. I'll send a copy to you later. This has Keene wired a man over He says he'll be with you the tenth of next month."

"Fine." Arizona elbowed a man aside and headed for the street and the crowd sucked back from him The man who could beat Sam Dustin, Gene and the pay roll of the Broken Spur was not to be held lightly. With Dustin and Gene his avowed enemies, he was a marked man. Together, With Frank Crowe at his side he snatched his pony from the tie-rack, they swung into saddle and headed down the street

Once on the open trail, Crowe demanded and got an explanation. As Stone told him the details he old manager's face stiffened and grew serious.

"There a lot behind this that we don't anbe," he said. "I'm glad this man Keene is comin'."

Neither of them knew that that message flung abroad in the bar of the Silver Dollar set fire to Dustin. The moment he realized what Hoskins had said he whirled Corse aside and started for the door.

"We'll get back to the Broken Spur as quick as we can," he said. "I've got business to attend to"

He had

CHATER VIII

The word of that telegram galvanized Sam Dustin into instant life. Once back at the ranch house at the Broken Spur he hurried Bailey Goddard into the office for conference.

"We've got to change our plans a bit," he said. "While I was in the Silver Dollar that man Stone from the Hour-glass came in with Crews, their foreman Corse was with me . . .

"Whose" That damned fool Spike burst into a great laugh 'Do you know what's happened, Sam? Corse and Gray" A whole lot more than you know of must have taken place. Oh! that's how the two Gray men Corse at work on Red Water. Well the other day" "And Spike proceeded to tell in a garbled account that he had got from the negro driver of the wagon. He had not seen a ghost of him but had seen the two men taking supplies from the wagon, quite likely and the sight set him to talking to affer he came back to the Broken Spur.

Dustin stopped him with a pale face.

It was bad enough having old man Kane see what Gray and Corse were doing he said. "Now you tell me that that man Stone from the Hour-glass saw it too

"That was some time after Kane was, only, said Spike as though that made a difference.

"You damned fool! You know Gray and Corse have got orders to keep as far away from the ranch as they can and to gather in all the cattle they could find. You know we gave them the wagon so they could keep far out and not implicate us. Looks to me like you're lost your mind, Spike Hell hells, mate!"

"You didn't hear me right," said Spike "Listen to this . . ." And between gules of laughter Spike told Dustin more what had taken place that day on the open range. To his astonishment Dustin did not laugh.

"Don't you think it's funny?" demanded Spike

It's almost as funny as an earache to a poor fool" CAN'T Blake it clear to you? Don't you see that Stone knows now as much about the deal with Keene on the cattle as Kane did? Do you happen to know what happens to men caught with the goods, you dumbbell." Good God! Can't you see a thing like that? If Carr finds out what Stone his hired man, and old Dad Kane knows, he can tell all that's secret. If he does that, their evidence will He shivered a little at thought of what that evidence would do. "Your damned dunglin' at the loose end of a rope"

At last Spike Goddard "saw". He stood worthless, licking his lips as he always did when perplexed

"Well you're really, I expect you're right Dustin" he said finally. "I'm sure I'm right Anything you say are What'll we do then . . ."

"We'll have to fire Crone and Gray and let 'em more right on, and that'll take some money They've got to see that if they talk we'll tell all we know. For the rest we'll act exactly what I planned. We'll have old Dad Kane show us that location and then he'll have to disappear."

There is no other word to adequately express it he simply faded away as a coyote merges into the shadows of the night.

For more than five years Peyotl had been a fixture at the Broken Spur store. He originally came from no one knew or cared. The bunk-house accepted him as it accepted lice or sand-burrs in their blankets, as something to get rid of as soon as possible. Whatever he did about the place he did himself as well. They were gathering in cattle from every little crooked canon too distant for the men of the home ranch to go after. A week ago his future held a very different outlook But the appearance of Stone's appearance had put a spoke in his wheel. Spike must have sensed his thoughts.

"How about this man Stone?" he demanded.

"Leave Corse and Gray to tend to him," said Dustin grimly. "Our business is what Kane found. Once we get that, we own the Hour-glass and we own the Hour-glass . . ."

He licked his lips at the thought of how easily Edith would come to him as the new father "Listen, Spike . . ."

"To-night Hoskins, the telegraphman, came in to the Silver Dollar. You know Gerald Keene owns half the Hour-glass. He's comin' here Hoskins ran into the Silver Dollar and told Stone that he had a wire from Gerald Keene. He'll be here on the tenth That gives us just seventeen days . . ."

"To do what"

"Good God! Haven't I been telling you? Joe Carr owns half the Hour-glass. The man Gerald Keene sent the other half. If Keene dies, old Carr owns the whole ranch I've got notes from Carr I bought them from men he borrowed money from in Beco and he gave his share of the Hour-glass as security Don't you see? Gerald Keene dies and Joe Carr passes on the whole ranch to pay for his notes See now?"

"No beginnin' to," said Spike dazedly. "We'd git the whole of the Hour-glass and the gold-mine from Kane found . . ."

"And I'll get Edith," said Dustin quietly. "I'll get Edith She'll be damned glad to marry me to keep her old man out of the poor-house See?"

"By God," said Spike admiringly. "I don't know what you see in her, but I'd say you was crooked. Then he snickered If there was one thing of which Spike Goddard was sure, it was that no power under heaven could induce pretty Edith Carr to have any dealings with his partner if she could help it and to keep from laughing at thought of it Sam was as darned sure of himself where women were concerned.

"I bet you two drinks she turns you down on any account," he said "Shucks, man! What do you want to buy a roan heifer like her for"

"You fool," said Dustin "Haven't you ever broken a horse that fought you" It didn't make any special difference about that horse There was fifty better in the remuda but you wanted to break that one because it fought you You just made up your mind you'd break that horse to hand or bust Know that feelin'?

Spike nodded soberly. He knew exactly that feeling. Dustin went on.

"You send Peyotl Gregg in to me," he said. "I need him in this."

In ten minutes Peyotl Gregg shambled into the room. Peyotl was a fixture at the Broken Spur just as a boor used to be a fixture at the court of Charles of Burgundy or a fool at Feudal boards. He was a huge bulk of a man, making up in brawn what he lacked in brains His elbow brows, his deep-set eyes that alternately gleamed and glowed ravenously, his loose-lipped mouth, all told a story that is not rare enough in the West. The man was a victim of that dread drug that has pulled down so many new Peyotl He was as strong as steel yet sickness was apparent, too. It was written in the pallor of his mouth that had snatched at him and almost hurled him into a corner.

"You've been amokin' that damned dope again" he said fiercely "I've told you a dozen times to lay off it and as you get it from me I swear to God, Peyotl some day I'll kill you if you don't obey my orders"

"I been mindin' 'em fer five years now," croaked Peyotl. "What you want, Mist' Dustin"

"You get packs made up for the mornin'" said Dustin "I'm goin' to be gone for six days and you're goin' to go along Just you and me and old man Kane. Get two pack-ponies. I'll have Kane use old man Kane's burros. They're pretty slow but they pack better and they know their way to Use the pack-burros Understand"

Peyotl nodded wordlessly and disappeared, and Dustin stared after him as he shuffled down the hall There is no other word to adequately express it he simply faded away as a coyote merges into the shadows of the night.

For more than five years Peyotl had been a fixture at the Broken Spur store. He originally came from no one knew or cared. This Canada Of Ours

Importance Of Dominion Out Of All Proportion To Its Numerical Strength

The men who pioneered this country who laid the foundation stones for the great Canada of to-day, faced what often seemed to be insuperable difficulties But they fought through with the courage, traditional in their several races, and they won, leaving for us, eventually, a well-planned nation capable of occupying one of the chief places among the countries of the world.

To-day we are still unimpressed and from a population standpoint, but the richness and variety of our resources, coupled with the vigor, the courage, the determination, the bravery of our people have lifted us to a position out of all proportion to our numerical strength.

The world has taken notice of Canada in the last two decades and we predict that the world's interest in our country will grow rapidly in the next few years as appreciation of our achievements and our natural resources becomes more general.—Border Cities Star

AUTUMN OF LIFE

Into our ears in autumn night,
I beg you gather me.
Teach me the need of each bird's flight
And every restless tree;
Show why the river must suffer blight
Why winter has to be

O night I ask you to reveal
Your secrets to my mind.
There must be truths that hurt to feel
And yet be kind

Show my rebellious eager heart,
In tender love and fervency,
How to be still that part
Of life that is unworthy;
Let me be wise, let me be smart
And—young.

New Revelation In Science

Microbes Carried Across Atlantic By Winds Of The Upper Air

Col Charles A Lindbergh was revealed recently as a new pioneer in science when he made another proof that microscopic bacteria, fungus spores and pollens, including some diseases, are carried all the way across the north Atlantic by winds of the upper air.

The flyer told that these tiny forms of life at many points high over northern waters during the flight he and Mrs Lindbergh made across the north Atlantic in the summer of 1933

The discovery by Col Lindbergh is believed by scientists to be of great importance in showing how both disease organisms and others that are beneficial can be transported alive over long distance by air currents high above the ground barriers.

Among the organisms Col Lindbergh collected were: Several kinds of fungi which cause rust and smut diseases of cereals; several species that cause early blight of potatoes and apple scab and other blights that attack crops of great economic importance of wood Many others were found that have not yet been identified.

Longest Straight Railroad

On the great air flat plain of Nullarbor, in Western South Australia, after crossing the Eyre range the railway runs for 297 miles 1 chain and 50 links without a curve, the longest straight line in the world. Before the line was completed, however, there had been many curves, as the engineers had to make a detour to avoid the sandhills.

R. H. NORTON PURCHASES PROPERTY FOR LUMBER YD.

Also Secures Alberta Pacific Coal Sheds

R. H. Norton, well known local business man and a former supporter resident of the Superior Lumber Yards, recently completed negotiations for the purchase of lots 4, 5, 6 and 7 in Block 22. The lots in this block run east and west. The situation is directly east of the Alberta Western Lumber Co. and the property has been secured for a lumber yard site. Mr. Norton holds the view that as most of the heavy traffic of the town is now around the elevators, coal sheds, etc. that this is an ideal location for his yards. He has also bought the coal sheds of the Alberta Pacific Grain Co.

DEATH OF MRS. LAURA MEAD

ERECTION OF DERRICK AT GAS WELL

Satisfactory Progress Is Being Made

Satisfactory progress has been made, despite the unfavorable weather of the past few weeks with the erection of the derrick for the well at Vermilion of the Tennell Gas and Oil Company Limited. This derrick has been carried up about 90 feet already and will be completed in a few days if the weather permits, it can be plainly seen from the west side of town. A deal has been made for a boiler and casing and other necessary equipment, which will shortly be hauled to the location and installed. The Directors are confident therefore that actual drilling can be commenced within the month. Arrangements are now being made to offer shares in the Company for public subscription for a limited time, the intention being to close out the sale of the shares to the public about the end of January. A further announcement as to the sale of the shares will be published next week, and it is hoped that subscribers will take advantage of this opportunity. Mr. Watch for the announcement next week

Canada In 1935

Now that the world is well launched into the new year, and we are becoming accustomed to writing 1935 instead of 1934, the question should become more and more insistent, rather than less so, as to what we propose as individuals and as citizens of Canada to make of this new year. A new hope-fulness seems to prevail and a greater degree of confidence is in evidence that this year is to provide opportunities which were lacking in 1934. It remains for the individual to grasp those opportunities and bend them to his will.

The depression has been teaching many important lessons. It has been a hard taskmaster, and the lessons taught through bitter experiences have not been pleasant; but they will prove of the utmost value if they are heeded. Through force of circumstances, tens of thousands of people have been compelled to turn to their local community for assistance, with resources thus taxed to the limit, local councils have had to turn for their Provincial Governments for aid. Provinces, in turn, have had to rely upon the Federal authority with its greater resources.

School districts and rural municipalities have found they could solve their problems and do what they felt ought to be done without Provincial assistance. Provinces now realize that Federal policies have a more direct bearing on Provincial policies. Provincial finances, and Provincial ability to function and carry on thus was appreciated in the past the Dominion Government has learned as all national governments have learned, that with all its powers it too, is handicapped, and its ability to act as it truly believes to be in the national interests nullified by the policies and acts of other nations.

The depression has enforced the lesson that while the world of nations may well be a political unit, they are also an economic unit and that not one of them can fully prosper isolated from others, rather statesmen, finance-rs and business men realize that complete independence of nations in finance trade, and many social policies must be submerged in a larger acceptance of the interdependence of all

International action in its true and proper conception must replace the all too long accepted idea of ——— ——— ———

New Body Lines and More Room in 1935 Ford V-8

THE largest and roomiest cars Ford has ever built, with new body lines of advanced streamline design, are illustrated above in the Ford V-8 de luxe Tudor sedan for 1935. Sedans seat six passengers comfortably, and the wide doors swing out to provide ample room for entrance and exit. Fenders are new. The screen body types are all finished in new baked enamel which has a deep lustre. Cars are approximately eight inches longer than the eight-inch wheel base and weigh over a ton. Chassis improvements, including moving the engine forward more than a foot, provide more room and new steering refinements, add to riding comfort, especially of rear seat passengers. Frontal flow ventilation is an improvement of the 90 horsepower V-8 engine.

ELKS TRIM OTTAWA

The Elks defeated the Ottawa boys 4-3 in the opener last night, but the 2 points in the standing are in the losers as the Elks need Dragunas who started in the Civic league but has since made the seniors. Dan had only seven men so couldn't pull Sam from the line up and handed the points to the north boys before the game started. Johnny Ledesma notched two goals and Wright did likewise. Altho only an exhibition affair Ottawa fought to the last ball to score and were going better at the end than at any other time. Line ups—

Ottawa—M. Brimacombe, Reid, Le Dourane, Barwick, Kreller, Dolliver, Beecroft, Duncan, McKee, Panier.

Elks — Bereaird, Dragunak, Resebeck, Ladesmie, H. Brown, R. Brown Wright.

Hockey Notes

Lloydminster Prolite hockey team left last Friday on a barnstorming hockey trip through central Alberta in order to keep in condition. They defeated Red Deer last Saturday 3-2, lost to Bashaw 4-3, but came back to trim Stettler 7-5 and Lacombe 8-3 the first of the week. The trip will take the Border town boys as far south as Calgary., incidentally it digs cops to a great extent the schedule of the Big Four league. Owing to the burning of the Lloyd. arena this was bound to be thrown somewhat out of kilter anyway. Fast work is being made on the rebuilding of the hockey rink and it is expected to have ice again by the end of January. Jim Kinney couldn't make the trip with the Prolites.

Lloydminster do not intend defaulting any of their league games, but will try to catch up on them when they return and have ice of their own to play on

The Ottawa vs. Elk Point game scheduled for the local arena had to be called off last Saturday night owing to the roads from the far north town being impassable, although they made a plucky attempt to get through. The high school team provided the Ottawa boys with opposition and a good game was provided, ending with the High School 6, Ottawa 4.

Score 5 Goals to 2

An interesting exhibition game was played on Monday evening in place of the Big Four Buster of Vermilion vs. Lloydminster. Kitscoty remaining sticks with the locals. The boys from the little eastern town provided supporting opposition and until the third period the local squad had very little edge on their rivals

Fred Pidrock-Cameron poked home the first goal of the game, picking up a pass from English at the blue line. Fred worked in close and made sure of his shot. Kitscoty scored the second one unassisted, skating all the way from defence to do it Not to be outdone, Harvey Caldwell notched one for Kitscoty followed by a counter from the stick of young spider-Eley The initial period ended 2-2

Ken Corson was in the right place at the right moment to drive home Fred Brimacombe's pass for the side goal of the sandwich session

The locals added two more goals in the third and should have had several more but many as countless combination efforts came to naught or lack of the final shot or pick up of the loose puse. Corson converted following a rush and shot by Manson Barr the to end things Mackenzie scored the fifth goal on a pass out from the corner by Fred Brimacombe

Kitscoty had two well known hockey veterans on defence in the persons of Spence Pidrock and Murray, both were members of the famous Lloydminster Elks of a few years ago and Pidrock played with the Rat mers of the old days, here-

TOWN SHOWS IMPROVED FINANCIAL POSITION

Although not completed yet a preliminary statement indicates that the town of Vermilion will show a considerable improvement in its financial condition for 1934 over that of 1933. Tax collections have exceeded those of the previous year by $2000 on a round figure on, electric light and steam heat receipts have increased by some $1200, the town found it necessary to borrow only about half the amount for preliminary financing in 1934 as was needed in 1933. These conditions reflect directly upon the general circumstances of the business men and the townspeople generally, and should be indications of a brightening on the horizon of the depression heralding a dawn of a new prosperity.

** ** **

The population of the town has undergone several changes during the past year by large migrations of young people, some required as fixtures here and all members of several organizations and participants in the town's activities. Those coming in could without question, trained thinking are Mrs. Gladys and Miss Viola Blanchard Best, sisters of E. Benjamin Ben Carey, Fenton H. Sharp, Bud Boyce Marks, Norman Ken Welch and now the complete Royal Bank staff

FINANCES OF M. D.'S BETTER

Tremendous improvement has taken place in the financial position of Alberta municipalities according to figures prepared by the municipal affairs department. Only 61 of 142 municipalities now have outstanding delinquencies.

At the beginning of 1932 the seven urban municipalities ran their deficits to debts by $7,257,536.93.

Five towns had reduced their debt by $119,546.66; 145 villages by $10,815; 21 and five municipal districts by $1,389.65.

Officials report that collections have been increasingly good and the improvement here noted is fully expected to continue

No charges have been laid against Mrs Smoliak and it is emphasized that she is merely held for investigation. WOODVALE CHRISTMAS CONCERT HUGE SUCCESS

Seldom are we granted the opportunity to witness such a glimpse as from Fairfield's presented to a crowd attending the Woodvale concert The whole performance was a triumph of artistry and boasts a splendidly trained talent to bring it to be

The whole program was announced and given by children not an adult appearing on the stage and the whole are took special pride in being able to manage continuous, curs, stage properties and appearing at all by themselves And well managed it was too

In our humble opinion the first number "Old King Cole Hoedy Ung," was the most attractive presented This chiefly for the charming costumes, the clever singing of each performer to their part, and the happy appearance of each child knowing its best and doing it. The number was presented by the children from the lower grades with lovely effects, plenty of humor, and not a single hitch. A variety of nursery rhyme characters brought their troubles to [illegible] help of his sister [illegible] queen

The next was a play The Home [illegible] Night" Miss Dora [illegible] a [illegible] mother [illegible] Miss Mae [illegible] Mrs. Christmas and never said more [illegible] Jack Sprat [illegible] Mrs. Sprat [illegible] Martha Cowsnest Verna Potter Joan Pitch Allen Potter, Roy Brown and Hughie Porter The efforts of Mrs. Sprat characters to impersonate the kidnapped girl, the remarks of the others, her breakdown at questioning, the small Hughie's first impertinent and irrepressible remarks made a very interesting and laughable entertainment Finally the character impersonated by Martha is found to be the long lost daughter and all ends well Special mention should be made of the restrained grief acted by Joy and the thoroughly natural and human performance of Hughie, that made him the "lion" of the evening

A pageant "The Birthday of the Christ" followed, thoroughly artistic with its lighting effects, reverent [illegible] and appreciate music Miss Evelyn de Hewitt rendered a solo in her [illegible] an angel and showed splendid true voice without excess passage We could not help remarking that the ensemble, grace and solemn expression on the [illegible] face of the wee mites Mary [illegible] Geo [illegible]

The last was a play entitled "Hansom Smash" by a group of older students The part of the awkward farm hand was taken by Florent Van, the farmer [illegible] convincingly by Jay Turner his daughter charmingly by Joy Doyle and Ruth Pick the part of Irish servant by Audrey Doyle the young ladies suitors by Jack Cox Gordon and Jim Turner The efforts of the young ladies to gain the favor of their company, and the mistakes Hans makes in regard to the young men furnished real entertainment, and humor was well supplied by the passages between the wee Irish maid and the very interested Hans

The whole was very smoothly run the timing of the action being perfect Between plays recitations were rendered by Miss Audrey Doyle, Miss Joan Pritchard and Master Maurice Gunter

Last We Forget

War Film Designed To Bring Canadians The Lesson Of The Futility of War

While the government cannot be said to have "gone Hollywood," it is nevertheless true that cabinet ministers now appreciate the problems attendant upon evolving a title for a moving picture

A recent meeting of the privy council heard the unusual spectacle of the nation's administrators seriously worried and racking their pericrib as they tried out various titles for the film shortly to be produced under government sanction Finally, as inspiration struck the cabinet, and "Lest We Forget" was born and approved

And so, "Lest We Forget" it is—the name of the picture compiled from many thousands of feet of film taken overseas during the war, and, trimmed into a connected and coherent story of Canada's war effort, is designed to bring home to the Canadian public the stupidity and fruitlessness of war The picture is being presented and will have its premiere early in the new year under the auspices of the Canadian Legion.

The production is of feature length, dividing the war into three definite periods.

In all sequences the cost of war is vividly illustrated

Notable Progress Made by Royal Bank of Canada

Deposits Increase $56,000,000—Liquid Assets $362,172,287 —Profits Down Slightly After Heavier Taxes

The financial statement of The Royal Bank of Canada for the year ended December 30, 1934, reflects a period of improved business conditions. Figures of total assets, deposits, cash, investments, commercial loans and note circulation all show an increase during the year

Total assets are $754,423,904 of which $382 172 287 are liquid, being 7d 16% of total liabilities to the public compared with 55.76% a year ago Cash, cheques and bank balances aggregate $185,683,631 or 24.59% of public liabilities.

Government and municipal securities have increased during the period from $113,782,602 to $132,-220,480

Big Gain In Deposits

The outstanding feature of the statement is the increase of $56,-354 310 in public deposits. Of this increase it is understood that $41,-347 354 is in Canada and $15,000,000 abroad, Canadian savings deposits being up $11,126,356

After a steady decline in commercial loans of banks in Canada over the period of the past few years, it is encouraging to note as further evidence of the business revival, that the Royal Bank's figures under this heading show an increase of $10,092,894, the total standing at $226 942,026.

Profits for the year were $4,986,-217 but are not properly comparable with published profits for the previous year, because heretofore they were reported after deducting Provincial taxes but before Federal taxes. For the sake of uniformity, and the fuller information of shareholders, both classes of taxes are now disclosed in the published report.

During the year under review Dominion and Provincial taxes aggregated $1,676,016, including allowance for the increase under this heading, profits are lower by $268,-448 Net profits, after taxes, covered dividend requirements of $2,800 000, annual contribution of $200 000 to Officers' Pension Fund, the usual appropriation of $250,000 for Bank Premises, and left a surplus of $123,300 to be added to Profit and Loss Account, increasing that account to $1,508,804 to be carried forward to the next fiscal year.

The showing, while gratifying to the shareholders, will this year be of special interest to the public, as it affords perhaps the most striking reference yet given of the extent of the improvement in trade throughout Canada.

The Annual General Meeting of shareholders will be held at the Head Office of the bank in Montreal on Thursday, January 10th.

The principal accounts, with comparative figures for the year, are as follows:—

	1934	1933

Again smart woolen and gay for the coming chilly days ahead finds this figurine in wearing.

Notice how pretty the skirt flares and smartly it buttons down the center-front. The shirtwaist blouse is softly gathered at the shoulder yoke and it has a big peplum, so modish The tucking scarf with hand ruffles forms the preference—slips so jauntily 'neath the tab collar.

It's particularly effective as the original is bright red and navy checked woolen blouse, plain bright red woolen skirt with navy crepe tie scarf and belt. Have an eye for crepe dotted in bright red, with red rayon-seam scarf; it's very lovely, too

JANUARY 13

PETER'S GREAT AFFIRMATION

Golden text: "And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Matthew 16:16.

Lesson: Matthew 16:13-26; Luke 9:18-36; I. Peter 2:9, 6.

Devotional reading: Psalm 34:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Great Affirmation of Faith. Luke 9:18-20. Now it happened that while Jesus was praying by himself, the disciples were beside him. Matfaith translation). Suddenly he turned to them and asked, "Who do the multitudes say that I am?" Very readily they answered, "John the Baptist; others, Elijah; and yet others, one of the old prophets." Mt. 16:14 adds "Jeremiah". Recall how Herod had called Jesus John the Baptist, Mt. 14:2.

"There was no man then living with whom he could be compared. When we want to stir men's hearts, we appeal to the dead; when we search for the great, we descend into the grave, we talk of Shakespeare and Cesar, of Charlemagne and Alfred the Great, of Queen Elizabeth and Cromwell, of Lincoln and Webster, we do not use the name of a man living. That is what the Jews did. This tells very clearly that to them Jesus was a man of tremendous power." (C. R. Jefferson).

"But who say ye that I am?" continued Jesus. The reply is emphatic. But ye, who do ye say that I am? And Peter, as spokesman for the group, answered with unwonted vigor, "The Christ of God." "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God," is Matthew's report of his words. "The Lord's Anoint of the Carpenter, the familiarity of daily intercourse, the shocks of disapproval, the delay of hopes making the heart sick, the haughty repudiation of Jesus by the authorized teachers of Israel, the ebbing tide of his popularity in Galilee, might have unnerved justified a fishermen's timidity to decide this momentous question. But, in spite of all doubts and dreadful uncertainties there was that in Simon's soul which leapt up in answer to the Master's word wholeheartedness and a sudden flash of the greatness of the reality in Jesus,—impelled by this spirit, he trampled down all doubts, and burst out in enthusiastic confession of faith and loyalty." (Wm. A. Grist).

An Extraordinary Figure

Lloyd George Is Man World Cannot Ignore

It was a summer afternoon in 1890 when Mr. Gladstone, in frockcoat and tall-coat, complimented Mr. Lloyd George, fresh from a by-election in Carnarvon. In the long years that followed the greatness of the Welsh Wizard with his striking personality and his unique gift for leadership, was universally recognized. Today, when foreigners have died, the British Empire has fought two wars, dynasties and nations have disappeared, the map of the world has been changed, Yet now we read that this same Lloyd George, whose voice has sounded throughout all this din of four decades of world upheaval and revolution, is to launch a new political movement. In his 71st year, veteran of a thousand fights, he is "buckling on his armor."

No need to ask of the movement which Lloyd George is to lead. The arresting thing here is not the movement, but the man; this beginning of a new chapter in the story of a leader whose career defies fiction Men may admire Lloyd George passionately, or hate him violently; it is impossible to ignore him Whatever history's final verdict upon him, whatever it may decide about his policies and his motives, it will have to write of him as one of the most extraordinary figures of his time Ottawa Journal

Divine Shroud

Science Claims To Have Proved Authenticity Of Relic

Science with the aid of infra-red rays, claims to have proved the authenticity of the Divine Shroud, a relic preserved in the Italian royal family

Infra-red photographs taken of the Shroud and the Tunic a relic accepted by the Roman Catholic church as the actual Tunic worn by Christ when bearing the Cross to Calvary show blood stains on both garments

Experts claim that the marks on both relics correspond with the Biblical details of the Agony of Christ. On the Shroud there are traces of the flagellation The Tunic shows traces of a shoulder wound, which, it is claimed, was undoubtedly made by the weight of the Cross.

Lesson Its Mark

Criminologists have discovered a new crime detection method by which it is claimed one can establish reasonably definitely who fired "the gun". The method is based upon the fact that fine quantities of nitrates and nitrites which are the combustion products of gunpowder are deposited upon the hands of anyone who fires a revolver or pistol

Investigates Sound Waves

Finds New Principles On Here Sound Waves Function

Discovery of new principles of how sound waves act, useful in ways ranging from making speakers better heard to hints to improved understanding of chemical compounds, won the $1,000 prize of the American Association for the Advancement of Science

The winner was Prof. Vern Oliver Knudsen, chairman of the department of physics at the University of California at Los Angeles. His paper was entitled "The Absorption of Sound in Gases."

The prize is awarded annually by the association for a noteworthy scientific paper on the program of its annual meeting, and is usually given to a comparatively young scientist rather than a man who already has attained eminence. Prof. Knudsen is 41. He is married and has three children

Prof. Knudsen has found that oxygen in the air plays the most important part in the dying away of some sounds because it absorbs sound very rapidly. Also moist air usually transmits sound better than dry air. For each different pitch or frequency of sound there is a different degree of humidity or moistness of the air which absorbs the sound most rapidly

Air can be "conditioned" for best possible hearing conditions, he explained, for Prof. Knudsen has found a way to calculate the "accoustic transparency" of air by which sound will die away in air, at any temperature or degree of humidity.

SULPHUR

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Sulphur is an element which occurs abundantly and is widely distributed in nature. In the free state, that is uncombined with other elements, it is found in volcanic districts of Italy, Sicily, Iceland, Mexico and other countries. Native sulphur is abundant in Sicily and in the United States.

Sulphur in the combined state, that is joined with other elements, is much more common and more widely distributed than native sulphur. It is found chiefly as sulphides and sulphates. Sulphides are chemical compounds containing sulphur and one other element, usually a metal. Many sulphide minerals are of great value to man, such as iron pyrites, copper pyrites, zinc sulphide or blende, lead sulphide or galena, and mercuric sulphide or cinnabar. Iron pyrite looks very much like gold and hence is called "fool's gold".

Sulphates are found in vast quantities, both in the earth's crust and in sea-water. Calcium sulphate or gypsum is one of the most important of the sulphates. Millions of tons of gypsum are mined every year, and it is used in agriculture and in the manufacture of plaster of paris.

Sulphur compounds are also found in the vegetable and animal kingdoms. Sulphur is thus an essential part of most foods. Sulphur compounds are found in garlic, onions, hair, wool, the blood and other plant and animal substances. Sulphur is also found in petroleum and in coal. It is an inflammable substance in fuel, because it injures boilers and produces clinkers.

Sulphur has many important commercial uses. Its chief use is to produce sulphur dioxide gas which is used in making sulphuric acid. Sulphur dioxide is also used in bleaching and disinfecting. Large quantities of sulphur are used in the manufacture of gunpowder, vulcanized rubber, and matches. It is also used extensively in the manufacture of insecticides for use in orchards and vineyards. The chief sulphur insecticide is known as lime-sulphur spray. It is produced by boiling sulphur with slaked lime, by which process a deep-red liquid is obtained. This liquid is an excellent insecticide, especially for scale, and it can also be used as a fungicide.

Gift Of Ten For Queen

Century Of Production Marked By Empire Tea Growers

Last year was the centenary of the ten-growing industry in the British Empire, and the tea-producers of the Empire have celebrated it by presenting to the Queen a casket holding 15 pounds of tea. The casket itself is a lovely thing, made of Bombay rosewood inlaid with Ceylon satinwood and ebony, and the tea inside is unique It is blended from 15 of the finest known teas, seven from Ceylon, six from India and two from East Africa.

One of the components of this rare mixture is a tea from Darjeeling which looks more like tobacco than tea, and is described as having a "very fine muscate flavor." It is probably the most expensive tea in the world, $2 33 a pound, and is used in minute quantities for flavoring teas of humbler vintage.

Queer Religious Rite

Devotees Of Deity In India Have Long Task

For five days unusual religious celebrations recently were taking place in the South Indian town of Elore in connection with the worship of the deity Sri Rama. The process takes each devotee [illegible] repeated books, with rules and columns so as to make counting easy. All books [illegible] devotees are placed near the image and worshipped with flowers and offering. On the completion of the books along with the image are taken out in procession. Bright Stories about Wine
THE ROMANS INTRODUCED WINE INTO ENGLAND
● Before Boadicea, the British warrior queen, revolted against the Romans, having first sought counsel of her country's gods, as the poet tells us, the Romans had imported wine into England. It was the first importation. The date is unknown, records for the time and many succeeding centuries being obscure. People in those days had little idea of what we some thousand or two years later would consider important or interesting, and perhaps they were too busy, too engrossed with their own daily affairs, to write history.
● But we do know that before the Norman Conquest, the drinking of wine, and consequently the importing of wine, had been generally established. In 1152 an event took place that was to influence history in several departments. Henry Plantagenet, who was to become Henry II, took for his wife Eleanor of Acquitaine, and in consequence thereof some of the finest vineyards of France came under English rule and remained for three centuries.
● It was thus the claret trade began so far as English consumption is concerned, for the name, originally suggesting clarity or clearness, came to be applied particularly to the red wine from Bordeaux. It was to be driven into obscurity from time to time by livelier wines, only to be revived within the memory of many readers, no doubt, by Mr Gladstone who liked it for its mildness.

Carman Long has a picture of a thrilling moment in a National League hockey match. The action takes place near the Chicago goal with Chabot stretched on the ice, with a loose puck near him. Art Wiebe is hoping Wiseman of the Detroit Red Wings can of the play as he made desperate efforts to poke the loose puck into the open goal. The picture is a clipping from a Chicago paper and was sent to Carman by Bernie Carmichael, formerly of Islay, who now lives in Detroit.

WILBRODE WISPS

First of all we owe an apology to Mr. Martin, Mr. Clark of Triangle and Norman Smith, Wildmere, for not mentioning them in the dance from last week. They so willingly sang songs at supper time, which were greatly enjoyed by all. We hope they come again to cheer us up, and we promise the omission this time, as we were awfully sleepy, when we wrote the 'Wisps.'

Miss Patey returned New Year's day to reopen her school Jan. 2nd, after spending her holidays north of Vermilion.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallington were host and hostess to a New Year's dance party when fifteen sat down to a well laden table, following which several joined in a game of crokinole, and others who did not play cards watched the dishes. We believe Eric and Ed had better try for a job in a cafe — they looked so well handing dishes with those fancy aprons on.

Miss Morand had the misfortune a few weeks ago to break a hood and sleigh while unloading her out of a sleigh box. He caught the peg, tied it down to the broken limb and put on good strong sapling to hold in place by wrapping them securely. He now has the idea we are sending the pig after a peth on the broken leg and it will soon be as well as ever. Some line, Charlie!

Wildmere Community Club held its annual meeting Saturday evening with just a fair attendance. Everyone was well pleased at the year's work done, our club has done. New officers to 1935 were elected as follows: Albert Hassard president and Ed Schmaltz secretary-treas. Next meeting Jan. 19th, and a very interesting debate is to be the place to smile and married life, so must up all the good points, folks.

Eric Medill has Hiram Hodgins with his hay press, preparing up hay in the Sherwood district. Eric is heading it to town.

Mrs. Howard, Evelyn and Albert also Mrs. Wallington visited Sunday afternoon at the Cyrulews home, and saw the little new Master Cyrulew, who came home from the hospital last Thursday afternoon.

Miss Kathleen Powell of Turkey Hill is at present working for Mrs. Chas. Morand, Triangle.

What do you think, folks? Jimmie Wallington got A Hohr with his buzz saw to cut up his wood pile! That should save the wear and tear of the axe this winter.

The Lyric was stopped about half a-dozen times last Saturday in town and asked why the 'Winks' weren't in Town now. Too busy eating to-hey to write them? But we promise it won't happen again, for a while at least. Two years since we started this column.

Pumbiest thing heard this week was on Hiram Hodgins, who was pressing hay up at Turkey Hill district. Hiram rose his ear in bed, but he fixed it the next night by moving up his bed. Will be satisfied now, Hiram, as you are working southwards all the time.

Preston School annual ratepayers' meeting will be held at the school on Saturday, Jan. 12th at 2 o'clock. Everyone come and see how your money is being handled, and school affairs administered.

The Royal Bank has now closed its doors here and all the staff have departed with the exception of the manager Mr T W Dopp.

Incorporation Of Local Cooperative

The Department at Edmonton has granted incorporation papers to the recently organized Vermilion District Cooperative Association Limited. The following local men were selected provisional directors: Messrs. W. F. Reddoch, W. A. Fallow, J. L. Shrigley, D. Sercomb, H. H. Shaw, J. E. Curry, and H. A. Searle, with W. A. Fallow as president, J. L. Shrigley, vice president, F. Reddoch, treasurer; and J. D. Manners, secretary and manager. The Association has secured suitable business premises, centrally located, and the directors and supervisory are actively engaged in securing a large body of shareholders through the whole of this district.

The permanent Board of Directors will be elected at a general meeting of shareholders early in February.

If we have formed, as results talks indicate, that the present system is defective it will be that Co-operation is the solution.

Hogs Thrive On Phosphates And Lime

We are able to give herewith the report on a very interesting test on feeding hogs. An Alberta farmer penned off 4 groups of hogs with 3 to each group. Each group was fed on a different ration for the same period of time and all hogs were weighed in and out of the feeding pen.

The results were as follows:

GROUP 1.

Initial weight	122 lbs.
Gain 61 lbs. on 160 lbs. grain; 78 per cent tankage, 2% salt, 19% barley meal, 1% shorts, 10% tankage.
GROUP 2
Initial weight	126 lbs.
Gain 80 lbs. on 160 lbs. grain; 2% monocalcium phosphate, 78% barley meal, 10% shorts, 10% tankage, 2% salt.
GROUP 3
Initial weight	94 lbs.
Gain 94 lbs. on 120 lbs. grain, 2% monocalcium phosphate, 78% barley meal, 10% shorts, 10% tankage, 2% salt.
GROUP 4
Initial weight	94 lbs.
Gain 94 lbs. on 120 lbs. grain, 2% monocalcium phosphate, 78% barley meal, 10% shorts, 10% tankage, 2% salt.

The first group 4 made the largest gain—94 lbs. and the smallest amount of feed—125 lbs., the difference in the rations of group 4 being the addition of 2% monocalcium phosphate and a small amount of Potassium Iodide.

These results show a marked response to feeding a mineral supplement and most of the select hog breeders now feed such mineral materials. Along with practical results being obtained by scientific investigations not only indicate the value of feeding particularly phosphates and lime, but also whether that feeding these two minerals in livestock rations may unhealthy conditions attributed to mineral deficiency. Phosphates are now considered to be a very important constituent of livestock rations and a cure-method of overcoming mineral starvation.

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

(From the Neighborhood of the South-East)

Well, where will we begin—oh, yes! Happy New Year to staff and readers.

And a new year naturally brings us round to calendars. We would like to express our appreciations for the very useful one with which Mr. Long remembered his customers, the very convenient and artistic remembrancer from W. A. Findlay, the two from Mr. Webb, so kindly and specially saved for us by his saver, Mr. Crawford, and that from the Boston Cafe, offered without even being asked for. And now you see we are using the reserved appearance of our interior decorating scheme.

Which in turn leads us to remark that that century of many happy dishings—Woodvale school— is having its face "lifted" and beautified. Mr. Alf Miller is the decorator, who is putting on a new door and many useful and artistic touches to the interior.

The last school meeting was a lively one, too. Mr. Geddes, of the Kokanee district, suffered great loss of property in a fire which totally destroyed his residence while he and his family were away to a Christmas concert. They lost Lloyd Powers, of Alton, took a bedder down cellar and came out of it with a broken leg. Not so good!

On the other hand, we have happy news. The Neighborhood extends its wards to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Chaffick (nee Kathleen Hanson) sincerest congratulations and best wishes accompany their advent before, we heard a remark to the effect that these weddings must be over. Does it look like it?

Union has been a busy place during the holiday with a concert and a dance soon after. As usual, we were convinced by our attendance that Wood Avenue indicated a very good choice of material, while the second drew a record crowd. Next school district, one of the points being rather seldom seen our way — Mr. Ted Weatherald. Hello, Ted, come again!

The biggest effort made Christmas day that we heard of was Hughie Pott undertaking to go Doug Ross one better on grandpa's dinner.

Speaking of Xmas gifts, we award the Pie Plate to the sporting way a lot of our district accepted the new tax at the Xmas tree, even if she did blame us. We do plead "Not Guilty"; since if they had only had every child a whistle, do you suppose it would have got farther?

Mike Orlyk or Orville spent the Christmas holidays in the Walmwright district at the La Prance home.

Mrs. Joseph Bowen and children drove from southward are a supper-side at Tolland on February 8th upon word by the friendly Bear Junkers, and their contract, which is billed for 8th of March. Three dates are placed far ahead to avoid clashing when other groups start to arrange their calendar.

Since Mr. Joseph E. Brown has become genuinely puzzled as to why we have been mistaken for his name, he got matters straight, rid him of the "James" our inaccurate two has given us for years. That! Joe's in his familiar cognomen, and as such he has become the president of the U.F.A., a rollicking farm-in community enterprise, and a thorough good sport. Howzat, Joe?

Witness at the U.F.A. card party were Mrs. H. Doyle, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, while consolations went to Mrs. Lydia Friedland and Mr. F. Brown. A very fine success for the merry evening, and a stone set of scenes. The next is at the home of Mr. Cox on January 12.

January 19th is the date stated in most of the school districts out over way for that fateful event — the Annual Meeting.

The Neighborhood extends sincerest sympathies to Mrs. C. Hobbis upon the death of her mother, Mrs. Lee, which took place in Edmonton. That dear old lady was well known in the Neighborhood especially among members of the U.F.W.A. local, which in examination she honored with her deep interest, her personal visits, and her kindly encouragement. Hence many of us greatly feel the loss of such a fine woman and sincere friend.

Two or three cases of scarlet fever of a mild type still hold sway in the district, while an odd case of pink eye is reported also.

They made their first camp at Box Springs, a little alkali-marked "draw" where the thirsty bodies of the burros at first refused to drink the white-encrusted water in the shallow pools. The cowboys had to drive them every drop before drinking and even then Dustin could not swallow the bitter stuff till Kane flung into it some slices of raw cheese and made that made it drinkable

It was a cold camp where the wind drove down from the north in a steady gale while the bobbed ponies stood with their tails against the wind Dustin sought his blankets early and lay with a pipe between his teeth thinking his unhealthy thoughts. So intent was he on that he did not hear or even realize that even then he had his choice

Kane pulled him from his blankets at dawn and they feasted on hot coffee ward against the line of the blue fool hills. In that wild tangle of mesquite and sage and yucca, Dustin reflected any man might be pardoned for not being sure of his own property lines. This might or might not be Hour-glass land.

All that day they rode slowly up the slope; they headed long "draws" a deep canon cut into the side of it to the hillsides as a man's eyebrows cling to his face till finally, on a bluff point that overlooked the valley of the Stinking Water, old Kane shouted for a halt

"Right down there's where Corse an' Gray were at work," he said and jerked a finger toward the flat where a deep canon cut into the hillside like a cut in a cake. Those words changed Sam Dustin's mind into adamant. Till then he had sought some relative scheme by which he could forego his first resolve, some other way to insure old Kane's silence. Now he knew there was no other way. Old Kane knew and what he knew, sooner or later, he would tell. And if he told Dustin, Dustin, old Goddard would certainly go to jail for ten or maybe twenty years There was no help for it now

"That 'ere valley's a good place to camp if you kin think that stinkin' sulphur water that it's named for," said Kane.

"Slow for it is to the chinn?" asked Dustin.

"Not more'n a thousand yards." Kane headed his pony down the hill and waved to the loitering Peyoil to drive the burros into camp.

They came in with drooping heads and quivering flanks for that last day's march had taken toll of them.

"These days march for an old wheezed old Kane, "and not more'n twelve miles as the crow flies from the Hour-glass. Wouldn't old man Joe Carr give a man's-sized drink to know what we know about what lies at hand under his land?"

To Dustin's queasy conscience it seemed that Kane was just clamoring for trouble He felt sick at heart. The long hours and days were a pleasant smell of madrone and junipers on the wind but the day seemed dank and dark to him. He felt sick and he noticed that the palms of his hands were wet with sweat. The thing that he meant to do made him sick at heart yet he felt not the slightest hesitation about doing it. He had to do it or — go to jail, maybe for life! Once or twice there came to him memories of other days! Memories that he had, more or less successfully, stifled till now He remembered his Alaska trip in '99 and the heartbreaking trail over Chilkoot. He could never forget Bender. They had caught Bender stealing flour when a pound of flour was worth a man's life and Bender had paid the price He remembered that Bender before they shot him, had told them that some day they would regret it. He wondered vaguely why he should think now of Bender Kane had taken no food at Bender had! Dustin had not Wait' Kane and Kane alone knew where that gold was that would make them rich; that would enable him, Dustin, to get Edith Carr and choose the pleasant places of the earth in which to live . . . Kane alone knew where that hidden vein lay all would be his But Dud Kane must never return to tell what he knew!

He watched the old man hobbling his pony and set out with a bucket for the spring He watched Peyoil cutting up some bacon on the bottom of an overturned bucket and placing a huge coffee-pot on the fire. He ate his supper in silence and, while he was still smoking, old Kane rose.

"Come on, Dustin." he said with a senile grin. "I'll show you where it's at"

Dustin rose and stretched

"All right," he said pleasantly "Take one last look at the ponies, Dud, while I get some tobacco. He with you in a minute"

His busy fingers pulled a package from his saddlebags and he was well aware of Peyoil's eyes centered on his back. He laid that package unobtrusively on a flat rock and walked off to join Kane He was acutely aware of Peyoils watching eyes and of his greedily observing mouth. The moment the two men disappeared around a turn in the trail Peyoil's eyes lit with a somber glow as he seized the package from the rock and tore it open. He withdrew his hand full of a brown substance that looked like the root of a wild licorice root and a thick bundle of evil-smelling stubby cigarettes from the ends of which a brown substance that was certainly not tobacco. fell into his eager hands Peyoil snatched them with a little shrieking cry In one motion he crammed his mouth full of the dry dust and with another lit one of the cigarettes.

For the next hour the gorilla-like figure squatted over the fire lighting one cigarette from the butt of another while old Dad Kane with his employer walked unknowingly into the Valley of the Shadow

CHAPTER IX.

Kane led the way across the flat to the lip of the canon where a line of juniper trees showed their tops above the edge.

"It's down in the bottom," he said briefly. "You can't see the place from here. I'll show you."

Dustin followed him down the shaly bank and, as he scuffled along the slope, his mind concentrated, not on what Kane was to show him but on what he himself intended to do. Obviously it must be done back in camp when Peyoil had been given time to get under the influence of the drug that had been so artfully placed for him. Would Kane fight? Would he suspect anything, or struggle? Dustin felt that he could not endure a struggle. Would any part of his plan that involved Peyoil miscarry? If it did, the whole plan must be rearranged His nerves were frayed to doddestrings when Kane, stopping at the foot of the steep incline, turned on him sharply.

"Look there. . ."

His hand pointed to a red spot on the hillside fifty yards down the canon. It was not much; just a form of "quiery hang" which Dustin was perfectly familiar. Kane had cut back into the hillside for some eight or ten feet and laid bare a vein of rock. He had followed that vein till its wandering and had cross-cut it heading to intercept the vein at a turn in the slope and he had stripped a vein at sight of which Dustin who knew a little of ores and ore-values, whistled. That vein and all above it was gold! Gold clear up to the grass-roots!

"I tried to fill it up again after I'd picked up the vein," said Kane, "but it was too much work. There's no use of anybody stumblin' on it up here anyway. There's mighty little water! none in this canon. That's why Gray an' Corse was quittin' in the east. Cattle don't come up this canon much. If there isn't any Hour-glass cattle here, ryes you got no business here " He cackled in senile laughter "You better mind what I tell you, Dustin, about keepin' your nose offen the Hour-glass stock till we git this mess straightened out."

Dustin sat down on a big boulder and made rome rapid calculations. There was no water in this canon.' That was why Gray and Corse was quittin' in the east. Cattle don't come up this canon much. If there isn't any Hour-glass cattle here, ryes you got no business here " He cackled

Colonization Authority To Visit Vermilion

Brigadier General Hornby Here On Monday

Officials of the Board of Trade received word recently that Brigadier General M. L. Hornby had arranged to visit Vermilion on Monday next, Jan. 21. General Hornby is a well known British authority on colonization, and is the author of an elaborate scheme for new British immigration. It is in connection with this work that he will visit Vermilion, with a view to studying the possibilities for location of a colony of British settlers in this district under his scheme.

The Board of Trade and the local Post of the Canadian Legion are arranging to entertain Gen. Hornby at a dinner on Monday evening at 6:30 in the Elks hall, and all members are requested to keep the date in mind and make a special effort to attend. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the executive, or from the secretary-treasurer.

Only Two Members Continuing

CONSTIPATION ENDED FOREVER

Woman Finds a Permanent Remedy

With perfect frankness a woman correspondent writes—

"I have suffered from constipation as long as I can remember and tried all sorts of things which in some cases seemed to do good at first, but afterwards to have no effect. Then I thought I would try Kruschen in my own every morning and I have done so for over a year. I am pleased to say after the first month I had no more trouble with constipation and I have felt very fit . . (Mrs.) E. M. S.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate the organs of elimination to smooth regular action. Your system is then kept clear of those impurities which, if allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A fortune in gold greater than any mined since pre-war years was taken from the rich hills and streams of Western Australia in 1934 it was announced the value of the total production was valued at £2,772,705.

It was announced the government of the Irish Free State has recommended the recent understanding with the British government for greater exchange of Irish cattle and British coal.

Commissioner John McMillan, Canada's new Salvation Army chief, and Mrs. McMillan arrived in Toronto to take over command of their new territory. It is the commissioner's third post in Canada.

With public meetings throughout the Dominion, a Canadian Education Week will be held under the auspices of the Canadian Teacher's Federation from Feb. 3rd to the 9th. It was announced in Montreal.

More than 500 lives were lost due to motor vehicle accidents in Ontario during 1934, a bulletin issued by the provincial department of highways states. Approximately 10,000 were injured, some permanently crippled for life. Fatalities and accidents increased over last year.

Duration of compulsory motor licence charges, Mayor G. G. McGeer declared, but he intends to "lead a movement for reduction of high interest rates municipally, in all Canada, as well as provincially and federally."

Beginning Feb. 1st motorists who operated cars on deferred payment plan basis will be relieved from obtaining 1935 licenses until their payments are paid in order to effectively cope with the problem, motor license officials have been instructed at the branch offices to issue no license plates. All plates are to be issued from the Regina office.

Monster Timber Wolf

Trapper Near Sudbury Shoots Huge Beast Over Seven Feet Long

In front of a Sudbury fur store hangs the pelt of what must have been one of the largest of Canadian timber wolves. The fur is 7½ feet long from nose to tail. The beast, brought down in the heavy timber of Cosgrave district, stood 34½ feet high when alive.

Two weeks ago C. Petrin, Cosgrave trapper, rounded a bend of a creek while covering his trap lines and suddenly found himself 13 feet in front of the largest wolf he had ever seen. With the wind at its back, the animal had not scented the man approaching.

With blood and fur on its jaw from a rabbit it had just killed, the wolf bristled and snarled a challenge at the stunned trapper. As the beast loomed for its leap, the trapper fired and the wolf dropped in its tracks, shot through the head.

Aerial Device Secures

Scientists at the University of Chicago have perfected a baby stratosphere balloon 14 feet in diameter fact recorder aerial device During recent tests the balloon soared more than 14 miles and before its contents were dashed to bits, the automatic radio broadcasting device had sent its precious records back to the receiving set.

Suffering Of Jap Peasants

Being Underscribed Most Of Their Bite In Their Portion

The following article by K. Yoshino, appeared in the News Weltschau, Prague, Czecho-Slovakia.

If Japan mobilises against the Soviet Union, if it needs more than the few divisions that are sufficient to deal with the Chinese generals, will the Japanese peasants obey orders cheerfully?

In our village peasants work in the fields from sunrise, not returning until the evening stars appear in the sky. They spend the whole day bent over their labor. Being undernourished even the strongest of them soon weaken, and most of them die in their forties. They have a sun-scorched, dry, dirt-colored skin, deep lines in their faces, the stomachs with sharply protruding ribs, and blue spotches under their eyes.

Their clothes look like sacks. They walk barefoot, as do their wives and children. They are chary words and unstrust outsiders. Every poor peasant would get drunk if he had the money, but our poor units never have any coins. They earn so little that they can hardly pay the interest on their debts and prepare for the next harvest.

They have stopped eating meat and fish and cannot even afford rice. They live on the roots of plants, a little wheat, wheat mash, and turnips boiled in salt water.

More than three-fifths of the agricultural population class out a hungry existence in this way. Even the middle peasants are content if they have rice and some fish. The agricultural-police officials report that the peasants steal the pet animals of the rich people in the lowrun, running the risk of the severe punishments that are meted out for such thefts. The same police reports also state that the number of robberies is increasing day by day and that in many parts of the country peasants are attacking the trees in the halo royal forests.

The children of the poor peasants in the northern provinces states that the school children in his districts that every year they were all suffering from jaundice. They go to school with empty stomachs and collapse unconscious during the recess periods, with the result that numerous schoolmasters have asked permission to give up recess temporarily.

Compliment To Dr. Defoe

Ontario Minister Of Health Pays Tribute To The Country Physician

Hon. Dr. A. A. Faulkner, Ontario minister of health; Dr. Edmund Kelly, noted specialist of Johns Hopkins university and Dr. W. L. Defoe were recent weekend guests of Dr. A. R. Defoe, the Dionne physician.

Dr. Kelly, who is personally interested in the quintuplets, and makes the trips to Callander at his own expense, administered radium treatment to the tumor on Baby Marie's thigh. He later expressed the belief the tumor would soon vanish.

It was the first visit of the Hon. Dr. Faulkner, and he was impressed by the care the five little sisters were receiving.

"I cannot pay too high a compliment of Dr. Defoe," the cabinet minister remarked. "He has set an example for the medical fraternity and his kind devotion deserved attention in the country doctor, a class whose service has been little understood, and certainly not fully appreciated."

Great Lakes Water Level

Expect Levels Will Never Be So Low Again As Has Been This Winter

There's a good possibility, U.S. army engineers say, that never again will man see the Great Lakes water levels so low as they have been this winter.

Mother Nature is taking a hand, they say, to restore the lakes to a normal level and once that point is reached a huge, ambitious engineering scheme is already designed to keep it that way.

The engineers propose to do it by constructing a series of compensating works large obstructions at the head of the St. Clair and Niagara rivers at a cost of approximately $60,000,000.

Immediate major hope for increasing the lakes levels, in the opinion of Major W F Heavey, of the engineers' district staff in Cleveland, lies in the fact that this winter the Lake Superior region has experienced the heaviest rain and snowfall in a score of years.

"I suppose my wife to be just what she is how keenly yours from to-day."

"Why, that's unreasonable."

"Yes, that's exactly what she is dear."

Brazilian Nickel

Fabulous Finds Are Reported From Canada

Layers of nickel so rich as to appear "fabulous" to Brazilian officials who have reported on them are reported exploited in the wild state of Goyaz, and their yield is being shipped to Germany and, it is understood, it was disclosed at Rio de Janeiro.

Jacques de Mesmon, government technician, recently conducted a study in the Maniquyira Sierra of the state and laid his report before the ministry of agriculture recommending strict government supervision of a natural resource of wealth "that has the aspect of fable, so marvellous it is."

Mr. J—, Winnipeg, writes: "I am sending you a sample of my girl friend's writing with my own and would like to ask you what I can do about interrupting the quarrels that we seem to be having so often. She is a girl I have had for many years and I am extremely fond of her, but we have these quarrels—silly they seem to be at times—but nothing is done about it, it looks as though it will end in disaster. I do not want to place all the blame on my girl friend, but I do believe that I myself am not really responsible for these interrupting quarrels. I do all that I can to have things go smoothly along. Can you give me any advice?"

My dear Mr. J—, the writing of your girl friend is quite childish and immature in many ways

"MUMMY WHEAT"

Our Research Department has been able to obtain a small quantity of genuine ancient dynastic Egyptian Mummy wheat from Sir Ernest Wallis Budge late keeper of antiquities British Museum The wheat is 5,000 years old at least The Dominion Seed Branch Laboratories Winnipeg, submitted part of the sample to a very careful germination test After six days the kernels disintegrated into dust and mould, proving most again that genuine ancient Egyptian wheat taken from tombs will not grow A photograph of specimens and kernels of the Mummy wheat will be forwarded to any interested farmer Write to the Research Department

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard
THIS DATE 16 YEARS AGO — 1918

An interesting event took place just before the old council retired from office Monday evening, when J. W. G. Morrison, as secretary of the Victory Loan 1918 committee, presented the handsome Honour Flag won by the town and district in that campaign.

After successfully defending the Blair Cup against Manville last week, the trophy was lifted from Vermilion by Lloydminster by a majority of 4 points. Dr. Holt was drawn to play Pilkie and White to play Dr. Smith. The final scores were 11-6 in favor of Holt and 9-5 in favor of White.

While coasting on the big hill, Char lie Benson had the misfortune to be thrown against a street pole near the creamery, breaking a leg. Two or three others were on the hake at the time but escaped serious injury.

A ladies' drawing Lodge will be in stituted in Vermilion on Friday, Janu ary 25th, by Miss D. Alton of Edmon ton, Deputy Grand Mistress of British America.

The resignation of Miss Florence Todd B.A. from the teaching staff of the high school was received by the board Wednesday. As it was request ed that she be released as soon as possible, a special meeting of the board was called that night, Chairman Cooper, Trustees Long, and Bateman being in attendance. The resignation was accepted and the services of Mr. J. Loughlin secured until Nov. 1, next. Miss Todd leaves to accept an appoint ing offered her on the high school staff at Calgary.

The Western branch of the Canadian Reconstruction Association have ap pointed the following to constitute a committee on reconstruction at Ver milion: J. W. G. Morrison, Mayor; A. W. Elbert, K.C., M.L.A., A. J. Reyn olds, H. H. Calvert, G. R. P. Cooper, J. Dupuon Stephens, Wm. Telford. Dr. Lash Law, J. A. M. Craig, Sgt. John Horne, Job Moss, L. Corp. John Bel hirk, President of April. Secretary, the Revvet of M.Da Vermilion Valley and Grizzly Bear.

A bold case of hold up and robbery is reported from Myrnam, a Ruthen ian settlement 25 miles north of Mann ville. Shortly after the arrival of the mail yesterday, when the postoffice and store in which it is kept was filled with people, a man, heavily masked, rode up to the door and pulling a gun ordered everyone in the place to do their money on the floor. He then directed a small boy present to

DEWBERRY BUDGET

In spite of the cold snap which seems to have no let up to it, tracks and teams continue to haul some grain and a few cars of live stock have been shipped out of here during the last few days. Our local buyer, Dick Smith waite is kept busy grading and buying.

Edward DeLisle who was operated on for appendicitis last week is now reported doing well and will soon be home again, minus his appendix.

Several delegates and visitors left this district for the annual U. F. A. convention at Calgary. Lee Green and party left by car and if they escape the usual incidents such as blow-outs, traffic cops, skidding into the ditch, listening to the advice of back seat drivers, etc., should arrive in Calgary in time to second any motion to im prove weather conditions, and the complete abolition of frost. Speaking of frost, one man reports that when he went into the office one morning he found the thermometer under the stove trying to get warm. As this happened after the New Year's festi vities we are inclined to think that his imagination was working overtime.

Hockey Notes

LOCAL TEAM SWAMPED BY WAINWRIGHT

The fact that Vegreville have im ported a real hockey team this season was forcibly thrown down the throats of local fans on Monday night, when the outfit representing the western town swamped the locals to the tune of 9-0.

The forward lines of the visitors worked to perfection; they use a won derful forward passing system as ef fectively that the Vermilion goalie frequently found himself with a few feet of the puck and sometimes four Veg reville players. All of their goals were scored from a few feet of the goal mouth.

This Vegreville team should go a long way in the intermediate play-offs providing they get away without hav ing any of their players crippled. When their strongest line-up was on the ice only one man could, by a stretch of the imagination, be called a native son, and that was Pete Ar nold. Emil Wetzer, Petasky and Poulin beat more real Vegreville out at this game by seven on the ice, but these boys don't always figure in the line-up.

Apart from this the Vegreville team speed upwards of an hour at least every evening in practice; our boys are allotted two practise periods per week of one hour each—and one of these nights is always taken up by a game at home or away. No wonder that the visitors in comparison appear as a well trained and conditioned team. The case of Lloydminster is the same, and most of these boys have only one activity for the day.

Vegreville got three goals in the first period, five in the second, and were held one in the third. Ver million pressed hard in the last pe riod and only sensational net minding by Sam Cooper kept them scoring. Veg reville scorers were: Monel 2, Roman ilk 1, Lemieki 2, Wetzer 1.

Vegreville—Scott, McKinnon, Mo pet; Lemieki, Wetzer, Romanuik, Jo cobe, Petasky, Poulin.

Vermilion—Beresford; MacKenzie, M. Burr; English, Corson, F. Brima combe, C. Burr, Arnold, Cruiz.

CLANDONALD

Clandonald, January 7th.

Open the door, please, while we throw out our many cheer to make room on its table proportions to ac commodate the Island Hill North Mc Donald. Thank you, my friend, thank you a thousand times. We have (and we say it in all modesty) quite a collec tion of hardware for wearing on the chest on occasions of occasions, but we are prouder of the Island Hill award than anything of that nature we have been fortunate enough to collect to date.

May we in turn thank the progres sive merchants and business men of our little town who so nobly respond ed to our pleadings for a full page on at least one occasion to carry to the people of the district their yuletid messages. To our way of thinking there is no reason on earth why this should not be a weekly feature, just take into consideration the fact that this district is covered almost 100% by The Standard, and ponder on the opportunity our business men have of sending their message to the prosper ities customer. Mr. Business Man you yourself know of the wonderful bargains you have in stock in almost every line; you know the thought and effort you give to picking out the best merchandise procurable merchandise to suit every purse and need; you know how you have worked in your store to display everything to best advantage. Why, then, keep it a se cret when the medium is ready and at your service to take your message into the homes of the people who are your prospective customers"

Most people today, before they go shopping, like to look over what you have to offer in the courtesy of their own homes, why deny them this op portunity"

The staff of this paper, with their years of experience in the advertising field, are ready at any time to assist you in making your messages ready and attractive. Take advantage of this opportunity.

May we at this late date congrat ulate the Editor and Staff of The Stan dard for the splendid Christmas num ber. We received many copies of various Western Canadian papers and the Xmas issue of the Standard was certainly outstanding in both size and set up.

A very successful whist drive was held on Friday last (Jan. 4th) in the Orange hall. It was the primary ef fort of the Clandonald Local 1771 of the U.F.A. Prize winners were Mrs Wishart Parlow, Mrs. Jas Hall, Mr. Chas. Thompson and Mr Arthur Pomeroy the men necessary trophies for Local

Another Whist Drive will be held next Wednesday January 23rd. There will be a couple of hours cherished to ter the cards. These boys are anxious to meet the local 1040 and King Ed ward clubs to avoid debating longer or more arguments with them in the near future. There are no set a bills issued to invite the local to the meet as a debate but hope to get judges from the latter society, possibly the Hockey correspondent would oblige"

Wilbur Currie the popular and ever smiling manager of the Hayward Lum ber Co. interests at this point took a couple of the holiday season by getting married to Miss Agne of Bel ender. The happy couple are back in town and have taken up residence in the new house on Redmond Ave. West Max we take the opportunity of wish ing Mr. and Mrs. Currie a long and happy life together, and no matter what life has in store for them or wherever they may travel we hope they will always think kindly of the little town in which they first took up residence after being united in holy matrimony.

The school boys of the town have an up and coming hockey team. Re cently they handed a licking to the lads from Telegraph school; and mem bers were Max Bryant 2, Stan Bryant 1 and Dennis Parley. The Telegraph boys who found the net were the Stage ley brothers. We hear the northern ers are bowling for revenge and a re turn game is being arranged

By the way, boys, let your reporter know before the next game so he can look you over. The Rangers will be looking for a couple of players to take the place of Ben and Bill Cook, who are using crutches to get around these days

Members of the provincial and dom inion liquor squads made a flying visit through this part of the country re cently and caught several members of the community preparing the brew for the holiday season. The statute pen alties for infringing on the Liquor Laws are very heavy and the "best round up" is going to cause untold misery in many homes, as it will be impossible to pay the fines. We all know that people shouldn't make home brew, therefore we know that people people will not drink these concoctions at the same time the Government will have to take to fair share of the responsibility for present conditions, and we believe that if liquor were sold cheaply that there was no profit for the bootlegger and he would disappear over night. As under the present system the accounting motive of most of our actions is profit, it stands to reason that if we take away that motive of the chance of making a profit there is an undeniable antinus, then they will disappear.

Miss Muriel Robertson, who for the past two years has been on the teaching staff of an Edmonton public school, spent the Christmas holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Robert son of Campbell Lake.

Miss Audrey Murray of [illegible] spent the holiday season at her young friend and cousin, Jean Parley, who is growing up to be a fine, lov ing stately young lady, and showing the ill effects of the suffering she endured for the greater part of the year, as the result of a severe illness.

We thank the Dewberry reporter for his good wishes to the Local branch of the U.F.A. and we can assure him that our Local has a live and compe tent executive. On their behalf may we invite the said scribe to our meet ings which will be held on the first Thursday of each month. In addition a social evening dubbe whist drive, etc. will be held once each month, but as yet we cannot say whether it will be on the same evening as the meet ing or not.

The banns were announced on Sun day last for a contract of marriage be tween Miss Elizabeth Maguire, daugh ter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maguire of Clandonald and James Lawrence, son of Mrs. Lawrence, of Clandonald. The wedding will take place on Jan. 23rd at the church at St. Catherville, Clan donald, at 9 a.m. (Red Deer Advocate please copy)

Born to Mr and Mrs Francis Mon sachan at the Vermilion municipal hos pital a son. Congratulations

At last we have good weather and at the same time the road south of town to the highway is in good shape for automobile traffic

RATEPAYERS' ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Ratepayers of the Town of Vermilion, the Vermilion Centre School District, and the contributing area of Vermilion of Municipal Hospital District No 2 will be held in the Memorial hall on Friday evening January 25th. This is a fine opportunity for ratepayers to learn the whys and wherefores of the various legislation enacted by the town council, school board and hospital board during the past year. Every ratepayer in the town should make it a point to attend.

NEIGHBORHOOD NARRATIVES

A big lot of delayed mail brought to amongst other things the inspired Christmas number of the standard and the very tasteful remembrance from the Editor and Staff. Both were thoroughly enjoyed and provided food for entertainment to "carry on" for the fresh year

No need to apologize, Clandonald, find a" snappy column sheds its lot of comedies over our pedestal (as you must have us) existence as well as many others

The New Year was certainly given a splendid start in the Neighborhood The Glee Club inaugurate was composed of your lads and attended by the liveliest crowd we've ever seen The costumes were clever and color ful but did not receive full justice because the one for the big lump had inconveniently "evaporated" before the dance. That did not detract from the merriment however, and a crowd of splendid misters certainly weeded out the wallflowers Prize winners were Miss Hazlette Fundell as His Majesty, Miss Violet Young as an Angel, Mr. Doug Rose as a Negro Mammy, and Mr. Ted Brown as a Chinaman

The Nighthawks brought in the New Year in appropriate style over tables of contract at the home of Mrs. Jack Mr. Ted Monger carried away the honours at the evening. Mr. Chas. Friedland just loosing out over a little matter of an overlooked queen. (Thanks, Indies, Charlie!)

The Glee Club meeting took care of a good deal of business and decided several matters for the coming year. Mr. A. Friedland was once more elected fiscal manager for the coming year. The date was set for the ensuing year—March 15th—and a group chosen to look after this. The Club was planned to note already a membership of 24 under the new constitution.

The next meeting of the Glee Club will take place at the home of Chas. Friedland on Wednesday evening, 30th January.

The next Glee Club dance will be held at Wandvale on Friday, January 14th.

Mr. "Jud" Robinson celebrated a birthday on the 3rd with the help of the Nighthawks. Thirty-five, wasn't it Jud?

Among holiday travellers we note Miss Enide Rankin, who returned from Normal to her home in Lloydminster. Mr Frank Hickie, whom we were all pleased to welcome once more at our New Year's dance, and Mr William Blake, from Edmonton, who spent the New Year at his home in the Eastview district

HOSPITAL BOARD MEETING

The regular meeting of the Vermilion Municipal Hospital Board was held on the 12th instant with the following members present: Messrs. Morrison, Hope, McClellan and Rosenbush.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The following resolutions were passed:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

The Editor,
The Standard, Vermilion.

Dear Sir,—I think that it would be a good plank in the platform of some aspirants for the Town Council at the forthcoming election. If they pledge themselves to do all possible in order to have the matter of the council meeting proceedings appear in our weekly paper. This also goes for the school board members

This appears to me as a logical way to acquaint the ratepayers with the activities of their council, which is only right. I think also myself, Mr. Editor, as an effective means of quieting rumors, such as are at present rife, to the effect that some members of the Council are using their position on that body to further their own business interests, discussing openly the change in the Town Act which states, that no councillors may transact business with the Town to a greater sum than $200 per year

I do not take stock in such rumors, Sir, but the publishing of the minutes, which should be accurate, would keep matters clear and above board. would show the ratepayers to whom their money was being paid and for what, and eliminate street rumors and gossip.

The minutes of municipal districts and hospital districts are published in your columns; why not our own town council minutes and those of our school board" Do you put a ban on them, Mr Editor"

—A RATEPAYER OF SEVERAL YEARS' STANDING

EDITOR'S NOTE: Minutes of the meetings of all public bodies of any importance in the Vermilion district are reproduced in the paper absolutely free of charge and the columns are always open for such. These are supplied by the various secretaries on authorization by the council or board. At the present time minutes of the meetings of five rural M.D.'s and two Hospital Districts appear regularly in The Standard and the same courtesy has always been open to the Town Council and School Board

The World At The Cross-Roads

The history of this old world unfolds a continuing story of revolutions. Some are violent, others are more accomplished by physical force accompanied by great loss of life and destruction of property and reconstruction. Others again are accomplished by the slow and enormous operation of many years, as for instance the revolutions political, religious, social, economic.

It is only since it has been possible to say when a revolution actually began and when it was finished that we have had a sense of history. Even so the development of events can be regarded as evolutionary instead of revolutionary. It is the more particular effort upon mankind they were directly responsible for.

Nevertheless, since these new forces and ideas which may be said to have started with the Renaissance, have had their climax in a very short period of time, but considerably increased in momentum during the past century.

The world is now passing through another revolutionary stage, and while economics and accompanying forces as the Great War were laying a foundation for the present upheaval, the war itself may be designated as the culminating event which marks the beginning of the revolution, which embraces not only the political life and activities of nations, but in some countries as Russia and Asia this revolution has developed and is being carried out through the application of physical force, restriction of individual rights and freedom of action, and the establishment of dictatorships of communism, socialism, fascism, and all beliefs all ending in the same dictatorial autocracy. And on the other continent of the New World these forces at work striving in season and out of season to blow the fire of individual liberties, overthrow the existing systems under which whatever its defects, they have attained their present state of freedom and prosperity. The Herald would add, would make the announcement after the commemoration on May 6 of King George V.'s silver jubilee

It will take advantage of the present lull to remind many business and colonial statesmen to set forth a new plan for advancing loans at low rates so as to permit all parts of the Empire to undertake public relief works, it was explained.

The Herald said funds would be forthcoming from the $2,000,000 to be expended for the good of British industry. It drew the conclusion that the national government's move was an attempt to hasten the general elections.

Glider stunts have been made at Moscow unique in aviation history The Soviet glider pilots, Kastrit and Carvish, demonstrated for the first time in the history of gliders, an "immelmann" turn and a loop the glider first climbed for a loop and after reaching the highest point in the loop executed a half turn, then pushed down then returned to its original position. The Immelmann barrel figure, which consists of the whole turning over the wing while flying horizontally was then carried out.

Death Duties Switch Britain

More than £400 000 or $2,000 000 were added to the British Treasury for death duties in a single day as wills proved at Somerset House, London, on Dec 7. The total amount in wealth sworn for probate during month of the fiscal year ended Dec 1 was $225 521,411, only 3 per cent of which is unavailable on account of litigation.

Police authorities at Calgary were presented with a problem when a postcard arrived with no address but the picture of the addressee. Algeria, in Northern Africa, has a river of ink. Chemicals carried by waters of two joining streams form an iron ink, black iron tannate. One stream takes out of a peat swamp impregnated with tannin, while the other comes through soil filled with iron deposits.

Running Crime To Earth

Royal Canadian Mounted Police To Obtain Instruction From Scotland Yard

It seems a good idea to send officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to famed Scotland Yard, in London, Eng., for instruction in criminal investigation work and in other branches of police activity. Two high officers of the force are about to leave for three months' instruction — Assistant Commissioner Wood, of Regina, and Assistant Commissioner Dann, of the Manitoba and northwestern Ontario division.

More and more are the Mounted Police engaging in work that calls for scientific application. More and more are they engaging in work that takes in the whole of Canada and that involves every type of criminal. It is important, therefore, that its members be thoroughly "up" on the latest methods in the organization of crime and in the organic causes of good personnel. "Psychological conditions," he says, "play a most important part in the functioning of the senses."

Postman In England Climbs 605 Steps Every Day

Postmen in the towns and cities in England have many unusual mail delivery rounds lots of steps while a clamber up a precipitous slope or down a deep dale is regarded in the rural areas as so much a commonplace in the day's work of getting the mail to the addressees as to be quite unworthy of comment. But to climb down and up million and a half steps in six years with postcards, letters and parcels in a bag on the shoulder merits special recognition, say the Post Office Magazine. Down 403 steps, up 202 steps, 5 days a week, month after month, year on year This is part of the normal work of Mr. R. D. Gemmell, the principal keeper, who delivers the mail to the South Black Lighthouse, Anglesey.

Masonry Professor Thinks Man Can Live To Great Age

The normal span of human life will eventually be extended to ages ranging from 150 to 180 years, according to Professor Lazarev of the Moscow Institute of Medicine in the course of an interview published by the Moscow journal Pravda. Experiments, he said, had convinced him that human beings could be made to live at least twice as long as the "three-score years and ten" expectation of life to-day. "I have carried out experiments on certain animals," Professor Lazarev declared, "by which their recognized span of life has been increased as much as five times." But how life can be thus prolonged must remain the professor's own secret for the present, it seems. He is preparing to leave "on a biophysical expedition" to the Caucasus to study the organic causes of good personnel. "Psychological conditions," he says, "play a most important part in the functioning of the senses."

Woman Driver In Toronto Has One Thing To Credit

When men and women drivers get together, it's always a hot point as to which are in superior with the steering-wheel . Well, here are two incidents we witnessed in one week that the men will no doubt love to read about . . . It was five o'clock at the corner of Queen and Yonge, and you know the parking rules in operation at that time. A motorist drove across the intersection, stopped in front of a corner store, and promptly opened the door to pick up two friends. Meantime a T.T.C. car crossed the street, followed by a motorist anxious to get in front of the big red car, but there was the parked car. A policeman hurried forward to motion the lady on her way, but she blithely waited for her passengers to get comfortable. The other motorist looked to see pursuer and finally the policeman just threw out his hands in despair, while the many onlookers clucked sympathetically and murmured "those women drivers!" . . . The same day at King and Bay another feminine driver was halfway over the curb and kept bumping the car behind her. Finally a watching policeman stepped over to her and in a patient tone said: "Lady, you have it in reverse."

But here's one for the ladies . . . a business woman getting her car from between two other parked cars on Dundas square found it necessary to shove the foremost one in front of a hydrant, but after she was safely out, she descended from her car and with thoughtful - and powerful - "reverse" backed them out from the forbidden spot. A couple of male observers gave her a clap! Toronto Telegram

Australian Government Thinks Now Imperial Conference Should Be Held

The Australian government has made known its belief that a new imperial economic conference, similar to the great gathering held at Ottawa in 1932, should be convened although perhaps on a smaller scale to review the working of the Ottawa agreements and make new permanent arrangements to replace expiring clauses.

Australia is chiefly concerned at the prospect of the cessation of meat exports to the United Kingdom. The meat clauses expired last year and after much negotiation Australia finally got a 90 days extension. Outside the British suggestion of voluntary restriction of meat exports for the whole term of the Ottawa pact Britain agrees to take up the question of a permanent arrangement, and to review the meat arrangements generally, at a conference similar to that of Ottawa.

If such a conference is convened Australia will urge the quota system for certain imports instituted by Britain, notably agricultural products, should be abolished and instead a straight tariff preference system be substituted for imperial goods.

Land Settlem't Scheme Adopted For Vermilion

Brig.-Gen. Hornby Outlines His Plan of Selected Immigration To Board of Trade

Brig. General Hornby's land settlement scheme, of which so much has been heard the past year or two, taking rank with social credit and the Douglas system in the public mind, was, in a very interesting and instructive manner, outlined by the author at a largely attended meeting of the Vermilion Board of Trade Monday evening, following a banquet tendered the distinguished visitor by the Board and the local Post of the Canadian Legion, in the Elks hall. C. W. Robinson, president of the Board, presided and introduced the speaker.

Before entering upon his subject, General Hornby mentioned that Canada was laboring under three major burdens, heavy taxation, railways, and unemployment. In the adoption and creation of his scheme of immigration he foresaw a solution to all these problems and a forward move towards prosperity. Previous schemes of immigration, he said, had failed because settlers were not properly selected; the human side of the question was not amply considered; also the settler got here he was burdened with debt through the purchase of his farm and implements—he was broke before he started. And third, had no proper sanitation and no supervision. Plainer was no exception. The present scheme contemplated that each district selected here with some distinct county to farm be in the Old Country. Complete information about that district or territory would have to be first furnished the committee in charge of the district, by the settlers. The committee would make a selection of some business families of the agriculture type and send them over here, their passages prepaid and advances arranged to maintain them until they got established. Farms would be purchased by this committee, comfortable and commodious buildings erected, horses, cattle and all farm implements provided. All these would be the property of the committee and leased to the immigrant settler free to five years. He then would be expected to select and move on to a farm for himself, for the purchase and equipment of which he would be provided with funds by the committee. This committee would be working in the British government under the British Empire Land settlement scheme in which purchases of ponds Land already been noted by parliament. Individually the settler moved on to a farm of his own another settler would arrive from the British district to take his place and so the scheme would be carried on in sub-unit groups. How would be selected? Just as it was in the case of the Legion, in the selection of men to go to the front, the best men were picked, and it was the duty of the Legion to pass the fourth passage — it was the duty of the government of the time to the municipalities in which it was decided to locate the 3rd Battalion, on the basis there would have to be purchased both buildings would have to be erected farm machinery and cattle purchased. Also there would mean the distribution of large sums of money in each district. The purchase of implements and supplies would mean an increase of employment at the source of supply and the purchase of horses and cattle would mean goods coming to the district already located and near the town. Implement dealers would be benefited. The settlers would not be settled in blocks.

The objection by the farmers to this influx of cheap immigrant labor production is met by the proposal to establish on a large population to be served and the greater number of employees of the town would be employed. The purchasing power of the whole town would be increased. There would be more work for our railways there would be more employment for the workers of our local industries, and the burden of taxation correspondingly reduced. The adoption of the scheme would be a big step towards national prosperity.

After a brief discussion in which several took part, including Major Fallow who heartily approved the scheme M. A. Himmerohne moved and E. K. Wright seconded a resolution that the proposal for settlement presented by Brig. General Hornby be approved and adopted for the district of Vermilion. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Mayor Clarke made the draw at the Corona Craft shoppe on Saturday afternoon when the winner in the draw was Miss C. McEachren of Islay.

Trying Out Welded Rails

Experiment Being Made In Germany By State Railway

Welded rails are being used in tests being made by the German State Railway to determine whether they can be used at high rates of speed and whether they cause any extra efforts to the trains. A trial railroad line has been constructed of welded rails, each approximately 60 feet long and so connected that there are practically no joints. An express train, without passengers, will be driven over this line until a mileage of about 62,500 is attained. These tests are to last about three months with 10 trips being made each day at a speed of from 75 to 95 miles an hour.

Have To Sew Down

Largest Liners Forced To Change Speed In Heavy Sea

Even the largest ocean liners have to slow down when they are sailing into a heavy sea in a gale. Although the huge steamers take the waves well and dig right into the rollers, they increase their vessels will not stand the strain at full speed. That is why so many ships are a day or more late when they have to face a storm on the ocean. Naturally the companies do not want their boats broken up and the orders are to ease up on the speed when it is necessary.

On one occasion a year or so ago one of the large liners turned about in mid-ocean to go to the rescue of a vessel in distress. But even under those circumstances the captain could not let his steamer go at full speed.

Had he done so, he too might soon have been in as great distress as the ship that had called for help—W. L. Clark, in Border Cities Star.

To Raise Qualifications

Increase In Drug Apprenticeship Requirements May Come In Saskatchewan

Substantial increases in drug apprenticeship requirements in Saskatchewan may result from amendments to apprentice by-laws suggested at the semi-annual council meeting of the Saskatchewan Pharmaceutical Association in Regina.

The amendment discussed will be brought before the association at the annual convention in Moose Jaw, July 10 and 11. It calls for an increase in general educational qualifications from Grade XI to Grade XII diploma.

Those proposed is a qualification of 24 months apprenticeship before a pharmaceutical applicant be accepted for examination. Dr. Murray, president of the new British Columbia Chamber of Commerce said in an address to the annual meeting and publicity bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade

Weird Happenings

Strange Phenomena Attracts Attention At Home Of Ontario Farmer

Weird and unearthly happenings at the home of Joseph Quinn, farmer residing in North Dungeon township, about 14 miles from Perth, Ont., have aroused the countryside for miles around. Stones flying through the windows, thrown apparently by no human hand; irons used for pressing clothes making downstairs of their own accord; a teapot which jumped off the stove into the woodbox, pictures tumbling from the walls without cause, and other mysterious happenings, have focused the attention of the neighborhood.

So serious has the matter become that Ontario provincial police visited the home to investigate. Many persons in the neighborhood examined for the truth of the happenings.

Novel Diving Suit Easily Handled And Quickly Put On

Tests of a novel diving suit for saving drowning persons in deep water in the lake at Geneva, Switzerland are reported to have been successful The suit was invented by Commander Prieur of the French Navy. The essential point about it is that the diver wears a breastplate which is really a steel bottle of compressed air The whole suit is easily handled and can be put on in 30 seconds. The diver can remain below the surface for about 25 minutes. He is quite free of the ropes or air tubes which usually connect divers with a boat overhead At the public demonstration three men remained under water for a long period.

Little Journeys In Science

THE ELECTRON

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Electricity is one of man's most useful servants and has added much to our family comforts. Some physicists began to wonder as to the nature of electricity. It is only within the last thirty years that the electron theory has been developed. In 1891, a scientist, Johnstone Stoney, suggested the name electron for the smallest unit of electricity. The modern scientist believes that negative electricity consists of electrons and that the smallest that existed in 1842 electrons to weigh as much as one hydrogen atom. It is usually considered by scientists that matter is granular and electricity is atomic. There is very convincing evidence to prove that the hydrogen atom is made up of one positive electron called a proton and one negative electron, which is usually called the electron.

What is called an electric current is now believed to be simply a flow of electrons passing in wire; and it is considered that good conductors of electricity such as gold, silver and copper, have a great many electrons loosely held. In the case of non-conductors, it seems that there are few free electrons.

When a glass rod is rubbed with silk, the negative charge taken on by the silk is due to the fact that some free electrons are rubbed off the glass; while the glass, having lost electrons, takes on a positive charge; in general, it is assumed that a neutral body takes on a positive charge when it loses electrons, and a negative charge when it gains them.

Lightning can also be explained by means of the electron theory. Storm clouds, or charged molecules of air, serve as nuclei around which moisture of the air condenses. Sometimes the droplets grow in size until they fall as rain-drops, and it appears that they carry down large numbers of stray electrons, the final result being that a very great potential is developed, followed by the passage or a "bolt" between the cloud and the earth.

"Cheap Flying For Masses"

Aviation Club In England Has Over 600 Members

With the slogan, "Cheap Flying For The Masses," the Northamptonshire Aviation Club recently held the opening of its clubhouse recently at Sywell, England, that its plan is a success. It has more than 600 members, the majority being small merchants and artizans. The subscription is £5 5s a year and the club finance instructions to the extent of £5 an hour, providing the student gets his flying license within eight hours. The club has arranged to become the largest civil aviation organization in the country.

BUSINESS ON THE UPTURN

A definite indication that conditions are improving and that business is on the upturn is shown by the fact that the Balada Tea Company sold over 84½ tons less in Western Canada in 1934 than in 1933. This is especially significant since Balada is a quality tea.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 27

PETER'S DENIAL

Golden text: "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." I. Corinthians 10:12.

Lessons: Mark 14:12-27.

Devotional reading: Psalm 51:1-9.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Over-confidence in His Love. Here is the Lord, verse 27-31. Jesus said to the disciples, "You will all be discouraged [Moffatt's translation] for it is written [a free adaptation of Zechariah 13:7], I will smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered abroad." "The quotation is intended to alleviate the scandal of the disciples' conduct, by showing that it is foreseen." (Dummelow). The shepherd was smitten, and the sheep were scattered—all the disciples fled. Peter and John (Jn. 18:15) followed afar off.

Confidently and boastfully Peter exclaimed, "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I." Peter stumbled in three ways at once," explains the ancient writer Euthymius "(1) in contradicting the prophet and the Christ, (2) in placing himself above the rest, (3) in trusting in himself alone, and not in the help of God."

"Verily I say unto thee, that thou, to-day, even this night," solemnly Jesus told him, "before the rock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice."

Peter's Denial of His Lord, verses 31-54, 66-72. After the agony in Gethsemane, the betrayal and arrest of Jesus (verses 32-50), Peter followed him at a distance to the palace of the high priest. Peter was recognized by a maid, and he was followed in an open charcoal brazier. Herein is a picture of the sinner and the saint, and the fire must have been welcome.

Some of the maids of the high priest approached him and said, "Thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth, even Jesus."

"I neither know nor understand what thou mayest," Peter said, utterly covered by the happenings of the night.

Peter went out into the porch and the cock crew. Turning in the room near by, the maid said, "This is one of them," and he denied it. Still later, after Peter had been talking and had been overheard by his accent, he came from Galilee (Mt. 26:27) his companions declared, "Of a truth thou art one of them; for thou are a Galilean."

Then Peter began to curse and to swear He invoked a curse upon himself if what he was telling were not true when he said, "I know not this Man of whom ye speak."

An Outstanding Tragedy

World Remembers Collapse Of Tay Bridge In 1879

There have been a few outstanding tragedies in the world's history which have photographed themselves on men's minds so that neither time nor circumstance can cause it to obliterate them. The Lisbon earthquake, the last day of Pompeii, the Titanic disaster—these are instances of them. What happened this night in 1879 is yet another.

It is one of those stories which are quickly told but never cease to fill the imagination. The necessary facts to bring it to the mind, to conjure up the horror of it, can be few indeed. We need only to know that in 1878 the first great bridge over the River Tay, in Scotland, was built. It was nearly two miles long, had 84 spans, and was 90 feet high. One of the wonders of the world in that time, it was destined to stand but a few months As this night in 1879 the sun went down on a wreck of scattered girders. There was a high wind which increased in velocity till it blew with tremendous force, sweeping up the river's all incredible speed.

In the blackness of that terrible night a train with its human freight ploughed across the bridge, but never reached the other end. In an instant 13 of the great spans were lifted bodily, into the air and over the inky black waters of the river, and then crashed with the train and all who were in it.

Out of time into eternity they went. The world shuddered. So at that grand old bridge, which now knowledges whereby a stronger bridge was built. Ottawa Journal Dec 28

British Admiralty Adding Them To Naval Aviation Units

The British Admiralty has decided to add autogyros to its naval aviation units, the Daily Telegraph reported

Commenting on the reported decision, the newspaper's naval expert Hector Bywater declared

"Under the present circumstances airplane carriers are indispensable The admiralty however would welcome a perfected autogyro or airplane able to land in a small area, rendering unnecessary large airplane carriers, which are burdensome and vulnerable

SHE PLAYS ORGAN AT 75 YEARS

Takes Kruschen To Keep Rheumatism Away

Writing to tell how she keeps her self active, this wonderful old woman states:—

"My hands were becoming so crippled that I had to give up piano and organ playing and found myself unduly gave up knitting. I have been using Kruschen Salts for nearly two years, and can very pleased with the result. Last August I played two church services on the organ, and hope to do so again this August. My sisters are nearly crippled, and quite supple, and I am 75. I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many people."—A. C.

The six mineral salts of Kruschen have a direct effect upon the whole bloodstream, neutralizing uric acid, which is the recognized cause of rheumatism. They also restore the eliminating organs to healthy order, and so prevent constipation, thereby checking the further formation of uric acid and other body poisons which undermine the health.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Crewe. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, direct rat and luckless prospector till now is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had graubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests strongly.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was forthcoming when Dad, by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith He mentions the Soda Springs dispute coming to be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious He insults Stone who promptly throws him into a pool of water

Stone tells Crewe, his foreman, about his meeting with Dustin and is warned that Dustin would kill him if he got the chance. Stone and Crewe go to Reno to send a telegram to Gerald Keene. While at Reno an attempt is made to kill Stone, who proves more than a match for his enemies

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Lance Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery and appraise its value. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine and samples of the rich ore he took from it.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shoots Kane. He fixes the shooting on Peyull Gregg, a drug addict, who, stupified by the narcotics he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch

(Now Go On With The Story)

"I thought he was lyin' about bein' lost that potbelcher," he muttered disgustedly "It's just barely possible that Crewe an' Stone might 'a' been lyin' about bein' lost, but I'll have to find out about it. I'll have to find out what's how Pey ell will never tell what took place up here "

He knew that he was perfectly safe Though old Kane was fairly well known in Reno yet at times he had been gone more than two years without exciting comment.

"I'm the only one who knows about this find," muttered Dustin. "And it's a cinch now that no one will tell about Crewe and Gray rustlin' the Hour-glass stuff. Come on here, Peyoll," he shouted. "Give a hand here."

Together they carried the limp figure on to the narrow trench and laid it at rest under the desert stars. After a repose on a distant, wind-bitten ridge sant up a wailing howl as Peyoll shunk off to the fire and shivered over the blazes. Two hours later they got their ponies and headed slowly back for the yellowing flatlands under the rising sun.

CHAPTER X.

That telegram from Gerald Keene caused bot debate at the Hour-glass. Old Joe Carr was lifted to the Seventh Heaven of anticipation. The nephew of his old partner, himself half-owner in the ranch, could do no less than help him.

He held conference after conference with Crewe, and Stone, because of his knowledge of the rustling of Keene, was called into those meetings. Plan after plan was disputed by the fierce-eyed old cattle-man.

"I'm goin' to get him back out for me," he said. "I know his gang of thieves has been stealin' me dead-broke, and I'm goin' to get me profit."

"Stone has," said Crewe "Tell him what you told me about seein' Coral and Gray ear-markin' that calf," he said

Stone told and Carr's face was a study. Then he exploded in a torrent of anger menacingly under Stone's nose

"You bein drawin' our pay," he said "You been eatin' Hour-glass grub an' when you find two Broken Spur men stealin' cattle you say not a word about it. You tell only my foreman and even he keeps it from me. I can't abe it a-tall"

"I had a darned good reason for only tellin' Crewe," said Stone curtly; "and Crewe's got a good reason for not tellin' you. I saw 'em—yes. The word of one witness will not convict any one. There would be two of them against me. You'd never get anywhere on my evidence alone. We need more than that Crewe nodded agreement and that angered Carr still more. He snatched the telegram from the sheif and pounced him a garganuan drink.

"Dog-gone you," he snarled. "Between you, you're goin' to bust me "

"Listen to me, Joe Carr" Crewe said, his manner suddenly "You an' me's been friends for twenty years. You been tryin' to run your business against a bunch of crooks. You might have done it but for that "

He jerked a hand at the decanter "Stone is right as far as he knows. Of course he's grown to the cow-country and he don't know a hell of a lot. He knows that Dustin was keepin' company with Edith, but he don't know how that Dustin was keepin' a wagon in the hills with a bunch of rustlers—everything they've done. And We know that he was grub-stakin' old man Kane Why? That's what I want to know" That sure look that Gray flogged out of Crewe's pocket looks funny to me "

At that moment Edith came in flushed from her ride and saw them eating them Her gaze took in the red notebook that Carr had laid on the table, then it went to Stone. She found herself wondering about Stone There was no question of his eternal greenness! The eyes would not lie, not him, yet " On every occasion when he had been tested he had come out successful Her puzzled gaze went past Stone to where, on the porch, Red Thorn was flicking bits of adobe at a lizard. Then she heard her father speak

"Now about that notebook we were talkin' of I'll get it "

He got it from his desk and shuffled it wordlessly for a full minute.

"Of course old Shanmy-skin Kane's a fool," he said. "He's been wonderin' footloose over the ranges for as long that his brains are addled They can't find any more sometimes But I don't believe he's big fool enough to trust him self up with Dustin unless he's got a stranglehold on him. I'd like to find the old fool and find out what he thinks he's found Let's see "

And again he fell to studying the book

"One half to Dustin " Huh! That means of course that Dustin's been grub-staking him. Why would Dustin grub-stake him" The answer is that Dustin knows Shanmy-skin is on the trail of something good. . . ."

Stone snatched the book.

"There's more to it than you've guessed yet," he said curtly "The man gives rather plain directions here . . . If we've got sense enough to read em He hasn't given this book to Dustin, probably because he doesn't trust Dustin. Evidently he lost the book and theses men Gray and Corse, up in that part of the range stealin' your cattle, happened to find it. Corse and Gray may or may not know what Kane knows. The main thing is . . . Find Kane and also find out, before we find him, what it is he thinks he's got. Let's see the directions again . . ." And he read:

"Red Water canon seven to one to white birch. Up Stinkin' Water three two to sunk can"

"By God, Frank! " Carr sprang into life. "I know his gang of thieves has been stealin' me dead-broke, and I'm goin' to get back out for me."

"Stone has," said Crewe "Tell him what you told me about seein' Coral and Gray ear-markin' that calf," he said

"Here. Go ahead," he said cheerfully.

"Where did you come from and how did you happen to land on the Hour-glass? You know Mr. Keene pretty well, don't you? You must know him well for him to have given you the letter that he did."

"He owns a big garage in Cato," he said non-committally. "That's where I saw him last. I've known him a good many years. When I learned about the ranch, I got him to give me the letter but when I got here the Hour-glass happened to need a man and I didn't need to use the letter."

"Did you work for Mr. Keene at the garage?"

"For a while, yes'm. . . ."

"Don't say 'Ma'am' to me," she said sharply.

"What'll I say then?"

"You might try 'Edith,'" she laughed. "Most of the others do "

"All right sir . . . I mean Edith . . ." They both pocketlaughed and let it go at that and they let their laughter die away with a single tuneless mean swept away in mile after mile of pleasant grass-land dotted with cattle. They startled a magnificent and fire-tipped ocatilla and it pitched slightly up till its hedgs was on a level with the top of Water canon that took its name from the discoloration of the stream due to some mineral.

"Up Red Water to Stinkin' Water Funny names they gave the places" muttered Stone

"Yes . . . I don't know them well and was versed in the legends of the land "They call the next deep valley Stinkin' Water because of its sulphur springs The Indians named it many years ago Even sheep won't drink the water there

Here we are in Red Water canon Now what"

They spurs pawed at the yellowed sod and acornfully nosed aside the water in the shallow pools

"Now we're to follow the canon to a white birch Then up Stinkin' Water, three two to sunk can "

TWILIGHT

This is the loneliest loveliest hour,
With night at its zenith, and all worldly things recede grow dim,
As deeply on the senses swim
Strange hint of the mysteries of other lands

And music not from earthly hands
And sunlight slanting through the trees
Show it in strange theat is mood,
Then the moon, full and round, lit up vows
I rival with sunset in its boughs
And sunrays from no feathered throat
Pour forth their joy in a wild, sweet note

Recalls Hard Journey

Calgary Man Walked To West Sixty Years Ago

C. J. "Con" Duggan, at 90, recalls how he walked to western Canada from northern Ontario 60 years ago.

Wading through creeks and muskeg, tormented by blackflies and mosquitoes and practically without food, he arrived at Fort Garry, now Winnipeg, 29 days after leaving Thunder Bay, at the head of the lakes.

He travelled the "Dawson route," made famous by Col. Wolseley's journey to quell the Red river rebellion in 1870, and used only once after Duggan's historic journey He still has the ticket for which he paid $10 On it is inscribed

The Hornby settlement Plan, as outlined here by its sponsor Monday night, met with general approval. Those who are apt to look askance at the plan as being too favorable need only to realize that Great Britain must find an outlet for her congested population. It is certain that under the details of the plan Canada does not stand one iota of responsibility and apparently every avenue for the success of the settlement scheme has been exhaustively studied.

REJECT PLAN.

After very lengthy discussions, occupying most of the debating time of the C.P.A. annual convention, a resolution urging the adoption of the Aberhart social credit plan for Alberta as a plank in the provincial platform was rejected. Only 28 of the 500 registered delegates supported the resolution.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Vermilion, Alta., Jan. 22, 1935.

The Editor, The Standard.

Dear Sir—A letter in your January 17th issue signed "Ratepayer of 20 Years Standing," voiced dissatisfaction with the fact that the minutes of the local School Board and Town Council were not published in the weekly paper for the benefit of all ratepayers.

It would appear that "Ratepayer of 20 Years Standing" has lost his gold on opportunities to "listen in" on the meetings of those bodies as at local twelve-meeting are held by each body each year and over the twenty year period the ratepayer has had the opportunity of attending all such meetings.

I understand as one who formerly served on a public body, that the deliberations of the School Board and the Council are open to any ratepayer and, indeed, recall occasions when invitations have been extended to the ratepayers to attend the meetings and learn something of the problems facing the members of the local Board and Council. To my knowledge no ratepayer has ever deliberately forsaken his armchair in the evening to walk to the Town Hall for the purpose of learning those things he has a perfect right to know.

It may be that of late years we have been too well taken care of in this respect by means of the radio receiving set and it is apparent that "Ratepayer of 20 Years Standing" prefers to listen to Bing Crosby, Amos and Andy or Eddie Cantor, rather than to muffle up and walk down to the Town Hall to find out that all deliberations of the Council and School Board are open to the ratepayers of the Town and that really those charged with the administration of local affairs are MERELY a sincere effort to meet the many perplexing problems which arise from time to time.

I have no doubt but that our present School Board and Council would follow their predecessors in swelling a cordial invitation to the ratepayers to attend their sessions and to learn at first hand that nothing sinister takes place during their working hours

Yours truly,
ONE A MEMBER OF THOSE BODIES.

Plans for that meeting include an election practice—so come on Grizzlies!

The Cooper's were local returned the same officers throughout the year. We regret we are not in immediate possession of names. Fred Haines will represent the Tolland U.F.A. at the annual convention.

In the U.F.W.A. of that district, the annual meeting heard a report of the best year yet had by that local, in regard to membership, attendance, and financial matters. J. Hoar was re-elected as president, Mrs. C. Magrath, vice-president. The new secretary-treasurer is Mrs. Holman, succeeding Mrs. D. Magrath whose retirement was accepted with keen regret. A new supply of sewing was distributed and Mrs. H. Portsmith gave a talk on the Co-Operative Store in the Union district. The farm lessening will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Thompson on Feb. 6th.

On February 2nd the Tolland U.F.A. will hold their next meeting at Cannon school in the afternoon. At this Mr. F. Haines will give his report on the convention. The ladies local is invited and everybody welcome.

We cannot close the Tolland report without a word of thanks to Mrs. F. Van Wageningen for the facts here-with recorded. And it is our heartiest wish to be able to hear that delegate report. So here's hoping!

The Woodvale annual school district meeting returned Mr. F. Van Wageningen as trustee, succeeding Mr. E. Green. In the Union district Mr. Alfred Mills was elected, upon retirement of Mr. N. Yarwood.

Nightawks earnestly wishing he could set a card out of his hand, Cheerily by crowing a short note and adding considerable value.

The Glen Club dance brought a very fair crowd on the coldest night of the year. Things were lively enough to keep the fires from getting the worst feature of the evening was leaving the house. The next Glen Club dance will be held on February 15th. Hunt up a Valentine!

CLANDONALD
Old man weather has been doing his stuff in these parts! Saturday a.m. it's below. Sunday 50 below! The height in several thermometers in town took swings from the cold by going right out the bottom of the glass.

January is the month usually set aside for annual meetings. The meeting of Clandonald public school was held on Saturday of last week. Frank Williamson, the retiring trustee, was again elected to the board, defeating L. Barclay, 14 votes to 6. The board is now comprised of T.J. Sender, chairman, Rene Mackenzie, Frank Williamson, with Mrs. L. Williamson secretary.

The Clandonald Seperate elected by acclamation Mr. Angus Macauley; the retiring trustee Mrs. Pat Lee. They are now board is now John McLean, chairman, Rev. Fr. Gillis and Angus Macauley, with Ray Haberfelt sec'y-treas.

In the Morrice district James Kirwin, the retiring trustee, was defeated by Gus Throndsen by a small majority. The board is now: Francis Monaghan, chairman, Rec. B. Spencer, Gus Throndsen, and Tom Coulson, sec'y.

The many friends of Wilber Curtis will be pleased to learned the young couple in the Orange hall on Tuesday evening. Mr. Tom Sonder was chairman of the gathering and after supper made a presentation address prior to presenting the couple with a handsome purse containing a sum of money contributed by their friends. Wilber in his own inimitable style made a very appropriate reply.

Miss Elizabeth Maguire, bride-elect, was entertained at a shower given in her honor by Miss Convrel on Friday by the pupils of the high school. Many useful and beautiful gifts were presented to the young lady.

Mr. Harris, one of the leading business men of Cadogan, paid a surprise visit to his daughter (Mrs. Ed. Noonan) during the week.

May we extend our sympathy to Mrs. Holmbeck and her sister, Miss Ezzie Hill, on the loss of their father, Mr. Hill, of Victoria. The deceased was known here, having stayed in town for some time during the past summer.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. T. O. Cusack was elected president, Mrs. Roy Haberfelt who has been acting secretary resigned in the place left vacant by the retiring of Mrs. Cusack and was elected to that office for the ensuing year. The Altar Society are busy collecting funds for raising funds for the church during the past year, the results of their efforts being very gratifying.

We are looking forward with pleasant anticipation to the annual meeting of municipal ratepayers, which will be held in the Orange Hall, Clandonald, this year. This meeting of the M. D. Elbehyn is usually well worth attending, as the reeve and councillors usually make an effort to be present, and they are, well—the discussions are anything but dull. There would appear to be several items of contention this year, that is, if all we hear is true.

The Sports Association are holding a dance in the Orange Hall on Friday night, Jan. 25th. Reed's orchestra will supply the music.

This exhibit, which is being sent to various points in the province under the auspices of the Extension Trust, through the University Extension Dept., promises to be one of great interest, and it is hoped that as many as possible will avail them-selves of the opportunity to see it.

The date of the Little Royal has been set for March 15th and 16th and a full list or exhibits is now being made out in preparation. It is likely that Mr. H. A. Craig, provincial minister of agriculture, will be present to judge the events. Competition will be keen and with the introduction of several new features an interesting afternoon is in store for those who find it possible to attend. Further announcement will be made later.

ANNUAL CONGREGATIONAL MEETING, UNITED CHURCH

The annual congregational meeting of First United church, Vermilion, was held in the church parlors on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting was opened with a brief worship period conducted by the minister after which reports from the various organizations were received. These showed satisfactory progress in all lines of work. Fifteen new members were added to the church roll, their financial obligations had been met and the membership on the roll purged. The Missionary and Maintenance allocations will be paid in full and an increased allocation accepted for 1935. Messrs. Andrew, J. Brimacombe, and W.E. Mackenzie were re-elected for the Committee of Stewards for a term of three years. In closing, the minister spoke of the work which cannot be statistically recorded, the fuller understanding of Christian truth and the deepening consecration to God's purposes on the earth. Votes of thanks were passed to the workers in the various organizations and to the choir later, for their services during the year.

"MRS. TUBBS OF SHANTYTOWN"

Comedy Drama in 3 Acts Will Be Presented at Hazeldine Friday Feb. 8th

This is a simple story of a lady of unconventional ways who lives in a shantytown. She has four children with her but we hear more on the two boys who went away. Mrs. Tubbs acts as first aid to Cupid. Miss Climsie Vine, her lady teacher, whose name was a "Virginian Human" affords much amusement in her attempt to secure a husband, but in the end she brings Mrs. Tubbs' prodigal son home and saves Mrs. Tubbs from losing "home and home." Mrs. Tubbs' children will be sure to win the audience. Queenie Elsbin and Mc'manston Scullers are going to take care of the family as we dare to marry Simon Rubbell who paints a face "that would bleed still" for a wife. The love affairs of th eyoung people take place and the whole teacher furnish a romantic element to the story . . . .

WILDMERE WINKS

Well folks, we promised that The Winks' would not be left out again but owing to Mr. Kehoe, our most keen swinging ever to his winner's delight the Winks' have been left over for a time to be printed last week. From now on while the quiet season will hibernate, we will send them in on Monday. The news may be a bit old but it's the best we can get to you from town.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Carlson and little son Albert have returned home after visiting for several weeks in the United States.

Several Wildmere ites were invited to a birthday party given by Mrs. Gibson at her home in Basswood on Friday, Jan. 11th. Mrs. Gibson's hobby had the pleasure of being there also. During the cold weather of the past few days Mr. Gibson has been enjoyed by all. We understand he is much

Mrs. Wallington held the pleasure of visiting with Marjorie Crosby on Thursday. Marjorie is the only one this winter and lives in town.

It's a little late but we must mention the annual ratepayers' meeting held at the school Jan 12th which a very quiet meeting was held. Mr. Hicks was re-elected trustee for another term. Mr. Cameron was installed as the way the school business is being managed. Next meeting will take place on School Pupils Improvement Day when we will see how the school work stands this year.

Mr. McGinnis (C.P.R. man who was on his way home to Fort Saskatchewan) Mannville, was Jimmie Wallington up at 11 o'clock last Sunday night to get a team to pull his car out of a snowdrift near our school. Were just red out, and after having a hot lunch at the Wallington home he decided to remain in the station house but left there and go home by train.

The Telephone party we mentioned will be held at the school Jan 26th.

Things are looking black on part of the world as a meeting was called last Tuesday evening to discuss extending No. 22 telephone line as far as the government has gone now. At time of writing we could not say what it's large result attended. Mr. Mc Carry and Mr. Lawson were appointed to act were over and Mr. Mallett gave an outline of the scarcity of help there in taking over district. Two a local

SCHOOL NOTES

The students are beginning to wonder if they are ever going to play hockey with an outside team. It certainly does not look like it if this cold weather keeps up.

Eleanor Welsh our secretary, has left school, so the students elected Lois Long as their secretary for the coming year. We are all sorry to lose Eleanor.

The Grade IX. under the leadership of Miss Clements, are intending to put on the next Literary program. This will be put on very soon and we are expecting great things from Gr. IX.

This cold weather is certainly no beautifier, because all the girls go around with frozen ears, cheeks or noses. Oh, well, such is life. And don't forget, girls, the boys have also frozen ears and cheeks.

In the meantime temporary directors were instructed to call on and see different ones who have and who have not phones, and see how many were in favor of the farmers buying over the line. On Friday, 18th another nice crowd met together at the school and a permanent committee was elected Harry Howard, president, Mr. Wilson, sec.-treas., directors: A. Hoite, John Wilson, Waldemar and Wm. Jones, Tolland. Eleven subscribers paid up to-date the phone and more are expected this coming week. The new telephone circuit will be named the Wildmere-Tolland Mutual Telephone Co. We consider that's a lot better than letting it go out of the country entirely.

Bright Stories about Wine
THE NAVAL STRENGTH OF ENGLAND

● Not many people, we suppose, are aware that the wine trade was one of the main reasons for the rise of the British Navy, though the connection between the Navy and alcoholic beverages was more than hinted at the other day when the King on the occasion of his son's marriage ordered an extra tot of rum for the fleet. But it happened that, because of the temporary fact that for three centuries the King of England was also the liege of some rich French provinces, even then renowned for their wine, a great many Gascons settled in London, and became prominent and even predominant in the wine trade. Thus exasperated the London merchants, and they were able to have laws passed seriously embarrassing these Gascons. The French made, therefore, flowed to other English ports.

● In 1349, Edward III forbade the export of all coin, thus setting an example which we have seen followed in our day, and so the Bordeaux merchants were obliged to accept, in payment for their wine, goods which they did not understand, which they did not want or which they did not know how to buy profitably. In consequence of this they practically abandoned England as a customer, and sent their wines elsewhere

● It followed, therefore, that it became necessary for the King and all others who desired wine to send to Bordeaux. This change, says the Encyclopaedia Britannica, was mainly responsible for the rapid increase of the naval strength and maritime preponderance of England. Until that time, Gascons, Germans, Flemings and Germans had shared among them almost the whole of the carrying trade by sea.

Putting the World Together Again

A new book recently issued under the title "Courage For To-day" begins with a little story that has a lot of meaning in it. A man gave his small son a very elaborate jig saw puzzle. It had been made by tearing a map of the world into little pieces. In a short time the child reported that the picture of he world was all put together. "How could you have done it so fast" asked his father in surprise. "Oh, it was easy," answered the child. "You see, there was a picture of a man on the other side. When I put him together, the world was put together, too."

Men and parties, and governments are all trying to put this old world together again. The number of plans and theories and policies advocated so the only way in which this gigantic task can be accomplished are beyond computation or classification. Speeches teem with suggestions of all kinds; newspapers and magazines pour forth a never-interrupted stream from their printing presses, books are piled upon books, all presenting the speaker's or writer's idea of the particular thing that must be done. To-day's brilliant suggestion is completely destroyed by to-morrow's conviction until practically all of us are in a fog.

Men of prominence, leaders of their fellow men, change their views over night and to-day are found denouncing that which they vigorously upheld and championed only a few days before. The whole nation almost is the twinkling of an eye abandon policies and forms of government which for scores of years, even centuries have been accepted as the only possible ones. Our own province declares that mankind must retrace its steps backward to the tribal communal state and so they declare for Communism. Another group says man must be deprived of those personal liberties won by him through centuries of struggle and must be regimented restricted and ordered like privates in an army and he made to surrender all hope or right to profit above a standard form of living which may result from his individual initiative and efforts, and that group declares for State Socialism. A third group believes that other groups to be all wrong and adheres to the view that man is incapable of self-government, that democracy is an abject failure, and that only a selected few are wise enough, strong enough, capable enough to govern and that they should take full control into their hands, and retain it by force if and when necessary, and impose their will and ideas upon all others. They declare for Fascism and dictatorship.

Each and all of these groups would reorganize and form the simple lesson which the small Sea with his jig-saw puzzle so quickly demonstrated, that if man himself is made right the world itself will be righted. Surrender to the heads of dishonest men will be dishonest business and its woes transfer from private to governmental control, whether Democratic, Communist, Socialist or Fascist, will not make business honest. There has been as much, if not more, graft and corruption since the war as before it was made, if, indeed, not more, under governments as there have been in public business. Private business has corrupted and bedeviled governments, but, so too, has governments corrupted, enervated and destroyed private business and made huge and costly blunders. In fact, governments supported, and, when driven by their people, are now supporting the most costly war the world than in private business as now constituted.

And what is responsible? Many things. Business man has been forced to adopt unethical, even dishonest practices, because his customers have demanded it of him. The same is true of high principled men entrusted with the duties and responsibilities of government. A government adopts a policy in the general public interest. It imposes a tax for the necessary purposes of government and the average man and woman coupled their brains to devise ways and means of evading the tax and escaping their responsibilities. This press smuggled in to the Canadian people, another means to a false affidavit to avoid paying a gasoline tax, still another "electors" has become tax relators, and so it goes.

Completely changing the system will not effect a cure, it is man himself who must change. It is the human factor that is wrong, and until it is made right there will continue to be dishonesty and wrongs no matter what the system may be and the larger the degree of power placed in the hands of a few the greater the wrongs will become. Dictatorship but increases the opportunity for evil and because the possession of power always tends to the grasping for more, the regardless of the methods whereby it may be obtained.

Governments are created to govern a country; not to usurp the rights and destroy the liberties of the people. People should control and direct their governments not the government control and direct the people. It is the duty and responsibility of governments to check and control the dishonesty and eliminate wrongs of every kind imposed by individuals or groups of individuals upon others. That is the function of governments acting in the interests of all, but it is not a proper government function to interfere with or usurp the rights of individuals in the proper ordering of their own lives and in the carrying on of their legitimate occupations.

The inalienable rights of man are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Life is more than money and business, liberty is much more than a regimented mode of existence and a stated standard of living, the pursuit of happiness must be left to the individual otherwise he cannot be happy. God conferred on man a mind and will of his own, and man must work out his own salvation and, aided by such institutions as he may himself devise and set up to assist him, through education and otherwise, rise to higher things and better conceptions.

Politicians, financiers, economists, social workers, all must come to a realization and acceptance of the fact demonstrated by the small boy's jig saw puzzle namely that the speediest way to put this old world together again is to put man himself together as a Divine Creator intended him to be.

Seed Oats Are Scarce

Drouth And Hasty Frost Has Lessened The Viable Supply

P. W. Townley-Smith, of Lashburn, national vice-president of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, was re-elected president of the Saskatchewan branch of the association at the annual convention held at the University of Saskatchewan as growers learned that combined effects of drouth and early frost had seriously lessened the viability of much seed oats. So severe was the harm done to crops last summer that ordinary seed might carry as many as 60 wild oats to the pound and the association discussed the lowering of germination percentage required in registered seed.

Unless some reduction was allowed in the germination percentages required for registered seed, much of this high-grade seed might fail to make the grade and the pure seed vouched for by the seal of the association claim. It was pointed out. Authorities have suggested lowering the required germination to 80 per cent. for No. 1, 75 per cent. for No. 2, and 65 per cent. for No. 3, the same percentages as for commercial seed. The matter was left to the C.S.G.A. executive.

Infant Prodigy

Unusual Physical Feats Performed By Fifteen-Months-Old Child

A baby girl who could climb seven-foot inclines, dropped unaided from 6½-foot heights and roller skated, before a gathering of psychologists and doctors in New York.

Her twin sister, Margie, unable to perform any of these feats, was present as a laboratory exhibit of the untrained child.

Flavia, the agile child, and her sister Margie, have put in an eight-hour, freshy week since birth at the normal child development clinic to which they were taken by Dr. Arnold Gesell, Yale University child specialist.

Dr. Myrtle B. McGraw, who has had the twins in daily charge, said: "Flavia's superiority over her sister vice handed out to parents has been 'bunk,' specifically the idea of undisciplined freedom for children and the theory that we have to say "don't." said Dr. McGraw.

"His Majesty The King, in response to a request from His Excellency the Governor-General, has graciously consented to the inauguration of a national fund to commemorate the 125th anniversary of His Majesty's accession to the throne. Canadian Boy Scouts Active

Eighty Thousand Children Supplied With Christmas Toys

Eighty thousand children were supplied with Christmas toys through 8 depots of 150 toy shops distributed across Canada from coast to coast by Canadian Boy Scouts. Since their inception eleven years ago Canadian Boy Scout toy shops have collected, repaired, repainted and distributed nearly two million toys to over half-a-million Canadian children. In many centres scarcity of old toys this past year caused the Scouts to try their hand at making new ones, and wholesale quantities of new wagons, trucks, tractors, racers, doll bedroom sets and other toys to delight the childish heart were added to Santa's pack.

Thousands of family parcels of toys were sent to settlers rehabilitated in Ontario and Quebec by government and unassisted back-to-the-land schemes, and to new homesteaders in Northern Saskatchewan. Heavy bulk shipments of toys were made by Scout toy shops to assist their brother Scouts in the West to carry on the good work. In addition, Scouts in the four distributed thousands of playthings among the children of their own districts who might otherwise be forgotten.

Toys were not the only medium for Scout good turns at Christmas. In several communities, as was true across provinces, the boys conducted "relief barrel" campaigns. Large barrels were placed on busy streets with signs inviting customers to purchase one extra article and place it in the barrel for distribution to the needy. Christmas Thousands of hampers of food were provided in this manner. In one centre 15-year Scouts sold apples on the streets and with the proceeds bought hampers for needy families. In another they conducted a house-to-house collection drive to which the price of admission was one article of canned food, and the receipts were used for Christmas distribution.

Killed Mountain Lion

Alberta Man Had Narrow Escape When Beast Charged

What is presumed to be a mountain lion was killed the other day by Napoleon Whitford near McRae, 20 miles north of Ashmont, Alta.

The animal has short tail and of a light reddish brown color. The body measures close to five feet in length with a tail about two and a half feet long. The skin when stretched measured eight feet from nose to tail.

The animal was killed with a .32 calibre rifle, five shots being fired before the lion was dead. Each of the shots merely glanced off the beast's head, partly stunning it. It had turned on Mr. Whitford and was preparing to spring at the present time it was dropped by a bullet in a vital spot just behind the ear.

A large timber sheer which was killed in the vicinity the previous night is believed to have been responsible for the Mountie's accusation to the Bisons. It is understood that this fund will be devoted to the campaign against cancer in Canada, and that, by special permission of His Majesty, it will be named 'The King George the Fifth Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada."

Married Man Live Longest

Death Rate Shown To Be Much Lower Among The Benedicts

Married men live longer—not the bachelor—who lives longest.

Not only lives longest, but is less likely to do his living in the poor house.

Professor Edwin S. Burdell, of the department of economics and business administration, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is author of those observations these and a few more.

For instance, Professor Burdell tells us fewer married men commit crimes and fewer go insane.

The death rate, he says, is much lower among married men than unmarried, and the insurance risk is less for the married than the single.

"Marriage is the best insurance in the world—insurance against crime, insanity, poverty and premature death. The bachelor hasn't the social responsibility of the married man. As a rule, he is answerable only to himself.

Therefore, when he is tempted to commit crime there is not the deterrent of thought of consequences."

The Hero's Reward

Did Not Even Get Thanks For Brave Deed

Heroes are born not made. There was one of them on a street at Baltimore, Md., the other day. He was dawdling on the sidewalk when he saw some children in a parked motor car. Some one broke and the car started rolling down a hill, while their mother stood distractedly on the sidewalk.

In an instant he took in the situation and the frightful tragedy that might ensue. He rushed after the car, caught up, leaped in and put on the brake but not before the car had gone careening upon the sidewalk. Maybe have been awarded for less, but in this case a policeman rushed up and the hero had great difficulty escaping arrest for reckless driving.

And when the distracted mother arrived, her only comment was: "Please will you put the car back where you got it from as quickly as possible? If the children's father knew about this he will be simply furious."—Brandon Sun.

New Fighting Machine

One Man Tank Developed For Machine Gunners

A new type of land fighting machine—that is in effect a one-man tank of armor—is being tried out by the British war office.

The machine is a steel box, seven feet long, two and a half feet wide, and about two feet high.

It would carry a machine gunner.

It is designed for use in advance reconnoitring work in open warfare.

The machines would take the place of the infantryman in the front rank on his chest seeking scraps of cover as he advances.

The new machine does not look like a tank, but it would achieve most of the functions of a light tank without being so cumbersome.

The man who is honest with himself cannot help being that way with others.

LEAGUE LIFTS ARMS EMBARGO AGAINST BOLIVIA

Geneva — For the first time in its history the League of Nations took punitive action against a war-making member.

Because Paraguay has failed to accept the league's plan for peace in the Chaco, the league's Chaco advisory committee voted to reinforce the Pan American embargo against Paraguay and lift the embargo against Bolivia which has accepted the plan.

Bolivia henceforth will be free to buy, and nations adhering to the league's embargo will be free to sell armaments and munitions.

An unprecedented step, it creates delicate problems for the United States, inasmuch as the American congress in authorizing the embargo stipulated that it should be operated against both the warring nations.

Paraguay is given a further chance to accept the peace plan, since the resolution specifies that Feb. 24 is the date of expiration of the three-months Paraguay has to decide finally concerning the detailed plan for ending the war.

U. F. A. WANT A FEDERAL SYSTEM OF SOCIAL CREDIT

Calgary.—Recognizing demands for social credit principles, the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta asked the Alberta government to engage Major C. H. Douglas, English economist, as financial adviser with a view to establishing a federal system of social credit.

A start was made on drawing up a declaration of principles as a platform for the Alberta general elections, which must be held this year. Written into the principles were equalization of taxation, refunding capital debts of the province and municipalities, reduction in interest rates and use of influence and cooperation to effect nationalization of the Bank of Canada, a new monetary system under public control and a national system of short term and intermediate credits

JOHN THOMSON DIES AT ARLINGTON, WASH.

Word was received here this week of the death at Arlington, Wash. of John Thomson, for a number years a resident of Vermilion. The deceased was 61 years of age and had been residing with his daughter and son-in-law 30 miles south of Arlington. Mr Thomson came to Vermilion in the early days and for several years conducted a farm implement business on the site now occupied by W. H. Duncan. He then bought a farm immediately west of town and farmed there until he moved to Arlington, some seven or eight years ago. The farm is now owned by Wm Dare. The deceased was twice married, his last wife losing her life near the Vermilion station while she and her husband were crossing the railway tracks on their way home from town. She was struck by a freight car that suddenly backed up just as she was on the track.

The deceased had been in failing health the past year or two. About New Year's he suffered a stroke, and passed away on the 2nd of January. Mr. Thomson was a good citizen a man of sterling qualities whom none can help but be mourned by a large circle of old friends in Vermilion district.

TO THE ELECTORS, Town of Vermilion:

Out of respect for the wishes of my friends who feel that in these critical times I should remain at the helm, I have agreed to accept nomination for another term as Mayor. If elected I will give your municipal affairs the same careful thought and handling as in the past.

W. A. FALLOW.

Why Introduce Douglas Credit System!

A perusal of the financial statement of the M.D. of Grizzly Bear No. 452 for the year ending Dec. 31 1933, shows that municipality to be in a rare and enviable financial position. They have met all requisitions, have not spent all but that, and yet remain have a balance on hand of $10,645.90.

This municipality has the usual quota of requisitions and the fact that it has such a remarkable standing at present, after four of the hardest years in history, speaks highly of the executive ability of the Reeve and Council in charge.

Gilbert H. Shade has been Reeve for about seven years, so title for credit for the past year has been composed of F. J. Nash, David Gardiner, J. C. Symon, Richard Yeaman and P. J. D. Carmichael. Baillie Wilson is the secretary-treasurer.

NOMINATION DAY MONDAY

Nominations for candidates for mayor, four councillors and three school trustees, will be held on Monday, Feb. 4th. This is the largest civic ever to be elected in town, and developments are being watched with interest.

Only one candidate is definitely known at present, A. C. Hewlett having announced that he will stand for the mayoralty.

Appraisals Of Progress

"If we are to talk stock of the world's advance in 1934, let us first take stock of ourselves."

With this challenge to the conventional New Year appraisals of progress Dr. Robert A. Millikan, distinguished scientist and Nobel Prize winner contributes to the January American Magazine what is described in an editorial foreword as "The Reader's Digest" as one of the truly stimulating articles of the month

It is stimulating and for that reason we utilize this column to reproduce The Reader's Digest editorial summary of Dr. Millikan's article. It says

Dropping for the moment his famous pursuit of the cosmic ray, Dr. Millikan scans the rays of hope in the cosmos of human aspirations. The "world-wide fine-stone statesmanship" of the present building and construction he says only bind us to the real fundamentals of mankind's advance. Moments of inspiration are quickened by the thought that whether the men who had year used our vaunted methods of eating space were more thoughtful and kindly than those who were transported the year before We may boast how speedily we get about and forget how to walk peacefully and reflectively with ourselves.

The number of miles traveled in automobiles is not as significant as what we saw and felt on our way. Did we hug the road and give battle at crossings or were we chivalrous as knights of old? Did we greet with our cars in the old, the lame, the shut-ins? And "how many times did we drive alone to a hilltop to read and to meditate, hungering for better methods?" Just as human values transcend statistics, so we must use the gasoline rule to measure true progress

Our improved communications, whether by radio telephone, or transatlantic cable does not of itself denote a higher civilization. The main question is: What was communicated? Fear and prejudice? Did our remarkable facilities tend to promote hate and greed or base ideas and false sentiments? Or did they reflect sounder thinking more generous and humane impulses?

What if we did make a staggering number of telephone calls or talk freely to London and Paris? That is of small moment compared with whether or not we used the telephone as an instrument of fellowship Did we call and offer to help a friend matters by ill luck? Were we less rude and intolerant? There was no progress if we groveled into the mouthpiece and failed to employ the phone for more intelligent, gracious conversation.

Too fact that some of our tall buildings are gloomy and half occupied becomes really tragic only as the minds of those who use them become gloomy and half occupied, too. Not the number of new buildings that go up but what goes on in them is the vital standard. Do new buildings connote richer working conditions and larger opportunity?

Let us not be deceived by the production of our farms and factories The supreme question is, did we grow in mental, moral and physical stature? Not how fast the wheels turned in 1934, but "how slow and firm were the feet of thoughtful men moving in the calm." Not how fast the motor design, but "how much was improved the motor of mind—the knowledge, the understanding, the purpose."

Stratosphere flights were made in 1934 but what of the aspirations of those who remained below. "In 1933 perhaps," Dr Millikan writes, "if we are thoughtful and honest and kind and courageous we may ascend a little way toward our own stratosphere the mysterious altitudes of ourselves."

Wanted Bells Used

Unless They Were Donor Would Not Attend Church

Antonio Gervasoni, Hospitaller, former merchant of the Caribbean, had heard the peal of the bells he donated many years ago to the church in Lytton, B.C., and has returned to worship with his neighbors

For many years the bells had not been rung because residents complained of the noise Ring my bells or I do not go to church," Father Ingliali At last his words have been heeded, the bells have been rung on Sundays and the merchant attends church regularly

War Not Inevitable

Responsible Leaders Of Nations Must Make Up Their Minds To Pay The Price

I do not think that war is, necessarily, either impending or inevitable. Acutely critical though the international position has become, it does not yet fill me with the same heavy sense of certain and imminent catastrophe as that which weighed upon my mind in 1913 and 1914. But war will come, and will work unprecedented havoc unless the responsible leaders of nations which are still free make up their minds to pay the price of preventing it.

This price, I have long maintained, is to declare that the renunciation of war has reduced the lawful function of national armaments to a police function; that the discharge of this police function entails the renunciation of neutrality towards any nation that may be guilty of recourse to war as an instrument of national policy, and that every member of the League and every signatory of the Briand-Kellogg Pact is therefore debarred from neutrality towards any nation that may seek by violence to gain its ends—Wickham Steed in the Fortnightly Review.

Had Long Service

Man Responsible For King's Personal Safety Has Retired

The King's head detective has retired, after 14 years' service at Buckingham Palace, and has been invested, at a special audience at the Palace, as a member of the Victorian Order

He is Superintendent William George Cole, and here the official title of Personal Assistant to the Sovereign on His Majesty the King' His was responsible for the King's personal safety all the time he was with the police arrangements at the King's various palaces

Mr Cole accompanied the King, whenever His Majesty has appeared in public during the last 14 years, and has attended him on many private occasions.

These Royal appointments are greatly coveted, although their responsibilities are grave The holders approach the highest office by stages. Thus Cole's successor at the Palace is the inspector who for several years has been attached to the royal train, and his place again has been taken by the officer previously attached to the Duke and Duchess of York.

Forgot To Remove Money

Winnipeg Cleaning House Found $900 In Suit Pocket

Junior has always been the butt of the family's humorous remarks on account of his knicknacks in his pockets, but men are only grown-up boys if the men is capable of cleaning houses are to be believed

Watches, wallets, currency, cheques, business papers, stamps and bank books are but a few of the hundreds of articles recovered daily from Winnipeg cleaning establishments, and the latest find from the storage of a suit sent in by a cattle buyer who decided to fuss up a bit in town

In 1900 Canada exported 470 000 barrels of apples, by 1930 this had increased to 1,328,000 barrels, and the total exports during the last 10 years of records were broken with a total of 3,676 514 barrels shipped out of the country. In 1900 Canada's total apple trade was confined to nine countries, by 1932 thirty-six countries received Canadian apples

TORONTO MAN GIVES AFFIDAVIT

He says that he was laid up for days with a severe one and resorted to taking Fruit-a-tives. After taking two tablets he got relief and that he has had no more bad headaches. The pain on the top of my head and on my forehead was at times more than I could bear. I consulted my doctor He advised me to take Fruit-a-tives. Food For Castaways

Supply Always Left On Lonely Islands In Endless Stream

To be shipwrecked on some lonely island or rock, where there is no food, is a fate which has often befallen sailors.

It is those spots of land which are at a great distance from the regular ocean highways where the outlook for castaways is so desperate. Yet it is just there very islands on to which a disabled ship may drift.

Typical of these islands are those called Amsterdam, St. Paul and the Crozets, lying to the south of the Indian Ocean. In the old days sure starvation was the fate of any man stranded on St. Paul

To-day he will find on the rocky beach a notice board bearing the inscription in French, "Food and clothing for castaways." Following the direction indicated by a wooden hand, he comes across a rough stone hut, in which there is a store of preserved beef, biscuits, woollen shirts, blankets and matches. All these goods are contained in strong barrels, which can be easily opened.

As long ago as 1887 a French vessel left beer, biscuits and sardines on one of the islands.

Nearly twenty years after the food was eaten by the shipwrecked crew of a Norwegian whaling expedition.

Caribou Herds Drift South

Have Come Further Than Old Timers Ever Remember

Vast herds of caribou, lifeblood of Indians and whites living in the Northwest Territories, have migrated further south than old-timers in the north ever remember before, Pilot Stanley McMillan, Mackenzie Air Services, reveals.

Each winter herds containing thousands of caribou drift in from the Barren Land and as summer approaches work their way back again from the tree line toward the desolate barren plain of the north.

Recently the airman landed his aeroplane on the south shore of Lake Athabaska, only 400 miles north of Edmonton, where the caribou were plentiful. Old-time trappers in the district said this was the first time in their knowledge the caribou had come so far south, he said.

The northern reindeer are as plentiful or more numerous than last year, where herds were considered unusually large

The herds are 50 miles south of Cameron Bay, N.W.T

Told Story On Himself

Duke Of Gloucester Saw Humour In Prisoner's Remark

His sense of humor, blended with discretion and dignity, proved valuable qualities for the Duke of Gloucester on his recent tour of the Commonwealth of Australia. He prefers situations which don't too frequently arise, he likes to tell a good story on himself. He told the following at a dinner given him by the "Diggers" at Sydney, N.S.W.:

"Talking of absence of formality, reminds me of an incident that happened to me in Canada. I was a guest at a ride one evening recently. A farmer, riding home overtook me, and we chatted together for a bit, when he suddenly turned and said, 'Aren't you his Highness?' When I admitted that I was, he said, 'Well, I said right I thought I recognised your horse.'"

Fined For Excess Noise

Austria Places Limit On Sounds Made By Vehicles

Vienna, Austria, is determined to have silence. It has placed a limit on rattles and other sounds made by vehicles. A unit of sound, labeled "phone," has been established. Each class of transportation is allowed just so many "phones", and no more, those in excess are fined. Motor cars according to the number of excess "phones." The police use a new apparatus which records the sound emanations of passing vehicles.

MAGNETISM

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

In various countries there is found an ore of iron which has the power of attracting small bits of iron. Pieces of this ore are known as natural magnets. The name for this particular kind of iron ore was derived from Magnesia, where it was first found near a town in Asia Minor called Magnesia. The natural magnets not only attract small pieces of iron and steel but they also possess the power of indicating direction.

If a piece of steel is stroked by a natural magnet it becomes itself a magnet. There are, of course, other and more convenient ways of magnetising a piece of steel. Permanent steel magnets include the bar magnet, the horseshoe magnet and the compass needle.

If iron filings are scattered over a paper under which is a bar magnet it will be found that the iron filings arrange themselves in curved lines from pole to pole. The curved lines will be observed that these lines curve into the ends or near the ends of the magnet. If the bar be suspended by an untwisted string it will come to rest with one end pointing a general north direction. This end is called the north pole, the other the south pole.

The space surrounding a magnet in any part of which the force from the magnet can be detected is called its magnetic field. It can be shown that the magnetic force is greatest in the neighbourhood of the poles. The lines of force belonging to a magnet are considered to commence at the north pole, pass through the surrounding space, enter at the south pole and continue through a bar magnet from the south to the north pole. A line every line of force is a closed curve.

The fact that a compass needle points approximately north and south (234½ degrees east of true north) is due to the fact that it is surrounded by a huge magnetic field having a south pole near the geographical north pole and a north pole near the south geographical pole because of this it is agreed upon by scientists that the pole which points in the north should be called the north seeking pole.

If Both Are Young

Chances Of Survival Until Golden Wedding One To Six

The chance that any married couple have of surviving to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary have been removed from the realm of doubt and put into an absolute category by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, according to a company bulletin.

When the bride is 22 and the bridegroom 25 years old, which is about the average example, it was found that they have approximately one chance in six of living out their fifty years together.

"The chance of this same couple surviving to their silver wedding is, of course, very much greater," the statisticians say; "in fact, just about three in four; and their chance of reaching their tenth anniversary is not far from certainty, namely, 937 per 1,000, or considerably in excess of nine in ten.

"The New York, who were moved to make their calculations by the growing number of marriages accompanying the approach to better business of nine in ten.

Sun Spots Indicate Period Of Greater Solar Activity

Two more large spots appearing on the sun's surface indicate that the eleven-year cycle of solar activity is again commencing, with its accompanying effects on the earth's radio, vegetable growth, lake levels, animal fecundity and even business prosperity, according to Dr. Orestes Caldwell, vice-chairman of the advisory committee on the new Planetarium at the American Museum of Natural History.

Pointing out that the sun spots in themselves are not portents of earthly events, Dr. Caldwell, who is editor of Electronics, explains that such spots are vast storms in the gases making up the sun's surface.

The presence of these sun spot storms indicates a period of greater solar activity, he says, which is manifested in increased electromagnetic oscillations that reach across the 186 000 miles to the earth causing auroras and upsetting communication circuits.

In turn this increased ionization speeds up vegetable and tree growth on the earth, stimulating crops and recording itself in the different spacing of tree rings, scientists find for many years. Animal life also appears affected, and Dr. Caldwell exhibits curves comparing the varying animal catch of Hudson Bay trappers with the corresponding numbers of sun spots for the same years. Although the same number of traps were set out each year, the catch of rabbits, foxes, etc., varied widely, increasing and decreasing in the number of animals roaming the woods, and this variation proved to be closely linked with the sun spot numbers.

TARIFF BOARD TO INVESTIGATE GASOLINE DUTY

Ottawa.—The tariff board has been asked by Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes to investigate the tariff on gasoline, the minister's reference covers crude petroleum and its derivatives. This includes items in the tariff schedule from 987 to 978.

The reference accompanied by a letter from the acting registrar of the co-operative associations of Saskatchewan, which contains a request of the executive of the co-operative trading associations of that province for downward revisions of the rates of customs duties on crude oil and its products.

The tariff on gasoline at present effective provides for a duty of two cents per gallon under the British preference, 2½ intermediate and 3½ general. These rates apply to gasoline, distilled, refined and purified petroleum oils, coal oil and kerosene, naphtha and other petroleols.

The letter said, in part:

"At a conference of co-operative associations which met in Regina in June, 1934, the membership of fuel oil, such as gasoline, kerosene, etc., was discussed in some detail. The fact that a number of branches of co-operative trading associations have been organized in this province for the purpose of manufacturing fuel oils on a co-operative basis, is one reason why the delegates gave this subject their consideration. In addition, they represent a total of approximately over large areas of the province, is another reason why the various phases of the fuel oil question is among the most important subjects of the agenda of the conference."

The letter goes on to state that a resolution was approved at the conference calling for the free entry of petroleum products into Canada. It then proceeds:

"The permanent executive of the conference instructed the undersigned to bring the matter to the attention of the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett. In acknowledging the receipt of the copy of the resolution Mr. Bennett suggested that the associations interested make an application to the tariff board for reduction of the tariff on crude oil and fuel oil products. He advised that the government would do everything in its power to expedite a hearing.

"I, therefore, have been instructed by the executive of the conference of co-operative associations of Saskatchewan to inquire whether arrangements can be made for a hearing by the tariff board in Regina in the near future, in order to enable the representatives of co-operative associations and others interested, to make the desired application for reduction of the tariff, argument in favor of a reduced tariff on crude oils and oil products."

Short Senate Debate

Social Legislation A New Step In Canadian Life Is Seen

Ottawa. — Without a dissenting voice, the senate adopted the second reading of the unemployment bill thrown in one of the shortest debates in 10 years. Adjournment of the upper chamber then was made until 3 p.m.

"I believe the country as a whole expects parliament to take action, and favorable action, during the present session," Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen said in commendation of the legislative program in closing the discussion.

Only three members of the upper chamber remained to hear the bill. Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, followed by Hon. J. P. B. Casgrain, Montreal, and Senator Meighen.

"Never before has parliament met with a menu of that attraction and such challenging fare," Senator Dandurand declared the government leader. "That care will be necessary in the framing of these measures goes without saying.

"That they will involve burdens upon those best able to pay goes without saying, but I ask hon. members who have watched the evolution of the world in the last 10 years who have examined the social conditions of this country itself, if in their hearts, they believe these things can be avoided."

The social legislation announced in the speech was a "new step in the pathway of Canada."

Alberta Judge Rules On Orders For Debt Adjustment

Edmonton. — Farmer-debtors who agree with their creditors to pay on a three-crop basis or some other fraction must fulfil their promises or run the risk of being punishable for theft, said any orders given in future for debt adjustment on that basis must be obeyed at the risk of bankruptcy proceedings, it was stated by Mr Justice A. L. Ewing at a sitting of the review board under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act.

Several cases have been before the board, it has developed, in which the debtor has been shown to have failed in whole or in part to live up to his contract in this respect, and the chairman therefore felt it necessary to warn that the "dishonest practice" must be stopped.

Maintenance of confidence in debtors' integrity is absolutely indispensable, he said, whatever their circumstances may be.

The Spirit Of The West

Speaker Tells Of Courage Of People In Drought Areas

Admiration for the fine and courageous spirit displayed by the people in drought areas of Western Canada was expressed at Ottawa by Rt. Rev James S Shortt, of Barry, Ont., moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyter an Church in Canada.

Appearing twice in Ottawa pulpits to relate experiences of his trip as moderator from the Atlantic to the Pacific Dr Shortt told of travelling through the drought areas

There he had found little but desolation. Great efforts were being made to supply the people with the very needs of existence

He had heard complaints and criticisms about the inequitable distribution of food and clothing and the methods of distribution, and he had a talk with Premier J G Gardiner of Saskatchewan, concerning the lowering of the people to other areas. It was decided, however, that it was better to leave them where they were

With an abnormal snowfall this winter people were looking ahead with optimism to a good summer as there would be more moisture than usual

Moscow's underground railway which has just carried its first experimental train, has been constructed by typical methods of "Socialist competition."

I was in the Soviet capital two years ago when the first shafts for the railway were being sunk

Above the boarding that encased each shaft activity towered what looked like a giant thermometer. It was a graduated board on which a pointer indicated day by day the depth to which the shaft had been sunk.

Every passerby could thus see which group were digging the hardest—and which required the stimulus of a "shock brigade."—London Daily Telegraph

Royal Bank of Canada Presents Strong Statement

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, Notes Increased Confidence in Business — Looks Forward to 1935 With Confidence.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reviews Financial Statements — Reports $50,000,000 Increase in Deposits

At the Sixty-Sixth Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada, held in Montreal, Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, paid tribute to the distinguished service rendered to the bank by Sir Herbert Holt, who had presided at numerous Annual Meetings for over a quarter of a century and whose outstanding ability and prestige have been important factors in the sound and consistent growth of the bank during his regime

In commenting on the strong financial position disclosed in the meeting, Mr. Wilson said that it reflected a year of operations under distinctly improved conditions both at home and abroad

Referring to the recent revision of the Bank Act and the Act incorporating the Bank of Canada, he stated that at the public hearings preceding these enactments, the bankers were able to justify their administration. He warned that the curtailment of existing power resulting from restrictions upon interest rates chargeable by banks and the withdrawal of note-issuing privileges will inevitably reduce the ability of banks to maintain unproductive branches in many communities Banking profits have been excessive, and if an efficient banking system is to be maintained there is a good reason which enforced economies to meet falling revenues on one hand and increasing expenses on the other cannot safely be carried.

Referring to taxation, Mr. Wilson said:

"For every dollar paid in dividends last year we paid sixty-seven cents to the Canadian tax-gatherer. This does not take into account the income tax paid by our shareholders themselves on dividends received from the Bank Surely these figures require no comment."

In discussing the improved conditions in Canada, Mr. Wilson pointed out that during the past year manufacturing and employment have approximated the levels of 1930; iron and steel production, the output of automobiles and the gross electrical energy had increased and the value of exports, particularly of natural products, had advanced substantially. The wheat crop was no larger, but considerably better in quality than last year's.

When Jesus asked his question a third time, Peter was grieved and replied, "Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee." Jesus said, "Feed my sheep." Again he said and all I did and all I am, but this then also however that the greatest thing in my heart is my love for thee. By that love which has borne me, which has failed in the hour of need, which has been mastered by thy love, I am what I am in my very soul, by that let me be judged." (John Watson).

The Flip Of A Coin

Governed The Ultimate Destiny Of A Prominent Canadian Family

A Canadian romance is unfolded in The Implement and Machinery Review (Great Britain). Quoting the phrase of the poet Schiller "There is no such thing as chance", the Journal says that "only a few years ago, as a subordinate clerk in the Bank of Montreal was nearing the port of New York, one of the passengers tossed a shilling in the air, and as it fell with a ringing sound on the deck he had a very cultured mind and a generous, refined facial expression.

However, her friend's writing was very obvious. There were definite characteristics of deceitfulness but of outright dishonesty He was a man who could lie very convincingly, but there was a distinct mental streak in him.

I advised my correspondent to give him up. It was a hard thing to ask, but my honest opinion was that he was not only her type, but that her future with him would be very unhappy.

I heard nothing more from my correspondent for a time. Then I received recently I received word from her and from her friend, and receiving my letter and recalling her own doubts about her friend, she had given him up. She had since discovered that the man had been married and that his wife was living in the United States. He had not been divorced

I feel sorry that I had to do with advice when it is given by an unbiased person—as, for example, a handwriting expert—it has to be of the spirit in which the simple matter in new York or elsewhere any statements made with your own knowledge about your friend. And it gives you definite points to watch out for.

It is up to you whether you will attempt to effect a change in the habits or characteristics of your friend, or whether the traits revealed are such that you should advise the association aforesaid.

And in this connection, it is worthy of note that young people in love are more amenable to suggestions as to their behaviour, faults and virtues than later on when they are married

Can Mr Hibbert help you.' Have you any problems that his advice might help you? If so write him You want to know the truth about your friends? PETER'S RESTORATION

Golden text: Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. John 21:17.

Lesson: Mark 16:7, John 20:1-10; 21:1-23.

Devotional Reading: I. Peter 1: 3-12.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Restoration, Jn. 21:15-17. After the disciples had broken their fast, Jesus turned to Peter and said, "Simon, son of John, (notice that he does not call him Peter, Rock) lovest thou me more than these (the disciples love me)?" This recalls Peter's boast in last week's lesson, "If all shall be offended in thee, I will never be offended." Now he replies, "Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee." Note that he is too humble now to claim priority over, he does not say "I love thee more than these."

Then said Jesus, "Feed my lambs," thus telling the heart-broken Peter that his ministry shall be service. He must have a chance to redeem himself. A second time Jesus asked the same question, "Lovest thou me?" Peter replies, "Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee." Then said Jesus, "Feed my sheep." Do the lambs typify the children, or is Jesus' standard of ministry spiritual rather than physical? An English commentator writes: "Here is a great human frailty; there are some who are becoming more and more 'fellow-workers' with him. These correspond to the elder children, growing towards real companionship. But there are others who are spiritually undeveloped—like the newly converted, little lambs. Paul said and all I did and all I am, but this then also however that the greatest thing in my heart is my love for thee. By that love which has borne me, which has failed in the hour of need, which has been mastered by thy love, I am what I am in my very soul, by that let me be judged." (John Watson).

The Flip Of A Coin

Governed The Ultimate Destiny Of A Prominent Canadian Family

A Canadian romance is unfolded in The Implement and Machinery Review (Great Britain). Quoting the phrase of the poet Schiller "There is no such thing as chance", the Journal says that "only a few years ago, as a subordinate clerk in the Bank of Montreal was nearing the port of New York, one of the passengers tossed a shilling in the air, and as it fell with a ringing sound on the deck he had a very cultured mind and a generous, refined facial expression.

However, her friend's writing was very obvious. There were definite characteristics of deceitfulness but of outright dishonesty He was a man who could lie very convincingly, but there was a distinct mental streak in him.

I advised my correspondent to give him up. It was a hard thing to ask, but my honest opinion was that he was not only her type, but that her future with him would be very unhappy.

I heard nothing more from my correspondent for a time. Then I received recently I received word from her and from her friend, and receiving my letter and recalling her own doubts about her friend, she had given him up. She had since discovered that the man had been married and that his wife was living in the United States. He had not been divorced

I feel sorry that I had to do with advice when it is given by an unbiased person—as, for example, a handwriting expert—it has to be of the spirit in which the simple matter in new York or elsewhere any statements made with your own knowledge about your friend. And it gives you definite points to watch out for.

It is up to you whether you will attempt to effect a change in the habits or characteristics of your friend, or whether the traits revealed are such that you should advise the association aforesaid.

And in this connection, it is worthy of note that young people in love are more amenable to suggestions as to their behaviour, faults and virtues, than later on when they are married

Now comes a good word for the cannibals, especially those who live in New Guinea They won t eat you if you get a formal introduction first Dr Margaret Mead of the American Museum of Natural History After the introduction they consider you a friend and confine their eating to their enemies Dr. Mead spent considerable time in New Guinea.

In Bed With Neuritis Every Winter

Until Kruschen Brought Relief

"For three years," writes a woman, "I have been sick in bed about three months every winter with neuritis in my hips and legs. Last winter I started using Kruschen Salts, and got relief from the first dose. This winter I have not been in bed at all."—(Mrs.) D. M.

Neuritis is a result of impurities in the blood. And it is impure blood, circulating all over the system and setting up inflammation in the tissues, that causes those excruciating pains. Kruschen Salts can be safely relied on to set the matter right. Because Kruschen contains just what Nature needs to persuade your internal organs back into a healthy, normal condition.

I know that it is one of the most difficult things in the world to try and understand the kind of person who are in love. And if the advice I give appears to be governed by my feelings at the moment—so much the worse.

So that the case I am going to quote in this article is particularly timely.

Some six months ago, a young lady living in Ontario, sent me a rather long letter, asking me to analyse the man she was very friendly with—a fellow-lodger, who had asked her to marry him.

She was fond of him in many ways, and was very much interested in accepting his proposal. But there were certain characteristics in connection with him that didn't quite please her. She couldn't for instance, make out whether he was serious or not as to his past. He was somewhat vague, also as to his future expenditures as to his family, and so on. He was inconsistent.

All this gave her cause to pause, and she decided to ask my advice as to his suitability. Quoting definitely that she would act entirely on what I told her. Her friend, by the way, was a man about 36, and her own age was 32.

This was a very serious situation, indeed, for my correspondent showed in her own handwriting that she had a very cultured mind and a generous, refined facial expression.

However, her friend's writing was very obvious. There were definite characteristics of deceitfulness but of outright dishonesty He was a man who could lie very convincingly, but there was a distinct mental streak in him.

I advised my correspondent to give him up. It was a hard thing to ask, but my honest opinion was that he was not only her type, but that her future with him would be very unhappy.

I heard nothing more from my correspondent for a time. Then I received recently I received word from her and from her friend, and receiving my letter and recalling her own doubts about her friend, she had given him up. She had since discovered that the man had been married and that his wife was living in the United States. He had not been divorced

By GEORGE B. ROONEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail", "The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the foreman told Gerald Kane. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Duro, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch houses.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions the Kane-Duro dispute could be settled by marrying Gerald to Edith. Stone refused to have anything to do with such a proposal, with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly shoves Dustin into a pool of water.

Stone tells Crewe, his foreman, about his encounter with Dustin, and is warned that Dustin would kill him if he got the chance. Stone and Crewe go to fence to send a telegram to Gerald forever. While at fence an elk is caught in the wire and Stone is compelled to kill Stone, who becomes more than a match for his enemies.

Dustin and Spike Goddard discover that Stone has been at work. Dustin finds that Stone has been the Broken Spur man responsible for cutting the fence. He with Dad Kane to locate the location of his gold discovery and appropriate its value. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine and samples of the rich ore to find out exactly how things stand so we decided it would be best for him to come down and find out exactly what the trouble is and. . . ."

"You mean . . . ." The red head flung back in wrath. "You mean that you came as a spy in the camp to find out if the Hour-glass is broke . . . ."

"Do I mean that? You listen to me, Edith Carr, and stop bein' a fool. I'm a western-bred man and I know my business. I know that a man does not tie to a man without reason I know that when Peter Vinton took your father as his partner, old Joe Carr was a man worth tyin' to. . . ." Her eyes lit at that with a different light and she even smiled a little

"If Keene had come down here and all the world knew him as Gerald Keene how far would he have gone in getting proof of the crooked work of this man Dustin"

"You mean that you represent Mr Keene"

"Exactly. But remember that no one else must know it. The whole thing will be clear on the tenth when Keene unmasks

She studied him for a long min ute. She noted the lean brown of his jaw, the quiet smoky-grey eyes ab ove with hazel sparks. She noted the firm lips and the generous chin Then she took in the rippling muscles from wrist to shoulder and the hour glass waist. She noted him but that she said never a word. She nerves subsided but that nod was one of complete and utter satisfaction There was something about the Hour Duro Stone that gave her a sense of great relief. The thin gaunt face of his wife now living in the United States. He had not been divorced

"Then you mean that you are grateful for the advice that had en tangled her in a most embarrassing situation if not worse

"I'll say that I do with advice when it is given by an unbiased person—as, for example, a handwriting expert—it has to be of the spirit in which the simple matter in new York or elsewhere any statements made with your own knowledge about your friend. And it gives you definite points to watch out for.

It is not how much years are in the but what we do with them.

"Old Kane knows more than I gave him credit for," he said. "Did you ever read any surveying, Edith? No? I thought not. . . . Well, I'll tell you something . . . Out in the West where trees are by no means plentiful, surveyors have to use the most permanent means they can to mark the claims they desire. Back East trees are used. Out here they have to use what they can get They have found that rimrock makes a good land mark. is the most permanent means This can of charcoal marks a corner of the claim that old Kane had selected. He's run his lines from this can so as to include all the land he thinks has got ore on it. That's what he's after, of course . . ."

"I should have thought he would have described the claim in his notebook," she said.

"No. . . . That's where he's wise Don't you see? He's a partner of this man Dustin's and he doesn't trust Dustin. That's it. More Taxes

New Ways Of Increasing Revenues Considered By Quebec Government

New forms of taxation being considered by the Quebec government were outlined by Premier L. A. Taschereau in the legislative assembly as follows

A tax on soft drinks

A tax of between five and 10 per cent on amusements

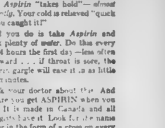
A tax on certain commercial operations

A sales tax.

An increase in the gasoline tax from six to seven cents per gallon, provided Ontario would agree to make a similar increase

The veteran premier spoke at length following opening of the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne by Maurice Duplessis, K.C., leader of the opposition.

BEFORE BABY CAME



Mrs George S. Brown of Toronto, Ont., says: "Before baby came I suffered from constipation. I was always taking pills and laxatives. Now I drink Kellogg's All-Bran every day and I have no more trouble. I feel fine. I'm sure Kellogg's All-Bran helped me very much."

Kellogg's All-Bran is a delicious cereal. Two tablespoonfuls daily usually bring relief. Get it at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Ask for it by name. Refuse substitutes.

Two tablespoonfuls equal 1½ cups bran. Use as cereal, in cooking, baking. Serve with milk, cream, fruit. Delicious. Ready to eat. Sold by all grocers.

Real Civic Election Campaign in Progress

First Mayoralty Contest in Twelve Years; Considerable Feeling In Evidence

Vermilion is in the midst of its first mayoralty campaign for twelve years the candidates being W. A. Fallow, mayor for ten years, and R. Carl Hesbert, well known insurance agent and a member of the town council for the past year.

Peculiarly enough, both the nominees of the last election for mayor, in 1933, are candidates for council this year. Those are Chas. W. Robinson and John W. G. Morrison.

A very representative slate of six are in the field for the four vacancies on the council. They are Edward Davies and Dr. W. H. Scott, seeking re-election, and Chas. W. Robinson, Geo. C. Webb, J. W. G. Morrison and Wesley Waldemberger.

THREE NOMINATED FOR SCHOOL BOARD

The two vacancies on the school board have brought out three nominees, Frank Baker seeking re-election Dr. Clarke and Thos. Wells.

Considerable civic campaign literature will be found elsewhere in this issue.

District Court

The February sittings of the district court were held at Vermilion on Tuesday, His Honor Judge Dubue presiding. One small debt case was tried, that of Roy Garrett vs D. M. Brown, an action for balance due for wood sold by the defendant on the land of the plaintiff in the Kitscoty district. The case was dismissed each party paying his own costs. McCrory for plaintiff, Morrison for defendant. The Judge granted six applications for mutual bastion.

Mike Chmiler turning west on town was found guilty in the district court here on Tuesday for the theft of some 150 bushels of grain the property of Mr. Clarke and Thos. Wells Company, under a third step lease executed by the accused in July last. Chmiler was represented by J. G. Morrison K.C. while A. H. Gibson K.C. acted for the Crown. The accused did not testify, his defence being that the loss was due to the fact that the time had expired on the grain passed to the montage company at least such property as remained there by a change of the first. The land is held by Chmiler under an agreement for sale with one Smith and the Judge held that he should have accounted for a the the crop either to Smith or to montage company and should have appreciated the whole thing to himself even if he had other pressing claims against him and which he felt should be paid. Mr. Morrison made a strong plea for lenient sentence on the fact that the mortgage company could have pounced on the property in the adverse manner in their claim to an interest in the crop, but the sentence under the Seizure Judge in view of the circumstances remanded Chmiler for a month to make any conditions at which time he will come before him for sentence

Hiding Place Of Gold

Offer To Show South African Government Where Boer Treasure Is Located

Capt. A. W. Lewis, retired reporter who claims decorations for Boer war services, announced at Bromley, Calif., that he had offered to show the South African government the exact location of the long-sought Boer commando cache, estimated worth at $35,000,000.

Lewis said he had written to the high commissioner for the Union of South Africa at Pretoria, Transvaal, making two conditions. That he be compensated for revealing the hiding place of the gold, and that the British government sponsor an expedition to recover the gold and protect him against civil lawsuits by any Boer owners claiming the property upon which the cache stands.

Commodity Description

Numerous Discoveries Of Fraudulent Advertising Are Brought To Light

Establishment of an associate committee on consumer commodity standards, comprising technical members of the national research council, representatives of industry consumers and government departments was urged on the royal commission on mass buying by Dr. H. M. Tory president of the council.

Dr. Tory's evidence was taken up chiefly with explanations to the commission of examinations made by the council into various commodities and their genuineness or otherwise.

He told of numerous discoveries of fraudulent advertising and emphasized the confusion in the minds not only of the consumer but also of retailers themselves regarding commodities for which no standards of quality or content existed.

Descriptions existed in state examples in the advertisement and sale of gasoline and lubricating oil. Certain brands of paint were sold under names of non-existent companies, because, he said, "the manufacturers were ashamed to put their names on them."

A silver-plated mug, selling at $1.50 was found to contain no more silver per unit of area than a nine-cent butter knife purchased at a local chain store," said Dr Tory

He told of examination of all Dominion and provincial statutes having to do with standards to determine what changes were needed to relate them to consumer needs

Would Revive Building Act

Removed Old Restrictions Asked By London County Council

An increase in the height of London buildings from the present limit of 80 feet to from 100 to 150 feet is one of the aims of the London County Council in its bid to Parliament for powers to rebuild the city and pass a new one for the alternative making of the world's metropolis.

The sweeping up in the passing of plans for new buildings is another object the LCC has in view.

The draft bill to be submitted to the British parliament by the London County Council embraces the classification of buildings into five grades according to height and fire resisting materials used also the abolition of restrictions which limit the use of reinforced concrete and steel frame building.

For two years and a half a committee has been working out proposals to be embodied in a new bill to take the place of the present London Building Act. This is a consolidation measure which still retains certain clauses that were in operation in the 17th century and what is wanted now in a modern London is elastic architecture Antiquated safety regulations make it impossible for builders in London to avail themselves of the latest methods of modern construction hence the County Council's insistence for 150-foot buildings

NOT A RHEUMATIC PAIN FOR 4 YEARS

70-Year-Old Man Praises Kruschen

A man who once suffered severely from rheumatism writes:—

"For a long time I suffered with rheumatism, and at one time was laid up for about nine weeks. About five years ago I was advised to try Kruschen. I did so, and have continued using them ever since. Kruschen did the trick as I have not had a rheumatic pain for over four years. I am nearly 70 years of age, and feeling fit, and always able for my day's work thanks to Kruschen." — A. S.

Kruschen dissolves away those needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush these dissolved crystals clean out of the system. Then if you keep up "the little daily dose," excess uric acid will never form again.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Graphe-Analyst)

(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: Letters of communication coming in each day from readers who have obtained a personal reading of their handwriting by this noted expert, Mr. Hibbert, for a character delineation. See the end of this article for offer.)

A girl from a small rural town writes me as follows: "Will you please tell me if my handwriting shows whether there is anything the matter with my personality? I am a fairly good looking girl, but I don't seem able to keep my boy friends. Perhaps my writing will tell you just what is wrong, and then you can help me to enjoy a better existence. As it is, I am lonely and I cannot see why I should be so."

Looking at this girl's writing, it is very evident that she is inclined to be reserved. She is capable of feeling intensely, but is very backward in expressing her emotions. She holds herself back. This is the reason that she does not reveal her real self to her friends.

She seems cool and distant when, in reality, she is very much alive. Yet her native reserve and restraint make her seem so. And there are a lot of people who do not like that. They do not understand her, and so they pass her by. She needs a lot affectionate, or is too haughty. The fact is that she is neither, and the company of others who are more open in the expression of their feelings.

There are many people situated similarly to my correspondent in most every town. It should be easy if one puts to know them and understand them, to be the majority of people they do not appeal.

I am going to suggest to my friend that she undertake to change herself. This would be impossible. What I do suggest is that she study faults and defect in our character, and to strengthen and develop qualities, it is quite out of the question to write like other people because of one's temperament. To ask this girl to change her nature to that of the more vivacious and spontaneous one, would be like expecting the leopard to change its spots or the zebra to change its manner of rotation

What he is asking this girl to do is a little more expressive One great drawback to this type of writing is that a tendency to be ultra-sensitive. Very frequently they imagine slights where none exist. The result of this makes them more aloof and inaccessible. To "put on a cheerful face" is the expression. They are of the earth, but not earthy.

I suggest to my correspondent that she come down to earth. We all have to accept a certain amount of "give and take," unless we intend to live always in the higher realms of the clouds.

Endeavor in core yourself of this weakness. It will not be easy, of course. It won't do it in a day or a week. But we will overcome it in a long way to overcoming it, and it will be just a lot of worry and unhappiness in the future. Endeavor to be more sociable and to mix more readily to your real friends or to those you would like to have.

You may not be able to transform yourself into the overwhelmingly popular woman you would like to be, but you will be far more likable to those among whom you are actually interested. And that is, after all, the object in seeking.

Would you like to find out what your character really shows? Have you any friends whose real natures you have wished to know? The author of these articles will send you a personal reading of their writing with a great deal to you. Send specimens of the writing you want analyzed, and state the birthdate of each one. Enclose 10c coin for each specimen, and enclose with a 3c stamped, addressed envelope, to Lawrence Hibbert, care of Western Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Avenue, Winnipeg, Man. Letters are all confidential and replies will be mailed as quickly as possible. Please allow for some delay however, owing to the large number of letters that are coming in.

Maid While you were gone ma'am, your little Willie swallowed a bug but dont worry I had him take an insect powder."

News Leaks Often Serious

Changed Things In Two Outstanding Cases During War

A nation's decision for peace or war is usually swung by something more than a single document or news item. Frequently there is always the march's famous bit of juggling in the Ems dispatch. But in the actual conduct of military operations intercepted information has often been of vital importance.

The two outstanding cases in the World War, occurred on the western front. Nivelle's great offensive on the Chemin des Dames in April, 1917, collapsed because the Germans knew long before that it was coming. The Germans were in turn the victims of a fatal news leakage in the summer of 1918. Ludendorff's last desperate bid for victory, the so-called Friedensturm of July 15 on the Champagne front, was revealed to the French by a prisoner. They pulled back their line, trained their guns on their own abandoned trenches and caught the German army in a trap. Three days later Foch unleashed the final counter-offensive.

Russian Cities Growing

New Ones Starting And Old Ones Booming

City life is gaining in importance in Russia so rapidly that, in the last three years the population of Moscow has increased by nearly 1,000,000 to 3,600,000, and that of Leningrad by more than 500,000. The growth will necessitate an application. No more will sermons now. The new order had resulted because there are one little word of two letters in the apostle's ... and word is "y". (Frank W. Warne).

Peter's Ekaterinburg and his Resnik, verses 37-41. Peter's words, especially his appeal to prophecy, were convincing to the Jews; and the hearers asked at their conscience—"whom ye crucified" pricked their hearts, convinced them of their sin, and they cried: "Brethren, what shall we do?" How can we be freed from our guilt?

"Repent ye, and be baptised every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit," was Peter's exhortation. They must not only repent of their sins, but they must change their view in regard to Jesus Christ: the One whom they had regarded as a false Christ they must accept as the true Christ, and they must acknowledge this by being baptised.

Peter's hearers heeded his words and there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls.

One Of Curious Sights

Millions Of Grasshoppers Frozen In Glacier in Montana

Probably one of the most curious sights of the world is a glacier full of frozen grasshoppers. Such a horror is Grasshopper Glacier, and is to be seen in Montana, United States. The huge mass of ice is the tomb of which the grasshoppers are buried, is under the shadow of Granite Peak, a 12,000 foot mountain. Millions and millions of grasshoppers are embedded in the ice of the glacier, and no one knows how many thousands of years they have been there. They must near the surface are plainly seen through the clear ice. Just how the grasshoppers came to be in the ice is a matter which has long perplexed scientists. One idea is that the insects were suddenly killed by a cold wave and that as they were crossing the mountains on one of their periodic flights southwards. Falling, they became buried in ice and snow.

March Written By Prince

Lilting Tune Composed For Bagpipes Is Called "Majorca"

The news that the Prince of Wales had written a new march to be played on the bagpipes caused great surprise in court circles

Pipe-Major F. MacDonald of the Scots Guards said the new march had an "invigorating and inspiring lilt." He said the Scots Guards played the prince's tune at the Tower of London a few days ago. No one knew who was the composer.

The prince called the new march "Majorca."

PETER PREACHES AT PENTECOST

Golden text: And Peter said unto them, Repent ye, and be baptised every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins: and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. Acts 2:38.

Lesson: Acts 2.

Devotional reading: Philippians 2: 5-11.

Explanations And Comments

Peter's Sermon: Jesus Fulfilled the Prophecy of Joel, verses 14-21. Peter's first object was to prove that Jesus fulfilled the Old Testament prophecies and expectations in regard to the Messiah; accordingly, he told them that the events of Pentecost which had so amazed them were but the fulfilment of Joel's prophecy (Joel 2: 28-32); that at the coming of the Messiah God's Spirit would be poured forth, and old and young, men and women, bond and free, would see visions and speak divine truths.

Peter's Sermon: Three Proofs that Jesus Is the Christ, verses 22-36. First, there were the miracles which his hearers themselves had witnessed; second, there was the resurrection, of which they all were witnesses; third, Jesus had been given the send to higher life and wider power. Third, there was the pouring forth of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, which they had seen and heard. Jesus still lived and cared for his followers, for it was he who had sent the Spirit. Furthermore, the resurrection and exaltation fulfilled a prophecy of David, as given in Psalm 110:1.

The Climax of Peter's Sermon, verses 36. "This sermon would have had no effect without an application. No more will sermons now. The sermon had results because there was one little word of two letters in the apostle's ... and word is "y". (Frank W. Warne).

Peter's Exhortation and Its Result, verses 37-41. Peter's words, especially his appeal to prophecy, were convincing to the Jews; and the hearers asked at their consciences—"whom ye crucified" pricked their hearts, convinced them of their sin, and they cried: "Brethren, what shall we do?" How can we be freed from our guilt?

"Repent ye, and be baptised every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit," was Peter's exhortation. They must not only repent of their sins, but they must change their view in regard to Jesus Christ: the One whom they had regarded as a false Christ they must accept as the true Christ, and they must acknowledge this by being baptised.

Peter's hearers heeded his words and there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls.

LITTLE GIRLS DRESS WITH DAINTY NECK AND SLEEVES TRY PRACTICAL PR FOR SCHOOL

Pattern 959

By Ellen Worth

Wool crepe is leading itself to numberless darling school dresses this season. It is not necessarily dark crepe but all the lighter shades in mode's palette, too.

Bright red wool crepe was chosen for this adorable little dress. It is so charming and effective against the navy blue crepe trim.

When you consider, there are simply dozens of occasions when to be plump on the buggies caused great surprises in court circles

Pipe-Major F. MacDonald of the Scots Guards said the new march had an "invigorating and inspiring lilt." He said the Scots Guards played the prince's tune at the Tower of London a few days ago. No one knew who was the composer.

The prince called the new march "Majorca."

Little Journeys In Science

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

All of the heavenly bodies, including the earth upon which we live, are separated from each other by space. For years scientists have been asking themselves the question "what is space"? There is a wide difference of opinion about it. Scientists have shown that the earth, in moving through space, does not drag the other along with it, as it apparently would if the other were present. Hence some think that the other does not exist. No one, however, seems to think of space as void, or empty. While some scientists object to the term ether, they still believe that there is "something" in the vacuum between the planets.

All light, heat, and cosmic rays, as well as enormous numbers of electrons, pass through this vacuum in reaching our planet. Above and at the earth's surface, the molecules dart hither and thither at the speed of about one-quarter of a mile per second. Through these rapid gyrations, thus bombarding our bodies with a pressure of fifteen pounds per square inch

The upper layer of the atmosphere is known as the Kennelly-Heaviside layer. The constant bombardment of this layer of air by cosmic rays from space causes the air to become electrically charged. Thus wireless radio waves and causing fading. Scientists have sent out intermittent radio pulses which were photographically recorded on an instrument three miles away. By comparing the direct and reflected impulses, the latter were shown to have travelled 70 miles upward and back again. Science has reproduced the sky's blue by bombarding electrically charged molecules of air with electrons and it is believed that electrons from space bombarding the electrically charged molecules of air in the Kennelly-Heaviside layer of the atmosphere are at least partly responsible for the blue color of the sky.

Indian Dies Without Telling Where He Found Gold

Search has been ordered among a maze of winding mountain trails in Alberta for a legendary fortune in gold, which an Indian died without revealing. Old Dan Cary, 87-year-old Indian, once was reported to have procured enough nuggets to save his life from starvation.

The key to the long-hidden secret was believed to have been held alone by the aged patriarch who died at the Sarcee Indian reserve camp on Jan. 16. Proffered bribes and persuasions failed to gain from the old Indian the source of a supply of gold nuggets he was reputed to have brought from the hills many years ago

POLICE COURT

Police Magistrate Kennedy reluctantly looked like a small-sized distillery on Monday afternoon when Frank Indoni of the Vermilion district and Mike Gula of the Mannheim district were each charged with infractions of the Liquor Act. Constable Pearce of the R.C.M.P. Exhibit number one in the proceedings consisted of a 10-gallon still, a quantity of mash and a number of bottles containing home-made hooch. Gula denied all knowledge of the exhibits as placed on the table. The exhibits as placed on the table demonstrate a fresh haul the appearance of a night club after a police raid while the cans and piping resembled the embryo distillery. The accused drew a fine of $100 and costs each, or three months with hard labor. Indoni was given a month within which to pay, while Gula will be the guest of good authorities at the Fort for the magistrate's discretion.

VERMILION WARDS SECOND DEFEAT TO LLOYDMINSTER

Score 3 Goals to 1

Vermilionites native sons handed the league leading Prairies from Lloydminster their second straight defeat here on Friday night in a fairly decisive manner, the score being 3-1, with the winners value for their victory. The locals again had the visitors soundly smooth attack completely bottled up, and in the second stanza unleashed a furious assault that netted them three goals in six minutes. The wily Hoffman called on his whole bag of tricks to turn the tables; he changed his plan of attack from a wide passing one to his wingers near the boards, to a short passing game in centre ice. He used four forwards at times and then, in the last minutes, had five men playing up continuously to tie the score. The result was a bang-up crowd-pleasing exhibition with both teams turning in A1 performances.

The opening period saw a margin of play in favor of the Prairies, and Barney was called upon to stop 11 shots, one period by him, while Brown's quota was only six. Early in the period Referee Harold Dean penalized Masson Barr for what looked, from the press box, to be an absolutely fair body check, and during his absence in the cooler Lloyd, turned on a concerted attack which bore fruit when Bobbie McIver netted their lone count.

The Weber-Raymond combed lads rapidly took charge in the second canto and it fell to Masson Barr to open the local scoring on a beauty, well over the prairie, Masson carried the puck from his own defence zone, shaded down the right boards and made a feint to go around Brown, but quickly stood he shifted suddenly and hooked the puck into the corner of the net. That was the signal, and English passed to Corson who notched the second counter, while a split minute later Hunscombe and English went through fast. Fred Taking Jack's place to make it 3-1 in this period Ken Corson sprung an old chesterhorse and was out for the rest of the game while his place was filled by Doug. Jamieson.

Lloydminster had a large margin of territorial play in the final frame, but failed to get in many shots, Barney handling 5 pucks while Brown stopped 6. The locals threw up a determined defensive that made the visitors' efforts of no avail.

Harold Dean, Lloydminster, refereed.

GREENLAWN AND RIVERTON ITEMS

The Riverton U.F.A. has divided into four groups for the purpose of forming committees to provide monthly programs. There seems to be a fringe of competitive spirit concerning the plan and they are hoping for interesting results. They are also giving a series of whist and bridge drives this winter, mostly for entertainment but also to raise the convention delegate's expenses. They are proving popular.

On Wednesday, Jan. 23rd, Mrs. R. J. Spicer gave a miscellaneous shower at her home for Mrs. Fred Mills, a recent bride. Quite a number of ladies braved the 40 below zero weather and enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess. The decorations were very artistic.

The bride, formerly Miss Joan Shortsbury of Berkshire, wishes to express her friendly appreciation of their good wishes and beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ost East went to Edmonton recently to visit their little daughter in the Royal Alex. hospital. Her condition remains the same.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of one of Riverton's popular bachelors Mr. Harold Maihl Cox, who has been spending the winter in Riverhurst, Sask., to Miss Effie Honey of that place. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Thompson Jardine and Mrs. Wm. Bruch of Riverhurst. The couple will be at home on the groom's farm in a few weeks.

The Young People's Club held a banquet in the Greenlawn hall Saturday evening, Jan. 26th. There were 61 in attendance, and after a short business session following the feast, they had a very enjoyable dance

The six Riverton U.F.A. members who made up the carload that drove to the convention in Calgary about the middle of January had a very interesting and exceedingly fortunate trip in spite of the severe weather. They visited with friends in Edmonton over Sunday on the way home. Mr. Frank Gray was the delegate from Greenlawn.

Mr. Rob Walker of Riverton was called to Lacombe on account of the serious illness of his mother.

A joint U.F.A. and Pool meeting will be held in Island Hill school on Monday, Feb. 11th at 8 o'clock in the evening. Speakers are Mr. Andrew Wood and Mr. L. Green. A similar meeting is to be held at Union school to be addressed by the above speakers on Tuesday, Feb. 12th at the same hour.

WILDMERE WINKS

News is rather scarce this week, the only thing, though, we have had a pleasant break in the weather, which was very welcome after being so cold! This warm spell will cause the snow to settle and make it easier for those who have feed to haul, as upsetting has been quite a common happening. Basswood Social Club was to have had their annual meeting on Saturday, Jan. 26th, but only seven or eight turned out, so no meeting was held. Why so mum, folks?

Mr and Mrs. Wallington visited on Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gullfoyle, and Fridas evening with Mr and Mrs Gillmore both Basswood families.

Tommy Cairns with a team and sleigh and Eric Madill with his truck engny, had a very heavy trip on Sunday, for a week ago after the snow came. The trip took six hours and a lot of shovelling and pushing. Bobbs Martin and Douglas Sudey came out with them.

Eric Madill had to put teams on to finish hauling his hay to town owing to the snow being too deep to haul with his truck.

CURLING CLUBS ARE COMMUNITY BUILDERS

(Vankleek Hill Review)

The seasonable weather has favored the sport lovers of curling, and this week we find all the district clubs had curling for Christmas. The number of curlers in the district will number nigh four hundred. These four hundred people come in contact with one another several times during the months of January and February and always in a real friendly manner, and not in the least antagonistical. The men and women gather together day after day for a whirl with the "granites" or "irons" as the case may be, while behind the plate glass remain the perfect curlers and "rummy boys." Amidst all this joyfulness there is a fund of knowledge imparted to one another, to some it is how to curl, and to others how and where to secure a bit of commercial trade, or perhaps a dairy farming problem solved. All such things transpire within the walls of a curling club, and even any man afford to pass up joining such an institution as a curling club. A club where [illegible] spots predominated, and where you can come in contact with your business associates in a game mannly manner.

TO THE ELECTORS OF VERMILION

Monday morning of this week I wrote out a petition requesting the Town Council to arrange a public meeting to discuss Town affairs. I gave this petition to one of our ratepayers and asked him to get ten signatures and present the petition to the secretary. The following morning I found the petition had not been presented and on making enquiries I was told that the business men felt that it would cause too much strife and that they would rather not have a meeting. I do not concur in this opinion as it is the only means by which the people can judge the policies of the various candidates. It is also the most effective means of bringing to the attention of the electors those matters on which they are entitled to be informed. I have therefore no alternative but to throw light on these matters through the public press, although I much prefer to discuss them from a public platform.

The first element of strife in make that commencing with the election of the 1934 Council, in addition to the fact that the majority of the Council manifested a very hostile attitude towards my self and everything that was trying to do in the interests of the ratepayers, your Council chamber ceased to be a place where public business was openly discussed and debated. It has been quite obvious that matters of public moment have been pre-arranged before the Council meetings. At the meeting on 1st inst. I advised the Mayor in an endless number of all committee meetings, of which I had been notified of any such meeting. I submit that to carry on the public business in this manner is to destroy every principle of democratic government.

One of the main reasons why I wished to have a public meeting was to give me an opportunity to thoroughly air certain contemptible matters which are being freely discussed on the street with respect to certain personal dealings I have had with the Town. I will welcome the most searching enquiry into these matters. Does it not appear to you that the council who have been peddling these statements are casting serious reflection on their own integrity in being a party to an agreement which they regard as unlawful? Further, the statement has been made in Council that any of my personal dealings with the Town have been anything but square and above board. I leave it to you to judge whether a mistake during the past year has not been a credit and a help to the Town of Vermilion as I have demonstrated my faith in the future of Vermilion by investing every dollar I own in it.

The question of paramount importance to the taxpayers of Vermilion, whether Mr. Heckbert admits it or not, is clear cut and well defined. No one could sit in council with him for two years without knowing where his sympathies lie with respect to public ownership of utilities; notwithstanding his public protestations in the press to contrary he has never lost an opportunity to condemn the present public utilities. He has sought by every means in his power during the past year to discredit them. He has stated on more than one occasion that in his opinion they were a liability rather than an asset and that he would at the following resolution was presented to Council after a very heated discussion.

"Moved by Councillor Heckbert, seconded by Councillor Sheutt, that the Council proceed to form a committee to be composed of the head of the Electrical Engineering Dept. of the University of Alberta, if he will act; the chairman of the P. U. C. and a member of the Town and some other to be jointly agreed upon by them and that this committee be asked to investigate the report of the Town Light Power and Heat plant with a view to ascertaining

1. If the plant is making or losing money
2. If losing money, what steps are necessary to bring the plant to a paying basis.
3. If public ownership of utilities is more profitable than the purchase and distribution of power from a private source."

I advised the Council that before I could put the motion it would have to be specifically the amount of money to be appropriated to this purpose and if so where the money was to come from, as no appropriation had been made for such purpose. As a result of subsequent discussion an amendment was moved and carried to the effect that this investigation be conducted by the K.L. & P. committee of the council and a report brought in at the next meeting. No report has yet been submitted.

In the meantime the annual statement has been prepared which shows a net operating surplus of $1023.67 I explained at the last meeting that the net surplus in reality was $7300 as we had written off $6100 on water account used in 1933 to the operating cost of 1934. The secretary-treasurer admitted that this was correct.

I ask you in all fairness if there is any chance or prospect in voting on any several hundred dollars of public money to enable us to acquire the assets of the utility when any man with a fair knowledge of accounting could obtain the information himself by simply referring to our own records.

Further, in view of my administration of your affairs I have always held that a municipality was a business concern and as such was entitled to conduct its business to the advantage of all the people without favor to any individual or group of people. Until the last year we have been purchasing our supplies and equipment from whole sale firms except for materials which have been purchased locally. This policy has saved the taxpayers thousands of dollars during these years. Since Councillor Hill took charge of this department at the beginning of 1933 that policy has been largely abandoned and we are now purchasing these supplies and materials locally most of which is being supplied by his own store.

These accounts for 1934 run into hundreds of dollars and although charges, some error on the part of our secretary-treasurer he overpaid Mr. Northern Hardware about $40.00 last year, part of this amount still stands to our credit on their books. If this vicious principle is not stopped I say without hesitation it will lead to a policy of unbridled chiselling and will eventually ruin your utilities. Search the history of public ownership of utilities in Alberta and you will find in most, if not in all, cases those institutions have been wrecked on the altar of greed and selfishness. Almost every more Councillor Hill has made since he has been in office has been a direct cost to the taxpayers needless expenditure and has left the plant in poorer condition than before. Several changes have been made at the plant by Councillor Hill which were dead against my advice. After making these changes which have caused needless expense and done serious damage to our machinery and equipment he had to revert to the original arrangement. He has consistently ignored my advice in these matters and has had the wholehearted support of Mr. Heckbert. Now Mr. Heckbert's candidature for Mayor is supported by Mr. J. W. G. Morrison who at the last Council meeting in Mr. Morrison's opposition to public ownership is now well known to the people of Vermilion to require any comment from me. What possible chance has our utilities to survive the combined efforts of this trio?

Throughout the year Mr. Heckbert has led the attack against citizens who were in arrears in taxes and service charges. He has never ceased to decry the financial ability of the majority of people who were in arrears. Although there was some slight improvement in economic conditions in 1934 the net result of Mr. Heckbert's efforts is that we collected less taxes in 1934 than we did in 1933. Were it not for the fact that the end of April was commencement last year and one or two more comments collected up such the same result would have been shown concerning our utility collections. This proves conclusively that I have always considered, that in times of dire necessity a fair and reasonable people will respond much more readily to a policy combining some element of human sympathy rather than a policy of bludgeoning and coercion. Great stress is being laid on the amount of outstanding arrears of taxes and service charges and I am just as anxious as anyone to keep them down to the lowest possible figure but I will take a back to the years of the previous administration 1927 and 1928 you will find that these arrears were in a far worse state than they are today and yet at the first signs of returning prosperity this problem faded like the mists in a morning sun. They will do the same today.

Your utilities have been the means by which you have been enabled to withstand the fury of depression. By no other means could you have possibly reduced the tax rate every year since 1930. By no other means could you present a raise in your tax rate in any future year. Every time that I see in a better performance than I anticipated you take credit at the time you agreed to put your money in them. You never say anything in your behalf that I did not deserve. You never made you a promise that I have ever failed to live up to. I am going to make you another promise now which I am absolutely sure I can keep. If you are successful in bringing Mr. Heckbert to power you will be compelled to buy power that there is no hope of ever having to sell. Water will be your only asset.

Had the Council continued the policy of economy and efficiency which have been in force until last year we would now be in a position to remove some of the impediments placed upon our teachers and employees in consolidating them to work for a niggardly pittance.

It is only because I know the danger to which our utilities will be subjected that I have consented to stand again. If you feel that I have served your best interests in this respect, I humbly solicit your support.

W. A. FALLOW.

LOCAL HOCKEYISTS LOSE TO VEGREVILLE

Vermilion Seniors' winning streak of four straight games was broken at Vegreville on Monday night when the Rangers of that town took a 4-3 decision from them. The game was played on a frankly flooded sheet of ice that had naturally not frozen, a sea of slush resulting.

Vegreville took the Vermilion lads by surprise and rushed them off their feet the first five minutes and then the game settled down to a fast hockey as was possible under the ice conditions. The first period ended 2-0 for Vegreville at least 2 of them were aided by Vermilion poor stickhandling. The territorial advantage swung definitely to the Vermilion team. Scoring was difficult owing to the wretched condition of the ice. It was well into the second period before Vermilion took the Vegreville pass to notch Vermilion's first score. Early in the third Vermilion scored again making it 4-1 but Vegreville came right back and Vermilion's lead was cut down to one goal. In spite of a determined offensive there was no further scoring although the locals never stopped trying until the final gong, their efforts being foiled by strong defensive tactics.

Hugh Crook, regular right winger was missed through sickness and his place was filled by Will Fraser, who turned in a good exhibition on his first senior appearance, and by Doug Brimacombe.

In those bright realms of air;

Thinking that our remembrance, though unspoken,
May reach her where she lives."

The following extract tends to show what Red Deer thinks of the half-holiday and is made possible in Red Deer through the local option by-law. Closing By-law by the City Council last week. From January to September in each year the business places in town will close each Wednesday at noon, and the citizens will be able to spend the time in rest and recreation if it is a step in the right direction, and those suggestions will come in due time.

HOMEWORK

As a few parents have approached me on the question of Homework and others may be interested in this knowing and hardy perennial question, I am asking this paper to kindly allow me more space during School Week to give a few opinions on the subject which may, or again, may not, meet with some approval. I shall write, of course, from the standpoint of the High School.

In the first place, I believe that study after hours at home can easily do more harm than good. In many homes there is no quiet place where students may prepare their lessons. Many do not know how to study alone, and either bother their parents or get some other student in to help them. All are tempted to do rapid, slipshod work in order to finish up and "go out" somewhere. Some students, through bad eyesight or ill-health, are really incapable of the extra strain There is always the possibility of the slow ones getting into the habit at copying from the faster ones in order to have something to turn in on the morrow, and so get no good whatever from the exercise, as well as developing a bad moral outlook. All this leads, no doubt, to unsatisfactory work and bad habits

However, there is another side to the question. The student who takes his work conscientiously has one period of the day in which he can make up his own time-table and latterly it is stated of having his time doled out to him by someone else, and thus he can give more time to the subjects in which he, personally, finds hard. To be able to do this is one of the prime essentials in life. The man or woman who cannot organize his working day, who cannot set himself or herself to a task at a certain time and do his best to get it done within a certain time, will not get very far. Students in High School are old enough to begin to learn this

Moreover, the student working at home, if the work is done right, is thrown on his own initiative in working out his problems. He is forced to try his best without any possibility of getting immediate help from the teacher, as may happen in the classroom The teacher, who has a room full of students cannot go to a few who have a tendency to depend on others. "I know that you can get that if you think a little longer." Especially in this time where the teacher must leave the room to another at the stroke of a bell. There is only a small amount of time to get over much work otherwise students are falsified and will start trouble if not given more work to do! and those latter have been cured in if they find that their efficiency is only retarded by more work which the slower ones require. They, too, will learn to daily. Under the present system, the platoon must be kept in line at all costs

Again, homework being given on part of the course which the student has already covered in class gives that necessary review and solidifying of material which cannot be given in the class-room. With the amount of work to be covered which the curriculum calls for in high school, in each economic and political life demands of the class period must be timed, in going about with perhaps a subject toward the end of the year and the winter terms most of which is in the form of examinations. This is no doubt the reason why so many high school students

The question which naturally comes up then is: If extra work is necessary, why can't all the work be done during spare periods? Yes in a few cases that is possible. But in the school curriculum as it is there are ample periods for daily preparation. The pupil taking nine courses per day has no spares. The student taking eight courses has one spare of thirty minutes to be divided among eight courses which, were it divided equally, would not leave time to get started on any one of them. I doubt if very many pupils can get by without spending some extra time equal to at least half the class period in studying whether such extra time work or not is the point in the end that he has intelligently listen to the teacher and grasp what is being taught. To test this out it only necessary for one to go to a lecture on a subject which he really has no idea of, then go home and try to reproduce the lecture in some detail to someone else and see if it is accurate. I fear that not one in ten could do it even middle well Hence if this be true, only those students taking five courses or less could possibly be expected to make a really high standing in all courses without some home study on most or all of them

There are two-some reasons to be quoted for Junior Matriculation and eight more required for Senior Matriculation. At the courses per year is $200 was subscribed for Senior Matriculation. At the courses per year it would take a student six years to get through the High School. This is much too long a time to spend at this sort of work as most parents will allow. Therefore, no matter how much the students dislike it, or the parents dislike to see it, for even those latter join in the hearty chorus it seems to me that there is nothing for it but to let this weed called "homework" remain with us and do what we can to mitigate its ravages.

P. H. STEELE.

Be Self-Reliant

One of the most lasting results of the world depression of the past few years and especially unfortunate because the effects will be carried into the years to come after the depression has become a memory is the breaking down in the minds of many people who for years have been unemployed, unable to obtain employment anywhere, forced to accept government aid under such a name, and with no immediate prospect of being in a better situation, the temptation to throw up their hands, declare all self-effort futile, themselves, and to sit down in despair or idly accept the situation, has proven too strong for many people.

Enforced idleness, living without working and doing so at the expense of the State has apparently convinced many people that it is no longer necessary that they should work even when work can be obtained. Such people now take the attitude that they do not owe anything to their country, but that their country does owe them a living whether they work for it or not that the State having provided for them when work could not be obtained, the State can just continue going on providing for their actual necessities of life. When employment is offered to this type of individual, he proceeds to compare the wages he will receive for working for his board with the amount of his relief quota while unemployed, and decides that the surplus in the amount he will receive does not compensate him for the fact that he will be required to work for it, and so refuses employment.

At all times there have been men and women of this type, but their number has been greatly increased during the past few years. Many people now look upon government relief as a right, and they exercise their ingenuity, not in the direction of obtaining employment, but in organizing in groups to bring pressure upon governments to enlarge the distribution of relief, the cost of the same to be paid, of course, by those who do work and are willing to work.

This trend, down in the morale of so many people is, let it be repeated, one of the most deplorable and most dangerous effects of the world depression. It has not demoralized the vast majority of people who have been forced against their will to accept government assistance in these times, nor has it to any great extent affected those who can trace their difficulties to climatic conditions over which neither they nor governments have any control. But there has been a great loss of self-reliance, and that unfortunately so among young people on their late teens and early twenties who, above all classes, should be most self-reliant. The stronger characters are not affected, or will rise above the temptations of the moment, but the weaker ones show a marked tendency to drift with the tide, rather than to meet themselves and battle the waves of adversity until the tide does turn in their favor.

No useful purpose is served by painting a gloomy and discouraging picture unless it can be used to point a moral and teach a lesson. And it is the duty of all those who remain self-reliant to point out the dangers, both present and future, to throw the whole weight of their experience and influence into the scale to maintain and promote the spirit of self-reliance, to teach the beauty of courage and the ugliness of despair. Clergymen, teachers, parents all our many worthwhile organizations have a very special and particular duty to discharge in this connection. Their responsibility is greater now than in times of abounding prosperity.

It is the duty and responsibility of all to inculcate the truthful idea in the minds of people that in its early useful and growing sense, life is a struggle. We learn to walk not by being carried, but by painstakingly making the effort to walk. So long as a young child is carried, it will never learn to walk, and until it does walk it will remain weak. Self-reliance must be taught throughout life, or life will be a tragedy for those who have failed to learn.

We rightly pray Lead us not into temptation, because temptation should be avoided but temptation comes nevertheless in every moment and entirely of life. So it we be further pray, "But deliver us from evil." Strength comes from offering resistance, but those who would protect us against all hazards and the pitfalls of inexperience merely enfeeble rather than strengthen us.

So long as the necessity continues for government and to those who cannot help themselves because of causes and conditions beyond their control, such government and must be provided. No sane person thinks otherwise. But it should be the ambition of every man and woman to get along with a minimum of such aid and rely on their own efforts to the fullest possible extent while looking forward to the day when they can joyfully surrender such aid and stand again on their own feet and face the world with courage in full reliance upon their own initiative and powers.

Treasures At Windsor Castle

Bibles Belonging To General Gordon And Khedivess Carefully Preserved

The corridors of Windsor Castle are hung with magnificent pictures; but in a conspicuous place is a crystal case, resting on a white silk cushion. Inside the casket can be seen a worn, shabby little Bible, and one wonders how it came there. It is the Bible which belonged to General Gordon, and was carried by him all through the long siege of Khartoum. After the hero's death, the sacred volume was given to Queen Victoria by his sister; and it has been preserved ever since in the manner described. Not far away is a Bible which belonged to Lord Kitchener. This is of course, a comparatively recent addition to the treasures of the King's Berkshire home.

In the armoury is a misshapen morsel of lead worth nothing, but priceless. It is a relic absolutely unique, being the bullet which wounded Nelson at the Battle of Trafalgar. Another memento of Britain's great naval hero is his bust, which is supported by four cannons captured by one of the Victory's midshipmen. The marks of French shot can still be clearly seen on this historic piece of wood.

Powdered Whey

New Treatment Found For High

How a new type of treatment for high blood pressure and tuberculosis came out of a sudden fear that was disclosed by Dr. L. L. Stanley, Sam Quentin prison physician.

Seven years ago Dr. Stanley and Dr. Jan Bay, of the San Quentin physician, heard poultrymen at Petaluma, an egg production centre, were developing immunity to fowl cholera by feeding powdered whey. They investigated and upon noting the results decided powdered whey might be good for men as well as for chickens.

Dr. Stanley said powdered whey had been used with success to lower abnormal blood pressure in San Quentin prisoners and to build up the health of men afflicted with tuberculosis.

"The results were very gratifying," said the slight, grey-haired prison doctor.

Longest Railway Bridge

Africa Spent Two Million On Structure Over Hundred Miles

Africa with its Victoria Falls possesses a greater fall of water, so far as height is concerned, than Niagara, and now the dark continent is setting claim to having the longest railway bridge in the world. It is located over the Zambesi river and is the last link in a chain providing Nyasaland and Portuguese East Africa with railroad transportation from Lake Nyasa to the east coast port of Beira, 320 miles distant. It cost $10,000,000 and took two and a half years to build.

A fleet of flat-bottomed river steamers has been conveying passengers and towing barges and freight across the Zambesi from one railhead to the other, but considerable delay and expense have been involved.

The length of the new bridge is 12,064 feet, or a little more than two miles—a few feet longer than the entire length of New York's George Washington Bridge. It has thirty-three spans that rest on concrete piers sunk 120 feet below the surface of the river—St. Thomas Timmsjournal.

Machine Work Accurate

Best Of Hand Work Compares Unfavorably With It

Praises are often sung concerning the marvels of handicraft, but, considerations of art apart, it must be admitted that for accuracy and precision the best of handwork compares very unfavorably with the possibilities of machine production. Hand engravers pride themselves upon being able to engrave the Lord's Prayer upon a five cent piece. They would, however without hesitation deny the possibility of engraving in the relief on the end of a piece of steel having a square area of one-sixth of an inch. Yet such an actual type was cast from a matrix struck by a hardened steel punch having the Lord's Prayer engraved in relief upon its end. The letters on the punch, and consequently on the type, measure .006 inch from top to bottom and stand up .0008 inch from their base. This is, undeniably, a marvellous engraving feat. In the Prince of Wales Museum, Bombay, one can see some specimens of similar skilful work done by hand on rice —usually the name of donors being engraved.

CANADA DEPRIVED OF LABOR SEAT HELD AT GENEVA

Geneva.—The United States and Russia were voted into the governing body of the international labor office while Canada and Belgium, who up to the present held seats, were given the right to sit as deputy members of the governing body until the next election in 1937.

The new set-up was determined at a closed meeting of the governing body. The members voted 24 to one that the eight leading industrial nations of the world were: The United States, France, Germany, Great Britain, India, Italy, Japan and Russia. Three members abstained from voting. The single opposition vote was cast by Canada.

(When the international labor office was established, provision was made that the eight leading industrial countries of the world should always have one member on the governing body and that only these eight should have voting powers.)

W. A. Riddell, the Canadian representative, expressed Canada's firm opposition to the proposal. He reserved the right to commit with the Dominion as to whether an appeal should be made against the decision to the council of the League of Nations.

If the Canadian government exercises this right, the question will come before the council. It was contended on behalf of Canada that she should be ranked sixth.

B.C. Floods

Long Time Yet Before Flood Waters Recede

Vancouver.—Although at least two months will probably elapse before flood waters are pumped from the inundated Sumas prairie, the Fraser valley as a whole was slowly returning to normal.

Water on the prairie was reported as high as ever and Chilliwack district was still without electric power, but interurban services were resumed as far as Abbotsford and, with the exception of Agassiz telephone communication has been restored to all parts of the valley.

The situation on the prairie will not be changed until the 400-foot break in the Sumas river dyke is repaired. Pumps were working to capacity and water was running rapidly through the flood gates into the Fraser river.

Another big slide has been reported at Kilgard, where two persons lost their lives in a slide, and it is feared further slides may occur. Families driven from their homes by the floods are housed at Abbotsford. Other settlers driven from their houses in the lower Fraser valley were returning as flood waters subsided.

Jap Army Advancing

Heavy Fighting Is Reported In Mongolian Territory

Tokyo -Heavy fighting in which Japanese regular soldiers played a decisive role broke out in bitter sub-zero weather on the disputed frontier where Outer Mongolia, which Tokyo asserts is under the domination of Soviet Russia, adjoins Manchoukuo.

A brief despatch from Hsinking, capital of the state which Moscow and the rest of the world refuses to consider a creation and protectorate of the Japanese army, described for the Hsinking-Japanese Agency the advance of an expedition of Japanese and Manchoukuoan cavalry into the area

They were pushing their mounts over the frozen steppes of wild Mongolian territory, said the despatch, in temperatures 30 below zero. It was in this same advance that they attacked and captured Kaikha Miao driving the Mongols before them

Japanese general headquarters at Hsinking frankly announced the participation of Japanese in the expedition They said its object was to "expel invading Mongols from Manchouruo territory "

Senate Defeats Protocol

Majority Vote Against United States Joining World Court

Washington. — Despite a marked concession by the administration and direct pressure from the White House, the senate sent down to defeat the proposal for United States adherence to the world court.

The vote was 52 for the resolution to adhere to 36 against. This fell short of the two-thirds necessary for approval.

Coming after three weeks of torrid debate, and with tension plainly marked across the floor and galleries of the senate chamber, the vote stood as perhaps the most surprising twist of the present session

Friends and foes of adherence at once declared the senate's rejection would mean the court issue, which has been before the senate at intervals for 12 years, is dead for some time to come, if not permanently.

FARMER DEBTOR IS PROTECTED FOR A 90-DAY PERIOD

Ottawa.—Steps were taken by Hon. R. H. Rhodes, finance minister, to strengthen the farmers' creditor arrangement act passed at the last session of parliament and now operating in every province in the Dominion.

Amendments proposed would extend the period during which a creditor applying for composition of his debts would be immune from proceedings by his creditors would permit the appointment of temporary members of provincial boards of review in the event of the incapacity of a permanent member, including the chief commissioner, and authorize appointment of one or more members of a provincial board to investigate and report on any circumstance affecting a debt composition scheme not acceptable to debtor or creditor.

Under the original act a debtor who sought composition of his obligations was immune from any prosecution by his creditors until the application had been dealt with or for a period of 60 days. Because of the pressure of applicants to be dealt with by official receivers it was decided to extend the period to 90 days, with further extension by the court if it were deemed advisable.

Other amendments to the act required all acts of provincial boards must be by the full membership of the boards, it was decided to amend the statute so that an ad hoc commissioner could be selected in event of a permanent commissioner becoming incapacitated or otherwise prevented from attending

Five R.C.M.P. Members May Get Credit For Military Service

Ottawa.—The House of Commons gave first reading to a bill to credit five members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police with military service in South Africa for purposes of pension. Hon. Third reading was given to bills amending the interpretation act respecting observation of Remembrance Day, amending the Representation act respecting the two Hamilton constitutions and amending the Pensions act.

Mr. Guthrie had third reading of a bill to amend the Criminal code delayed in order to change it. It would permit of a six-man jury in criminal trials in Saskatchewan, and would include the province of Alberta, where juries of six have been the rule, in the amendment. Mr Guthrie said the law officers of Alberta asked that no change be made respecting that province as its jury system dated back to the time before Alberta entered the Dominion as a province.

TO ESTABLISH TELEVISION IN BRITAIN THIS YEAR

London — The establishment of television on a country-wide basis was brought a step nearer an announcement was made in the House of Commons that the government approved the report of a committee which has investigated this scientific invention

Sir Kingsley Wood postmaster-general, said that the British Broadcasting Corporation would be entrusted with the task of broadcasting television and would make a substantial contribution to the inauguration of this service. The committee found television on a high-frequency transmission basis had reached such a standard of development as to justify the first steps towards establishment of a public service of this type

The postmaster-general told the House that present plans called for establishment of a station in London later this year If this was successful other stations would be erected in the provinces At the same time he indicated it would be some time before the service could be provided on a national scale

The estimated cost of the service within the next two years, the government charter of the BBC expires, would be $960,000, which would be borne by the present revenue from broadcasting, Sir Kingsley said
